HINKLE RESIGNS STATE LABOR JOB DURING INQUIRY

Commissioner Transferred Money Appropriated for Salary to Expense Account in Office Here.

ST. LOUISANS STIRRED UP TROUBLE, HE SAYS

Official Had Been a Candidate for Reappointment to His Post Before Investigation Began.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19.—Roye B. Hinkle of Sedalia, Commissioner of the State Bureau of Labor and Industrial Inspection, submitted his resignation to Gov. Caulfield today. At the same time, it was learned, the Attorney-General's department was completing an investigation of alleged irregularities in the handling of appropriation funds of the department.

The Governor's only comment was a statement that Hinkle had submitted his resignation, effective Feb. 1. "It will be accepted," he said.

The investigation by the Attorney-General involved the issuance of extra monthly payroll checks to a woman employe in the St. Louis branch office of the department, 1325 Pine street, which were not used for salary purposes, but instead were diverted to pay expense accounts in the St. Louis office. These checks issued for the last nine months totaled $900.

Later it was leraned that the Attorney-General's office is investigating another series of checks, issued to an employe of the Labor Department's St. Louis office, to the amount of $30 a month. Whether this money also was diverted to use for office expenses, could not be learned last night.

The inquiry into the payments made to the woman employe has not shown any evidence of misappropriation of funds, or personal profit by any person. It did involve irregularity in diversion of money from salary purposes to another purpose, it was said.

The matter was placed before Gov. Caulfield this week and he referred it to Attorney-General Shartel for investigation.

What Inquiry Disclosed.

Shartel declined to comment on the case, but it was learned by the Post-Dispatch that the inquiry had disclosed the following facts:

The expense appropriation of Hinkle's department was running low early in 1928, and the separate salary appropriation contained some surplus over the requirements. Mrs. Era Lesser, a stenographer in the St. Louis office, was receiving a salary of $110 a month from the Federal Department of Labor, which co-operates with the Missouri department in compilation of labor statistics. Federal and State agencies co-operate in several state departments, some of the employes being paid by both governments.

Mrs. Lesser was placed on the State pay roll last April at $100 a month, drawn from the Labor and Industrial Inspection Department's State salary appropriation. These checks did not actually go to her in salary, but were indorsed in the St. Louis office and cashed, and the money used for expenses.

No Other Purpose Shown.

The vouchers or requisitions sent to the State Auditor's department for the monthly salary checks did not show that the one for Mrs. Lesser was for anything other than the statement of the voucher form that it was for salary. These requisitions are made out by the commissioner. When the checks were made out by the State Auditor, an employe of the department would call for them and they were distributed by the departments heads to the employes, those for the branch offices being sent by mail.

Hinkle, in a statement this afternoon, said the checks issued to Mrs. Lesser were not used for her salary, but for expenses. He said there had been no misappropriation of any funds, and that the methods had been adopted because the expense funds were not sufficient. He declared there was no thought of any irregularity and that he had assumed the procedure to be proper, to keep the St. Louis branch office in operation. Hinkle said the checks were indorsed by Mrs. Lesser and the money either used by her in payment of the office bills or turned over to M. H. McFarland, in charge of the office, for that purpose.

"Some people in St. Louis," he remarked, "have been trying to

MAN KILLED BY AUTO AT 18TH AND OLIVE

Thrown Under Street Car by Machine Which Fails to Stop; Identity in Doubt.

A man, with letters in his pockets addressed to Walter Bougert, 1538 Mississippi avenue, was killed at Eighteenth and Olive streets at 8 o'clock last night when he was hit by an automobile and thrown under a street car. The automobile did not stop.

Andrew W. Dickey, Belt line motorman, told police he was proceeding south on Eighteenth street when the automobile, moving east on Olive street, struck the man as he attempted to cross from south to north. The automobile continued east across the path of the street car and disappeared. Dickey and his conductor removed the man from under the front of the car and called an ambulance.

The man was unconscious when he arrived at the City Hospital, and died in the X-ray room 30 minutes after the accident. He was about 35 years old. Motorman Dickey said the automobile was an old Ford touring car.

SIX COMMUNISTS ARRESTED IN CHICAGO DEMONSTRATION

400 Gather in Front of Federal Builing Carrying Banners Labeled "We Want Bread."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Between 400 and 500 persons carrying banners reading "We want bread" and "We want work," gathered in front of the Federal Building this afternoon. U. S. Marshal Henry C. Laubenheimer summoned several squads of police, who arrested six of the alleged ringleaders.

An official of the Young Communists' League of America said the demonstration had been sponsored by that organization.

Of those arrested, police said, the majority were high school students ranging from 15 to 19 years old. They were held until their parents called at the police station to take them home.

KING ZOGU IS ONLY COLICKY, NOT POISONED, EXPERT FINDS

Prof. Guido Holzknecht Explains Case After Hasty Trip to Albanian Ruler.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 19.—On arrival from Tirana today Prof. Guido Holzknecht, famous Austraian radiologist who was summoned post-haste from the Cairo medical congress to attend King Zogu of Albania, informed the Associated Press that the rumor that the Albanian Sovereign was being slowly poisoned was nonsense.

Professor Holzknecht and Richard Bauer, who is a specialist on internal medicine, diagnosed Zogu's trouble as nothing more than flatulence, causing colicky pains. Besides, the 34-year-old monarch, who looks to be only 25, is addicted to excessive cigarette smoking, said Prof. Holzknecht. To offset the nervous tension of official life, he has been consuming more than 100 cigarettes daily.

100 U. S. AGENTS SEARCH FRENCH LINER FOR LIQUOR

Inspection of Rochambeau to Require Two Days, Made as Result of Seizure on Pier.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — One hundred customs inspectors boarded the French liner Rochambeau when she docked today with orders to search her thoroughly. Officers of the line offered full cooperation.

The search, which will require two days, was the outgrowth of the seizure on a French line pier several days ago of 3500 gallons of liquor which had been unloaded from the Isle de France. The liquor had come in unmarked packing cases, and 1500 gallons vanished mysteriously before the seizure was made. The cases were not accounted for in the ship's manifest.

EX-CONVICT IN JAIL IS IDENTIFIED AS HOLDUP MURDERER

Sylvester Baldwin, Whom Sidener and Jones Parker Saved From Prison, in St. Louis Holdover.

WITNESSES' NAMES ARE NOT DISCLOSED

Prisoner Accused in Warrant of Killing T. V. Phelps in $11,200 Overland Bank Robbery.

Sylvester Baldwin, an ex-convict recently saved from serving a term for robbery through the intercession of former Circuit Attorney Howard Sidener and Jones H. Parker, now Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, is held without bond in the Clayton Jail, charged in a warrant, issued yesterday, with the murder of Toddie V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank, in an $11,200 holdup.

Sheriff Lill announced Baldwin had been identified as the robber who shot the 52-year-old cashier in the back, without provocation, Friday afternoon. The names of identifying witnesses were withheld, because they feared possible intimidation.

Baldwin was one of 14 men arrested for investigation following the murder. Three hours after the killing Baldwin and four friends were taken into custody at the notorious Plantation Inn, 2901 Suburban avenue, Wellston, of which Baldwin is proprietor. Five Cuckoo gangsters were arrested in a raid on a Chouteau avenue handbook establishment. A young Cuckoo gang leader, out on bond pending appeal from a robbery conviction, is being sought for questioning.

Prisoner Refuses to Talk.

Beyond giving his age as 28 and his occupation as merchant, Baldwin would not talk. He is known to the police as a gangster.

Prosecuting Attorney Castlen, who issued the murder warrant, said a second warrant charging him with the bank robbery would be drawn.

The Coroner's inquest at Overland resulted in a verdict of "homicide at the hands of parties unknown." Baldwin was not taken to the inquest, and the witnesses were not asked to identify him publicly.

Among those arrested with Baldwin at the Wellston resort were Alex Mackeon, who has served three prison terms, the last one for the $18,000 robbery of the Tri-City Bank of Madison, Ill., in 1918; Louis Mulconnery, described by police as a Cuckoo gangster and ex-convict; and Wincel Urban, brother-in-law and associate of "Big Bill" Davis, an ex-convict who was shot to death by police when trapped in an attempt to extort money from a Wellston saloonkeeper last August.

Baldwin was taken from Clayton jail to police headquarters in St. Louis for safekeeping late yesterday after a Deputy Sheriff reported he had overheard two spectators at the inquest discuss the possibility of a lynching. Twelve suspects who had been arrested in the investigation were released.

Story of the Bank Holdup.

As has been told in the Post-Dispatch, four men drove up to the Overland Bank in a stolen touring car, two entering with a sawed-off shotgun and a revolver, while the other two waited in the car.

Cashier Phelps, who was also the principal stockholder in the bank; George Hiech, a bookkeeper; Mrs. Agnes Wilkinson, a maid, and Merrit Hamilton, a customer, were held up and threatened with death. Phelps was forced to open a small safe in the vault. The robbers helped themselves to the contents of the safe and the outer cage.

"Come on, let's go," called the younger robber with the revolver.

But the robber with the shotgun aimed his weapon at Phelps, who had obeyed the robbers' commands and offered no resistance.

"Don't shoot him," the man with the revolver pleaded. "We got what we wanted. Let's get out."

"No, I'm going to shoot him," the other replied. Whereupon he shot Phelps in the back while the cashier was standing in the looted vault.

Robbers' Stolen Car Found.

The robbers ran to the waiting automobile and were driven away. They abandoned the stolen car at Denny and Ladue roads and escaped in another car. A shotgun shell and a whisky bottle were found in the abandoned car.

Phelps died later in the afternoon, after his wife had been sum-

CELEBRATED TOAD FOUND INSIDE OF CORNERSTONE DIES

"Rip" was Reputed to Have Lived There Without Food 31 Years.

By the Associated Press.

EASTLAND, Tex., Jan. 19.—"Rip" is dead. The body of the world famous horned toad was found late today, among the carefully guarded leaves and sand in which he had been hibernating since his emergence from the cornerstone of the Eastland County courthouse months ago amid allegations that he had lived therein for 31 years without food, water or air.

At that time the toad's debut from seclusion was witnessed by pastors and other leading citizens, some of whom signed affidavits to the genuineness of the veteran's long sleep.

While there was no inquest after discovery of the body today, the popular verdict was that Rip, lured out by the sunshine, had become fatally chilled.

SMOKE DENSITY IN ST. LOUIS REDUCED 50 PCT. IN YEAR

Installation of New Firing Systems Cited as Reason by Consulting Engineer.

Average smoke density of industrial power plants in St. Louis and vicinity this winter is 6 per cent, as compared with 12 per cent last winter and 16 per cent the season of 1926-1927, it was declared yesterday by Osborn Monett, consulting engineer of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League.

Reasons for this year's reduction of 50 per cent over last year, he said, are the installation of new firing equipment in scores of plants and "a general disposition on the part of factory owners to co-operate with the league." Monnett added:

"The showing made this season demonstrates the fact that power plants are becoming so well organized that they will rapidly disappear as a class of smoke violators. There are still a number of smoking industrial plants and some that are smoking as much as ever, but in the main the chart reading for this season show such substantial improvement that this phase of the smoke problem appears to be well on the way toward solution.

OGDEN L. MILLS' FORMER WIFE IS AGAIN DIVORCED

Paris Decree Given Margaret S. R. Dukes From Noted British Author and Musician.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Margaret Stuyvesant Rutherford Dukes was granted a divorce today from Sir Paul Dukes, noted British author and musician.

Lady Dukes was formerly the wife of Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the Treasury of the United States. She and Sir Paul were married secretly at Nyack, N. Y., in October, 1922. She was married to Mills in France in September, 1911, and was granted a divorce from him in July, 1919.

Sir Paul gained his title by brilliant work as head of the British Secret Service in Russia in the early days of the soviet. The divorce petition gave the couple's address as New York City.

BELGIAN MEETING HEARS HOOVER'S VOICE OVER PHONE

Function to Pay Tribute to President-Elect Attended by King, Premier and Other Officials.

RULER PRAISES HIM FOR WORK IN WAR

Prime Minister and U. S. Ambassador Speak at Dinner Following Gathering in Palace.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 19.—Belgium paid a rare tribute of esteem and gratitude to Herbert Hoover this afternoon, and its King listened to a word of greeting from the distinguished American, transmitted from beyond the Atlantic by radiotelephone.

Gathered in a large hall of the Palace of Academics were King Albert, Ambassador Hugh Gibson, seven members of the Cabinet and a thousand prominent representatives of all classes. Premier Jaspar addressed them with words of appreciation of the work of Hoover as director of Belgian relief. Then the distinguished company donned headphones and listened to Mr. Hoover's response from Washington.

Tonight Ambassador Gibson and Paul Hymans, Minister of Foreign Affairs, were speakers at a dinner in honor of Hoover.

Premier Praises Hoover.

In his afternoon address Premier Jaspar described Mr. Hoover as a "100 per cent man." He added:

"This son of a poor Iowa blacksmith has fed more starving people than any other man on earth, and the Belgian Government is glad to be associated with this tribute to him."

When Hoover responded, King Albert turned to the microphone and, in English, congratulated the President-elect on being called to the leadership of a great people. He said Hoover well deserved the title, "Friend of the Belgians."

Hymans, at the dinner tonight, said American democracy "has given us a noble spectacle in choosing for its highest office a citizen, who, during one of the greatest tragedies of history, honored his country in serving humanity." He said the Belgians would have cordial and never fading gratitude for Hoover's war services.

Gibson Replied for Hoover.

Responding in behalf of Hoover and his American associates Gibson praised the former's genius for leadership.

"Belgians may well rejoice in anything I say in Mr. Hoover's honor," said the Ambassador. "For the first time in history an honorary citizen of Belgium has been elected to the presidency of the United States. Of his many honors he values none higher than the royal decree making him a Belgian citizen."

Hoover at His Desk Addresses Gathering in Brussels.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Sitting at his deck at his temporary headquarters here, President-elect Hoover today spoke to an audience gathered in Brussels at a celebration in honor of the election of the former chairman of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium to the Presidency of the United States.

"I appreciate this opportunity to extend my greetings to Your Majesties and to my many old friends on the relief organization in Belgium," Hoover said, "I could not join in this occasion without a flood of memories of the years of our association during the great war. Time quickly dims that gigantic period in the minds of men, and the problems and difficulties of reconstruction from the war envelop our attention. But nothing dims the radiance of Belgian sacrifice and courage. There are none who do not pay homage to its imperishable chapter of patriotism and sacrifice.

Praises Altruism of Belgium.

"The very minor paragraph, which in history will be allowed to the relief organization, will be a chapter in proof of the altruism of the tens of thousands of Belgians who volunteered to carry the burden of its administration over four long years—a service where men and women gave a devotion in alleviation of suffering second only to the devotion of those of the supreme service of war.

"It is the acts of service, of sacrifice and of heroism in all nations that should remain as the

MELLON IS URGED TO CHANGE STAND ON BIG DRY FUND

Treasury Head Asked to Reconsider His Opposition to Additional $25,000,000 Appropriation.

GETS WIRE FROM PROHIBITION LEADERS

Communication From Bishops Cannon and Nicholson and E. L. Crawford Read in Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Three dry leaders in a telegram addressed to Secretary Mellon today requested "a prompt reconsideration" by the Treasury Department head of his refusal to indorse an additional appropriation of $25,000,000 for the enforcement of prohibition.

The dry leaders declared in their communication, read in the Senate by Senator Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, the author of the eighteenth amendment, that unless Mellon rescinds his disapproval of the increase, questions inevitably will arise whether the Treasury Department "sincerely desires efficient enforcement" and whether it is able to develop an adequate program.

The telegram was signed by Bishop James Cannon, chairman, and Eugene L. Crawford, secretary of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Bishop Thomas Nicholson, president of the Antisaloon League.

"It will be difficult for the average citizen to believe," said the communication, "that there is much zeal or eagerness on the part of the Secretary of the Treasury to secure adequate enforcement if he refuses this opportunity to develop and carry out an adequate program."

McBride "Repudiated."

The opportunity referred to is an amendment to the pending deficiency supply bill by Senator Harris, (Dem.) Georgia, to provide an additional $25,000,000 for prohibition enforcement. Secretary Mellon, writing to the Senate after the Harris proposal was approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee, declared it would not be advisable to make the money available until a survey were conducted to determine the most advisable way to spend it.

After the Dry Leaders' telegram was made public, Senator Harris declared himself highly gratified with this additional support for his proposal. Especially, he added, was he gratified to learn that the League had "repudiated" F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the League, for "joining forces with Secretary Mellon" against the increase.

Harris declared that McBride at first had indorsed the increase, but had changed his position when Secretary Mellon announced his disapproval.

For Educational Program.

The telegram advised Secretary Mellon to investigate as to the best distribution of the additional funds, suggesting that they might be divided between the Coast Guard Service, Canadian Border Patrol, stringent surveillence of breweries and "an extensive nationwide education campaign employing best talent to prepare accurate, striking posters and circulars emphasizing the danger of individuals and to society of the use of intoxicants."

The Senate expects to get back to the prohibition increase Monday. Harris is hopeful that it will be approved. The general opinion is that at least one of the substitutes, if not Harris' amendment, will be adopted. One of the substitutes was offered by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, and would appropriate $250,000 for use by the President for a searching investigation of prohibition conditions.

Later in the day Secretary Mellon said the telegram had been received but that he had nothing to say except that it would be replied to in the ordinary course of business.

POLICEMAN SHOOTS TWO WHEN THEY ATTEMPT TO HOLD UP KROGER STORE

EX-CONVICT AND COMRADE HIT BY THREE BULLETS

Patrolman Guge Is in Rear of Grocery, 3427 Market Street, When Highwaymen Enter.

STEPS OUT AND BEGINS FIRING

Seriously Wounds Herbert Reynolds, Recently Released From Prison, and Otto Sack, of Chicago.

Two robbers were shot and seriously wounded by a policeman, who had concealed himself in the rear of a Kroger store at 3427 Market street, when they attempted to hold up the place at 8 o'clock last night.

The policeman, Patrolman Lee B. Guge of 3040A St. Vincent avenue, had been watching the store, he explained, "because most chain grocery store holdups happen about 8 o'clock, an hour before closing time."

The wounded robbers are Herbert Reynolds, 37 years old, of 4323 Manchester avenue, recently released from the Missouri Penitentiary, and Otto Sack, 36, of Chicago, who was living with Reynolds.

Reynolds was shot in the left side of the neck and Sacks in the right wrist and the right breast below the lung. The condition of both was pronounced serious at City Hospital.

Reynolds was shot in the left side of the neck, the bullet ranging downward and lodging against his collarbone. Sack was wounded in the right wrist and the right breast below the lung. Both are at city hospital.

Policeman Opens Fire.

At that, Reynolds whirled toward him and Guge opened fire. Reynolds fell at the first bullet, and Sack started toward the door, only to be struck by the third and fourth of the remaining five shots in Guge's revolver.

As he lay on the floor, Reynolds moved, and the policeman, thinking he was trying to reach his pistol, which lay a few feet away, stepped on Reynolds' wrist and asked a woman employe of the store to pick up the weapon.

"Don't bother about the gun, I'm done for," Reynolds said.

Reynolds then said to the woman, Mrs. Gertrude Swindell, 344 North Spring avenue, wife of the store manager, who was at home ill: "Quit your crying."

With Mrs. Swindell in the store at the time of the shooting was Assistant Manager Frank Patrylo, 1909 North Thirteenth street. Patrylo, Guge said, blocked his view of the robbers for a moment in the excitement that followed their entrance into the store.

Policeman's Own Story.

Guge, a 30-year-old Kentuckian, who has been on the police force since Oct. 29, 1925, and who says he was "born and raised with a pistol," gave the following account of the shooting:

"I had been in the store about five minutes and had just walked into the rear room and unbuckled my coat because it was rather warm. I heard somebody say, 'All right, boy,' and then 'Stick 'em up.' The manager was walking toward the rear room with a box in his hands. I said, 'Let me at 'em,' and pushed him out of the way.

"The first man I saw was Reynolds. He had a gun in his hand. I said, 'Drop that or I'll kill you,' and he wheeled around facing me. The regulations say we must always fire a shot in the air first, but he had a pistol on me and I let him have it. I fired one shot directly at him and he dropped his pistol and fell to the floor.

"The other man, Sack, started toward the door. I had five more wads in my gun and I let him have four, saving one for anybody who might be outside. The first two missed. At the third he fell to his knees and said: 'You got me.' I fired again. I knew I had him then.

"Then Reynolds made a movement toward his pistol. I stepped on his wrist and told Mrs. Swindell

WEALTHY STUDENT SENTENCED TO DIE IN HOLDUP KILLING

George Harsh, Who Robbed 'For Fun' to Appeal From Georgia Verdict—Electrocution Set for March 15.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19. — A Superior Court jury here today found George R. Harsh guilty of the murder of Willard Smith, a drug store clerk. He was sentenced to die in the electric chair March 15. Attorneys for Harsh announced that a motion for a new trial would be filed immediately.

Harsh, scion of a wealthy Milwaukee, Wis., family, and frequenter of exclusive clubs here, when attending Oglethorpe University, killed Smith, 24-year-old drug store manager, during an attempted robbery last Oct. 16. He confessed but a plea of not guilty was entered by attorneys who contended that he was a "constitutional psychopath" incapable of distinguishing right from wrong. The State, holding Harsh's confession but not using it, contended he was normal and deported himself as would any criminal when he and Richard Gallogly, collegiate companion, held up the Smith drug store. Harsh told police he had held up the drug store "for the fun of the thing."

The verdict at the end of a trial that lasted four days, came less than an hour after Judge E. B. Thomas had delivered his charge. No recommendation for mercy was made, leaving the court no option except to impose the extreme penalty under Georgia law. It was reported that the jury deliberated only 15 minutes and took one ballot.

The sister of the prisoner, Mrs. J. S. Dlosway of Atlanta, and his mother, Mrs. George R. Harsh, of Milwaukee, wept when the verdict was announced.

Gallogly will go to trial Jan. 29.

FIGHT IN SENATE EXPECTED OVER HUGE TAX REFUNDS

McKellar and Couzens Announce They Will Attack Treasury Policy of Payments to Corporations.

EIGHT-YEAR TOTAL SET AT $2,000,000,000

'Credits' Given to Some Concerns—Rebate to U. S. Steel Against Committee Expert's Advice.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Serious trouble is brewing in the Senate over the question of the huge tax refunds made to large corporations by the Treasury Department. It probably will begin this week, when the Senate takes up a provision of the deficiency bill, under which $75,000,000 would be appropriated for refunds which are anticipated between now and June.

Congress apparently has just awakened to the extent to which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is carring his policy of giving back to the great corporations the taxes collected from them in former years. Among the refunds which attracted unusual attention was one of $26,000,000 to the United States Steel Corporation, consisting of taxes collected in 1917, with accured interest, and another of $6,500,000 to the Reynolds Tobacco Co., assessed in 1918 to 1921.

The Joint Committee on Taxation, consisting of members from both houses of Congress, refused to approve the refund to the steel trust, and the committee's tax expert, L. H. Parker, positively disapproved the refund to the tobacco company. Notwithstanding this, the Treasury Department proceeded to make them anyhow.

Lower Tax Than Rivals Pay.

In an official report analyzing the Reynolds refund, Parker pointed out that the rate at which that company was being taxed was less than half the rate which its small competitors were compelled to pay.

"Why a relief provision should find a higher rate of tax for small companies than for large is not clear and does not seem to come within the intent of Congress as expressed by statute," he added.

The refund to the steel corporation, Treasury officials admitted, was the result of a bargain arrived at between themselves and lawyers for the corporation. An assessment was originally made under the Wilson administration and the tax was collected.

Years afterward, the corporation complained that it had been compelled to pay too much. Negotiations ensued between Treasury officials and attorneys for the corporation, and the refund which was agreed on was admittedly the result of a compromise.

Storm Over Tax Plan.

This policy of fixing the taxes of large corporations by negotiation, while small tax payers are required to pay rigid amounts fixed by law, has aroused a furor of indignation in Congress since it was disclosed. Among those who have signified an intention to attack it on the floor of the Senate are Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, and Senator Couzens, (Republican), Michigan.

Under Secretary Mellon's administration of the Treasury, the annual total of these tax refunds has rapidly increasing, and finally has arrived at a stage where it constitutes one of the largest drains on the Treasury, comparing with the annual cost of upkeep of the army and navy.

During the fiscal year 1921 the sum appropriated by Congress for tax refunds was $22,000,000. Steadily it has increased until the total in 1928 was $173,000,000. For the fiscal year of 1929, the Treasury Department is asking for $205,000,000.

Credits Given to Some.

This, however, by no means represents the actual total of taxes given back. In addition to making refunds, the Treasury Department has the practice of allowing "credits." Under this practice, the Treasury Department, instead of sending the tax payer a check for a refund, simply credits him with the amount on his current taxes. Practically, of course, it is the same as a refund, but it does not appear in the amounts appropriated for refunds.

Investigations conducted by Senators Couzens and McKellar and Representative Garner of Texas indicate that the total "credits" under Secretary Mellon have been larger than the total refunds, and that the total of both, during the eight years the Secretary has held the office, has been in the neighborhood of $2,000,000,000.

The law provides that the Treasury shall make a report to the Joint Committee of Congress of all refunds in excess of $75,000, but it does not provide that any "credits" shall be reported, and the magnitude which latter had reached was unknown until McKellar made a demand upon the Treasury for a list of them.

Mellon Concerns Benefit.

Among the companies which have received large tax rebates in the form of both refunds and credits, are companies owned by Secretary Mellon and members of his family. Similar benefits have been received by corporations in which Secretary Mellon was a large stockholder before he entered the cabinet. These circumstances recently prompted Representative Garner to say on the floor of the House that "Secretary Mellon sits on one side of the table and Mr. Mellon sits on the other, and Secretary Mellon determines how much money Mr. Mellon owes the Government."

Aside from this aspect of the situation, Congress is particularly excited over the Treasury's policy of "constructing the law liberally." This practice, Senator McKellar declared, virtually amounts to "throwing the law out of the window where large corporations are concerned, bargaining with their attorneys on the amount they shall pay."

Representative Garner contends there should be a general reduction in taxes and that such a reduction would be possible if it were not for the growth of refunds and credits under Secretary Mellon, principally to the great corporations. This and additional criticism will be heard when the Senate takes up the $75,000,000 appropriation in the deficiency bill within a few days.

Meantime, there are signs of an attempt by administration leaders to have the joint committee abolished as a means of ending the disclosures which have occasioned so much criticism. This would conform to the administration's policy of complete secrecy in connection with taxes.

Ogden L. Mills Defends Refunds on Income Tax.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the Treasury, in an address tonight at the annual dinner of the New York State Bar Association, defended the Treasury Department against criticism for its recent refunds of Federal income taxes. He defended specifically the refund of $15,000,000 plus interest to the United States Steel Corporation.

The criticism failed to take into account a desire on the part of the department to exercise fairness and "to get away from the old spirit of claiming everything for the Government," Mr. Mills said.

"All we want of the taxpayer is what under the law he owes the Government," said Mills, in appealing for a "spirit of fairness and appreciation that litigation both for the taxpayer and for the Government is the most unsatisfactory and inexpensive method of tax liability."

WINSTON CHURCHILL

WINSTON CHURCHILL THROUGH WITH NOVELS

Painting Now Occupies Author of "Richard Carvel" Visiting His Native St. Louis.

Winston Churchill, author of "Richard Carvel" and "The Crisis," is in St. Louis. A dozen years ago, this announcement would have brought the expectation of a new novel about the author's native city. He and Mrs. Churchill are to leave in a few days for Mexico. Such a journey, at one time, would have meant a new romance of the days of Montezuma or Maximilian.

But Churchill, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter last evening at the home of his cousin, Joseph P. Gazzam, in the St. Regis Apartments, said he had no expectation of adding another novel to his list. That list, so far as the public is concerned, closed with "The Dwelling Place of Light," in 1917.

While Churchill is not taking an author's notebook to Mexico, he is taking the materials for water-color painting, and he expects to bring back a record of volcanic peaks and bright tiled domes and towers.

Painting has been his chief activity in the last few years, he said. His pictures are not made to sell, or for public display. He prefers architectural themes, and he spoke with admiration of the work of Hugh Ferriss, whose pictures of "Memorial Plaza at Night," and other scenes of the future St. Louis, appeared in the recent Fiftieth Anniversary number of the Post-Dispatch.

House construction—much of it plain carpentering—and interior decoration share his time with painting at his home in Cornish, N. H.

This visit to St. Louis is Churchill's first since 1915. He then found St. Louis a new city, challenging him to a new descriptive work, but the book at which he hinted was not written. Arriving at dusk last evening, he saw only the central section where he once lived. "Rather run down," was his comment, "but that is inevitable in city growth."

While Churchill visits Mr. and Mrs. Gazzam, both of whom are his relatives, Mrs. Churchill will visit her brother, Louis M. Hall, at Hotel Chase. She was Miss Mabel H. Hall of St. Louis. Shortly before they left home, the temperature at Cornish was 32 below zero. "But it doesn't seem nearly so bad as it sounds," said the author, who is a eulogist of the climate of the Connecticut river valley.

GIRL SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO; MAN, FOUND WOUNDED, DIES

Alabaman Said at Hospital He Knew Assailment by Face But Not by Name.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 19.—Miss Ella Mae Fountain of Columbus, 20 years old, was found shot to death in an automobile near here last night and her companion, J. W. Edmunds Jr., 25 of Phenix City, Ala., died in a hospital here late today from two bullet wounds. He was found in the woods near the auto.

Edmunds said while semi-conscious, shortly before his death, that he knew the man who did the shooting and could identify him, but did not know his name.

Miss Fountain was shot twice through the heart. A pistol with four cartridges exploded was found on the running board of the auto.

Miss Fountain, police said, rented the automobile late Friday from a garage in Columbus and when last seen was driving it herself. She lived with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fountain.

The tragedy was discovered early today by W. A. Crow, a nearby resident, who reported it to Phenix City police. Miss Fountain apparently had been dead for several hours when found. Residents of the neighborhood reported they heard shooting about 11 o'clock last night.

ROBBER CAUGHT WITH CLOTHING

Leaves House in East St. Louis and Finds Officer Awaiting Him.

When Henry Nelson, Negro, came out of the front door at 664 North Thirty-first street, East St. Louis, yesterday, with two suit cases filled with clothing belonging to Charles Terss, he looked at the revolver of Patrolman Louis Tourville and said: "Don't shoot, I give up."

A neighbor had seen Nelson enter a side window and had notified the police. Nelson says he lives at Pensacola, Fla.

REPARATIONS BODY TO ADD TO DAWES PLAN, YOUNG SAYS

Financial Experts Will Have Nothing to Do With Commercial Projects, Spokesman Asserts.

HE AND J. P. MORGAN ACCEPT POSITIONS

General Electric Executive Declares Committee Will Complete Work of Previous Parley on Germany.

By Leased Wire From the New Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Announcement that the financial experts who will consider setlement of Germany's reparations payments "will have nothing to do with any commercialization or means to aid those payments" was made today by Owen D. Young, as spokesman for the unofficial American delegation to the experts committee, in his first official statement. Young is chairman of the board of the General Electric Co.

This announcement appeared to take direct issue with reports from Paris and elsewhere that the appointment of J. P. Morgan to the experts' committee meant he would help to make plans for the flotation of large amounts of reparations bonds, particularly on the American market. Dispatches from Washington previously had indicated that President Coolidge and American bankers had looked with disfavor on any large flotation of such securities in this country.

Young's statement came shortly after he, Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont of the Morgan banking firm assembled in the Morgan library and received from Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, formal notification of the desire of the powers that Young and Morgan sit on the experts' committee.

Lamont Is Morgan's Alternate.

The invitation was formally accepted at the same time, and Morgan chose as his alternate his junior partner, Lamont. This appointment was forecast last Tuesday. Young said his alternate would be Thomas Nelson Perkins of Boston, who served with him on the Board which drafted the Dawes plan. Perkins, who otherwise would also have been present, was detained in Boston.

The ceremony—that of the invitation and acceptance—lasted about three minutes, after which, Young explained, they spent some time looking at the Morgan collection of valuable manuscripts and volumes. It was agreed that Young should act as spokesman for the American delegation.

The four will leave aboard the Aquitania Feb. 1, and expect to spend 60 to 90 days in Paris.

Young is co-author of the German reparations plan drawn by the Dawes Commission. His own views are that politics and economics must be separated in international relations, and claims transferred from governments to private investors by capitalizing the debts and selling securities. This is a plan already urged by S. Parker Gilbert, whose findings will be valuable to the experts.

Plans to Eliminate 'X.'

"The Committee will not revise the Dawes plan," said Young today. "The total amount Germany might be obligated to pay was not fixed in the Dawes plan because the committee was not authorized to fix it. It remained 'X,' the unknown quantity. Now the present purpose is to eliminate the 'X' and to substitute the total amount owed and to determine the number of annuities in which it can be paid.

"It would create a misunderstanding if the impression exists we are building a new plan. My personal belief is that it is much better to keep the unified and connected plan that we have. It is the purpose of this Committee to complete the Dawes plan, but the Committee will have nothing to do with any commercialization or means to aid those payments.

"The problem is different than before. Then the controversy was great and tinged with bitterness. Everybody disputed statements of facts anybody else presented. Now the tempers of every one concerned will be much smoother, but the controversial aspect may still present some difficulties.

"I think the administration of the Dawes plan by Mr. Gilbert is one of the outstanding achievements the century and Americans ought to be proud that a man of his age could handle it to the praise and applause of the world. I recall that people looked askance when I suggested a boy of 32 for that important post. We have a fine demonstration of what American youth can do, and we know now that we do not have to wait for men to become 50 or 60 years old before trusting them with such problems."

YOUTHFUL CHICAGO OPERA STARS TO BE MARRIED

Marion Claire, Soprano, and Henry G. Weber, Conductor, First Met in Europe.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Announcement was made today of the marriage next Monday of two of the youngest members of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, both of them stars.

Miss Marion Claire, youthful lyric soprano, and Henry G. Weber, the world's youngest opera conductor, are the principals in the romance that had its inception in Europe, where they first met, although both are native Chicagoans.

Miss Claire is the daughter of a Chicago attorney, Horace Wright Cook. Weber attracted attention of the operatic world when, 19 years old, after spending five years studying in Berlin and Vienna, he conducted "the Masked Ball", when the regular conductor was taken suddenly ill. He is the son of a Chicago wagon manufacturer.

stir up trouble for me since last November, when Mrs. Alice Wing was dropped as chief clerk of this office." He would not say, in response to a question, who the persons were.

Mrs. Lesser declared she received no salary from the State and that her only salary was from the Federal department, when she was seen in the St. Louis office today by a Post-Dispatch reporter and asked what salary she received. When asked about the checks that had been issued to her for nine months against the State appropriation, as shown by the State Auditor's books, she said: "I don't know anything about any checks from the State."

No further official action is likely in the case, it was learned. The diversion of funds was a violation of appropriation laws, it was said, as money appropriated for the State cannot legally be expended for any purpose other than for which the fund was appropriated, any action in this connection would be a civil one, and there had been no showing of any personal profit from the diversion, it was said.

Hinkle has been head of the Labor Department for four years, being one of the first appointees named by Gov. Baker at the beginning of his administration. Hinkle was a candidate for reappointment by Gov. Caulfield, and had been indorsed by several railroad brotherhoods. He was a railroad conductor before he was appointed by Baker.

Plan for Channel Tunnel Gaining in Favor in Britain

Informal Poll of Commons Said to Show Large Majority for 60-Year-Old Proposal to Construct Huge Tube.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An informal poll of the House of Commons by Sir William Bull was said today to show that an overwhelming majority of the members favor the many times suggested English Channel tunnel.

When Parliament reassembles Tuesday, Ernest Thurtle, a Laborite, will ask Premier Baldwin when the question can be discussed formally in Parliament.

An even more fascinating proposal than the 60-year-old project for a tunnel, also now under discussion in England, is a 21-mile channel bridge. From it travelers who have suffered the tortures of channel seasickness could laugh at the churning waters that caused them misery.

A channel bridge scheme was outlined 40 years ago. Competent engineers consider such a structure feasible, with structural difficulties only a little greater than throwing great spans across the Hudson River at New York. The channel at its narrowest point is comparatively shallow. St. Paul's Cathedral set down in the middle of it would leave a good part of the dome sticking above the waves.

Military Men Oppose Plan.

But British military strategists, arguing for national security, have violently opposed the bridge project as well as the more practical tunnel through all the decades of discussion.

The question to be decided is whether the World War altered England's splendid isolation as a tight little island. Those who favor the tunnel say this country is directly open to attack from the air and to siege by submarine. If they can convince the military strategists of this, the tunnel project will at last enter the field of practical politics.

Political rather than engineering difficulties always have blocked the channel tunnel. On two occasion s the House of Commons voted in favor of the proposal and work actually started from the English side, but Britain's Committee on Imperial Defense, the last word in military strategy, influenced the Government against the project.

Would Save 90 Minutes.

A channel would save an hour and a half on the trip by steamer from London to Paris. The channel from Dover to Calais is 21 miles wide, and steamers now use about an hour on the passage. In stormy winters such as the present one, the crossings take longer and on some days are suspended altogether.

From Calais a dozen international trains start for points as far away as Constantinope, Italy and Germany If the tunnel were constructed, travelers could enter their railway compartments in London and, with only a change of trains where railway gauges change, as on Russian lines, ride to destinations in three continents.

Unhampered by political problems such as plague the English channel, the Spanish Government has started work on a Gibraltar Straits tunnel linking Spain with Morocco, in Africa.

Gibraltar Tunnel, $50,000,000.

Corfetele Las Penas, four miles from Yarifa, has been selected as the site for the Spanish entrance. The Morroccan exit will be chosen next month. The Gibraltar tunnel will cost about $50,000,000.

Boring can start on the Anglo-French channel link just as soon as the British Government removes its objections. France never has opposed the project, for with traditional enemies just across the long frontiers, an undersea tube which could be easily be blocked or even destroyed in case of war presents no terrors.

Commercial companies exist both in England and in France to carry out the tunnel scheme, the cost of which is estimated at $150,000,000. English railways do not oppose the plan, as immense continental traffic would result, and at the same time the railways would save the expense of building and maintaining a fleet of channel steamers.

FOUR MANHOLES BLOW UP; PROVIDENCE, R. I., SHAKEN

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 19.—Four manholes blew up in one of the busiest traffic areas of the city early tonight, shaking buildings within a radius of a quarter of a mile and shattering windows in structures 500 feet from the center of the explosion.

One man sitting at a drug store soda fountain was knocked from his stool by the concussion and suffered nervous shock. Occupants of many structures in the vicinity, most of which are boarding houses or small hotels, were alarmed by the loud report and shaking of the buildings, but there was no panic.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by the ignition of accumulated gas from a leak.

GETZENDANER HORSES PERISH

IMPERIAL, Neb., Jan. 19.—Aviator, the famous jumping horse, and 13 other trick and fancy horses owned by the Getzendaner sisters of Champion, Neb., perished here today in a fire that destroyed a box car containing the animals. Records at police headquarters show that Reynolds, alias Herbert Foley, giving 2815 Greer avenue as his address, pleaded guilty to a forgery charge Nov. 2, 1927, and was sentenced to serve two years in prison. He and another man had cashed 42 fraudulent checks, it was charged. The records also show that on Nov. 27, 1926, while employed as a cook for Charles Matlock, 3927 Delmar boulevard, he confessed breaking into the Delmar Cafe, 5102 Delmar boulevard, owned by Matlock, and stealing $15. Records show that a warrant was issued in the case but show no disposition of the charge.

Police records show that [illegible] has been arrested twice, once suspected of robbery, when he was released, and once, charged with carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty to the weapon charge Nov. 11, 1927, and was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

125 KILLED IN CHICAGO BEER FIGHTS IN 9 YEARS

Struggle for Control of Illicit Trade Has Gone on Since Inception of Prohibition.

GANGSTERS ALSO TAKE UP EXTORTION

First Assassination of Note Was That of Jim Colosimo in 1920, Latest Patsy Lolordo.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Competition for the beer customer's quarter and for the other emoluments of illicit trade has resulted in the killing of more than 125 Chicago gangsters in the nine years since the advent of prohibition.

In 1920, after the assassination of Jim Colosimo, there arose, police said, an efficient organization under Colosimo's lieutenant, Johnny Torrio, who later turned a developed beer and gambling business over to his lieutenant, "Scarface Al" Capone. Torrio, wounded in a pistol fight with rivals, deserted the trade in the hope of a natural death.

O'Banion-Capone Split.

Both Torrio and Capone had been New York gangsters. Capone, who was 19 when he came to Chicago from a Coney Island cafe, had received "hash marks" in the service of the Brooklyn "Five Points" gand that labeled him "Scarface Al."

A group headed by Dion O'Banion broke away from the Capone and Torrio influence and took control of the beer business of the North Side, while Capone branched into Cicero and developed a gambling syndicate, from which O'Banion and "Little Hymie" Weiss, North Siders, extracted a percentage tribute for the price of peace.

Then entered the interesting Genna boys.

Angelo, chief of this ill-starred group of five brothers who conducted 15 stills in the Italian West Side, went to Capone's "ship" one night in 1924, lost his money and left $30,000 in notes with the cashier of the dice game and, report continued, Capone gave O'Banion the notes for his "cut," and bad blood, it was said, developed when O'Banion tried to collect.

The Death of O'Banion.

Nov. 10, 1924, Angelo telephoned O'Banion and told him some friends were coming over to his flower shop, run in conjunction with the beer business, to purchase $10,000 worth of floral pieces for Mike Merle, dead Italian leader. The three appeared promptly, and while one held O'Banion's gun hand in friendly greeting, the two others shot him. The florist-gunman's obsequies ushered in the era of "swanky" funerals for gangsters. His body was interred in a $10,000 bronze coffin, and the floral offerings gave employment to several draymen.

A few months later, Angelo Genna was found shot to death. He had $30,000 cash in his pocket.

In June, Mike Genna was killed in a pistol fight with two policemen who also died.

Ambush of Hymie Weiss.

A few weeks later, Tony Genna was found in a prairie, shot to death. Two other brothers fled to cover, one throwing himself on the police, the other going to Sicily. The feud continued for two years, with minor slayings and culminated in the spectacular assassination of Hymie Weiss, O'Banion's successor, who was ambushed by machine gunners in front of Holy Name Cathedral in North State street, Oct. [illegible] 1926. Machine guns sent a [illegible] of bullets from above O'Banion's old florist shop at Weiss and his companions, an attorney and three others were wounded. Another leader of this band, "Schemer" Drucci, died ingloriously at the hands of a policeman.

Other spectacular events punctuated the period. Eddie Tancl, dive keeper, was slain in a fight with Myles O'Donnell and Eddie Dougherty, beer merchants who had lost Tancl's trade to Capone after delivering him some inferior liquor. Dougherty and O'Donnell were tried and acquitted of the killing because "Tancl fired first." William McSwiggin, young assistant to State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, prosecuted them.

Prosecutor's Aid Slain.

Shortly afterward, McSwiggin, Dougherty and another gangster were slain with machine guns while riding in Cicero. Police said McSwiggin's death probably had been a "mistake." The Coroner's jury in the McSwiggin case has never been dismissed.

Much of the gang killing in the last two years has been charged by some to "racketeering," a fancy name for any variety of extortion and polite robbery under the guise of business organization. Politics, has claimed the important assassinations of recent years, chief among them "Diamond Joe" Esposito, voluntary worker in the faction of the Republican party headed by United States Senator Charles S. Deneen. "Big Tim" Murphy, long famous in labor politics, was assassinated, it is said, for trying to get in on union organization funds.

Noisy Jazz Opera, Aided By Auto, Radio and Phone, Opens at Metropolitan

SINGS IN JAZZ OPERA

FLORENCE EASTON.

'Jonny Spielt Auf' Has Weird Music and Much Drum-Thumping — Locomotive Appears in One Scene.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Jazz, accompanied by all the queer, angular shapes, the metallic glitters and the staccato, machine-made noises of this strident age from which it has sprung, crashed through the Olympian portals of the Metropolitan Opera House tonight. It was the American Premier of the widely discussed "Jonny Spielt Auf," which may be freely translated as "Johnny Steps Out."

There was some highly inspiriting dance music, a bit of "Suwanee river," much thumping of drums, and strange duets.

There was a kaleidoscopic procession of chauffeurs, vacuum cleaners, bellhops, hotel elevators, telephones, newspapers, a radio loud speaker, a locomotive, an automobile, and the Metropolitan ballet doing the Charleston in Winter Garden costumes while somebody threw ticker tape.

First Setting Is Glacial.

When the first curtain went up, there were Rudolf Laubenthal, in plus-fours, and Florence Easton, in an ultra-smart angora winter sports costume, climbing up into one of the most beautiful glaciers ever set up on any stage. They sang about Urban's scenery for awhile and were next seen in the prima donna's sitting room, fitted out with the last word in modern furniture.

Miss Easton was now arrayed in chic gray traveling ensemble, and Laubenthal wore spats and a double-breasted brown business suit. Soon a chauffeur whose leggings outshone anything ever seen on Park avenue, came in and got Miss Easton's bags, and she went away to Paris.

Next Miss Easton—as Anita, the beautiful opera singer — strolled into the corridor of a sumptuous hotel. Offstage the 12-piece jazz orchestra, which Giulio Gatti-Casazza hired to supplement his own orchestra's two saxophones, was doing its work.

Jonny Just a Playboy.

Into this set danced Jonny himself, a most agile and impudent fellow, whose face was smeared with burnt cork. His Negro make-up was paterned after that used by Al Jolson, who was in the audience and had given suggestions. Michael Bohnen, baritone, sang Jonny.

Jonny's advances — exceedingly conservative and somehow lacking in sincerity—were instantly repulsed.

Bohnen did some tap dancing, played the saxophone, hopped over furniture and in and out windows, for all the world like Peter Pan, and stood on top of a grand piano to sing one of his arias.

A Vacuum Cleaner Obligato.

Another sprightly character was Yvonne, a chambermaid, tonight sung by Editha Fleischer, contralto. When she came on to sing one of her principal arias, she dragged a vacuum cleaner behind her and proceeded to clean things up a bit while she sang.

Anita, it seemed, was not quite true while in Paris to the young man waiting for her in front of the glacier. Here entered Daniello, the violin virtuoso, sung by Friedrich Schorr in evening clothes and a monocle. And there was one entrancing set back in the mountains, where the gentleman in the double-breasted business suit picked up the telephone and, in the best tenor, inquired in German whether the Paris train was on time.

Eventually she went back to him —her Max, the composer—and they eloped to America. Daniello was run over by the highly advertised locomotive, which belched steam out of the back stage heating pipes just as the advance notices said it would.

The staid Metropolitan crowd seemed to enjoy the sprightly opera, so different from its usual bill of fare, and called the performers back for 10 curtain calls at the end of the first act.

Besides Mrs. Phelps, he is survived by his mother, a daughter and three brothers, who live at Salisbury, and a son, Lieut. Joseph Phelps, stationed at Fort Sill, Ok.

History of Robbery Case in Which Baldwin Escaped Prison

Sylvester Baldwin, then an ex-convict, was sentenced to the State Penitentiary for five years for a $31.50 holdup of Roy Smith, a laundry wagon driver, in 1924. His lawyer, Jones Parker, who had been an assistant under Circuit Attorney Sidener, appealed the conviction, but Division No. 2 of the Missouri Supreme Court affirmed it.

While Parker was trying to obtain a rehearing, Sidener wrote to the court, saying that a review of the case and perusal of affidavits obtained after the trial by Parker, "convinced him" that Baldwin was not guilty.

The affidavits were made, two years after the crime, one by Smith, who said he sometimes felt he was mistaken in his identification of Baldwin and three by policemen, who swore they saw Baldwin in a saloon at the time of the holdup. A rehearing was granted, and once more the conviction was affirmed.

Because one Judge dissented, however, the case was sent to the Supreme Court in banc and argued twice. The first time the Judges failed to agree. On June 27, 1927, the Court reversed and remanded the case for a new trial, holding that Baldwin had not received a fair trial.

No action was taken by Sidener until last Dec. 28, when he dismissed the charge against Baldwin, in clearing up his dockets before retiring from office.

A week later Baldwin and two other ex-convicts, one a bank robber, were arrested in a liquor raid on the Wellston resort, of which Baldwin had become proprietor. They were questioned about a series of recent bank robberies in the St. Louis district, and were released for lack of evidence.

Both Are Injured and Taken to Alexian Brothers' Hospital; Machine Continues on Way.

Two men were injured when walking on Lemay Ferry road near Mehlville last night when struck by lumber which protruded from a passing truck. The truck continued south without stopping.

The injured men, John Hickison and Floyd Beebe, both of 1443 North Eighteenth street, were taken to Alexian Brothers Hospital. Hickison suffered a broken leg and head injury, Beebe a fractured pelvis and head injury.

WALSH RAKES SINCLAIR LEASE

Senator's Report Criticises Renewal of Contract by Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A report criticising the renewal of the Sinclair contract for royalty oil from the Salt Creek field was submitted to the Senate Lands Committee today by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana.

Hearings of the committee showed that Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior, granted the renewal a year ago on the recommendation of the solicitor of the Interior Department. The lease was declared void last October by the Department of Justice. The committee will consider the report later.

HAID, NEW ON BENCH, TAKES PRECEDENCE OVER BECKER

George F. Haid, appointed by Gov. Caulfield to succeed Judge Charles H. Daues on the bench of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, presented his commission and was sworn in by Judge William Dee Becker yesterday.

Under a constitutional provision, Judge Haid becomes presiding Judge of the court, although Judge Becker has served one full term of 12 years and is beginning his second. This provision requires that the presiding judgeship shall go to the member who has held for the longest period a license to practice law. Judge Haid's license dates from 1898; Judge Becker's from 1901. The St. Louis court is the only appellate tribunal in the United States governed by such a provision.

When Judge Daues assumed office eight years ago he became presiding Judge, although and Judge Becker were graduated from law school at the same time. It happened that Daues obtained his license a year earlier than Becker. The third member of the court is Judge Simon G. Nipper.

Judge Daues resigned recently to resume the practice of law. His term has four years to run, but Judge Haid will serve only until Jan. 1, 1931, the law providing that an appointment to fill a vacancy may last only until the next general election.

CITY WILL FIGHT GAS RATE RISE AS UNREASONABLE

Prepares to Carry to Courts, Decision Giving Laclede Nearly Everything It Asked for.

The courts will be resorted to by the city, if necessary, in the attempt to block the Public Service Commission's order of last Thursday granting the Laclede Gas Light Co. an increase in gas rates which comes within 5½ cents a customer of giving the company all that it had asked for except in the case of a small group of customers less than 10 per cent of the total.

City Counselor Muench announced yesterday that a motion for a rehearing of the case would be filed with the Public Service Commission and that if that should fail an appeal would be taken to the Circuit Court, which would be asked to review the entire proceeding.

On the basis of the minimum and maximum rates approved by the commission it is disclosed that under the new rates approximately 90 per cent of the gas users would pay increased monthly bills only 5½ cents less than the amount requested by the company. The few not coming in this class are those using less than 400 cubic feet of gas a month and that their maximum saving under the allowed rate as compared with the one sought would be 15 cents a month.

Proposed New Rates and the Old.

The new rates, as has been told, provide for a minimum monthly charge of 75 cents which would pay for only 300 cubic feet of gas, and a maximum charge of 95 cents a thousand feet for additional consumption.

The present maximum rate is $1 a thousand feet with a minimum of 50 cents a month, the minimum paying for its pro rata, or 500 cubic feet of gas. The universal application of the 75-cent initial charge for only 300 feet has the effect of adding appreciably to the bills of all consumers except a few of the largest commercial and industrial users and house heating customers.

Muench's Statement.

The City Counselor's statement follows:

"After a careful study of the Public Service Commission's order of Jan. 15 allowing the Laclede Gas Light Co. an increase of approximately $700,000 in its charges against the householders of the city, we are of the opinion that the order discriminates unfairly against the householder in favor of the luxury users of gas and, unless it is modified on rehearing, propose to take the case to the courts for final determination.

"The result of the order, so far as the domestic user of gas is concerned, is as follows:

Cu. Ft.	Present Mon. Bill	New Mon. Bill	Inc. in Mon. Bill	Pct of Inc.
300	$0 50	$0 75	$0 25	50
400	50	84½	34½	69
500	50	94	44	88
600	60	1 03½	43½	72½
700	70	1 13	43	61.4
800	80	1 22½	42½	53.1
900	90	1 32	42	46.7
1000	1 00	1 41½	41½	41.5
1500	1 50	1 89	39	26
2000	2 00	2 36½	36½	18.3
2500	2 50	2 84	34	13.6
3000	3 00	3 31½	31½	10.5
3500	3 50	3 79	29	8.3
4000	4 00	4 26½	26½	6.6
4300	4 30	4 53	25	5.8
4500	4 50	4 74	24	5.3
5000	5 00	5 21½	21½	4.3
5500	5 50	5 69	19	3.5
6000	6 00	6 16¼	16½	2.8
6500	6 50	6 64	14	2.2
7000	7 00	7 11½	11½	1.6
7500	7 50	7 59	09	1.2
7800	7 80	7 87½	07½	1.0

Small User Hardest Hit.

"In other words, every householder whose bill does not now exceed $8 per month will be subject to an increase, varying from 1 to 88 per cent. The practical effect of this increase will be to saddle a heavier burden on the householder, who is a user from necessity and must remain connected to the service, in order that the comany may offer an attractive rate to the owners of gas-heating plants, who are strictly luxury nsers.

"The evidence in this proceeding showed that 87 per cent of all the consumers use not to exceed 4000 cubic feet per month, which makes their bill under the present rate not in excess of $4. Of the company's 197,000 customers, 166,000, or about 85 per cent, contribute approximately 91 per cent of the revenue. It is apparent, therefore, that the decrease in rates to the few large consumers is at the expense of the consumer, who has built up the company's present business, and without whose business the company could not exist.

"Notwithstanding the fact that it is the household consumer who has created whatever going value the company has, he will, under the commission's order, be obliged to pay on an allowance for going value out of all proportion to allowances made in other cases. He will be required to pay the company 7.5 per cent on a going value of $5,800,000, which will yield $435,000 per annum. This is in addition to the return he is already required to pay the company on the value of its tangible property, which, when appraised as the property of a going concern, and not as abandoned property.

"A comparison of the new rates authorized with the rates prevailing in St. Louis County will show that, although the county company operates under greater difficulties and has not the same number of customers to a mile of mains, our rates are higher. If a competitor can furnish gas at a certain rate at a profit in adjoining territory, it would seem reasonable to presume that the company here ought to be able to furnish it at the same rate, or less.

Conflicting Statements.

"As pointed out by Commissioner Calfee in his dissenting opinion, the position taken by the company in the valuation hearing is inconsistent with that taken in the last hearing on the matter of depreciation. In the first case, the company said its property was practically 100 per cent perfect, and, in the last, they asked for a large increase in the depreciation allowance, because of the large amount of accrued depreciation.

"There are various other respects in which the commission failed to give proper consideration to the city's contentions, in our opinion, such, for instance, as the failure to charge the company with any interest on balances in the depreciation fund, although the company, for a great many years, has either put these balances out on interest, or has used them in its business, and should have credited the amount with interest at the prevailing rate.

"A motion for rehearing will be filed in due course."

The commission's order fixed the valuation of the company's gas department property upon which it is entitled to earn a return of 7½ per cent at $47,000,000 as of Dec. 31, 1927. This was $1,522,000 less than the previously recognized valuation of $48,522,000 based upon $45,600,000 as of Oct. 1, 1925 and claimed additions and betterments of $2,922,000.

In the hearing of the case the City atacked the valuation, seeking partticularly a reduction of $3,906,000 in the amount of $5,818,000 claimed for going value.

The City and the company have 10 days from the date the order was issued to file motions or appeals. The company has not yet indicated whether or not it will accept the order as issued.

WHAT GAS COMPANY ASKED FOR AND WHAT IT GOT FROM COMMISSION

THE following table shows how closely the increased gas rates approach the maximum increase asked for by the Laclede Gas Light Co., in its application to the State Public Service Commission. It will be noted that except for a small group of consumers using less than 400 cubic feet a month the increase is only 5½ cents a customer less than the amount asked for by the company.

u. Ft. Used month	Bill at rate company wtd.	Bill at rate granted	Amt less than asked for
300	.90	.75	.15
400	.90	.84½	.05½
500	.99½	.94	.05½
600	1.09	1.03½	.05½
700	1.18½	1.13	.05½
1200	1.66	1.60½	.05½

4000	4.32	4.26½	.05½
5500	5.74½	5.69	.05½
7000	7.17	7.11½	.05½
7800	7.93	7.87½	.05½

Wherever the fractions occur the company would get an additional cent and then its bill would be only five cents short of what it had hoped to get.

Hoover spoke first and King Albert followed, speaking in English. When the King had concluded, Hoover replied:

"Your Majesty, may I express again my hopes for the continued health and happiness of Your Majesties. And may I add again my hope for the prosperity of Belgium."

The text of King Albert's address as made public here follows:

"I congratulate most sincerely the President-elect of the United States, to whom a great Nation has, through an imposing vote, intrusted the leadership of its destinies. The United States of America, which extend from one ocean to another, combine the splendid development of industrial technique and production with the noblest solicitude for universal peace.

"The Kellogg past has brought forward an ideal of high international morality. It is the duty of all interested nations to maintain this ideal unblemished.

"Belgium will never forget the help given by Mr. Hoover to her people suffering in the throes of the great war. He was the soul of their relief amidst the greatest political, maritime and economic difficulties. In the name of the Belgian people I express our sympathy and gratefulness to the great American who has well deserved the title which none other has yet obtained, of 'Friend of Belgium'."

Hoover's words were made audible to his friends overseas by means of amplifiers. The address of the King was brought back to him over both the radio and the telephone, and was heard very distinctly by means of a special setup placed in his headquarters.

Makes Fat People Slim

New York Physician Perfects Simple and Easy Method of Reducing Weight.

Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician, of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without unnecessary change of diet or burdensome exercise. He also says that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. The Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth avenue, New York City, Dept. R.

KEPT NO BOOKS, SAYS FORGETFUL BANKRUPT

Larrie Deppe, Associate in Chain Stores, Can't Remember His Receipts.

"My memory is bad. Things just go through one ear and out the other. You can go back and ask my school teacher," Larrie Deppe, 26-year-old secretary of the bankrupt Cutler Mercantile Co., testified yesterday before Referee Walter Grant in the Federal Court at East St. Louis at an examination to determine the assets of a chain store corporation which did not make money.

Last May Larrie Deppe, with his brother, Everett, as president and his brother, Claude, as vice president, incorporated the firm and established stores at Cutler, Sparta, New Athens and Steelville, Ill.

Jan. 12 creditors filed an involuntary petition, but the Deppe Brothers filed a voluntary petition two days later, listing their debts at $69,297 and their assets at $46,766, valuing their stock and equipment at $28,600. They scheduled $64,297 in unpaid debts to more than 100 wholesalers.

Larrie Deppe testified that "special sales" had been conducted a week before the bankruptcy proceeding but he couldn't recall what days. Each week he took the receipts from the New Athens store to his brother, Everett, but he never counted the money and didn't remember the amounts.

"I cashed checks for customers that I didn't know," the secretary said. "I went by their faces."

"How did you know they were good?" he was asked by H. A. Glieck, counsel for creditors. "I didn't. You can never tell until you try to cash them," the witness replied.

A cash register in the New Athens store was "just a place to put the money," Larrie Deppe said. It had no key and kept no record of sales. He could not remember what the store took in on any one day.

The witness said he "believed" the first time he discussed bankruptcy action with his brothers was the night before the involuntary petition was filed and he didn't remember talking before about it.

Everett Deppe said the firm had only $8 in cash in two bank accounts, but no books were kept, and if a customer owed a bill the amount was marked on a scrap of wrapping paper, which was then stuck on a nail.

After being reminded by Gleick, he admitted his mother-in-law got $93 worth of merchandise two weeks ago and his wife cashed a check made to himself for $125. He was not able to remember his mother-in-law's first name. After being reminded, he remembered returning 30 dresses shipped on consignment to a dealer who was listed as a creditor. He said the creditor had sued him.

LUDENDORFF DUPED IN GOLD BRICK GAME; SWINDLERS HELD

German General Advanced Money to 'Alchemists,' Plumber and Barmaid.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—A strange story of how Gen. Eric Ludendorff was duped by "alchemists" was told today in the Tageblatt, which says that it came to light through the arrest in the Tyrol of Franz Tausend, a former plumber's assistant, and Therese Tausend, a barmaid, on a charge of swindling.

It appears the Tausends visited Gen. Ludendorff and told him of plans for founding a "Society for Chemical Studies," which would make gold in accordance with a process invented by Franz, who called himself a doctor of chemistry and a nobleman. They showed the General some bars of gold which they said they had made.

The Tageblatt says Gen. Ludendorff was taken in, and hoped with his manufactured gold to free Germany from foreign financial suzerainty. With Ludendorff's aid, the Tausends raised money for erecting a laboratory near Munich, where experiments were alleged to have been carried on. Then one morning, the newspaper says, Tausend disappeared with a large sum of money.

TWO CHARGED WITH MURDER IN 'TWILIGHT SLEEP' DEATH

Father of Victim Signs Complaints Against Women Heads of Girls' Home.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 19. —Charges of second degree murder and manslaughter were filed today against Bertha Lips and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie in connection with the death of Helen Haskew, 18 years old, inmate of the New Mexico Girl's Welfare Home, following forcible administration of "twilight sleep."

Miss Lips, superintendent of the home, and Dr. Frisbie, medical advisor, resigned yesterday, following a legislative investigation of conditions at the institution.

S. B. Haskew, 68, of Portales, N. M., father of the girl, signed the complaints against the two women. Bonds were fixed at $3000 each.

Haskew's daughter was one of six girls who ran away from the home and was placed on a diet of bread and water and given an injection of "twilight sleep" after their recapture last Friday. She died at the home Sunday.

NINE GROCERS HELD UP; TOTAL LOSS IS $1323

$500 Taken at One Place, $300 at Another—Kroger Manager Kidnaped.

Ten robberies, in which the loot totaled about $1409 in cash, were reported between 6 and 9 o'clock last night. Grocers were victims of nine of the robberies. Their total loss was $1323. Four of the robberies were at Kroger stores.

At the grocery of Edward Herr, 5218 Kansas street, two men obtained $500, and at the grocery of Samuel Lachterman, 1525 South Seventh street, $300.

George Klinghamer, manager of the Kroger store, 2700 Madison avenue, was held up as he locked the door of the store and taken in an automobile to Twenty-third street and Maiden lane, where two robbers took $103 and ejected him from the machine. Other Kroger robberies were at 4028 North Newstead avenue, $134; 1448 Dodier street, $10, and 3165 North Eleventh street, $30.

Other grocers robbed were: Sam Katz, 1936 Morgan street, $210; Mrs. Ida Schram, 3138 Sheridan avenue, $8; 3134 Easton avenue, $28.

William Langelle, bakery truck driver, of 4015 Papin street, was held up at Sarah and Papin streets and robbed of $43.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR RETURN OF COLLIE

Some dogcatcher can collect $500 in the next two days if he will bring Jerry, a 3-year-old brown and white collie, to the insurance office of James Miller, 1422 Cass avenue.

Jerry is the property of Joe Stanton, a wealthy cattle buyer of Salt Lake City and he disappeared from Stanton's custody on Armistice Day while Miller and Stanton talked over the cattle business.

According to his owner there is little in Jerry's pedigree to warrant the large reward. But a 3-year-old son, Joe junior, in Salt Lake City has grown up with Jerry and would like to see him again.

FIGHT IN SENATE EXPECTED OVER HUGE TAX REFUNDS

McKellar and Couzens Announce They Will Attack Treasury Policy of Payments to Corporations.

EIGHT-YEAR TOTAL SET AT $2,000,000,000

'Credits' Given to Some Concerns—Rebate to U. S. Steel Against Committee Expert's Advice.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Serious trouble is brewing in the Senate over the question of the huge tax refunds made to large corporations by the Treasury Department. It probably will begin this week, when the Senate takes up a provision of the deficiency bill, under which $75,000,000 would be appropriated for refunds which are anticipated between now and June.

Congress apparently has just awakened to the extent to which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is carring his policy of giving back to the great corporations the taxes collected from them in former years. Among the refunds which attracted unusual attention was one of $26,000,000 to the United States Steel Corporation, consisting of taxes collected in 1917, with accured interest, and another of $6,500,000 to the Reynolds Tobacco Co., assessed in 1918 to 1921.

The Joint Committee on Taxation, consisting of members from both houses of Congress, refused to approve the refund to the steel trust, and the committee's tax expert, L. H. Parker, positively disapproved the refund to the tobacco company. Notwithstanding this, the Treasury Department proceeded to make them anyhow.

Lower Tax Than Rivals Pay.

In an official report analyzing the Reynolds refund, Parker pointed out that the rate at which that company was being taxed was less than half the rate which its small competitors were compelled to pay.

"Why a relief provision should find a higher rate of tax for small companies than for large is not clear and does not seem to come within the intent of Congress as expressed by statute," he added.

The refund to the steel corporation, Treasury officials admitted, was the result of a bargain arrived at between themselves and lawyers for the corporation. An assessment was originally made under the Wilson administration and the tax was collected.

Years afterward, the corporation complained that it had been compelled to pay too much. Negotiations ensued between Treasury officials and attorneys for the corporation, and the refund which was agreed on was admittedly the result of a compromise.

Storm Over Tax Plan.

This policy of fixing the taxes of large corporations by negotiation, while small tax payers are required to pay rigid amounts fixed by law, has aroused a furor of indignation in Congress since it was disclosed. Among those who have signified an intention to attack it on the floor of the Senate are Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, and Senator Couzens, (Republican), Michigan.

Under Secretary Mellon's administration of the Treasury, the annual total of these tax refunds has rapidly increasing, and finally has arrived at a stage where it constitutes one of the largest drains on the Treasury, comparing with the annual cost of upkeep of the army and navy.

During the fiscal year 1921 the sum appropriated by Congress for tax refunds was $22,000,000. Steadily it has increased until the total in 1928 was $173,000,000. For the fiscal year of 1929, the Treasury Department is asking for $205,000,000.

Credits Given to Some.

This, however, by no means represents the actual total of taxes given back. In addition to making refunds, the Treasury Department has the practice of allowing "credits." Under this practice, the Treasury Department, instead of sending the tax payer a check for a refund, simply credits him with the amount on his current taxes. Practically, of course, it is the same as a refund, but it does not appear in the amounts appropriated for refunds.

Investigations conducted by Senators Couzens and McKellar and Representative Garner of Texas indicate that the total "credits" under Secretary Mellon have been larger than the total refunds, and that the total of both, during the eight years the Secretary has held the office, has been in the neighborhood of $2,000,000,000.

The law provides that the Treasury shall make a report to the Joint Committee of Congress of all refunds in excess of $75,000, but it does not provide that any "credits" shall be reported, and the magnitude which latter had reached was unknown until McKellar made a demand upon the Treasury for a list of them.

Mellon Concerns Benefit.

Among the companies which have received large tax rebates in the form of both refunds and credits, are companies owned by Secretary Mellon and members of his family. Similar benefits have been received by corporations in which Secretary Mellon was a large stockholder before he entered the cabinet. These circumstances recently prompted Representative Garner to say on the floor of the House that "Secretary Mellon sits on one side of the table and Mr. Mellon sits on the other, and Secretary Mellon determines how much money Mr. Mellon owes the Government."

Aside from this aspect of the situation, Congress is particularly excited over the Treasury's policy of "constructing the law liberally." This practice, Senator McKellar declared, virtually amounts to "throwing the law out of the window where large corporations are concerned, bargaining with their attorneys on the amount they shall pay."

Representative Garner contends there should be a general reduction in taxes and that such a reduction would be possible if it were not for the growth of refunds and credits under Secretary Mellon, principally to the great corporations. This and additional criticism will be heard when the Senate takes up the $75,000,000 appropriation in the deficiency bill within a few days.

Meantime, there are signs of an attempt by administration leaders to have the joint committee abolished as a means of ending the disclosures which have occasioned so much criticism. This would conform to the administration's policy of complete secrecy in connection with taxes.

Ogden L. Mills Defends Refunds on Income Tax.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the Treasury, in an address tonight at the annual dinner of the New York State Bar Association, defended the Treasury Department against criticism for its recent refunds of Federal income taxes. He defended specifically the refund of $15,000,000 plus interest to the United States Steel Corporation.

The criticism failed to take into account a desire on the part of the department to exercise fairness and "to get away from the old spirit of claiming everything for the Government," Mr. Mills said.

"All we want of the taxpayer is what under the law he owes the Government," said Mills, in appealing for a "spirit of fairness and appreciation that litigation both for the taxpayer and for the Government is the most unsatisfactory and inexpensive method of tax liability."

GIRL SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO; MAN, FOUND WOUNDED, DIES

Alabaman Said at Hospital He Knew Assailment by Face But Not by Name.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 19.—Miss Ella Mae Fountain of Columbus, 20 years old, was found shot to death in an automobile near here last night and her companion, J. W. Edmunds Jr., 25 of Phenix City, Ala., died in a hospital here late today from two bullet wounds. He was found in the woods near the auto.

Edmunds said while semi-conscious, shortly before his death, that he knew the man who did the shooting and could identify him, but did not know his name.

Miss Fountain was shot twice through the heart. A pistol with four cartridges exploded was found on the running board of the auto.

Miss Fountain, police said, rented the automobile late Friday from a garage in Columbus and when last seen was driving it herself. She lived with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Fountain.

The tragedy was discovered early today by W. A. Crow, a nearby resident, who reported it to Phenix City police. Miss Fountain apparently had been dead for several hours when found. Residents of the neighborhood reported they heard shooting about 11 o'clock last night.

Author Revisits St. Louis

WINSTON CHURCHILL

Painting Now Occupies Author of "Richard Carvel" Visiting His Native St. Louis.

Winston Churchill, author of "Richard Carvel" and "The Crisis," is in St. Louis. A dozen years ago, this announcement would have brought the expectation of a new novel about the author's native city. He and Mrs. Churchill are to leave in a few days for Mexico. Such a journey, at one time, would have meant a new romance of the days of Montezuma or Maximilian.

But Churchill, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter last evening at the home of his cousin, Joseph P. Gazzam, in the St. Regis Apartments, said he had no expectation of adding another novel to his list. That list, so far as the public is concerned, closed with "The Dwelling Place of Light," in 1917.

While Churchill is not taking an author's notebook to Mexico, he is taking the materials for watercolor painting, and he expects to bring back a record of volcanic peaks and bright tiled domes and towers.

Painting has been his chief activity in the last few years, he said. His pictures are not made to sell, or for public display. He prefers architectural themes, and he spoke with admiration of the work of Hugh Ferriss, whose pictures of "Memorial Plaza at Night," and other scenes of the future St. Louis, appeared in the recent Fiftieth Anniversary number of the Post-Dispatch.

House construction—much of it plain carpentering—and interior decoration share his time with painting at his home in Cornish, N. H.

This visit to St. Louis is Churchill's first since 1915. He then found St. Louis a new city, challenging him to a new descriptive work, but the book at which he hinted was not written. Arriving at dusk last evening, he saw only the central section where he once lived. "Rather run down," was his comment, "but that is inevitable in city growth."

While Churchill visits Mr. and Mrs. Gazzam, both of whom are his relatives, Mrs. Churchill will visit her brother, Louis M. Hall, at Hotel Chase. She was Miss Mabel H. Hall of St. Louis. Shortly before they left home, the temperature at Cornish was 32 below zero. "But it doesn't seem nearly so bad as it sounds," said the author, who is a eulogist of the climate of the Connecticut river valley.

ROBBER CAUGHT WITH CLOTHING

Leaves House in East St. Louis and Finds Officer Awaiting Him.

When Henry Nelson, Negro, came out of the front door at 664 North Thirty-first street, East St. Louis, yesterday, with two suit cases filled with clothing belonging to Charles Terss, he looked at the revolver of Patrolman Louis Tourville and said: "Don't shoot, I give up."

A neighbor had seen Nelson enter a side window and had notified the police. Nelson says he lives at Pensacola, Fla.

REPARATIONS BODY TO ADD TO DAWES PLAN, YOUNG SAYS

Financial Experts Will Have Nothing to Do With Commercial Projects, Spokesman Asserts.

HE AND J. P. MORGAN ACCEPT POSITIONS

General Electric Executive Declares Committee Will Complete Work of Previous Parley on Germany.

By Leased Wire From the New Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Announcement that the financial experts who will consider setlement of Germany's reparations payments "will have nothing to do with any commercialization or means to aid those payments" was made today by Owen D. Young, as spokesman for the unofficial American delegation to the experts committee, in his first official statement. Young is chairman of the board of the General Electric Co.

This announcement appeared to take direct issue with reports from Paris and elsewhere that the appointment of J. P. Morgan to the experts' committee meant he would help to make plans for the flotation of large amounts of reparations bonds, particularly on the American market. Dispatches from Washington previously had indicated that President Coolidge and American bankers had looked with disfavor on any large flotation of such securities in this country.

Young's statement came shortly after he, Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont of the Morgan banking firm assembled in the Morgan library and received from Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador, formal notification of the desire of the powers that Young and Morgan sit on the experts' committee.

Lamont Is Morgan's Alternate.

The invitation was formally accepted at the same time, and Morgan chose as his alternate his junior partner, Lamont. This appointment was forecast last Tuesday. Young said his alternate would be Thomas Nelson Perkins of Boston, who served with him on the Board which drafted the Dawes plan. Perkins, who otherwise would also have been present, was detained in Boston.

The ceremony—that of the invitation and acceptance—lasted about three minutes, after which, Young explained, they spent some time looking at the Morgan collection of valuable manuscripts and volumes. It was agreed that Young should act as spokesman for the American delegation.

The four will leave aboard the Aquitania Feb. 1, and expect to spend 60 to 90 days in Paris.

Young is co-author of the German reparations plan drawn by the Dawes Commission. His own views are that politics and economics must be separated in international relations, and claims transferred from governments to private investors by capitalizing the debts and selling securities. This is a plan already urged by S. Parker Gilbert, whose findings will be valuable to the experts.

Plans to Eliminate 'X.'

"The Committee will not revise the Dawes plan," said Young today. "The total amount Germany might be obligated to pay was not fixed in the Dawes plan because the committee was not authorized to fix it. It remained 'X,' the unknown quantity. Now the present purpose is to eliminate the 'X' and to substitute the total amount owed and to determine the number of annuities in which it can be paid.

"It would create a misunderstanding if the impression exists we are building a new plan. My personal belief is that it is much better to keep the unified and connected plan that we have. It is the purpose of this Committee to complete the Dawes plan, but the Committee will have nothing to do with any commercialization or means to aid those payments.

"The problem is different than before. Then the controversy was great and tinged with bitterness. Everybody disputed statements of facts anybody else presented. Now the tempers of every one concerned will be much smoother, but the controversial aspect may still present some difficulties.

"I think the administration of the Dawes plan by Mr. Gilbert is one of the outstanding achievements the century and Americans ought to be proud that a man of his age could handle it to the praise and applause of the world. I recall that people looked askance when I suggested a boy of 32 for that important post. We have a fine demonstration of what American youth can do, and we know now that we do not have to wait for men to become 50 or 60 years old before trusting them with such problems."

YOUTHFUL CHICAGO OPERA STARS TO BE MARRIED

Marion Claire, Soprano, and Henry G. Weber, Conductor, First Met in Europe.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Announcement was made today of the marriage next Monday of two of the youngest members of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, both of them stars.

Miss Marion Claire, youthful lyric soprano, and Henry G. Weber, the world's youngest opera conductor, are the principals in the romance that had its inception in Europe, where they first met, although both are native Chicagoans.

Miss Claire is the daughter of a Chicago attorney, Horace Wright Cook. Weber attracted attention of the operatic world when, 19 years old, after spending five years studying in Berlin and Vienna, he conducted "the Masked Ball", when the regular conductor was taken suddenly ill. He is the son of a Chicago wagon manufacturer.

stir up trouble for me since last November, when Mrs. Alice Wing was dropped as chief clerk of this office." He would not say, in response to a question, who the persons were.

Mrs. Lesser declared she received no salary from the State and that her only salary was from the Federal department, when she was seen in the St. Louis office today by a Post-Dispatch reporter and asked what salary she received. When asked about the checks that had been issued to her for nine months against the State appropriation, as shown by the State Auditor's books, she said: "I don't know anything about any checks from the State."

No further official action is likely in the case, it was learned. The diversion of funds was a violation of appropriation laws, it was said, as money appropriated for the State cannot legally be expended for any purpose other than for which the fund was appropriated, any action in this connection would be a civil one, and there had been no showing of any personal profit from the diversion, it was said.

Hinkle has been head of the Labor Department for four years, being one of the first appointees named by Gov. Baker at the beginning of his administration. Hinkle was a candidate for reappointment by Gov. Caulfield, and had been indorsed by several railroad brotherhoods. He was a railroad conductor before he was appointed by Baker.

Plan for Channel Tunnel Gaining in Favor in Britain

Informal Poll of Commons Said to Show Large Majority for 60-Year-Old Proposal to Construct Huge Tube.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An informal poll of the House of Commons by Sir William Bull was said today to show that an overwhelming majority of the members favor the many times suggested English Channel tunnel.

When Parliament reassembles Tuesday, Ernest Thurtle, a Laborite, will ask Premier Baldwin when the question can be discussed formally in Parliament.

An even more fascinating proposal than the 60-year-old project for a tunnel, also now under discussion in England, is a 21-mile channel bridge. From it travelers who have suffered the tortures of channel seasickness could laugh at the churning waters that caused them misery.

A channel bridge scheme was outlined 40 years ago. Competent engineers consider such a structure feasible, with structural difficulties only a little greater than throwing great spans across the Hudson River at New York. The channel at its narrowest point is comparatively shallow. St. Paul's Cathedral set down in the middle of it would leave a good part of the dome sticking above the waves.

Military Men Oppose Plan.

But British military strategists, arguing for national security, have violently opposed the bridge project as well as the more practical tunnel through all the decades of discussion.

The question to be decided is whether the World War altered England's splendid isolation as a tight little island. Those who favor the tunnel say this country is directly open to attack from the air and to siege by submarine. If they can convince the military strategists of this, the tunnel project will at last enter the field of practical politics.

Political rather than engineering difficulties always have blocked the channel tunnel. On two occasion s the House of Commons voted in favor of the proposal and work actually started from the English side, but Britain's Committee on Imperial Defense, the last word in military strategy, influenced the Government against the project.

Would Save 90 Minutes.

A channel would save an hour and a half on the trip by steamer from London to Paris. The channel from Dover to Calais is 21 miles wide, and steamers now use about an hour on the passage. In stormy winters such as the present one, the crossings take longer and on some days are suspended altogether.

From Calais a dozen international trains start for points as far away as Constantinope, Italy and Germany If the tunnel were constructed, travelers could enter their railway compartments in London and, with only a change of trains where railway gauges change, as on Russian lines, ride to destinations in three continents.

Unhampered by political problems such as plague the English channel, the Spanish Government has started work on a Gibraltar Straits tunnel linking Spain with Morocco, in Africa.

Gibraltar Tunnel, $50,000,000.

Corretele Las Penas, four miles from Yarifa, has been selected as the site for the Spanish entrance. The Morroccan exit will be chosen next month. The Gibraltar tunnel will cost about $50,000,000.

Boring can start on the Anglo-French channel link just as soon as the British Government removes its objections. France never has opposed the project, for with traditional enemies just across the long frontiers, an undersea tube which could be easily be blocked or even destroyed in case of war presents no terrors.

Commercial companies exist both in England and in France to carry out the tunnel scheme, the cost of which is estimated at $150,000,000. English railways do not oppose the plan, as immense continental traffie would result, and at the same time the railways would save the expense of building and maintaining a fleet of channel steamers.

FOUR MANHOLES BLOW UP; PROVIDENCE, R. I., SHAKEN

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 19.—Four manholes blew up in one of the busiest traffic areas of the city early tonight, shaking buildings within a radius of a quarter of a mile and shattering windows in structures 500 feet from the center of the explosion.

One man sitting at a drug store soda fountain was knocked from his stool by the concussion and suffered nervous shock. Occupants of many structures in the vicinity, most of which are boarding houses or small hotels, were alarmed by the loud report and shaking of the buildings, but there was no panic.

The explosion is believed to have been caused by the ignition of accumulated gas from a leak.

GETZENDANER HORSES PERISH

IMPERIAL, Neb., Jan. 19.—Aviator, the famous jumping horse and 13 other trick and fancy horses owned by the Getzendaner sisters of Champion, Neb., perished here today in a fire that destroyed a box car containing the animals. The horses were being shipped to the west coast where Eleanor Getzendaner and her sister, Lou, planned to exhibit them.

Eleanor Getzendaner and Aviator gained fame at the Chicago horse show of two years ago after Miss Getzendaner hauled the animal all the way from Champion to Chicago in an automobile trailer.

Records at police headquarters show that Reynolds, alias Herbert Foley, giving 3815 Greer avenue as his address, pleaded guilty to a forgery charge Nov. 2, 1927, and was sentenced to serve two years in prison. He and another man had cashed 42 fraudulent checks, it was charged. The records also show that on Nov. 27, 1926, while employed as a cook for Charles Matlock, 3927 Delmar boulevard, he confessed breaking into the Delmar Cafe, 5102 Delmar boulevard, owned by Matlock, and stealing $15. Records show that a warrant was issued in the case, but show no disposition of the charge.

Police records show that Black has been arrested twice, once suspected of robbery, when he was released, and once, charged with carrying concealed weapons. He pleaded guilty to the weapon charge Nov. 11, 1927, and was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Guge has an excellent record as a marksman in the police department.

There was only $10 in the cash register at the time of the attempted robbery, and $47 hidden in the rear of the store. Patryle had placed $71 in a bank at 6 o'clock.

125 KILLED IN CHICAGO BEER FIGHTS IN 9 YEARS

Struggle for Control of Illicit Trade Has Gone on Since Inception of Prohibition.

GANGSTERS ALSO TAKE UP EXTORTION

First Assassination of Note Was That of Jim Colosimo in 1920, Latest Patsy Lolordo.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Competition for the beer customer's quarter and for the other emoluments of illicit trade has resulted in the killing of more than 125 Chicago gangsters in the nine years since the advent of prohibition.

In 1920, after the assassination of Jim Colosimo, there arose, police said, an efficient organization under Colosimo's lieutenant, Johnny Torrio, who later turned a developed beer and gambling business over to his lieutenant, "Scarface Al" Capone. Torrio, wounded in a pistol fight with rivals, deserted the trade in the hope of a natural death.

O'Banion-Capone Split.

Both Torrio and Capone had been New York gangsters. Capone, who was 19 when he came to Chicago from a Coney Island cafe, had received "hash marks" in the service of the Brooklyn "Five Points" gand that labeled him "Scarface Al."

A group headed by Dion O'Banion broke away from the Capone and Torrio influence and took control of the beer business of the North Side, while Capone branched into Cicero and developed a gambling syndicate, from which O'Banion and "Little Hymie" Weiss, North Siders, extracted a percentage tribute for the price of peace.

Then entered the interesting Genna boys.

Angelo, chief of this ill-starred group of five brothers who conducted 15 stills in the Italian West Side, went to Capone's "ship" one night in 1924, lost his money and left $30,000 in notes with the cashier of the dice game and, report continued. Capone gave O'Banion the notes for his "cut," and bad blood, it was said, developed when O'Banion tried to collect.

The Death of O'Banion.

Nov. 10, 1924, Angelo telephoned O'Banion and told him some friends were coming over to his flower shop, run in conjunction with the beer business, to purchase $10,000 worth of floral pieces for Mike Merle, dead Italian leader. The three appeared promptly, and while one held O'Banion's gun hand in friendly greeting, the two others shot him. The florist-gunman's obsequies ushered in the era of "swanky" funerals for gangsters. His body was interred in a $10,000 bronze coffin, and the floral offerings gave employment to several draymen.

A few months later, Angelo Genna was found shot to death. He had $30,000 cash in his pocket. In June, Mike Genna was killed in a pistol fight with two policemen who also died.

Ambush of Hymie Weiss.

A few weeks later, Tony Genna was found in a prairie, shot to death. Two other brothers fled to cover, one throwing himself on the police, the other going to Sicily. The feud continued for two years, with minor slayings and culminated in the spectacular assassination of Hymie Weiss, O'Banion's successor, who was ambushed by machine gunners in front of Holy Name Cathedral in North State street, Oct. [illegible] 1926. Machine guns sent a spray of bullets from above O'Banion's old florist shop at Weiss and companions, an attorney and three others were wounded. Another leader of this band, "[illegible]hemer" Drucci, died ingloriously at the hands of a policeman.

Other spectacular events punctuated the period. Eddie Tancl, dive keeper, was slain in a fight with [illegible]es O'Donnell and Eddie Dougherty, beer merchants who had lost Tancl's trade to Capone after delivering him some inferior liquor. Dougherty and O'Donnell were tried and acquitted of the killing because "Tancl fired first." William McSwiggin, young assistant to State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, prosecuted them.

Prosecutor's Aid Slain.

Shortly afterward, McSwiggin, Dougherty and another gangster were slain with machine guns when riding in Cicero. Police said McSwiggin's death probably had been a "mistake." The Coroner's jury in the McSwiggin case has never been dismissed.

Much of the gang killing in the last two years has been charged by some to "racketeering," a fancy name for any variety of extortion and polite robbery under the guise of business organization. Politics, has claimed the important assassinations of recent date, chief among them "Diamond [illegible]" Esposito, voluntary worker in the faction of the Republican party headed by United States Senator Charles S. Deneen.

"Big Tim" Murphy, long famous in labor politics, was assassinated, it is said, for trying to get in on unionist organization funds.

Noisy Jazz Opera, Aided By Auto, Radio and Phone, Opens at Metropolitan

SINGS IN JAZZ OPERA

FLORENCE EASTON.

'Jonny Spielt Auf' Has Weird Music and Much Drum-Thumping — Locomotive Appears in One Scene.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Jazz, accompanied by all the queer, angular shapes, the metallic glitters and the staccato, machine-made noises of this strident age from which it has sprung, crashed through the Olympian portals of the Metropolitan Opera House tonight. It was the American Premier of the widely discussed "Jonny Spieit Auf," which may be freely translated as "Johnny Steps Out."

There was some highly inspiriting dance music, a bit of "Suwanee river," much thumping of drums, and strange duets.

There was a kaleidoscopic procession of chauffeurs, vacuum cleaners, bellhops, hotel elevators, telephones, newspapers, a radio loud speaker, a locomotive, an automobile, and the Metropolitan ballet doing the Charleston in Winter Garden costumes while somebody threw ticker tape.

First Setting Is Glacial.

When the first curtain went up, there were Rudolf Laubenthal, in plus-fours, and Florence Easton, in an ultra-smart angora winter sports costume, climbing up into one of the most beautiful glaciers ever set up on any stage. They sang about Urban's scenery for awhile and were next seen in the prima donna's sitting room, fitted out with the last word in modern furniture.

Miss Easton was now arrayed in chic gray traveling ensemble, and Laubenthal wore spats and a double-breasted brown business suit. Soon a chauffeur whose leggings outshone anything ever seen on Park avenue, came in and got Miss Easton's bags, and she went away to Paris.

Next Miss Easton—as Anita, the beautiful opera singer — strolled into the corridor of a sumptuous hotel. Offstage the 12-piece jazz orchestra, which Giulio Gatti-Casazza hired to supplement his own orchestra's two saxophones, was doing its work.

Jonny Just a Playboy.

Into this set danced Jonny himself, a most agile and impudent fellow, whose face was smeared with burnt cork. His Negro make-up was paterned after that used by Al Jolson, who was in the audience and had given suggestions. Michael Bohnen, baritone, sang Jonny.

Jonny's advances — exceedingly conservative and somehow lacking in sincerity—were instantly repulsed.

Bohnen did some tap dancing, played the saxophone, hopped over furniture and in and out windows, for all the world like Peter Pan, and stood on top of a grand piano to sing one of his arias.

A Vacuum Cleaner Obligato.

Another sprightly character was Yvonne, a chambermaid, tonight sung by Editha Fleischer, contralto. When she came on to sing one of her principal arias, she dragged a vacuum cleaner behind her and proceeded to clean things up a bit while she sang.

Anita, it seemed, was not quite true while in Paris to the young man waiting for her in front of the glacier. Here entered Daniello, the violin virtuoso, sung by Friedrich Schorr in evening clothes and a monocle. And there was one entrancing set back in the mountains, where the gentleman in the double-breasted business suit picked up the telephone and, in the best tenor, inquired in German whether the Paris train was on time.

Eventually she went back to him —her Max, the composer—and they eloped to America. Daniello was run over by the highly advertised locomotive, which belched steam out of the back stage heating pipes just as the advance notices said it would.

The staid Metropolitan crowd seemed to enjoy the sprightly opera, so different from its usual bill of fare, and called the performers back for 10 curtain calls at the end of the first act.

Besides Mrs. Phelps, he is survived by his mother, a daughter and three brothers, who live at Salisbury, and a son, Lieut. Joseph Phelps, stationed at Fort Sill, Ok.

History of Robbery Case in Which Baldwin Escaped Prison

Sylvester Baldwin, then an ex-convict, was sentenced to the State Penitentiary for five years for a $31.50 holdup of Roy Smith, a laundry wagon driver, in 1924. His lawyer, Jones Parker, who had been an assistant under Circuit Attorney Sidener, appealed the conviction, but Division No. 2 of the Missouri Supreme Court affirmed it.

While Parker was trying to obtain a rehearing, Sidener wrote to the court, saying that a review of the case and perusal of affidavits obtained after the trial by Parker, "convinced him" that Baldwin was not guilty.

The affidavits were made, two years after the crime, one by Smith, who said he sometimes felt he was mistaken in his identification of Baldwin and three by policemen, who swore they saw Baldwin in a saloon at the time of the holdup. A rehearing was granted, and once more the conviction was affirmed.

Because one Judge dissented, however, the case was sent to the Supreme Court in banc and argued twice. The first time the Judges failed to agree. On June 27, 1927, the Court reversed and remanded the case for a new trial, holding that Baldwin had not received a fair trial.

No action was taken by Sidener until last Dec. 28, when he dismissed the charge against Baldwin, in clearing up his dockets before retiring from office.

A week later Baldwin and two other ex-convicts, one a bank robber, were arrested in a liquor raid on the Wellston resort, of which Baldwin had become proprietor. They were questioned about a series of recent bank robberies in the St. Louis district, and were released for lack of evidence.

Both Are Injured and Taken to Alexian Brothers' Hospital; Machine Continues on Way.

Two men were injured when walking on Lemay Ferry road near Mehlville last night when struck by lumber which protruded from a passing truck. The truck continued south without stopping.

The injured men, John Hickison and Floyd Beebe, both of 1443 North Eighteenth street, were taken to Alexian Brothers Hospital. Hickison suffered a broken leg and head injury. Beebe a fractured pelvis and head injury.

WALSH RAKES SINCLAIR LEASE

Senator's Report Criticises Renewal of Contract by Work.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A report criticising the renewal of the Sinclair contract for royalty oil from the Salt Creek field was submitted to the Senate Lands Committee today by Senator Walsh (Dem.), Montana.

Hearings of the committee showed that Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior, granted the renewal a year ago on the recommendation of the solicitor of the Interior Department. The lease was declared void last October by the Department of Justice. The committee will consider the report later.

HAID, NEW ON BENCH, TAKES PRECEDENCE OVER BECKER

George F. Haid, appointed by Gov. Caulfield to succeed Judge Charles H. Daues on the bench of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, presented his commission and was sworn in by Judge William Dee Becker yesterday.

Under a constitutional provision, Judge Haid becomes presiding Judge of the court, although Judge Becker has served one full term of 12 years and is beginning his second. This provision requires that the presiding judgeship shall go to the member who has held for the longest period a license to practice law. Judge Haid's license dates from 1898; Judge Becker's from 1901. The St. Louis court is the only appellate tribunal in the United States governed by such a provision.

When Judge Daues assumed office eight years ago he became presiding Judge, although , and Judge Becker were graduated from law school at the same time. It happened that Daues obtained his license a year earlier than Becker. The third member of the court is Judge Simon G. Nipper.

Judge Daues resigned recently to resume the practice of law. His term has four years to run, but Judge Haid will serve only until Jan. 1, 1931, the law providing that an appointment to fill a vacancy may last only until the next general election.

CITY WILL FIGHT GAS RATE RISE AS UNREASONABLE

Prepares to Carry to Courts, Decision Giving Laclede Nearly Everything It Asked for.

The courts will be resorted to by the city, if necessary, in the attempt to block the Public Service Commission's order of last Thursday granting the Laclede Gas Light Co. an increase in gas rates which comes within 5½ cents a customer of giving the company all that it had asked for except in the case of a small group of customers less than 10 per cent of the total.

City Counselor Muench announced yesterday that a motion for a rehearing of the case would be filed with the Public Service Commission and that if that should fail an appeal would be taken to the Circuit Court, which would be asked to review the entire proceeding.

On the basis of the minimum and maximum rates approved by the commission it is disclosed that under the new rates approximately 90 per cent of the gas users would pay increased monthly bills only 5½ cents less than the amount requested by the company. The few not coming in this class are those using less than 400 cubic feet of gas a month and that their maximum saving under the allowed rate as compared with the one sought would be 15 cents a month.

Proposed New Rates and the Old.

The new rates, as has been told, provide for a minimum monthly charge of 75 cents which would pay for only 300 cubic feet of gas, and a maximum charge of 95 cents a thousand feet for additional consumption.

The present maximum rate is $1 a thousand feet with a minimum of 50 cents a month, the minimum paying for its pro rata, or 500 cubic feet of gas. The universal application of the 75-cent initial charge for only 300 feet has the effect of adding appreciably to the bills of all consumers except a few of the largest commercial and industrial users and house heating customers.

Muench's Statement.

The City Counselor's statement follows:

"After a careful study of the Public Service Commission's order of Jan. 15 allowing the Laclede Gas Light Co. an increase of approximately $700,000 in its charges against the householders of the city, we are of the opinion that the order discriminates unfairly against the householder in favor of the luxury users of gas and, unless it is modified on rehearing, propose to take the case to the courts for final determination.

"The result of the order, so far as the domestic user of gas is concerned, is as follows:

Cu. Ft.	Present Mon. Bill	New Mon. Bill	Inc. in Mon. Bill	Pct of Inc.

Small User Hardest Hit.

"In other words, every householder whose bill does not now exceed $8 per month will be subject to an increase, varying from 1 to 88 per cent. The practical effect of this increase will be to saddle a heavier burden on the householder, who is a user from necessity and must remain connected to the service, in order that the comany may offer an attractive rate to the owners of gas-heating plants, who are strictly luxury nsers.

"The evidence in this proceeding showed that 87 per cent of all the consumers use not to exceed 4000 cubic feet per month, which makes their bill under the present rate not in excess of $4. Of the company's 197,000 customers, 166,000, or about 85 per cent, contribute approximately 91 per cent of the revenue. It is apparent, therefore, that the decrease in rates to the few large consumers is at the expense of the consumer, who has built up the company's present business, and without whose business the company could not exist.

"Notwithstanding the fact that it is the household consumer who has created whatever going value the company has, he will, under the commission's order, be obliged to pay on an allowance for going value out of all proportion to allowances made in other cases. He will be required to pay the company 7.5 per cent on a going value of $5,800,000, which will yield $435,000 per annum. This is in addition to the return he is already required to pay the company on the value of its tangible property, which, when appraised as the property of a going concern, and not as abandoned property.

"A comparison of the new rates authorized with the rates prevailing in St. Louis County will show that, although the county company operates under greater difficulties and has not the same number of customers to a mile of mains, our rates are higher. If a competitor can furnish gas at a certain rate at a profit in adjoining territory, it would seem reasonable to presume that the company here ought to be able to furnish it at the same rate, or less.

Conflicting Statements.

"As pointed out by Commissioner Calfee in his dissenting opinion, the position taken by the company in the valuation hearing is inconsistent with that taken in the last hearing on the matter of depreciation. In the first case, the company said its property was practically 100 per cent perfect, and, in the last, they asked for a large increase in the depreciation allowance, because of the large amount of accrued depreciation.

"There are various other respects in which the commission failed to give proper consideration to the city's contentions, in our opinion, such, for instance, as the failure to charge the company with any interest on balances in the depreciation fund, although the company, for a great many years, has either put these balances out on interest, or has used them in its business, and should have credited the amount with interest at the prevailing rate.

"A motion for rehearing will be filed in due course."

The commission's order fixed the valuation of the company's gas department property upon which it is entitled to earn a return of 7½ per cent at $47,000,000 as of Dec. 31, 1927. This was $1,522,000 less than the previously recognized valuation of $48,522,000 based upon $45,600,000 as of Oct. 1, 1925 and claimed additions and betterments of $2,922,000.

In the hearing of the case the City atacked the valuation, seeking partticularly a reduction of $3,906,000 in the amount of $5,818,000 claimed for going value.

The City and the company have 10 days from the date the order was issued to file motions or appeals. The company has not yet indicated whether or not it will accept the order as issued.

WHAT GAS COMPANY ASKED FOR AND WHAT IT GOT FROM COMMISSION

THE following table shows how closely the increased gas rates approach the maximum increase asked for by the Laclede Gas Light Co., in its application to the State Public Service Commission. It will be noted that except for a small group of consumers using less than 400 cubic feet a month the increase is only 5½ cents a customer less than the amount asked for by the company.

Cu. Ft. Used month	Bill at rate company wtd.	Bill at rate granted	Amt less than asked for
300	.90	.75	.15
400	.90	.84½	.05½
500	.99½	.94	.05½
600	1.09	1.03½	.05½
700	1.18½	1.13	.05½
1200	1.66	1.60½	.05½
1500	1.94½	1.89	.05½
4000	4.32	4.26½	.05½
5500	5.74½	5.69	.05½
7000	7.17	7.11½	.05½
7800	7.93	7.87½	.05½

Wherever the fractions occur the company would get an additional cent and then its bill would be only five cents short of what it had hoped to get.

heritage of the great war, for in these all humanity can unite in a common satisfaction and a common inspiration.

"I rejoice also in the assistance that the continuing activities of the relief organization have been able to give to the advancement of education in Belgium. It is a memorial of a great period which brings every year a new harvest and satisfaction.

"I thank Your Majesties, the Prime Minister and other friends for their renewed expressions of good will to myself and my associates and to my country. It marks an enduring friendship for it springs from the hearts of men. It finds deep response in my countrymen."

King Speaks in English.

Hoover spoke first and King Albert followed, speaking in English. When the King had concluded, Hoover replied:

"Your Majesty, may I express again my hopes for the continued health and happiness of Your Majesties. And may I add again my hope for the prosperity of Belgium."

The text of King Albert's address as made public here follows:

"I congratulate most sincerely the President-elect of the United States, to whom a great Nation has, through an imposing vote, intrusted the leadership of its destinies. The United States of America, which extend from one ocean to another, combine the splendid development of industrial technique and production with the noblest solicitude for universal peace.

"The Kellogg past has brought forward an ideal of high international morality. It is the duty of all interested nations to maintain this ideal unblemished.

'Belgium Will Never Forget.'

"Belgium will never forget the help given by Mr. Hoover to her people suffering in the throes of the great war. He was the soul of their relief amidst the greatest political, maritime and economic difficulties. In the name of the Belgian people I express our sympathy and feelings of the great American who has well deserved the title which none other has yet obtained, of 'Friend of Belgium'."

Hoover's words were made audible to his friends overseas by means of amplifiers. The address of the King was brought back to him over both the radio and the telephone, and was heard very distinctly by means of a special set-up placed in his headquarters.

Makes Fat People Slim

New York Physician Perfects Simple and Easy Method of Reducing Weight.

Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician, of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without unnecessary change of diet or burdensome exercise. He also says that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. The Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth avenue, New York City, Dept. R.

KEPT NO BOOKS, SAYS FORGETFUL BANKRUPT

Larrie Deppe, Associate in Chain Stores, Can't Remember His Receipts.

"My memory is bad. Things just go through one ear and out the other. You can go back and ask my school teacher," Larrie Deppe, 26-year-old secretary of the bankrupt Cutler Mercantile Co., testified yesterday before Referee Walter Grant in the Federal Court at East St. Louis at an examination to determine the assets of a chain store corporation which did not make money.

Last May Larrie Deppe, with his brother, Everett, as president and his brother, Claude, as vice president, incorporated the firm and established stores at Cutler, Sparta, New Athens and Steelville, Ill.

Jan. 12 creditors filed an involuntary petition, but the Deppe Brothers filed a voluntary petition two days later, listing their debts at $69,297 and their assets at $46,766, valuing their stock and equipment at $28,600. They scheduled $64,297 in unpaid debts to more than 100 wholesalers.

Larrie Deppe testified that "special sales" had been conducted a week before the bankruptcy proceeding but he couldn't recall what days. Each week he took the receipts from the New Athens store to his brother, Everett, but he never counted the money and didn't remember the amounts.

"I cashed checks for customers that I didn't know," the secretary said. "I went by their faces."

"How did you know they were good?" he was asked by H. A. Glieck, counsel for creditors. "I didn't. You can never tell until you try to cash them," the witness replied.

A cash register in the New Athens store was "just a place to put the money," Larrie Deppe said. It had no key and kept no record of sales. He could not remember what the store took in on any one day.

The witness said he "believed" the first time he discussed bankruptcy action with his brothers was the night before the involuntary petition was filed and he didn't remember talking before about it.

Everett Deppe said the firm had only $8 in cash in two bank accounts, but no books were kept, and if a customer owed a bill the amount was marked on a scrap of wrapping paper, which was then stuck on a nail.

After being reminded by Gleick, he admitted his mother-in-law got $93 worth of merchandise two weeks ago and his wife cashed a check made to himself for $125. He was not able to remember his mother-in-law's first name. After being reminded, he remembered returning 30 dresses shipped on consignment to a dealer who was listed as a creditor. He said the creditor had sued him.

LUDENDORFF DUPED IN GOLD BRICK GAME; SWINDLERS HELD

German General Advanced Money to 'Alchemists,' Plumber and Barmaid.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—A strange story of how Gen. Eric Ludendorff was duped by "alchemists" was told today in the Tageblatt, which says that it came to light through the arrest in the Tyrol of Franz Tausend, a former plumber's assistant, and Therese Tausend, a barmaid, on a charge of swindling.

It appears the Tausends visited Gen. Ludendorff and told him of plans for founding a "Society for Chemical Studies," which would make gold in accordance with a process invented by Franz, who called himself a doctor of chemistry and a nobleman. They showed the General some bars of gold which they said they had made.

The Tageblatt says Gen. Ludendorff was taken in, and hoped with his manufactured gold to free Germany from foreign financial suzerainty. With Ludendorff's aid, the Tausends raised money for erecting a laboratory near Munich, where experiments were alleged to have been carried on. Then one morning, the newspaper says, Tausend disappeared with a large sum of money.

TWO CHARGED WITH MURDER IN 'TWILIGHT SLEEP' DEATH

Father of Victim Signs Complaints Against Women Heads of Girls' Home.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 19.—Charges of second degree murder and manslaughter were filed today against Bertha Lips and Dr. Evelyn Frisbie in connection with the death of Helen Haskew, 18 years old, inmate of the New Mexico Girl's Welfare Home, following forcible administration of "twilight sleep."

Miss Lips, superintendent of the home, and Dr. Frisbie, medical advisor, resigned yesterday, following a legislative investigation of conditions at the institution.

S. B. Haskew, 68, of Portales, N. M., father of the girl, signed the complaints against the two women. Bonds were fixed at $3000 each.

Haskew's daughter was one of six girls who ran away from the home and was placed on a diet of bread and water and given an injection of "twilight sleep" after their recapture last Friday. She died at the home Sunday.

NINE GROCERS HELD UP; TOTAL LOSS IS $1323

$500 Taken at One Place, $300 at Another—Kroger Manager Kidnaped.

Ten robberies, in which the loot totaled about $1400 in cash, were reported between 6 and 9 o'clock last night. Grocers were victims of nine of the robberies. Their total loss was $1323. Four of the robberies were at Kroger stores.

At the grocery of Edward Herr, 5218 Kansas street, two men obtained $500, and at the grocery of Samuel Lachterman, 1525 South Seventh street, $300.

George Klinghamer, manager of the Kroger store, 2700 Madison avenue, was held up as he locked the door of the store and taken in an automobile to Twenty-third street and Maiden lane, where two robbers took $103 and ejected him from the machine. Other Kroger robberies were at 4028 North Newstead avenue, $134; 1448 Dodier street, $10, and 3165 North Eleventh street, $30.

Other grocers robbed were: Sam Katz, 1936 Morgan street, $210; Mrs. Ida Schram, 3138 Sheridan avenue, $8; 3134 Easton avenue, $28.

William Langelle, bakery truck driver, of 4015 Papin street, was held up at Sarah and Papin streets and robbed of $43.

$500 REWARD OFFERED FOR RETURN OF COLLIE

Some dogcatcher can collect $500 in the next two days if he will bring Jerry, a 3-year-old brown and white collie, to the insurance office of James Miller, 1423 Cass avenue.

Jerry is the property of Joe Stanton, a wealthy cattle buyer of Salt Lake City and he disappeared from Stanton's custody on Armistice Day while Miller and Stanton talked over the cattle business.

According to his owner there is little in Jerry's pedigree to warrant the large reward. But a 3-year-old son, Joe junior, in Salt Lake City has grown up with Jerry and would like to see him again.

GOVERNOR VISITS GRANDSON

Mr. Henry Caulfield Barkadale is entertaining his grandparents, Gov. and Mrs. Caulfield, over the week-end.

The young man, who is nearly three days old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barksdale of 6015 Pershing avenue, and is with his mother at St. Louis Maternity Hospital. He is the first grandson of the new Governor, who will be back at his desk in Jefferson City tomorrow.

GEORGE H. PLANT DIES; MILLING FIRM EX-HEAD

Former President of St. Louis Merchants' Exchange Succumbs at 81.

The passing of a veteran and distinguished figure of the milling industry occurred with the death yesterday of George H. Plant, former president of the George P. Plant Milling Co. and one-time president of the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange. Mr. Plant, who was 81 years old, died at his home, 29 South Jefferson road, Webster Groves, at 7 a. m., following a long illness which recently was complicated by paralysis.

The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Entering the business at the age of 18, in 1866, Mr. Plant represented the second generation of what came to be a sort of Plant milling dynasty. The milling company was organized by his uncle, George P. Plant, in 1842. Samuel Plant, brother of George P. and father of George H., was a partner. George H. succeeded his uncle as president in 1873. Under his management the mill became one of the largest concerns of the kind ever operated in St. Louis or Missouri. He remained at the head of the organization until 1920 when he retired after 54 years of service. Management was then carried on by his son, Samuel Plant, as vice president, until sale of the business to a Southwestern syndicate two years ago.

The original mill, known as the "frame front mill" because an error in surveying made it impossible to erect a brick wall in front, stood at Broadway and Franklin avenue and was occupied for 44 years. In 1884, a new mill was erected at Main street and Chouteau avenue, and about 10 years ago this was remodeled into one of the most modern plants of the kind.

In former years, Mr. Plant, like his uncle before him, was active as a member of the Merchants' Exchange and served as president in 1907. The uncle was president in 1869 and the younger Samuel Plant was president in 1924. Last December, George H. Plant was voted an honorary member of the Exchange because of his long activity and the fact that his family had supplied three presidents. In his memory, a minute of silence was observed on the Exchange floor yesterday.

Besides his son, Mr. Plant is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Alby Horton of Webster Groves, and two sisters, Mrs. George F. Meyer and Mrs. Carrie Aderton, both of St. Louis. His wife whom he married in 1869, died some 20 years ago.

What Every Wife Wants

Every wife and mother dreams of a home of her own. Perhaps her husband has a sufficient amount to make a reasonable down payment on a home, or perhaps he has no savings. In either event a home is procurable under the Economy Plan. The only difference is one of time. The results are certain if one has the character and capacity to save regularly a portion of one's income.

INJUNCTION TIES UP SERVICE CAR LICENSING

City Barred From Enforcing Ordinance Till Supreme Court Passes on it.

The restraining order granted by Circuit Judge Hamilton yesterday, will prevent the city department of Streets and Sewers from issuing licenses to service car drivers and forcing them to insure their passengers against death or injury, Robert B. Brooks, director of the department said.

Judge Hamilton, who had previously overruled a motion for an injunction against the department, to prevent enforcement of an ordinance ordering licenses and insurance, yesterday upheld a motion for a temporary restraining order to be in force until the Missouri Supreme Court had ruled on the motion for an injunction. He upheld the motion for the restraining order at the same time he granted a motion for an appeal from his earlier decision against the service car drivers.

The suits were filed in the name of Senter A. Rohlfing, president of the St. Louis Service Car Drivers' Union, a subsidiary of the American Federation of Labor, and the organization which is heading the opposition to the ordinance. Members of the St. Louis Service Car Drivers' Association, who operate on Washington and Delmar boulevards, are in favor of the ordinance.

Brooks had planned to issue licenses under the new law, beginning Feb. 1, but now will have to wait until the Supreme Court passes on the matter, he said.

Harry Cantwell, attorney for Rohlfing and the union told Judge Hamilton he had an informal promise that the Supreme Court would advance the service car case on its docket.

STEWART, CLAIMING NEW YORK SUPPORT, HEADS FOR CHICAGO

Rockefeller Spokesman Says He Believes Neither Side Has Decisive Majority.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Col. Robert W. Stewart, whom John D. Rockefeller Jr. is seeking to oust as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, left here today for Chicago, still confident that victory will be his when the stockholders meet to decide the issue on March 7. Before leaving, Col. Stewart said he had "received assurances of support while here."

At the Rockefeller offices it was stated that the forces opposed to Col. Stewart are "entirely satisfied" with the progress of this war of business titans. Some observers believe that the battle still is an open one and that "anyone may win." A Rockefeller spokesman said he believed "neither side has a decisive majority at this time."

CHICAGOANS AT LAST HEAR GANNA WALSKA

Wife of Harold McCormick Gives Concert After Four Canceled Dates.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Mme. Ganna Walska sang today, and satisfied the curiosity of Chicagoans whom she had disappointed four times in the last five years by failing to appear in scheduled performances.

A cross-section of Chicago social registerites, music lovers and curiosity seekers filled Orchestra Hall to capacity this afternoon when she appeared in a concert program.

Fellow townsmen of her wealthy husband, Harold McCormick, gave Mme. Walska a tremendous ovation as she advanced to the footlights at the opening of the program. When she completed her first selection, Bach's "Kaffee Kantata," the sympathy of the whole audience for her apparent nervousness flowed toward the stage in a burst of tremendous applause.

The setting for her program was bare except for the grand piano. The Polish diva wore a white satin medieval gown, with a low hanging berthe encrusted with beads, a flowing train and long, tight sleeves. Her hair was dressed in an old-fashioned coiffure much like Jenny Lind's.

The program, divided into four parts, was made up mostly of German compositions and other chamber music. Her nervousness during the first part of the performance gave way to confidence, and she gathered courage as she went on. Her voice was sweet but in the opinion of critics it is better adapted to lullabies and ballads than to operatic arias. Her closest approach to operatic music was in her rendition of a selection from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Snegourochka." She seemed much at home in the foreign ballads, but when she interpolated two light nursery songs in English her lack of ease in the language was obvious.

DANCER WHO WAS BESIEGED ON YACHT SUES FOR $250,000

Frances Porter Charges Atlanta Man Caused False Arrest in Havana and Ruined Her Career.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—Suit for $250,000 damages was filed in Superior Court today by attorneys for Miss Frances Porter, Atlanta dancer, against Conkey P. Whitehead, Atlanta sportsman, for alleged humiliation and destruction of her theatrical career.

The petition charges Whitehead humiliated her by causing her to be falsely arrested at Havana, that he used "vile language" in addressing her, and that he was rude in his behavior and treated her "mean" on a recent cruise of his yacht to Havana. It is also alleged Whitehead had agreed to back the young woman in a theatrical career and that they were to be married after the sportsman had obtained a divorce, but that he refused to carry out his promises.

On the yacht trip, Whitehead swore out a warrant for her arrest in Havana, charging she had struck him with a shoe heel and stuck pins in him. Miss Porter defied Cuban authorities to remove her from the yacht, while Whitehead took up residence at a hotel. She finally was taken to a Florida port on the vessel.

HUGO STINNES JR. ACCUSED OF ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD

Alleged to Have Tried by Deceit to Get Germany to Redeem War Securities.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The public prosecutor today forwarded to the Berlin Provincial Court a complete record of the charges against Hugo Stinnes Jr., and others with a demand that Stinnes be tried by jury for "attempting frauds upon the State." The trial will be held probably in March.

The charge asserts that Stinnes placed large sums at the disposal of his private secretary, Von Waldow, with which the latter bought German Empire war loan securities in London, and that later fraudulent attempts were made to have the stock registered here as having been in unchanged ownership since before the German revolution, this being essential for its redemption.

DEFUNCT POWER TRUCK CO. HAS $3443, RECEIVER SAYS

Other Assets of Firm Which Failed in 1923 Are Worthless, Fred G. Schmoll Reports.

Fred G. Schmoll, receiver of the defunct Power Truck and Tractor Co., reported to Circuit Judge Rosskopf yesterday that he had on hand $3443.61 in cash belonging to the company. The only other "assets," according to his report, are notes for $7500, which he considers worthless, and a claim for $233,000 against the company's former president, Pryor G. Craven, who the receiver considers "judgmentproof."

The company failed in 1923 after some 3000 investors had purchased shares totaling $650,000. Stockholders petitioning for the receivership accused the officers, particularly Craven, of mismanagement. The factory was at 5500 Goodfellow avenue.

Viola Dana Sues for Divorce.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19.—Viola Dana, film actress, today filed suit for divorce against Maurice ("Lefty") Flynn, actor and former Yale football star. She charged her husband with habitual intoxication and said he stayed away from home for months at a time. They were married June 20, 1925, and separated last September.

PORTES GIL WILL CONTINUE TO ENFORCE RELIGIOUS LAWS

Mexican President Says, However, Family May Hold Services in Home If Without Priest.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—President Portes Gil, at his regular Saturday interview with foreign correspondents, today confirmed a warning by the Acting Secretary of the Interior to the effect that the Government would continue to enforce strict observance of the religious laws.

He pointed out, however, that it was not a violation of the law when a family conducts religious services in its home without the presence of a priest and without the attendance of guests. He added that no negotiations were in progress for settlement of the religious question.

The President said a special session of Congress would be convoked, probably early in February, to enact a new labor law, as soon as the draft of it is completed.

He also announced that the first of his program of athletic festivals, designed to interest the Mexican people in sports, would be held in Mexico City Jan. 27.

Thirteen "cultural centers" are being created in the Federal District, he said, to provide uplifting entertainment for the humble classes, to stimulate their interest in music and literature in order to separate them from vice centers and to educate them away from the drink habit.

VOTE ON NOMINATION OF WEST TOMORROW

With Only Six More Weeks to Serve, Confirmation Is Virtually Assured.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—After remaining in closed executive session for five hours, the Senate late today, agreed to vote at 2:30 p. m., Monday on the nomination of Roy O. West of Chicago to be Secretary of the Interior.

West's confirmation is virtually assured. Senators Gerald P. Nye (N. D.) and George W. Norris (Neb.), both Republicans who have led the fight against confirmation because of West's admitted business connections with Samuel Insull, Chicago utility magnate, have been disheartened by the apparent lack of interest displayed by the Senate over the nomination and their own failure to have the debates in open session.

Nye and Norris have insisted that the public should know what is taking place in the executive session. As a result the poll on the confirmation probably will be made public.

Many Senators have indicated that they will vote for the confirmation because West has only about six weeks more to serve in the Coolidge Cabinet and has not been prominently mentioned for reappointment by President-elect Hoover. He has already assured the Public Lands Committee that if the committee wishes he will not participate in decisions of the Federal Power Commission of which heis an ex-officio member, in cases involving the Insull interests, particularly the application for a lease of Cumberland Falls, Ky.

In the closed executive session today, both Norris and Nye spoke against confirmation. The Senate will meet at noon Monday in closed executive session and the debate will probably be on the West nomination until the vote is taken.

THREE INDICTED FOR MURDER OF AGED MASCOUTAH HERMIT

Two of Men Held at Belleville Have Admitted Part in Killing of Justus Nungesser.

Indictments charging murder have been returned by the grand jury at Belleville against Raymond Rensing, 19-year-old coal miner, and Valentine Harpstreit, 27, a saloonkeeper, both of New Baden, and Elmer Lindner, 26, of Trenton, who are in jail at Belleville.

The men are charged with the shooting of Justus Nungesser, well-to-do recluse, on his farm near Mascoutah, last Sept. 9. Lindner has confessed that he took the two others to Nungesser's farm and waited on the highway in an automobile. Rensing admitted he and Harpstreit killed the farmer when he resisted robbery, but Harpstreit has denied knowledge of the crime.

$37,000 TO GIVE CITY STRIP TO WIDEN NORTH BROADWAY

Bond Issue Funds Will Purchase Land and Pay for Part of Paving.

The city will pay into Circuit Court tomorrow $37,000, which will enable it to take possession of a strip along the west side of North Broadway, for one and three-quarters miles between Morin avenue and Hall's Ferry road, to widen the thoroughfare to 80 feet Bond issue funds will supply the money and meet part of the cost of repavement. The remainder of the paving cost, which has not been estimated, will be assessed against property owners.

Much of the section to be widened is only 60 feet wide at present. A strip 2962 feet long is to be taken from the entire eastern edge of Bellefontaine Cemetery, which extends between Morin and Calvary avenues, and another long strip from the eastern edge of the adjacent Calvary Cemetery.

A public hearing will be conducted by the Board of Public Service on Feb. 14 to determine how the widened street shall be improved. One plan provides for a 25-foot separate strip on the west side, for the length of the cemeteries, with a 45-foot roadway and a 10-foot sidewalk on the east side. An alternate scheme is for a 60-foot street, with the tracks in the center and paved, and a 10-foot sidewalk on each side. Smooth-cut granite blocks will be used for the surface.

The city desires to complete the project this spring or summer. Broadway's traffic is growing, due to the new Alton twin bridges and more vehicles will go that way when the new Chain of Rocks bridge is opened.

POLICE PENSION BILL DRAWN UP BY ACTUARY IS PLANNED

Board of Estimate, Chief and Other Officials Meet to Consider Planned Legislation.

A police pension bill for submission to the Legislature, drafted by an actuary employed by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, was discussed by that municipal body, the Police Board, Chief of Police Gerk, representatives of the Comptroller's office and the Bureau of Municipal Research, and the actuary, George Buck of New York, at a meeting at City Hall yesterday.

Those participating will give further consideration to the measure and will meet again Wednesday. Until all interested officials are in agreement concerning it, details will not be made public. The Board of Estimate it will be recalled, opposed the initiative measure for a police pension, sponsored by the Police Board, which the people of Missouri voted down last November. The city agreed to co-operate in what it considered would be a fair pension scheme and employed Buck at an expense of $4000.

Speaker Parker of the State House of Representatives, a St. Louisan, was at yesterday's meeting and indicated he would be friendly toward the proposed bill and help it through legislative channels. He did not commit himself to the particular measure under discussion or agree to introduce it. Chief objection of the Board of Estimate to the defeated plan was that it did not have an actuarial survey as a basis.

DR. J. J. BOLTON DIES IN MASONIC HOME AT AGE OF 98

Confederate Veteran Practiced Medicine at Williamsburg, Mo., Before Coming Here in 1927.

Dr. J. J. Bolton, 98 years old, the oldest resident at the Masonic Home, 5351 Delmar boulevard, died there yesterday of the infirmities of age. His widow, who was his fourth wife, is also a resident at the home.

Dr. Bolton entered the home in June, 1927, after having practiced medicine in Williamsburg, Mo., since shortly after the Civil War. He served in the war as a Confederate soldier.

Funeral services will be held in Williamsburg today under the auspices of the local Masons. Dr. Bolton had been a Mason for 57 years. His widow will not attend because of her advanced age. She is his only survivor.

GEN. R. E. LEE'S BIRTHPLACE TO BE MADE NATIONAL SHRINE

Connecticut Daughters of Confederacy Buy 200-Year-Old Stratford Hall, Va.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Stratford Hall, birthplace and boyhood home of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in Westmoreland County, Va., has been acquired by William Alexander Jr. Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy of Connecticut, and will be preserved as a national shrine similar to Mount Vernon and Monticello.

Announcement of the sale came today, the birthday of Gen. Lee and the two hundredth anniversary of the building of Stratford Hall, gift of Queen Caroline, wife of George II, to members of the Lee family. For generations this was the home of the Lees of Virginia—Richard Henry Lee and Francis Lightfoot Lee, signers of the Declaration of Independence; Lighthorse Harry Lee, and his sons, Maj. Henry Lee, Robert E. Lee and Sidney Lee.

A Lee memorial foundation, shortly to be incorporated, will direct the restoration and formal dedication of the estate.

Mexican Rebel Chief Is Honest.

OTTO J. GOSSRAU, HEAD OF CHIPPEWA TRUST CO., DIES

Succumbs to Pneumonia After Two Weeks; Funeral at Residence Tuesday at 3 P. M.

Otto J. Gossrau, president of the Chippewa Trust Co., died yesterday at his home, 3451 Halliday avenue, of pneumonia, after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Gossrau, who was 57 years old, was born in Alton and came to St. Louis 22 years ago, serving on the boards of various banks until four years ago when he was made president of the Chippewa Trust Co. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Weinsburg, of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Tuesday at 3 p. m., with interment in Sunset Burial Park.

1929's biggest news about TRUCKS IS, and will be "STRAIGHT RATING"

PLEDGED TO BETTER DELIVERY for 1 SAFER STREETS
2 LESS TRAFFIC CONGESTION
3 MORE ECONOMICAL DELIVERY

What Is It?
What Does It DO?
How Do You Benefit?

A Pledge In Action, Now:
1) A complete modern line.
2) Extra values instead of "Excess Allowances."
3) STRAIGHT RATINGS that give meaning and efficiency to "capacity" figures.
4) A real Work Test backing every statement made about General Motors Trucks.

STRAIGHT RATING is a clear, modern method of determining actual pay-load capacity of a truck, in advance.

Now, and hereafter, it applies to the description, selling, guaranteeing, and operation of every General Motors Truck.

This move was initiated by General Motors Trucks because it takes another step toward:
a) closer, more effective co-operation between truck buyer and seller
b) elimination of vagueness and unknown quantities from a buyer's consideration of investment in new equipment
c) lowered costs and longer service life in the actual operation of trucks.

In STRAIGHT RATING the basic factor is maximum total allowable gross weight. This is exactly known, and given. Exact weights of any model chassis, and any type of body, are also exactly known.

Chassis and body weight, subtracted from the maximum allowable total gross weight, give the real pay-load capacity—of any General Motors Truck equipped with any type of body.

This is accurate. You know it in advance. It tells you the top-efficiency capacity of the vehicle you are considering; under which it will operate at lowest costs, year in, year out. And for which it will be unqualifiedly guaranteed.

The buyer who needs a lighter type of body—a platform, or stake-side, for instance—will not have to buy and operate more "capacity" than he needs. The buyer who needs a heavier body—a van job, for instance—will not have to risk high operating and maintenance costs, shortened vehicle life, and a nullified guarantee, through overloading.

Tire equipment will be exactly right to give maximum mileage. Because, for the first time, the requirements will be definitely known and exactly met—in advance.

Both buyer and seller play tag with the serious question of overloading by using the old rating terms: "one ton", "two ton", etc. Discrepancies run as high as 1,500 pounds—in chassis alone—for trucks rated "one ton". Body weights differ as much as half a ton.

STRAIGHT RATING ends this costly vagueness.

It is another safeguard put around the buying and operation of trucks. It is in line with the General Motors Truck policy of Extra Value instead of "Excess Allowances". In line with our offer of a real Work Test.

It is another reason for investigating this complete line of modern trucks now—as an aid to wise investment.

Accept This Offer of a Real Work Test

We furnish any General Motors Truck—any available model, chassis or body that most closely meets your needs. We provide gasoline, and a man to accompany your driver. You put them at your regular work for a practical, adequate work test.

GOVERNOR TO HEAR PLEA FOR YEAGER, SLAYER, THURSDAY

Caulfield Notifies Defense Lawyers and Attorney-General and Invites Others Interested.

KILLER SCHEDULED TO HANG ON FEB. 1

Swedish National Society Opposes Commutation for the Murderer of Conniours Schou.

Attorneys for Leonard Yeager, sentenced to be hanged Feb. 1 for the wanton murder of Conniours Schou, elderly tailor, in a holdup, were notified by Gov. Caulfield yesterday that he would hold a hearing in his office at Jefferson City Thursday on Yeager's petition for a commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment.

Gov. Caulfield has suggested Attorney-General Shartel have a representative at the hearing to appear for the State and also that anyone else interested in the case be present.

The case is one Gov. Caulfield inherited from his predecessor in office. With protests against clemency from the widow of the slain tailor and the Swedish National Society of St. Louis, former Gov. Baker on Dec. 28 announced that he would take no immediate action on the plea and was disinclined to rule on the case, inasmuch as the execution was scheduled to take place during the term of his successor.

Guilty Partner Got Life.

Circuit Judge Pearcy, who presided at Yeager's trial, and his attorney, James G. McHael, wrote Gov. Baker before Caulfield took office, pointing out that Yeager's guilt was less than that of his companion, Maurice Birmingham, who received only a life sentence. McHael asked for commutation and Judge Pearcy for a review of the case.

Schou was shot on the night of Nov. 17, 1926, when he walked into a holdup in a saloon on the ground floor of Swedish Hall, 1159 South Kingshighway. He was a member of the Swedish National Society, which is leading the movement of protest.

Judge Pearcy, in his letter, called attention to the testimony of Yeager and one of his witnesses that Yeager was forced into the holdup by Birmingham, at the point of a revolver, and that Yeager shot Schou only after his companion ordered, "Get that man." Birmingham was to have been tried with Yeager, but obtained a severance and a change of venue.

The Swedish Society, in a resolution adopted by more than 100 members, declared the killing was "exceptionally vicious, brutal and inhuman," and "to extend clemency to a man of such vicious character as Yeager, and one guilty of so dastardly a crime, is to weaken respect for the law and to encourage other vicious and brutal characters in the commission of crime."

Schou, 62 years old, and hard of hearing, had attended a meeting at Swedish Hall and was passing through the saloon when commanded to halt. When he continued on and walked through a door, he was followed outside and shot by Yeager. His widow, Mrs. Frieda Schou, lives alone in a frame cottage at 117 Bates street and supports herself by part-time work.

CITY AND ARMY ENGINEERS TO DISCUSS GARBAGE DOCK

Plan for Construction at Foot of Chouteau Avenue to Be Worked Out if Possible.

Engineers representing the city and the army, which has charge of river navigation work, are to confer in an effort to agree on acceptable plans for a new municipal garbage dock at the foot of Chouteau avenue, Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks announced yesterday. Those who will meet are Maj. John C. Gotwals, district engineer; Roy Gans, Street Department engineer, and L. R. Bowen, chief city building engineer.

The renewed proposal to build a new dock at Chouteau avenue results from the overwhelming protest against the city's plan to install two docks at the foot of Meramec and of Clinton streets. When residents near the Meramec street site, in particular, objected, Brooks promised to seek an understanding with the Government, which had forbidden the new Chouteau avenue project because, as planned, it would interfere with the constricted channel.

$500,000 FOR ZEPPELINS

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—One of the most interesting items in the budget draft presented yesterday by Finance Minister Hilferding is the carrying over of 2,000,000 marks (approximately $500,000) from the 1928 budget for the furtherance of Zeppelin construction. The transportation ministry's budget for 1929 further shows an increase of $2,500,000 over that of the previous year. Among the loudest critics of the finance minister's budget are the Bavarians who object to an increase in the beer tax and threaten to withdraw their representative on the cabinet.

Foster Parents and Their Adopted Children

—By a Post-Dispatch staff photographer.

MR. and Mrs. Albert C. Litzau, their three adopted children, Aubrey John Joseph, Jerome Frederich and Mrs. Loretta Haug, the first child they took into their home, and Robert Carol, the thirty-fifth.

Pair Has Given Home to 35 Children in 17 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Litzau of Shrewsbury Have Adopted Three and Cared for Others From Few Days to Several Years Old.

ALBERT C. LITZAU was 22 and had been married exactly two years on the night of June 8, 1912, when a neatly dressed woman, carrying a year-old baby, nervously asked the cost of a prescription he had compounded at a Maplewood drug store where he was employed as a pharmacist.

Digging to the bottom of her purse, she placed several coins on the counter to find that the total was 3 cents short. Litzau, wiggling a finger at the baby, looked up to find an embarrassed customer.

She explained that it was all the money she had. She was out of work and the sole support of the child. She would like to have someone keep it for her. She would pay what she could.

A hurried conference with Mrs. Litzau, then 20, and Loretta was taken into their home to become the first of three children they have adopted and the first of 35 to whom they have given a home for periods ranging from a few days to several years.

Also Aided Loretta's Mother.

Not only was Loretta taken home. Her mother was cared for until she found employment at $15 a month. She insisted on paying the Litzaus $8 a month for caring for her daughter, but 15 months later consented to adoption though she always has paid frequent visits to see her child.

Four years later physicians told Litzau that the confinement of a store was responsible for his ill health. In a few months he donned a gray uniform and shouldered a mail pouch as a means of livelihood and for the beneficial daily 14-mile jaunt. He worked first in St. Louis but for the past six years has been carrying a route from the the Webster Groves station which takes him close to his brick bungalow and his wife and foster children at 4704 Wilshusen avenue, Shrewsbury.

How he has been able to support a family which has included no less than four or five children at any time, and buy his $11,000 home on a $165 monthly salary, Litzau says he does not know.

"It has been done only by Josephine's good management," he said, referring to his wife.

"There have been some times when the going was tough; times when she has found practical nursing to do, sometimes taking the children with her, in order to supplement my earnings. She said she would rather do that than give up the children.

Five Adopted by Friends.

"But we never have any bills. I see enough of other people's the first of the month.

"Most of the children have come to us through charities, which contribute to the support of the child for a few months during which a permanent home is sought. In most cases we found that we were so attached to the new member of our family that we wanted to keep it and did so at our own expense."

At one time there were three bottle babies and three children not in their teens in the Litzau home. Five children have been adopted by friends who were impressed by their neat appearance and courteous behavior.

There have been sickness and accidents of varying kinds and degrees, but none fatal except the new-born baby who had little chance of survival, but who was given a home with the family, then numbering six, for the few days it lived.

A large cloth-bound ledger, in which Litzau records the highlights in the lives of his family, the pages of an ordinary family Bible being too few, contains humorous as well as serious entries. The following are examples:

Aug. 12, 1912—Eileen Boston got into the matches and set her dress afire. Slightly burned.

Jan. 11, 1923—Jerome Frederich swallowed an open safety pin. Several hours before doctor could remove it. Close call.

April 23, 1922—Aubrey almost broke up performance of De Soto Dramatic Club of St. Aloysius parish tonight. I was playing part of miner in "The Lone Tree Mine," and the villain was about to get the better of me in a struggle. Aubrey was sitting on his mother's lap, and cried out: "Give me a brick, mother. Give me a brick."

July 10, 1920—Richard Gray is very sick with measles. Doctor gives us little hope. (Richard recovered.)

June 8, 1924—Loretta graduated from St. Michael's School today. We will try and send her to St. George's boarding school at Linn, Mo.

Sept. 15, 1924—Mary Francis sick with whooping cough.

May 13, 1926—Jerome was on the lawn when the man who takes our old papers for the St. Vincent de Paul Society came. He rushed into the house to tell his mother: "Here comes St. Vincent de Paul."

Sept. 20, 1927—Aubrey was struck in the eye with knife while "skipping the ditch," playing mumbly peg with neighbor boys on the front lawn. Afraid he will lose right eye. (The eye was saved.)

Loretta Gets Married.

June 6, 1928—Loretta, our first baby and our first adopted child, married Gerald Haug today.

Oct. 4, 1928—We got little Robert Carol from Father Butler today. He will take the place of Loretta here. We have always wanted a red-haired baby.

From the record it would seem that girls are less trouble than boys. But they are not, say the Litzaus.

"Boys naturally are more resourceful and can stand the hard knocks they get in play," Litzau said. "They are not subject to such criticism as girls are, and a boy in soiled play clothes is more of a boy than if he is dressed up. Everybody expects girls to be neat and clean all the time. Not that we have had any trouble with our girls, but they require more careful supervision and more time."

Although they never have studied sociology or child psychology from textbooks, they have certain definite opinions from their experience with almost three dozen children, many of them foundlings. Frank Probst, Mrs. Litzau's 77-year-old father, known to the children as "Grandpa," agrees with them.

Grandpa's Hairbrush Helps.

"Heredity shows up frequently, of course," Litzau related. "But if all children, regardless of heredity, were given a proper environment, the penal institutions would be much less than half full."

Mrs. Litzau, who has been brought a bit closer to the problem of discipline than her husband, does not believe in the spare-the-rod-and-spoil-the-child theory, but concludes that administering "grandpa's hairbrush" in some situations has a wholesome corrective influence.

"It is very seldom that I have punished the children physically," she recounted. "Kindness, firmness, fairness and a good example will accomplish much more."

The family now consists of Aubrey John Joseph, 11, who was adopted seven years ago after having come to them at the age of 5 weeks; Jerome Frederich, 6, who came to the Litzau home when nine days old and who was adopted more than a year ago; and red-headed, 4-months-old Robert Carol who has lived in his new home more than three months. Aubrey and Jerome attend St. Michael's Parochial School at Shrewsbury. Aubrey says he wants to become a priest; Jerome aspires to carrying letters like his foster father. Then there is Loretta, who has known 34 temporary brothers and sisters, who now is Mrs. Gerald Haug.

The Litzaus have no children of their own, but agree that they could have no more affection than that for their foster children. They say:

"No one has lived until they have had children in their home. In fact, without children it isn't home."

TELEPHONE POLES REMOVED FROM 40 MILES OF STREETS

Underground Cables or Alley Poles Have Replaced Them in Last Three Years.

Telephone poles have been removed from 40 miles of St. Louis street during the last three years, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. announces. To replace them, underground cables and, in some instances, alley pole lines, have been installed.

The city government is committed to having all poles and wires possible removed from the streets as fast as it can be done and the utilities are required to do a certain amount of work annually. Negotiations have been under way, as has been told, to have the Public Service Co. remove its iron standards downtown and hang its trolley wires from the new street light posts.

Out of the $42,000,000 improvement budget of the telephone company for 1929, about $2,800,000 will be spent for buildings, equipment and exchange lines in St. Louis. The downtown Garfield exchange is to be converted to dial operation, with a central office in the Telephone Building. The midtown Lindell exchange will be cut over in June, 1930, as the second unit of the Jefferson dial exchange. In the Lindell-Jefferson area about $250,000 will be spent this year for additional underground and aerial cables.

The telephone company expects 8000 families to be added to the metropolitan district, including county suburbs and the East Side, in 1929, and accordingly anticipates approximately as many more subscribers as were added last year—about 12,500. The company estimates that there are 281,000 families in the area now, 44 per cent of which have telephones.

VOICES OPPOSITION TO NAMING OF SCHOOL BOARD BY MAYOR

Committee of Chamber of Commerce Fails to Find Plan Would Eliminate Partisanship.

Disapproval of the proposed plan of appointment of members of the St. Louis School Board by the Mayor was expressed Friday in a resolution adopted by directors of the Chamber of Commerce. The new appointive method, legislation for which is now pending, would replace the present elective method of selecting a school board.

The resolution was passed following a report of the State Legislative Committee of the chamber which stated that an investigation had not shown that appointment by the Mayor would remove the danger of a purely partisan board. "A Mayor who might serve two terms may personally have the appointment of the entire board of 12 members," said the report. "We personally question the advisability of placing such power in the hands of the Mayor."

Third of Family Dies Abroad.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., Jan. 19.—Word was received here today of the death of Miss Martha McClellan Read, former Mexico resident at Alexandria, Egypt, on Jan. 14. She was the eldest daughter of the late Judge A. E. Read of Louisiana and the third member of her immediate family to die abroad in recent years. A brother, Amasa Read, Rhodes scholar from Louisiana, died at Oxford, England, and a brother, Col. A. C. Read, died at Coblenz, Germany, while a member of Gen. Allen's staff at the close of the World War.

GUATEMALAN REBELS SEIZE U. S. OWNED ROAD

Troops Sent to Suppress Rising in Three Departments on Pacific Coast.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — The Guatemalan Government today advised Adrian Recinos, its Minister here, that energetic steps are being taken by President Chacon to suppress a revolution which has broken out in the departments of Suchitepequez and Retal Huleu on the Pacific Coast.

A later dispatch from the Guatemalan Government announces the uprising had extended to the Department of Quezaltenango but that sufficient Government troops had arrived on the scene to control the situation.

A censorship has been imposed and certain constitutional guarantees have been suspended.

The revolt is headed by Col. Fernando Morales Jr., Governor of Suchitepequez, Recinos was advised, and not by Gen. Jorge Ubico, as had been reported. Ubico and two other army officers were arrested in Guatemala City on suspicion that they were implicated in the uprising, but later Ubico was released.

The message said the rebels, who have control of the two departments, had seized the International Railway, an American-owned property, and had suspended passenger service, operating the line for military purposes.

The State Department announced that American diplomatic officers in Gatemala were under instructions to protect the lives and property of Americans, but further than that the United States had taken no action.

Military Heads of Five Departments Reported Aiding Revolt.

By the Associated Press.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 19. —Advices from Guatemala City say that open rebellion has broken out in Western Guatemala and three west coast departments have been captured by rebel forces. Some fighting already has taken place and several men are reported to have been killed.

The military commanders of five departments have joined in the movement.

President Chacon has dispatched troops to the west to suppress the revolt and several leaders connected with the Progressive party have been arrested.

EAST SIDE BRIQUETTE FIRM IN VOLUNTARY BANKRUPTCY

Litigation Has Prevented Operation of Plant Three Years; Debts $87,498, Assets $63,000.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in Federal Court at East St. Louis yesterday by the International Briquette Co. of East St. Louis, which was incorporated six years ago with $500,000 capital stock. J. B. Sweeney is president.

The product of the company was a pressed brick fuel made of pitch and coal slack, but the plant at Thirty-first street and Louisiana boulevard in East St. Louis has not operated for three years, the affairs of the firm being stopped by litigation, according to C. B. Thomas, counsel for the bankrupt.

The company schedules its debts at $87,498, of which amount $17,750 is in unsecured notes held by individuals and $69,145 in claims secured by mortgages on the plant. The listed assets are machinery, $20,000, and the plant, $43,000.

PARTISAN ROW OVER SECRECY ON TARIFF

Garner Protests Against Closed Meetings Where "Beneficiaries Will Write Rates."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — The tranquillity which has characterized tariff hearings of the House Ways and Means Committee was shattered today by a partisan dispute over Republican plans to exclude Democrats from the committee room during actual consideration of what changes are to be effected in the important duties.

The argument, which remained unsettled at adjournment of hearings on the metals schedules, was touched off after Representative Bacharach (Rep.), New Jersey, had announced that the subcommittee on metals, which he will head, would attempt to obtain all the information possible before proposing any rate changes to the full committee.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee, who, with all minority members, will be excluded from subcommittee sessions, contended these meetings should consider data obtained only at the open hearings and protested against tariff "beneficiaries" sitting in and "writing the rates."

Against Personal Interviews.

"Personal interviews outside the hearings should not prevail," Garner said, adding that all the data obtained should be made available to Congress when the bill was reported.

Replying to Garner, Representative Treadway (Rep.), Massachusetts, said he did not believe the sub-committees would be obliged to recommend duties wholly on the basis of testimony taken at the open hearings. He added they would be within their rights in collecting any data and charged the Texan with seeking publicity as on the occasion of his recent fight on tax refunds.

"The American people are going to benefit by this bill," Treadway declared. "No beneficiary is writing this tariff."

Bacharach argued that part of the information obtained in subcommittees undoubtedly would be of a confidential nature and could not be divulged, even in the committee report.

Democrats and Republicans engaged in another tiff over a suggestion by Representative Hull (Dem.), Tennessee, that the committee place witnesses under oath when it was deemed advisable.

Representative Ramseyer (Rep.), Iowa, thought this would be unfair to witnesses still to be heard and suggested Hull should have made his motion before the hearings started. Hull said he would insist on this procedure, and added that only during consideration of the Fordney-McCumber act was this method dispensed with.

Monday the committee will tackle the sugar schedule, a big fight on which is in prospect. The schedules of interest to the farm industry will be reached Jan. 24.

DEPUTIES PROTECT TRUCKS CARRYING CHICAGO MILK

Hoover Asked to Settle Strike of Dairymen; Consumers Not Affected as Yet.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—With Deputy Sheriffs from both Illinois and ing milk trucks, Chicago's Milk suping milk trucks, hicago's milk supply was steadier today even though many of the striking dairymen continued to withhold their produce from the metropolitan distributors.

Wisconsin authorities were guarding the milk trucks from pickets until they reached the Illinois line where the task was taken up by Illinois deputies who saw that the trucks reached the distributors safely.

Some picketing continued around the receiving stations in outlying districts but no violence was reported. Leaders of the Pure Milk Association, which called the strike when the dealers declined to raise the price to $2.85 from $2.50 per 100 pounds, were still attempting to settle their dispute amicably but no progress was reported.

Chicago consumers have not yet felt the effects of the strike.

U. G. ENT GETS CHENEY AWARD

Officer Tried to Save Companion When Lightning Hit Balloon.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Lieut. Uzal G. Ent of the Army Air Corps today was given the Cheney award for 1928 for courage, daring and heroism in endeavoring to save the life of Lieut. Paul Evert when their balloon, entered in the national elimination race from Pittsburg last May, was struck by lightning and burned near Youngwood, Pa. Ent, serving at Langley Field, Va., will receive $500 in cash and a bronze plaque. He has also received the distinguished flying cross for his act.

Evert was the pilot and Ent the aid in the air corps entry. Evert was killed by a charge of elctricity which set the balloon afire, 1200 feet in the air and Ent, with a paralyzed leg and arm, endeavored to revive his companion instead of jumping with his parachute.

Heat Closes Buenos Aires Stores.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 19. — A temperature of more than 100 degrees Fahrenheit recorded at 3 o'clock this afternoon established a new record for the summer. The heat was so excessive that all business establishments closed to permit their employes to seek relief at the bathing beaches.

John Hyde, Cotton Authority, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Funeral service for John Hyde, 81 years old, well known as a statistician and gregrapher, will be held tomorrow afternoon with burial here. He died here Friday after a prolonged illness with heart disease. A native of London, Hyde acquired most of his reputation as one of the world's outstanding cotton authorities in the United States.

FOCH WELL ENOUGH TO SIT UP, CHUCKLES AT VISITORS' BOOK

Marshal Asks for Newspapers, but Nurse Says No; Gaining Steadily Doctor's Report.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Marshal Ferdinand Foch, Generalissimo of the Allied Armies in the World War, tonight had progressed so far in his recovery from the kidney trouble and heart attack which laid him low six days ago that he sat up in bed and called for newspapers. His physicians, Dr. Davenieres, Dr. Heitz-Boyer and Dr. Degennes, were more cheerful than at any time this week when they left the house after their regular evening visit.

"It has been a good day," Dr. Heitz-Boyer said. "The situation is still grave but we are beginning to become optimistic. The Marshal is gaining slowly but steadily."

Gen. Debeny, one of Foch's most brilliant aids in the war, exclaimed, "The Marshal has won another battle" as he departed after a long talk with Mme. Foch. The wife of the stricken warrior herself gave evidence of the bettered situation by leaving the house for the first outing she has had since last Monday. She drove in the Bois Bolougne for two hours.

The Marshal's nurse, as strict a disciplinarian as the military leader himself, vetoed the patient's request for evening newspapers. Instead, the Marshal was permitted to see the visitors' book, which has been open at the janitor's lodge. It is nearly filled with the names of the most prominent Frenchmen and foreigners of Paris. One entry drew a chuckle from the Marshal. It was made on behalf of veteran privates and said:

"The sparrows of the 20th corps, to their defender, with their best wishes for better health."

WOMEN OF SIXTH WARD ORGANIZE CLUB FOR KIEL

The Sixth Ward Women's Kiel-for-Mayor Club was formed last night at a meeting at Douglas Hall, Beaumont street and Lawton boulevard, called by Miss May Shine of 2810 Rutger street, a Deputy Sheriff. It was announced that the club would be open to both white and Negro women, the population of the ward being divided.

Sheriff Strodtman, who took office Jan. 1, has told his deputies that they are free to support any candidates they choose in the municipal campaign. He has not announced his own position.

JENNINGS WOMAN SUFFERED TWO YEARS WITH CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

Glad to Tell Public How Simple Remedy Weldona Tablets Made Her a Well Woman

"For two years I suffered with chronic rheumatism or arthritis and was tired of taking medicines without getting any better," said Mrs Minnie Lane, who resides at R. F. D. 2500, Florissant Road, Jennings, St. Louis Co., Mo. Mrs. Lane continued: "My right knee was sore, stiff and swollen and it was impossible for me to go up or down stairs without assistance. It was very difficult for me to get up from a chair after sitting any length of time. My knee would turn over when I attempted to walk. My hands were sore and stiff and it was often difficult for me to get a good night's sleep because of the pain.

"I read about so many local people getting rid of rheumatism thru the use of Weldona that I decided to give it a trial. I must say that I am very pleased with the results. My knee is well for I can now go up or down stairs without discomfort, can get right up from a chair, sleep fine and cannot praise Weldona tablets too highly. If anyone wishes to investigate my case I would be glad to have them write or call on me."

$1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine.

Weldona tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldona tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldona tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.

The Weldona representative who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Av., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page books, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

MRS. MINNIE LANE.

PROTRACTED FIGHT ON CRUISER BILL FEARED IN SENATE

Attacks on West and Kellogg Pact Struggle Have Put Upper Chamber Far Behind Schedule.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The prospect of a protracted struggle against action on the cruiser construction bill, with the possibility of a tie-up of Senate legislation during the closing weeks, was foreseen today by Senate leaders, who pointed to a persistent run of debate to sustain this view.

Republican independents, led by Senator Norris of Nebraska, are opposed to the cruiser measure, which has been before the Senate a year. This group is attempting to block confirmation of the nomination of Roy O. West as Interior Secretary. Two days have been devoted to the West matter, and a determination of it has been postponed until Monday.

Meanwhile, the Senate is falling far behind its regular schedule in disposition of the necessary appropriation bills.

Delay on Money Bills.

It is the customary procedure in the Senate to give way for consideration of the appropriation bills, and usually little time is required for their disposition. These bills originate in the House and receive close scrutiny there. But this session it has been different, and only one of the nine supply measures has become law—that for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments.

After waiting for action on the Kellogg anti-war treaty, Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee, in charge of the cruiser bill, now that the pact is out of the way, is scanning the legislative situation anxiously. He already has made a demand for longer daily sessions, and this program probably will be adopted next week.

He is confident of the votes necessary to pass the bill, approved a year ago by the House. It would authorize a construction of 15 cruisers and an airplane carrier at a total cost of $274,000,000.

Senate leaders realize there is no more skilled parliamentarian than the veteran Norris, and if he should set out to block a vote on the cruiser bill, they admit they would have a real contest on their hands. The naval bill opponents, however, deny they are filibustering and so long, at least, as the debate in the Senate runs along other channels, friends of the cruiser bill cannot charge them with such tactics.

Those opposed to the naval increase include Senators Nye, North Dakota, Brookhart, Iowa; Blaine, Wisconsin; Republicans: and King, (Dem*) Utah.

So far Senator Hale has declined to discuss a resort to the rarely used cloture rule to limit debate and force a vote, but an attempt along this line is expected if a vote is not forthcoming soon. However, a two-thirds majority is necessary to invoke this rule.

TWO ST. LOUISANS HURT WHEN AUTO CRASHES INTO A TREE

Two Others Injured in Automobile Accident on Highway Near Stroud, Ok.

By the Associated Press.

STROUD, Ok., Jan. 19. — Four men are in a hospital here, two of them near death as the result of an automobile accident two miles east of here late today, in which the car plunged from the highway across a creek and crashed into a tree on the opposite bank. Roy Maddox of Sullivan, Mo., and E. Cartwright, St. Louis, are seriously hurt. Orville Hawkins, St. Louis, and J. W. Clark, Poplar Bluff, sustained broken bones. The cause of the accident was not explained.

Hawkins, 1416 South Theresa avenue, an employe of the Shell Gasoline Co., drove a company truck to Stroud, Ok., about two weeks ago and has since been working as a night watchman, according to neighbors. He is 21 years old, and unmarried. E. Cartwright is not listed in the city directory.

EXPLORATION FIRM ORDERED TO SELL NO STOCK IN STATE

Securities Commission Says It Has Not Complied With 'Blue Sky' Law.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 19.—An order was issued today by State Securities Commissioner F. T. Stockard to the Sam D. Pullen Exploration Co., to make no further attempts to sell its stock in Missouri, under penalty of prosecution for violation of the State "blue sky" law.

Stockard said the company had been offering stock for sale without obtaining a permit, or complying with the "blue sky" law. He said the company was offering stock covering several projects including a power plant, hospital and health resort, with a proposal to refund the investor's money within a year if he was not satisfied.

A similar order was issued against William Berg of Chicago, who was offering Missouri investors an opportunity to participate in a $25,000 investment pool, with 30 per cent profits in six months. Berg did not offer stock for sale, but asked prospects to send their money and he would return to them his note for the amount, payable in six months, plus 30 per cent profit.

A. R. Jones, a field executive for the Exploration Company, whose quarters at the Warwick Hotel are its local office, said last night the company had not offered any stock in Missouri and did not intend to. The company was formed, he said to exploit "natural resources," including mines, water power, and a health resort at Ravenden Springs, Ark. It is owned, he said by Sam D. Pullen of New York and his associates.

DEPUTY UNDER KEYES TELLS OF TAILOR SHOP MEETINGS

Also Presents Letter Charging Insincerity in Prosecution of Julian Oil Case.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19.—Harold L. Davis, chief deputy under former District Attorney Asa Keyes, told a jury in the bribery trial of Keyes and five co-defendants today of some of the things he said happened while he and Keyes prosecuted the promoters of the defunct Julian Petroleum Corporation, all of whom were acquitted.

Davis described meetings of Keyes and Ben Getzoff, accused payoff man, in the tailor shop where the alleged bribe money was passed to Keyes to fix the Julian case, testifying that he saw Keyes and Getzoff talking in the shop several times after the trial had closed in May, 1928.

A letter which Davis said he had written to Keyes, offering his resignation when the prosecution of the Julian trial seemed to be "insincere," was admitted. The letter closed with "I do not care to be a party to insincere prosecution of the Julian case."

HOOVER DEPARTS TOMORROW FOR A MONTH IN FLORIDA

President - Elect Closes Washington Headquarters After Conferring With Republican Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President-elect Hoover closed his temporary headquarters here today preparatory to his departure Monday for Florida, where he will spend a month before returning for his inauguration on March 4.

Besides delivering a speech carried by telephone and the radio to Belgium, Hoover conferred with several Republican leaders.

During the concluding day of his two weeks of conferences in the national capital, Hoover made a fourth visit to the White House and also conferred with Representative Snell of New York concerning his agreements for the handling of Republican party affairs in the Empire State through a committee of three.

It was said that the White House conference had to do with changes in the executive office which the President-elect desires to make in order to facilitate the work of his clerical force. The cost will be taken care of out of a fund already provided by Congress for maintenance of the White House.

Representative Snell said Hoover had told him that his object in placing responsibility for the conduct of party affairs in New York into the hands of three men had been to strengthen the State organization.

The New York representative declared he regarded H. Edmond Machold, chairman of the State Republican Committee, as the logical man for the place to which he had been selected. Machold is to act with Charles D. Hilles, national committeeman, and William H. Hill, who headed the independent Hoover-for-President organization in New York State during both the preconvention and the presidential campaigns.

Snell said, however, he was positive Hoover did not intend that the New York congressional delegation be ignored in the matter of the distribution of patronage. Snell felt there had been some exaggeration in the announcement that Machold, Hilles and Hill were going to have complete charge of all the New York patronage.

Tomorrow the President-elect with Mrs. Hoover, will attend services at the Friend's Church on Irving street in the forenoon, take an automobile ride in the afternoon, and entertain a few friends at dinner in the evening. Leaving here at 10:30 a. m., Monday, Hoover will arrive at Miami about 2 p. m., Tuesday. He will be welcomed there by the Governor and other officials of the State. He will then go to the estate of J. C. Penney where he will be a guest.

Besides his own personal staff, Hoover will be accompanied by 40 newspaper correspondents and cameramen. For the first time in years George Akerson, his secretary, will not be with him. Akerson is to remain in Washington to act as liaison officer between the President-elect and those Republican leaders who are unable to give the time for a trip to Florida to confer personally with Hoover.

Miami Prepares Noisy Welcome for Hoover.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 19.—A dozen bands and drum corps will greet Hoover on his arrival here Tuesday. Yacht, coast guard cutter and steamer whistles in Biscayne Bay will turn loose their whistles in his honor and airples will drone overhead. The reception committee announced tonight that all arrangements had been made.

The Peney estate in Belle Isle, Hoover's home during his visit here, has been refurnished throughout. Special telephone and telegraph wires have been installed to facilitate communication for members of the party.

TAX ON BANK DEPOSITS PROPOSED IN NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 19.—An annual State tax of 50 cents on each $100 would be levied against bank deposits as a means of replenishing the State bank guarantee fund, under a bill introduced in the Legislature today. Each bank would be required by the act to pay the tax on all depositors' accounts to the State Trade and Commerce Department, and would be authorized to deduct the amount thereof from each account. Should an account be withdrawn, the bill bill provides the bank shall collect the tax at that time in advance of the assessment.

Evasion of the act is made a felony, punishable by one to five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Prisoners Subdued With Fire Hose.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—Prisoners in the Belen jail here conducted a demonstration tonight against the authorities and attempted to stone some of the jailers. Firemen restored order with the use of their hose. Some of the prisoners have declared a hunger strike. They charged Gen. Luciano Peralta, the jail manager, with trying to implont some of the strict discipline plant some of the prison colonies of Tres Marias, of which he was formerly supervisor.

DUDLEY FRENCH TRAFFIC HEAD

Dudley French, vice president of the Graham Paper Co. and a former vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed chairman of the new Traffic Committee of the chamber, Walter B. Weisenburger, president, announced yesterday. E. F. Bisbee, vice president of the St. Louis National Stockyards, was named as vice chairman.

The committee, which recently has been greatly enlarged, will have charge of the study of rates and routings of all rail traffic through St. Louis with a view development of St. Louis transportation facilities.

BANK SHARES AND STEEL STOCK ARE MARKET FEATURES

Mercantile Has Upward Range of 53 Points After Merger Announcement — Scullin Steel Sales Nearly 10,000.

Mercantile Trust and National Bank of Commerce, as result of merger announcement, provided the price movement features on the St. Louis Stock Exchange the last week, while Scullin Steel preference stock, with a turnover of nearly 10,000 shares, was a feature in activity. Mercantile Trust ranged up 53 points to top of 628 and Bank of Commerce 25 to high of 210. Only 438 shares of Mercantile sold. Commerce sales aggregated 1762 shares.

Mercantile had range of 44 points on the day following publication of plan for merger, while Commerce moved up 13 points.

Scullin Steel preference stock opened the week at 36 and ranged between 35¾ and 42½, closing at 37½ for net gain of 1¾ points. Wagner Electric "new" continued active, with aggregate sales of 9696 between 44¼ and 48½. The stock was lowest in early part of week. More than half of sales were made Friday and Saturday.

Stix, Baer & Fuller was another active feature, transactions being in excess of 2300 shares. After declining to 40 on Monday, the stock was up to 44½ for 3½ point net gain late in the week. Rice-Stix sales of 3135 shares included a 2000-share lot that changed hands at 23. Elder common was higher, a little over half of the recorded sales being "crossed." Moloney Electric sold at 54½. International Shoe had a narrow range.

Boatmen's Bank gained 16 points during the week.

UTILITIES LEAD MODERATE UPTURN ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The curb market made moderate headway under the leadership of the utilities, in rather quiet trading today. There was considerable week-end profit taking, which imparted an uneven tone in spots.

Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern mounted nearly 7 points to a new high at 77. Arizona Power and Commonwealth Edison sold up 9 points and more in small turnovers. Electric Bond and Share made an extreme gain of nearly 5 points, and Superpower issues were firm. United Gas Improvement eased fractionally in profit taking.

Checker Cab was again bought, selling up about 2 points. Auburn Auto fell back 2 points. Ford of Canada was quiet but Ford of England was firm in active trading. Republic Brass, General Bronze and Pittsburg Plate Glass sold up 2 to 5 points. Fox Theaters made a fair gain, but turned heavy at the close.

Oils were irregular. Standard of Indiana fell back more than a point, and Vacuum yielded more than 2 points to profit taking. Humble and International Petroleum gained about 2 points each.

Libbey Owens Sheet Glass declined 10 points, and Squibb lost 8 points. Bohn Aluminum, Aviation Corp. and Firestone Tire receded about 2 points each.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The cottonseed oil market was dull today, closing 5 points higher to 1 point lower. Trade was confined mostly to local operators in the way of week-end covering. The steadiness of cotton, grains and crude oil were offset by the decline in lard and hogs. Sales, 1600 barrels; prime crude, 8.75c; prime summer yellow, spot, 10.00c; January closed, $10.15c; March, 10.36c; May, 10.55c; July, 10.78c; August, 10.82c.

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Powerful pool operators succeeded in starting a bull movement of considerable proportions on the stock market in the latter sessions of the week, although the credit situation was still the cause of misgivings in many quarters, and restricted public participation. The bulls seized upon the old-time leader, U. S. Steel, and sent it up more than 13 points to a new high record for all time.

The developments in the money market were mixed in character. Brokers' loans rose $71,000,000 to within $10,000,000 of the high record established last December, and there was further firming of the bankers' acceptance rates. Federal Reserve member banks, however, reduced their borrowings at the central institutions by $55,000,000, and abundant funds came into the call money market, reducing the rate from 9 per cent to 6.

A distinctly unfavorable development was a firmer tone in time money late in the week, although it has been at the highest rates in about nine years for several weeks. Bankers pointed to this as indicating that the easier call money was merely temporary and foresaw little hope of permanent easing of credit for some time to come.

A rise in the Federal Reserve rediscount rate was regarded as less probable for the present. Sterling is hovering about the incoming gold point. A little gold trickled over the Canadian border, but this was more than offset by earmarkings of about $20,000,000, presumably for the account of the Bank of France.

An address by E. H. H. Simmons, president of the Stock Exchange, in which he declared that stock market loans are an absolutely essential feature of our long-term financing, and any serious impairment of them would inevitably result in increased unwillingness on the part of security underwriters to float new security issues, was regarded in bullish quarters as clearing the atmosphere somewhat regarding brokers' loans.

It was shown in weekly report that New York banks had reduced their borrowings, and that the gain was due to the funds supplied for the account of others and out-of-town banks. The total of loans placed directly by New York banks is now only a small percentage of the total.

Business news continued generally favorable in character, steel output was maintained at a high rate, although demand tapered off somewhat, which was attributed in part to the reduction in the automobile makers' demands. The Republic Iron and Steel Co., the first of the large producers to report 1928 earnings, showed an increase of more than 50 per cent in net earnings. Favorable statements are expected within the next fortnight by the U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel Corporations.

Nonferrous metal shares were again heavily bought, with International Nickel and St. Joseph Lead recording sensational gains. Several of the public utilities moved into new high ground on buying influenced by rumors of new merger projects. Mail order and merchandising shares were rather erratic as a result of heavy profit taking.

Rails received strong buying support, Pennsylvania touching the highest price in more than 25 years, on expectations of a higher dividend at the next meeting of directors. Railroad equipments at one period ran into profit taking. Wright Aeronautical scored a sensational advance to new high ground in the middle of the week, but was unable to retain its gain. Johns-Manville was one of the leaders of the high-priced group.

LONDON FINANCIAL REVIEW OF THE WEEK

By ARTHUR W. KIDDY.

(Copyright, New York Evening Post.)

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The monetary maze lifts slowly. The United States evidently has the Wall Street situation in hand so far and therefore fears nothing from that quarter unless the stock market boom continues in further sensational style.

The general attitude of the stock markets remains cautious though fairly optimistic. Probably the resources of the Bank of England will be strengthened within the next month by the arrival of a shipment of Cape gold, but it must be remembered that England counts on getting much gold during the early part of the year if the autumn is to be faced without a rise in the bank rate.

Underlying all caution, however, is a feeling that the world's unemployed liquid resources, and especially those of the United States, Great Britain and France are very large; indeed the direct evidence of this is afforded by the fact that in connection with the impending reparations conference there should be even a suggestion of anticipating a part of the payments by some international loan scheme.

England's power of absorbing new capital or financing speculative positions is considerable.

Bankers' views concerning trade at the forthcoming annual meeting will probably be cautious because the views of a year ago proved too optimistic. The chairman of Barclay's Bank at the Thursday meeting specially emphasized the effect of London's lower money rates on the increased bill portfolio in maintaining such an increase which is not merely profitable for the London money market, but constitutes a reserve power over the exchanges in case of need.

The bank chairman's caution about trade prospects was also inspired by the recognition of the difficult spots in the coal, cotton, iron and steel industries to be dealt with this year.

Developments in these directions, however, are now proceeding rapidly and the way is being prepared for sounder conditions before the year end barring, of course, election accidents.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The Evening Post, in copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review, says:

"Trading in the foreign exchange market indicated that a stage has been reached in which little further decline can be expected except in connection with an inflow of gold from Europe. The supply of sterling was naturally scant in view of the fact that only sales for necessary requirements would be made with sterling cables down to $4.85, compared with a parity of $4.86⅝. There was another demand for forward contracts, ⅛ cent premium being bid for end of January and a month away deliveries. Similar buying early in December preceded an advance of about 1 cent in the sterling rate before the year ended. French and Italian were steadily bought and developed firmness toward the end of the week.

"Dutch exchange showed pronounced weakness during the first four days, guilder cables falling 4 points to 40.08, but moved up in the past few days following a firmer tone in the market for sterling. Swiss was also heavy and had only a slight rally from its low level by yesterday. Scandinavians moved in the same way.

"The entire movements of European exchanges created a position where all the continental exchanges except Swiss as well as sterling are now below parity and make it obvious that debit balances are being created here against the European countries.

"Japan had a period of weakness but strengthened in the past few days. Chinese exchange held firm in the first half of the week and then yielded in sympathy with the decline in silver metal.

"Canadian exchange remained close to the low level of ¼ per cent discount but although this rate is at the gold import point no additional shipments were made from Montreal until yesterday, when $1,000,000 gold arrived here.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Foreign exchange quotations were as follows:

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Cotton goods today showed a little more firmness on print cloths and convertibles. Narrow sheetings were a little irregular and quiet. More trading was reported in fine and fancy goods, chiefly of a specialty character for converters' use. There was a moderate demand for burlaps for spot and nearby delivery at unchanged prices. The fall season in wool goods will open on Monday when the American Woolen Co. will show staples, piece dyes, etc.

New York Coffee.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The market for coffee futures showed a further advance today on continuation of the recent buying movement, which appeared to be influenced by the relatively low price for futures here and small offerings of desirable grades.

No. 7 contracts opened at an advance of 8 to 20 points and closed 7 to 25 points higher. Sales estimated at 37,000. Santos contracts opened 8 to 15 higher and closed at a net advance of 6 to 16 points. Sales estimated 31,000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts, January, 17.20; March, 16.19; May, 15.47; July, 14.70; September, 14.10; October, 14.00; December, 13.72. Santos contracts, January, 23.60; March, 22.88; May, 21.98; July, 21.08; September 20.26; December, 19.82.

Spot coffee steady; Rio 7s 18@18¼c; Santos, 4s 23¾ to 24¼c. Cost and freight offers included. Bourbon 4s at 23 to 24c.

Rio exchange on London and dollar buying rate unchanged. Rio market 150 reis lower to 25 reis higher; Santos 150 to 175 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts 42,000; Jundiahy receipts, 15,000.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today, with no sales reported and prices quoted at 3.80c for spots, duty paid. The recent activity apparently has supplied the immediate requirements of refiners. They showed little interest in the market today, although it was believed that sugars could be found at the quoted price.

There was only a small evening-up trade for sugar futures and prices were a little easier under liquidation and selling by houses with Cuban connections, that was probably promoted by continued liberal offerings in the spot market. Prices, however, moved within comparatively narrow limits. After opening unchanged to 1 point lower, they eased a little more. The market closed 1 to 3 points net lower. Approximate sales, 10,700 tons: January closed 1.96c; March, 2.01c; May, 2.11c; July, 2.17c; September, 2.20c; December, 2.24c; January, 1930, 2.23c.

Prices for refined sugar were advanced 10 points to the basis of 5.10c, but business was light as the trade covered nearby requirements before the advance became effective.

WHEAT IRREGULAR ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Jan. 19.—Report of rain in Argentina was a prominent factor in the corn market today, while wheat was reported influenced by several bits of news, including comment of possibility of damage to any wheat not snow covered when cold wave expected, arrives.

In the cash grain market Saturday red wheat was in limited demand and the market was steady to probably 2 cents lower to sell. Offerings were light and fancy wheat was lacking. No. 2 red of fair to good quality was offered at $1.45 to $1.48 and two cars sold at the bottom figure. Hard wheat was steady to 1c lower. Offerings were light and the demand fairly good and practically all light offerings was cleared. Local mills were the main buyers. Corn was steady to 1 cent up, with yellow going mainly at ½ to 1 cent advance. Most of the offerings went to elevators and the rest to mills and shippers. Oats were steady to ½ cent higher. Demand was limited.

May corn and May wheat opened lower and ruled so in the early period. Liverpool wheat closed ¾d higher on March and May and ⅞d higher on July. Winnipeg May wheat was ¼c lower early.

Wheat recovered and sold fractionally net higher.

May wheat opened at $1.25¾. July wheat $1.26⅞. May corn $1.03⅝.

Local wheat receipts, which were 124,600 bushels, compared with 110,600 a week ago and 95,200 a year ago, included 42 cars local and 47 through. Corn receipts, which were 111,200 bushels, compared with 299,000 a week ago, and 141,400 a year ago included 50 cars local and 33 through. Oats receipts which were 74,000 bushels, compared with 84,000 a week ago and 50,000 a year ago, included 27 cars local and 10 through. Hay receipts were seven cars, local.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators amounted to 3,196,570 bushels of wheat, 825,137 bushels of corn and 282,855 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 69,268 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat; 336,950 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat; 579,263 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat; 1,215,221 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat; 66,573 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn; 11,695 bushels of No. 2 oats; 16,658 bushels of No. 2 white oats; 180,887 bushels of No. 3 white oats.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the Exchange Saturday were as follows:

WHEAT.

No. 3 red winter wheat, $1.40; No. 2 hard, $1.21; No. 3 hard, $1.20; No. 4 hard, $1.18; sample grade hard, $1.18.

CORN.

No. 4 mixed, 94¼c; No. 5 mixed, 92½c; No. 3 yellow, 96¼c; No. 4 yellow, 95½c; No. 5 yellow, 93½c; No. 3 white, 97½c; No. 4 white, 95½c.

OATS.

No. 3 white, 51¼c; No. 4 white, 50½c; sample grade white, 49c; red oats, 61c.

St. Louis Hay Market.

Hay sales were as follows: Timothy, 2 cars No. 2 $20.

No. 1 timothy $21 to $23; No. 2 $17 to $19; No. 3, $13 to $16; No. 1 clover mixed, $12 to $14; No 2, $16.50 to $17.50; No. 3 $14 to $15; prairie, No. 1, $15.50 to $16; No. 2, $12 to $14; No. 3, $10 to $11; clover, No. 1, $22 to $24; No. 2, $17 to $19; No. 3, $13 to $14; alfalfa No. 1, $24 to $26; No. 2, $18 to $21; No 3, $15 to $17; standard, $22 to $23; fine stem, soft and leafy, for dairy use, at premium of $2 to $3 per ton.

Alfalfa Meal.

Alfalfa meal No. 2 was quoted in secondhand sacks at $28.50; No .1 $32.50 and choice, $35.

WHEAT AND CORN PRICES CLOSE LOWER AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Much enlarged buying of wheat future deliveries today hoisted July wheat to a new high-price record for the season. Houses with Eastern connections were conspicuous in the wheat purchasing movement, and weather conditions anticipated in part of the domestic winter wheat territory were regarded as pointing to chances of crop damage. Toward the last, however, corn weakness and profit taking brought about a reaction. Corn averaged lower today as a result of free profit taking and on selling because of reports of showers in Santa Fe, entire Rios and Cordoba provinces, Argentina, and consequent lessened tension as to drouth.

Later dispatches said the Argentine forecast was for chiefly fair weather with dry and hot conditions still prevailing over most of the belt. Corn rallies, nevertheless, failed to hold well. Oats duplicated the action of corn. Provisions were easier owing to lower quotations on hogs, with a good-sized run of hogs looked for next week.

Wheat closed unsettled, ¼c to ⅝c net lower, corn 1⅜c to 1¾c off, oats ¼c to 1¼c down and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 5c.

Active buying for leading houses led to advances in wheat value after an early setback.

Corn weakened on word of scattered rains in Argentina. Opening unchanged to ⅜c off, Wheat sagged all around, and then scored gains. Corn started ⅝c to ⅞c down, and receded a little more. Oats also were easier. Provisions, too, inclined downward.

Liveliest purchasing of wheat today came from interests that were outspoken in professing belief that advances of all grain would be limited only by the size of speculative demand. In this connection other trade leaders said speculative buying was being encouraged through expectance of Government farm aid. Meanwhile, comment at hand referred to possible danger of winter killing by lower temperatures looked for where domestic wheat was minus a snow blanket.

Indications that mills were in the market today for wheat tended further at times to strengthen prices. Kansas City message said wheat stocks there had been cut into more than 400,000 bushels this week. Meanwhile, wheat primary receipts as a whole were reported as much smaller for the week than a year ago, 4,194,000 bushels, compared with 6,108,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.

Stock issues continue to be popular in new financing. While new issues for the week decreased in comparison with the previous week, from $34,499,000 to $32,488,000, the total thus far this year is nearly double that of the corresponding period last year. The total since Jan. 1 is $78,302,000 against $40,990,000 for the 1928 period.

Tea imports by the United States for the six months ended Dec. 31 gained more than 500,000 pounds, the India Tea Bureau reports.

The American Department Stores Corporation, now operating a chain of 17 stores, is negotiating for acquisition of three additional stores.

Tennessee Electric Power Co. reports a surplus after preferred dividends of $1,993,370 for 1928 against $1,328,078 for 1927.

The name of the Cutler-Hammer Manufacturing Co. of Milwaukee will be changed to Cutler-Hammer, Inc. The new company, organized as a Delaware corporation, is headed by F. R. Bacon, chairman, and B. L. Worden, president.

Stockholders of the Boeing Airplane and Transport Corporation, Seattle, Wash., have voted to increase authorized cumulative preferred stock to 1,000,000 shares from 200,000 and authorized common to 2,500,000 shares from $650,000. The corporate title will be changed to United Aircraft and Transport Corporation.

Iron ore shipments from Lake Erie ports to interior furnaces the first half of January were 190,921 tons, against 145,717 tons for the corresponding 1928 period.

Total paper production for the first 11 months of 1928, the American Paper and Pulp Association reports, was 6,413,225 tons, against 6,228,269 tons in the same period of 1927, an increase of 3 per cent. Total stocks on hand at the end of November were about 9 per cent greater than at the end of November, 1927.

COTTON MARKET QUIET WITH CHANGES SMALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The cotton market was very quiet today, after selling up a few points in response to relatively steady cables, it reacted under week-end realizing. March contracts sold off from 20.26c to 20.20c, closing at 20.22c. The general market closed very steady, net 3 points lower to 2 points higher.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 3 points. There appeared to be some overnight selling orders in the hands of brokers, and the active months eased off slightly during the first few minutes with January selling at 20.15 and May at 20.23 or 1 to 2 points net lower. Buying promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and a favorable interpretation of weekly reviews from the cotton goods trade, absorbed these early offerings and caused rallies during the middle of the morning. January sold up to 20.20c and May to 20.28c, making net advances of 2 to 4 points, but the market eased again later under week-end liquidation.

The offerings were very light and were taken on reactions of 6 or 7 points from the best.

Reports from the cotton goods market indicated that sales during the past week had been larger than during the previous week, although, according to one quarter, they were still below production.

According to private cable advice, Manchester was said to have made substantial sales of cotton cloths to China and satisfactory results are reported from the Shanghai auctions. Houses with foreign trade connections were credited with buying a little cotton here during the early trading, but there was some Southern selling at the start and later in the morning business was supposed to be chiefly for local or commission house account. Private cable from Liverpool said that continental buying and trade calling in that market had been supplies by liquidation. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 173,677 bales against 119,831 last year and 128,651 two years ago.

Spot quiet, middling 20.40 cents.

BILL RATES HIGHER THAN REDISCOUNTS

Financial District Still Is Divided in Its Views on the Stock Market's Immediate Future.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"Improvement in an old-time leader gave strength to the entire market late this week, despite evidence of some adverse forces. Dullness and irregularity in the early sessions of the week were changed into a brisk advance as Steel common gathered power in its 14-point move. When this bellwether of the market was pressing into new high ground, traders were not disposed to worry too greatly over a $72,000,000 rise in brokers' loans or a second advance for this year in bankers' acceptances. Yet there were no signs of a return to the wild speculative markets that so often in the last year have characterized trading just previous to a sharp downturn. The financial district still is divided in its views on the market's immediate future with perhaps a majority of authorities unable to see basis at the moment either for a major downturn or upturn in the general list of seasoned stocks.

Explanation of Loan Rise.

"The week's $72,000,000 increase in brokers' loans brought no chills to the market since a substantial part of this gain reflected payments on General Motors new stock. It indicated to the market that except for this special situation loans in the current week would have been down. Except for $20,000,000 lost this week in gold through earmarkings—making $75,000,000 in the last three weeks—there was nothing in the reserve items to increase apprehension. Another reduction in member banks borrowings at the regional institutions brings the total down to $822,000,000 which, although twice that a year ago, represents a sizeable improvement from late 1928. Apparently the member banks still are using a good part of the returned holiday currency to pay off their debts at the reserve banks rather than to expand credit further. This is, of course, precisely what the reserve officials seek in their effort to strengthen the credit position.

Bill Rate Above Rediscount.

"Yesterday's advance in bill rates was the second for 1929 to date and for the first time since 1920 places this rate higher than that for rediscounts at New York. Ninety-day bills now are quoted at 5⅛-5, as against the rediscount rate of 5 per cent. In times past such an increase in bankers' acceptances has foreshadowed an increase in the rediscount rate. If precedent is an accurate guide to the present an increase in the charge for accommodations at the Reserve bank here might be set down as a reasonable expectation for next week. But convicing reasons against action at this time persuade the financial district that this shift in the bill rate does not necessarily foreshadow an increase in the rediscount charge. Chief among these are the international situation and the known desire of reserve officials to make the bill market stand on its own feet.

Question of Rate Considered.

"That reserve officials here will go slow in plans destined to affect the world money market—at a time when England prefers not to increase its own rate—is a potent argument against immediate action here. Whereas in this country the rediscount rate has been held above the bill rate in times past this policy was adopted partly to encourage the development of an American bill market. In Europe no effort is made to keep the bank rate above the bill rate. The suggestion is tendered that reserve officials have been embarrassed by this policy and that they feel the banks should in the future themselves shoulder a greater responsibility for the bill market. If these officials want to experiment they could not pick a more advantageous time than the present but whether they will allow the bill market to take care of itself for a time or as in times past raise the rediscount rate remains a matter of conjecture.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Liberal specifications against contracts continued to bring about a good production rate at steel mills, but the volume of new business in many instances was not up to expectations. This is true especially of rail and automobile orders. In the meanwhile prices were very steady, with the strength of steel scrap, of which offerings continued scarce, the main feature. Pig iron was without change.

Foreign buying of copper was renewed late in the week, with demand sufficiently large to cause predictions of record January bookings from that source. Domestic buying remained quiet, consumers evidently concluding that December statistics showing an increase of more than 13,000 tons of refined indicated a sufficient supply. Producers, however, were said to have their production well booked through part of April. Electrolytic held steady at 16⅞c, delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Tin prices turned firm toward the close of the week with an active demand from dealers and consumers for January and February deliveries.

Producers of lead reported domestic demand as slightly more active but that the market was not quotably changed.

Zinc was in moderate demand, prices were again said to be open to some shading, especially for the January-February positions.

Antimony was unchanged, despite bearish December imports and stock holdings

STEEL BOOSTED OVER 8 POINTS TO 189, RECORD

Gain of 24 Points in Three Days by Big Industrial Leader — St. Joe Lead Touches 91 1-2, New High.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Prices again moved irregularly higher on the stock market today, as further heavy buying of U. S. Steel helped to restore speculative confidence, and traders were inclined to take a less pessimistic view of the unexpected developments of the week in the money market.

U. S. Steel was boosted more than 8 points to another unprecedented price at 189, representing a gain of 24 points in three days, or an appreciation in the market value of the stock of about $17[illegible],000,000. This old time leader came back to the head of the list in grand style, after a protracted period in which it had been in comparative retirement.

Week end profit taking was fairly heavy in spots, but the Associated Press price indices again mounted, those for rails and utilities touching new high levels. Trading was in fair volume for a short session, total sales running to 2,603,200 shares.

Time Money Firm.

The strength of market yesterday, in the face of the unexpectedly large increase in brokers loans, gave considerable satisfaction to the bull party, and powerful efforts were made to get a large public following. There was a tendency to regard the increase in loans as in a large part due to New York financing. The increase in the bankers accepted rate failed to shake confidence, for although such increases have at times in past foreshadowed a jump in the reserve rediscount rate, these are largely attributed to the desire of the reserve banks to broaden the acceptance market.

The persistent firmness of time money, however, was pointed out in banking circles as clearly indicative of a sustained period of tight money, and the opinion prevailed that some readjustment would eventually be necessary.

The upturn in United States Steel led to rumors of another stock dividend. Indications of good earnings in the last quarter and the Federal tax refund of $26,000,000 had previously led to the expectations of at least an extra or an increased dividend.

Little in News.

There was little in the news of the day to affect the market. Steel scrap prices was raised 25 cents a ton at Chicago, in sympathy with previous increases at other centers. Kansas City Southern was one of the first railroads to report total net income for 1928, which was about $50,000 over the net for 1927.

Coppers again went forward. Calumet and Hecla made an extreme gain of 11 points, touching a new peak at 60. Anaconda and Kennecott were also in demand, but Greene Cananea encountered profit taking.

Rails surged ahead, New York Central, Pere Marquette and Rock Island gaining 4 points and more. St. Joseph Lead was again heavily bought, touching a new high at 91½, up about 5 points. Condé Nast ranged up 9 points, and Allied Chemical, Bayuk Cigar, National Cash Register, Fairbanks Bros., and Woolworth gained 4 to 5 points.

Motors Generally Heavy.

Motors were generally heavy, Packard losing more than 2 points and General Motors and Chrysler receding fractionally. Radio fell back 6 points to 359, while A. M. Byers, Macy and Reynolds Tobacco B yielded 2 to 4 points.

Oils rallied on report that the Cutten interest were identified with a large investment trust to deal in oil stocks, rumored being formed. Skelley mounted more than 2 points, and Standard of New York was heavily bought. Amusement shares were strong, Loews and Fox Film making good headway.

Another sag in Sterling brought them just under [illegible] and renewed talk of resumption of the gold flow from London, although it was said bankers felt that the Federal Reserve Bank would take action to prevent such a movement. Other currencies eased slightly in sympathy.

BOND MARKET DULL AND TREND LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The bond market today experienced its usual week-end dullness, with the general trend of prices downward. The first grade rails and industrials sold off, the Associated Press averages show, while the secondary rails and utilities made slight gains. Sales, totaling $5,277,000, were slightly above last Saturday's session.

International Telephone convertible 4½s on heavy buying crossed 113, again establishing a new peak price. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s yielded some, while Federal Light & Traction declined more than 2 points. Pacific Coast Terminals soared more than 3 points.

The Anaconda Copper issues were again actively sought, with the 7s advancing to within a fraction of their record price. Dodge Brothers convertible 6s, Goodyear Tire 5s, and International Cement 5s exhibited strength, with Lorillard Debenture 5s climbing 2 points. National Dairy Products 5¼s approximated their record low figure for the year. Remington Rand 5½s were weak.

Trading in rails again was dominated by St. Paul Adjustment 5s, which improved fractionally on a large turnover. Improvement also was shown by Erie Refunding and Improvement 5s, Minneapolis & St. Louis Refunding 4s and Katy Adjustment 5sA. Pennsylvania 7s declined to a new low level. New Central Refunding 5s, International Great Northern First 5s and Chesapeake & Ohio General 4½s also yielded some.

Oils improved, with Colon 6s advancing a point and Standard of New York fractionally.

Pierelli of Italy 7s with a jump of 2¼ points were the individual feature of the quiet foreign list.

U. S. Government obligations were soft.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing House Association shows: Total surplus and undivided profits, $22,787,600 increase. Net demand deposits (average), $59,963,000 decrease. Time deposits (average), $10,855,000 decrease. Clearings week ended Jan. 19, $9,172,061,044. Clearings week ended Jan. 12, $10,050,036,581. Clearings this day, $1,600,824,363.

SEEKS NEW HEARING ON U. S. BUILDING SITE

Judge Rutledge Wishes to Present Claims of Plaza Location.

Indorsements of the Plaza site for the new St. Louis Federal building voted by 37 organizations, and by the City Plan Commission, have been forwarded to the Treasury Department by the Memorial Plaza Committee. Departmental officials to meet Friday, according to previous announcements, to give final consideration to the site question.

Circuit Judge Rutledge, chairman of the Plaza Committee, who sent the indorsements to Washington, has requested, through a telegram sent by Mayor Miller, that a hearing be granted for next week, as court business will not permit him to go this week. He has also written to Congressman Dyer, who has referred the matter to the department.

In writing to Dyer, Judge Rutledge said another hearing would allay any idea that unfairness has been shown, through the recent hearing given to advocates of Broadway and Fourth street sites, at which the Plaza forces were not represented.

Judge Rutledge also emphasized the statement of the Plaza Committee that it has nothing to sell to the Government, but is organized to carry out the wishes of the people of St. Louis, in making Memorial Plaza a center of civic life, as intended in passing the bond issue. The Plaza site is at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Market streets.

The list of indorsing organizations is headed by the Bar Association, which indorsed the Plaza site by 317 votes to 198 for other locations. Others listed are:

American Legion, Central Trades & Labor Union, Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association, St. Louis Architectural Club, Cabanne District Improvement Association, Federated Improvements & Business Associations of Southwest St. Louis, Virginia Business Association, St. Louis Marble Manufacturers' Credit Association, West Florissant Avenue Merchants' Association, St. Louis Dental Society, Northwest St. Louis Improvement Association, Carpenters' District Council, St. Louis Retail Grocers' Association, St. Louis Business Men's Civic Association, Mason Contractors Benefactors & Protective Association, South Central Improvement Association, North St. Louis Business Men's Association, Electrical Employers' Association, Fifteenth Street Business Men's Association, Washington Park Improvement Association, Musicians Mutual Benefit Association, Holly Hills Improvement Association, St. Louis Shoe Manufacturers' Association, Custom Cutters' Association of St. Louis, Chouteau-Lindell Improvement Association, Sheet Metal Contractors' Association, Carondelet Improvement Association, Southampton Development League, Association of Master Plumbers of St. Louis, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, West End Business Men's Association, McPherson Avenue Association, Southwestern Mercantile Association, St. Louis Petroleum Club, Motion Picture Theater Owners and Building Trades Council.

Manufacturers Will Sponsor Special Series Of Broadcasts

Members of Association to Take Turns in Providing Features—First Program Tentatively Scheduled for Feb. 6—All the Networks to Be Used.

A series of broadcasts on a country-wide scale is to be sponsored by the Radio Manufacturers' Association. The Board of Directors of the association voted to begin the series this week and arranged tentatively for at least 14 weeks on the air. But it was later decided tentatively to begin the series on Wednesday night, Feb. 6, with a special program over the NBC Red network, in which KSD is a link.

Various types of programs are to be arranged, and each week, at a different hour to be fixed by the contributing company, some member of the association is to be responsible for the broadcast.

The programs are planned as a contribution by the radio manufacturing industry to the development of broadcasting, according to a statement by Maj. H. H. Frost, president of the RMA, and B. G. Erskine, chairman of the RMA Committee on Broadcasting. They said that all of the networks would carry the RMA broadcasts.

As a result of a survey of and by its 300 members, including most of the makers of receivers, speakers and other radio apparatus, the association's directors agreed to recommend to Congress the following modifications of the radio law:

1. That Sub-Sec. 3, of Sec. 9, of the Radio Act of 1927 as amended, be further amended to extend the period of broadcasting licenses, as 90 days is too short a period to encourage healthy investment and deprives the industry of a stability which is essential.

2. That Sec. 16 be amended to permit an appeal from a decision of the Federal Radio Commission by an aggrieved station, the public, or a state or political sub-division affected thereby.

3. That Sec. 28 be amended to prevent interception and transmission of radio broadcast programs in any manner without the consent of the station, person or company originating such program.

4. That Sec. 2 be amended to rearrange the five Federal zones so as to provide a more suitable and practicable basis for distribution of broadcasting facilities.

Radio reception, the RMA board of directors further recommended, may be improved in the following manner:

(a) By deletion of stations not performing a real service to the public.

(2) By permitting stations on cleared channels to use higher power under adequate regulation.

c) By requiring stricted adherence of stations to chanels.

(d) By permitting the use of such increased power from sunrise to sundown, Eastern standard time, as will not cause interference.

Regarding regulations to avoid undue duplication of chain programs, the RMA directors expressed the view that the Federal Radio Commission had approached this matter erroneously by its Order No. 43, suspended until Feb. 1, prohibiting duplications within arbitrary limits of 300 miles. The RMA opinion is that distance standards vary according to physical and other conditions and regulations should be based on engineering tests and actual practical results in station operation.

The directors also adopted a resolution commending the Federal Radio Commission "for the adoption and enforcement of the rule requiring that programs derived from phonographic records or other mechanical means of reproduction be announced at the beginning and end of each selection.

New Feature Begins Friday Through KSD

The Schradertown Brass Band is the title of a new feature that is to be broadcast over KSD and allied stations Friday nights at 8:30, beginning Jan. 25.

In addition to concerts by the band, listeners will overhear intimate episodes in the life of a tuba player as precipitated by his well-meaning partner.

The comedy village and its citizens are to be created for radio by A. Schrader's So·, Inc., of Brooklyn, N. Y.

OPERATIC STAR TO BROADCAST

G. MAILLARD KESSLERE B.P. PHOTO

Marguerite D'Alvarez, contralto, who is to sing title sole in "Carmen" over KSD tomorrow night.

D'Alvarez, Noted Contralto, Sings "Carmen" on KSD

Takes Title Role in Opera Broadcast From New York Tomorrow Night.

Marguerite D'Alvarez, contralto once famous in opera, is to sing the title role in a performance of "Carmen" by the National Grand Opera company of WEAF that will be broadcast over KSD tomorrow night.

Mme. D'Alvarez comes from the ancient Inca capital, Cuzco, in Peru. She made an operatic debut in Europe while a mere girl as opera singers go, and had sung in the principal opera houses of that continent before coming to this country to play a leading part in the historic operatic battle between Oscar Hammerstein and the Metropolitan Opera.

She was a member of Hammerstein's original Manhattan Opera House company, and her full, rich voice won her high praise in contralto and mezzo soprano roles. She was starred by Hammerstein when his fight with the Metropolitan reached its height, in 1910. She sang the role of Carmen with great success both in New York and with the Chicago Opera company

In 1911, Mme. D'Alvarez sang for Hammerstein in London, winning especial success in "Carmen," "Herodiade" and "Louise." She has made long concert tours in Europe, South America, Mexico, Canada and this country.

In addition to Mme. D'Alvarez, the cast for tomorrow night's radio "Carmen" is to include: Julian Oliver, tenor, as Don Jose; Theodore Webb, baritone, as the toreador; Marjorie Horton, soprano, as Micaela, and Nino Ruisi, basso, as Zuniga.

Evangeline Will Be Heroine of Eveready Drama

"Evangeline," gentle heroine of Longfellow's poem, will be the subject of the Eveready Hour over KSD next Tuesday evening. Fashioned on the play based on Longfellow's poem, and written by Thomas W. Broadhurst, the Eveready Hour presentation will portray the love of Evangeline, the Acadian maiden, for Gabriel; their separation during the forced exile of the Acadians from Grand Pre; the wandering through the Southern United States in search of Gabriel, and the reunion in Philadelphia in the hour of Gabriel's death.

Rosaline Green, the Eveready Hour's leading lady, will enact the role of Evangeline. Reginald Barlow will be narrator, reading Longfellow's verse between the four episodes, in explanation of the intervening action. The cast will include Frederick Forrester, Ed Thompson, Richard Abbott, Jack McBryde and Marcella Shields.

A musical setting for the program will be provided by the Eveready Hour orchestra, under Nathaniel Shilkret.

Paul Whiteman Will Broadcast Weekly Concert

Famous Orchestra Leader Booked on Columbia Chain Beginning Feb. 5.

Paul Whiteman for the first time is going on the air in an extended broadcast program. On Feb. 5, Whiteman and his orchestra are to begin a series of at least nine weekly concerts to inaugurate one of the larger broadcast programs of the year—the Old Gold hour, for the P. Lorillard Co., which has just signed a contract with the Columbia Broadcasting System involving an expenditure of about $1,000,000 for time on the air alone.

The broadcasts are to involve an additional expenditure for music and entertainers of about $250,000 in a year. The contract is to run for two years, which means a total broadcasting outlay of $1,500,000.

Paul Whiteman has broadcast on two or three notable occasions, but until now withstood all temptation to undertake a regular radio program.

The Old Gold hour is to go on the air from 8 to 9 o'clock, St. Louis time, on Tuesday nights. KMOX, WABC as key station, and 41 other stations in a coast-to-coast chain are to broadcast the feature.

It is said that Whiteman is planning some jazz novelties and an exceptional opening program.

Pioneers in KSD Broadcast Monday

History in the making during pinoeer days of the Northwest will again be recalled in "The Empire Builders" broadcast over KSD tomorrow night.

The radio audience on that night may journey by dogsled with James J. Hill over the passes that led from St. Paul to Winnipeg. It was on this trip that Hill by chance met Lord Strathcona on the banks of the Red River, and out of this meeting grew the Canadian Pacific and Great Northern railways.

On this trip also, Hill fought his half-breed guide, caught attempting to steal the provisions of the dogtrain expedition. The encounter took place on what is now the campus of the University of North Dakota.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum Stars To Go on Air Tuesday Nights

Vaudeville and NBC Featured Entertainers to Be Billed in Broadcast Series—KSD One of Stations Selected for Chain.

A new broadcast series is to be put on the air by the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, co-operating with the National Broadcasting Co.

KSD is one of the stations on a coast-to-coast network selected for carrying these programs, the first of which is scheduled for next Tuesday night at 10 o'clock.

The new feature is to be called the "Radio-Keith-Orpheum Hour," and will enlist entertainers from both companies.

Next Tuesday night's broadcast is to bring a number of Radio-Keith-Orpheum stars, including Belle Baker, Mae Murray, Will Fyffe, Nick Lucas and others. They will broadcast from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Chicago. The presentation will constitute a sort of radio tour of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum theaters in those cities, as the microphones in most cases will be placed in the dressing rooms of the entertainers.

The program involves intricate switching from city to city. It will use approximately 50,000 miles of special wire circuits.

Hiram S. Brown, who became president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum on the first of the year, will speak during the opening program.

Opera Singers on KSD Monday Night

Four artists from the Metropolitan Opera are to be featured in the General Motors Party over KSD tomorrow night. They are: Louise Lerch, soprano; Dorothea Flexer, contralto; Armand Tokatyan, tenor, and George Cehanovsky, baritone.

They will sing as a quartet and as soloists, and will have the support of a symphony orchestra and a chorus from the Metropolitan Opera. The program will bring arias and orchestral music from operas by nine famous composers.

Radio Supervisor In City This Week For Examinations

H. D. Hayes, Federal Supervisor of Radio, is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis Tuesday, to remain the balance of the week. Friday, he will conduct examinations for commercial radio operators, and Saturday examinations for amateur radio operators. The examinations are to be held in Room 214, old customhouse, Third and Olive streets. He is to hold radio conferences at the Mayfair Hotel.

Amateur radio station operators who have received temporary licenses, and reside in St. Louis or within a reasonable distance from this city, are required to appear for the examination. Otherwise they are liable to have their temporary amateur licenses and their amateur radio station licenses cancelled.

Hayes' office as Federal Radio Supervisor is in Room 2022, the Engineering building, Chicago.

Majestic Theater of the Air, at 8 p. m. Miller and Lyles, famous colored comedians, are to be the featured entertainers. The two rank second only to Florence Mills in theatrical fame among the colored race. "Chocolate Dandies" and "Shuffle Along" brought them to public notice, and since that time they have starred in "Runnin' Wild," "Rang Tang" and "Keep Shufflin'," besides many engagements in vaudeville.

Redferne Hollinshead, one of the more popular radio tenors, is to sing again tonight in the Majestic Hour. Arnold Johnson's orchestra will furnish the musical background.

De Forest band concert, with Arthur Pryor conducting an all-Sousa program at 9 p. m.:

Presidential Polonaise, Mars and Venus, from Suite, "Looking Upwards;" Will You Love When the Lilies Are Dead; "El Capitan;" The Red Man, from Suite, "Dwelling in the Western World;" Sextet, "Bride Elect;" High School Cadets, Washington Post and Stars and Stripes Forever Marches, band.

Souvenir Hour, at 9:30 p. m., "The Lost Chord" will be among the "memory songs" to be played and sung.

Way Found to Put Many Sets On Single Aerial

Reception Like That in the Open Country Said to Be Possible.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Centralized radio, by which hundreds under one roof can listen in, has been evolved by engineers.

Intended to meet the needs of listeners in hotels and hospitals, the plan also makes possible elimination of the many aerials on apartment houses.

The engineering staffs of RCA and its associate companies have developed equipment, described as "audio centralized radio," for hospital or hotel. It consists of units mounted in switchboard form. One receiver, with amplifying distribution equipment, constitutes one program or listening channel. As many as four channels may be installed to give a wide program choice.

The central installation comprises a broadcast receiver, a monitoring speaker panel, one to three amplifiers and a control panel. The receiver for each channel is tuned to a given station and the dials locked. A time clock switch starts and stops the program at any designated hour. Wires carrying voice currents lead to outlets in rooms in all parts of the building.

For apartment houses where listeners have their own receivers a single antenna can be made to supply signals to a radio for all receivers in the building.

Replacing separate aerials, a single antenna 50 to 75 feet above the roof is erected. Its short lead-in goes to a battery of central coupling units. From each coupling unit a line of metal conduit, enclosing radio frequency cable, takes the signal into the building. In each apartment an extension coupling unit transfers the RF energy to the receiver through a wall outlet.

Any type of aerial and ground set may be operated. Each receiver has its own coupling tube and B eliminator, which are built into the wall outlet.

The distribution system does not pick up additional signals or interference, and its length has no influence on the wavelength. Engineers say it gives reception that rivals that in the open country.

The central coupling units, designed to prevent interaction between the receivers, comprise coupling tubes and B eliminators. Each "riser" or transmission line has a central coupling unit. Ten receiving set coupling units may be placed on one "riser."

St. Louis Girl to Sing on Air.

Ethel Louise Wright, a former St. Louis girl, is to be a soloist tomorrow night in the Roxy's Gang broadcast over KWK and allied chain stations. She went to New York from St. Louis four years ago. She has held leading roles in "The Desert Song" and "Rose Marie" in New York and on the road.

Famous Tenor To Be Soloist In Concert on KSD Tonight

Lauri-Volpi to Sing With Girl Winner of National Audition—Biblical Drama Written Around Judas—Another Broadcast by Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Edward Wolter, baritone soloist with the Peerless orchestra, is to sing "Tommy Lad" and "Danny Deever" in the first network broadcast over KSD at 12:30 this afternoon. The Peerless program will include:

Bells Across the Meadows .... [illegible]
Habanera, from "Natoma" .... [illegible]
Tommy Lad .... [illegible]
Edward Wolter
Ye Who Have Yearned Alone.. [illegible]
Colinette .... [illegible]
Danny Deever .... [illegible]
Edward Wolter
Bolero .... [illegible]

A dramatic poem "Judas Iscariot" is to be broadcast with musical accompaniment in the Bible drama period over KSD at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The characters will be Judas Iscariot, a friend, Caiaphas, the priest, and a thief.

The broadcast opens with a dialogue between Caiaphas and Judas, in which Caiaphas treats Judas with scorn and mocks him for selling his master for 30 pieces of silver. The second scene, representing the struggle in Judas' soul, will be interpreted largely by music.

A musical prelude will suggest the increasing isolation of Judas as the opening of the third scene. In this scene he goes to a tavern seeking company, but his silver is refused and he is called a betrayer and left alone. Next Judas visits a company of thieves and asks to play and drink with them, but the thieves cast aspersions on him also and say they do not desire his company.

The next "air portrait" of Judas will find him pleading to God for a human voice to speak to him. Then seeing a child, he talks with him until the child is called away by its mother. In the following scene Judas awakens from sleep finding no mercy toward him even in his dreams and decides in the loneliness of the desert to kill himself.

It is as Judas cries out in anguish that he "has no hope of heaven nor fear of hell," and takes his life, that the broadcast comes to an end.

This afternoon's Twilight [illegible] concert at 4:30 over KSD is to bring this music:

Vesper Hour .... [illegible]
How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps.. [illegible]
Mixed Quartet
Eleanor .... [illegible]
String Trio
Song of the Bells .... [illegible]
Quartet
The Kiss .... [illegible]
Soprano and Trio
Bowl of Roses .... [illegible]
Quartet
Souvenir .... [illegible]
String Trio
Chanson Norvegienne .... [illegible]
Soprano and Tenor
Deep River .... [illegible]
Quartet

The pageant with which a Cincinnati industrial exposition opened in September, 1882, is to be recalled in the Stetson Parade broadcast over KSD at 5 o'clock this afternoon. This pageant was noteworthy for the beauty of the floats at the start and their wrecked condition after traversing several miles of rutted, unpaved streets. The Weymouth Post Band will furnish the music as usual.

Irma de Baun, soprano, is to be featured in the Dictagraph broadcast at 5:30 over KSD. The program:

King Cotton .... [illegible]
"Heat" Medley:
Heart of My Heart, I Love You
All That I Want Is Love
Last Night Was the End of the World
Quartet
Eli Green's Cake Walk .... [illegible]
Orchestra
A Pretty Girl .... [illegible]
Soprano
Radium Dance .... [illegible]
Orchestra
Sue, Dear .... [illegible]
Redfern Hollinshead, Tenor
Waiting at the Church
Miss Albertson, Contralto
Zenda Waltzes .... [illegible]
Orchestra
Midnight Choo-Choo
Quartet
Selections—The Beauty Spot — [illegible]

The familiar, but ever lovely "Berceuse," from "Jocelyn," is to be played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in its concert over KSD from 6 to 7 o'clock this evening. Details of this program follow:

Overture to "Tannhauser" .... [illegible]
Andante con moto, from Symphony No. 5 .... [illegible]
"Toreador and Andalusian," from "The Costume Ball" .... [illegible]
Berceuse, from "Jocelyn" .... [illegible]
'Cello obbligato, Alfred Wallenstein
Lyric Suite .... [illegible]
Shepherd's Boy
Norwegian Rustic March
Nocturne
March of the Dwarfs
Roses from the South .... [illegible]

Sylvia Miller, 18-year-old [illegible] Capitol Family program from [illegible] soprano, is to be featured in the 8 o'clock over KSD.

Hazel Cecilia Arth, winner of first place in the recent radio audition, and Giacomo Lauri-Volpi, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, will be soloists in the Atwater Kent Hour at 8:15 tonight over KSD.

Miss Arth, the Washington [illegible] ister, won first place over thousands of women contestants throughout the country. She tried in 1927, but failed to reach the finals, and her victory came as the result of a year of intensive study. She is a contralto.

As Miss Arth steps before the microphone she lays aside her amateur standing essential to qualification in the Atwater Kent Audition, and makes her professional debut. For Lauri-Volpi it is also a radio debut.

Lauri-Volpi is a native of [illegible] where he studied in the Academy of Saint Cecilia before the war. He fought on the front [illegible]

Here in a few words is the story of the latest Majestic Achievement:

To build a product better, finer and for less money than has ever been asked for the highest quality merchandise before, is no easy task. All this, and more, was accomplished by MAJESTIC Electric Radio in 1928—an achievement that set the world to talking, thinking and buying MAJESTIC. Since last June, when the first MAJESTIC receiver left the factory, over 600,000 MAJESTICS have been produced, and are giving such consistently good performance that this, too, has amazed the world.

To make a product better than those that have gone before was a real achievement—but how to make the best product that could be made for the money still better, was a task that might well appear impossible.

Yet MAJESTIC has done it. Under the guiding hand of William C. Grunow, a genius of production, whose foresight, imagination, and ability to weave the finest technical achievements into mass production of radio receivers, has brought him international fame—A new and finer MAJESTIC has been created.

Its performance is astonishing, its beauty outstanding, its price amazing.

When you see and hear these new MAJESTIC receivers, you forget all but quality—quality of performance, quality of appearance that you can really feel. You only know you want to own one of these new models—to have it for your very own—to add breathless beauty to your home and give you matchless performance which puts a new song of happiness in your heart.

Forget all but quality, yet receive your greatest thrill when you learn the price. For MAJESTIC'S newest achievement, the radio with quality you can feel, is within reach of every purse.

Allan Jones Sings In Sonora Program

Sir Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance No. 2" which is less frequently heard than the No. 1, will be the Symphony Orchestra's opening number on the Sonora program over KMOX next Thursday. The orchestra also will play the "Abduction of the Bride," from the "Peer Gynt Suite No. 2" of Grieg, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble-Bee."

Allan Jones, tenor, will sing Cadman's "The Moon Drops Low" and "L'Amour, Toujours l'Amour" by Friml. Three numbers by the Sonora male trio will complete the program.

Prehistoric Life To Be Topic of Talks on WLW

Series on Wednesday Evenings Scheduled to Begin Jan. 30.

Life in prehistoric ages will be the subject of a series of radio talks to be given over WLW by Dr. C. L. Fenton, curator of paleontology of the University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Fenton will begin his talks on Wednesday, Jan. 30, at 6 p. m. St. Louis time with a description of big game hunting in ancient days.

The talks will be given every Wednesday at the same time until March 6.

Ancient life, as revealed in the fossilized remains of plants and animals, will be discussed. Dr. Fenton plans to avoid technical terms that would confuse anyone not a scientist.

The following schedule is announced:

Jan. 30—Hunting Big Game of Ancient Days.

Feb. 6—Ancient Seas Become Mountains.

Feb. 13.—Life in the Coal Swamps and Salt Deserts.

Feb. 20. — Reptiles of Lost Worlds.

Feb. 27.—Extinct Mammals of the United States.

March 6—Everyday Life in the Ice Age.

In his talk on Jan. 30, Dr. Fenton will outline the reasons for field expeditions into such regions as the Gobi Desert, and the methods by which they are conducted. He will describe the hunting and finding of bones, and the care with which they must be chiseled from their rock beds before being wrapped in plaster of paris to ship for museum displays.

There are 884 channels available for point-to-point radio communication in the bands allocated by the international radio convention for the entire world—between 6000 and 23,000 kilocycles (50 to 13,043 meters). These are the frequencies which are generally desired for long-distance circuits. Of this number the United States has already allocated 228 frequencies, or 25 per cent of the world total.

Famous Tenor in Concert Tonight On Station KSD

Trentino and Carso, and emerged from the conflict a Captain with a silver medal and a cross of war.

His operatic debut at the Costanzi Theater in Rome was a great success, resulting almost immediately in his appearance at Scala, in Milan, the goal of every singer. He then sang in the large opera houses in Italy, followed by a tour of South America.

The program will open with the Russian and Ludmilla overture, by the orchestra, which will play as an interlude "In the Village," closing with the Spanish Rhapsody of Chabrier.

Miss Arth will sing "Nocturne," "Do Not Go My Love," "Annie Laurie" and the aria with which she won the audition, "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix."

Laurai-Volpi's opera solos will include "Cielo e mar" from "La Giocsonda," "La donna e mobile" from "Rigoletto," and "Celeste Aida" from "Aida."

Other songs by the tenor will be "Vaghissimi Sembianza," "Ridonami la Calma" by Tosti, "Maggiolata," and the Spanish folk song "Jota, te quiero, morena." He also will sing "At Dawning" and "Where My Caravan Has Rested."

Short Wave Receiver.

Great care must be taken in wiring short wave receivers. All wires must be kept as short as possible and each led directly from one point to another. A good-looking job often results in a set not nearly as efficient as one of the "hay wire" type.

Broadcasting on Directive Plan To Be Attempted

WTIC, Hartford, Conn., is to attempt to us its 50,000 watt transmitter, now under construction, in such fashion that the strength of signals sent westward will be possibly ten times that of signals transmitted eastward.

The idea is to gain increased intensity of signals in the territory spreading out fan-fashion from Hartford to the West, Northwest and Southwest by conserving energy that otherwise would be wasted over the Atlantic Ocean.

A sending antenna system of "tuned reflectors" is being devised for WTIC, to be ready for operation when the new station is completed—probably by next June.

If it works as designed, WTIC will be able to send signals out over most of the United States with even greater power than the actual power of its 50,000 watt transmitter would warrant, but will transmit with only about 5000 watts power over that part of New Enland east and northeast of Hartford.

WTIC's new transmitter is to be of the same high modulation type as that now used by WLW, Cincinnati, Ohio. So listeners in this part of the country can realize how its signals should come "booming" in.

The bearing of the WTIC experiment, if successful, on the allocation problem is obvious, especially as affecting stations alonf the Canadian border, the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, and the Gulf of Mexico.

Health Broadcast Series Announced

Men recognized as leaders among the health and medical authorities in this country are to take part in a series of programs to be broadcast over an NBC chain, including KWK and KYW, on Friday nights.

Surgeon General M. W. Ireland, of the United States Army, is to be the speaker in the first program, set for the night of Jan. 25. He has won international standing in preventive medicine and sanitation. The series will be sponsored by E. R. Squibb & Sons.

Radiograms.

New wave lengths are now in effect all over Europe.

In the United States there are 16,926 licensed amateur radio stations.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

Announcing the NEW

ELECTRO-DYNAMIC!

Of course you want an Electro-Dynamic set. Of course you want it to be an Atwater Kent. Now you can have it—and in your choice of table model or all-in-one set (completely Atwater Kent). And, as always, at the most moderate price for which fine radio can be purchased.

MODEL 46, the new all-electric receiver. Lacquer finished. FULL-VISION Dial. Uses 7 A. C. tubes and 1 rectifying tube, with double power tube stage. Without tubes, $83.

MODEL F-2 (Electro-Dynamic) speaker. True to the whole range of music. $34.

THE Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic!

The whole range of the grand organ or a full orchestra—the new Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic captures everything and reproduces everything. Its all-comprehensive realism you will appreciate instantly.

And this new radio is just as faithful to the human voice as it is to musical instruments. It no more suggests mechanical reproduction than does the trill of a lark. The singer, or announcer, or actor in a radio play, is—himself. You can't ask more than that!

MODEL 53, Electro-Dynamic all-in-one set. Compact lacquered cabinet. Fits so beautifully anywhere. Without tubes, $117.

Do you like to enjoy an orchestra or play from the best seat in the house? It's like that! Do you like to pick out the individual instruments and follow them as they weave their golden fabric? You can!

Do you like deep richness of tone? Do you like to hear the bass viol, the tuba and the drums—the bumble-bees of an orchestra—sound like the real thing—without over-emphasis anywhere?

As the music climbs from the caverns of the basses to the heights that only the violin and the piccolo can reach—do you want to know you are missing nothing?

Not only does the new Atwater Kent give you all this with finer, truer tone and ample volume made possible by Electro-Dynamic reproduction. It is—as you would expect from Atwater Kent—a very simple instrument. One cord to a lamp socket brings electricity to both receiver and speaker. One switch (on the receiver) turns everything on or off.

The Atwater Kent laboratory—which gave radio the true one dial, the compact, shielding case and so many other improvements—has worked a long time in perfecting the Electro-Dynamic. It was determined to achieve not just another example of the Electro-Dynamic principle but the perfection of it.

When the laboratory engineers said: "Here it is. It's what we wanted," the factory found out how this new set could be made at an Atwater Kent price—which always means the very lowest price for fine radio.

And here it is! Compact. Good looking. Electrically, mechanically, and acoustically as good an instrument as can be. Made with Atwater Kent precision. Durable. Reliable. Perfected.

Your ears will tell you there is no finer reception. Your knowledge of values will tell you that only the demand for Atwater Kent Radio (now in more than 2,000,000 homes) could make possible such a price.

With the winter not yet half over, with evening after evening and year after year of entertainment yet to come, you just can't afford not to see and hear the Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic. Do it! Enjoy yours now.

Radio Education Success in Britain

Evidence has been obtained by the British Broadcasting Co. that its attempts to educate adults by means of broadcast lectures are proving a success.

A million pamphlets, to be used in conjunction with educational talks, have been sold in the last 12 months. These pamphlets, costing one penny each, were forwarded in response to application by letter.

Since educational bodies enlisted the aid of radio, their membership has increased. One hundred and forty groups of listeners meet to hear the broadcast lectures and afterwards discuss and debate them.

An official of the company who undertok a tour of the country districts to obtain first-hand evidence of the interest in educational broadcasts learned that farm workers in the agricultural county of Sussex read and enjoyed Plato's "Republic" after hearing a broadcast talk on philosophy.

Libraries throughout the British Isles are advised in time to enable them to order advance stocks of books on subjects about the broadcast.

Power for Dynamic Speaker.

Power to energize the large electro-magnet, a part of all modern dynamic speakers, must be received from some power source, such as a storage battery, 110 volt D. C. or 110 volt A. C. light socket. The speaker cannot be changed about indiscriminately on these power sources, but must be equipped for operation from one of them to the exclusion of the others. For instance, if the magnet of a dynamic speaker is designed to operate from a 110-volt D. C. light socket it cannot be used on a 6-volt storage battery or a 110-volt A. C. light socket. There are two other leads, telephone cords, for attachment to the output of any vacuum tube receiver, which, for best operation, should be equipped with a power tube.

Radio Trade Notes

More than 400 dealers in Majestic receivers attended a convention at the Chase Hotel on Thursday, at which the Benwood-Linze Co., Majestic distributer, was host. The new Majestic sets—a lowboy and a highboy model—were exhibited. Harold J. Wrape, president of the Benwood-Linze Co., told the dealers that a Majestic radio-phonograph combination and a full line of Majestic AC tubes were coming soon.

One of the new Majestics—model 71—comes in a console of post Colonial design, the instrument panel being of matched burl walnut framed with a paneling of bird's-eye maple and matched burl walnut.

The other set—model 72—is a somewhat larger console type in Louis XVI design with doors in diamonds of matched Oriental walnut with inlaid marquetry border. The instrument panel is in the same wood framed with butt walnut and bird's-eye maple panelling.

Both models have a seven-tube chassis, with push pull audio and an improved dynamic speaker.

Duane Wanamaker, director of advertising and sales promotion for the Grigsby-Grunow Co., Chicago, predicted a wonderful radio year, as 1928 only ushered in the AC set and started the demand for it. He said the Chicago plants were making and shipping 4000 Majestic sets a day and that no receivers were being stored. There was no let-up in demand in sight, he asserted.

"The new Majestic sets have been designed with special attention to furniture appeal," he said. "Production will concentrate on the lowboy and highboy models and on a combination that is coming.

"Six Grigsby-Grunow plants are operating with 6500 employes, and a seventh has been rented for a Majestic AC tube factory. Contracts for the tube making machinery have been let and it is expected that we will be making tubes by early summer. Altogether, the Majestic plants occupy more than 1,200,000 square feet of floor space."

Wrape, in opening the convention, told of the rise of Majestic in a year to a leading place in the radio industry. He remarked that the new models had been designed to disturb present owners of Majestic receivers as little as possible.

Wanamaker told the dealers of Majestic's advertising plans. Other speakers were: John E. Maunder, territory supervisor for Grigsby-Grunow Co.; B. S. Tucker, who has been appointed sales manager of the Benwood-Linze Co., and E. A. Reutner, a widely known St. Louis radio man, who has been made sales promotion manager for the Benwood-Linze Co. A new member of the Benwood-Linze organization seen at the convention was M. Selzer, who has been appointed a territory representative.

A banquet and entertainment at the Chase Hotel Thursday night was attended by more than 500 Majestic dealers.

The offices of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association are being moved from the twelfth floor to the larger quarters on the sixteenth floor of the Syndicate Trust Building. The change is necessitated by increased activity of the association, according to W. E. Mackle, executive secretary.

The 1929 line of Lyric receivers was shown to distributers for the All-American Mohawk Corporation at a convention in Chicago Jan. 4. The new line includes a table type and two consoles, all with improved dynamic speakers and refinements in both chassis and furniture.

Alfred Marchev, president of Temple, Inc., of Chicago, announces that his company has acquired control of the Sleeper Radio & Manufacturing Co., Long Island City, N. Y. The Sleeper Co. has long made a quality radio receiver and the Temple Co. is widely known for its radio speakers and acoustical devices. Acquisition of the Sleeper company gives Temple Inc. recognition and license from the R. C. A., permitting it to enter the receiver manufacturing field. Gordon C. Sleeper, president of the Sleeper Co., goes to Chicago as vice president of the Temple Inc., taking charge of sales and advertising for both companies. Marchev said it was the present intention to operate the two companies as separate manufacturing and selling units.

A plan for insuring against fire and theft radio sets and speakers sold on installments, as is the custom in the automobile industry, was discussed by Julian Sampson, president, at a meeting of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association on Wednesday night at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Harold J. Wrape, president of the Federated Radio Trades Association, a national body, told of plans for the annual convention in Buffalo on Feb. 18-19. The association represents manufacturers, jobbers and dealers.

Calling attention to the annual election of officers of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, Sampson said the members should not accept the report of the Nominating Committee as final, but should regard it only as a recommendation to start nominations.

Executive Secretary W. E. McMackle reported that 10 new members have joined the association.

The St. Louis radio trade is realizing that one of the chief problems in retailing is price maintenance. With that in mind, the directors of the association are approaching the matter of purchasing departments of large industrial companies buying receivers and other radio apparatus for employes and their friends.

Addition of a Model 46 Atwater Kent receiver, with push pull 171A power tube audio amplification, was reported yesterday by Norman S. Hall, president of the Brown & Hall Supply Co., on his return from a convention of distributers at the Atwater Kent plant in Philadelphia, Pa. The Model 46 is an ell-electric set with seven tubes and rectifier. It is described as an electrio-dynamic receiver. It comes in smooth black Duco with soft red or green top, or in brown gold crystaline finish.

The new receiver uses four 326 AC tubes, a 327 AC tube, two 371 power tubes and a 380 rectifying tube.

Brown reported also addition of a Model F-2 electro-dynamic speaker of great volume handling capacity and realistic tone.

Several carloads of the new Model 46 receivers have reached St. Louis.

Brown and Fred Wiebe, vice president and sales manager of the Brown & Hall Co., went to Philadelphia on a special train with distributers from all over the Southwest.

"The Model 46 is the first Atwater Kent receiver to use the 371 type of power tube in push pull audio," Brown said.

"We found construction of the huge addition to the Atwater Kent factories well under way. When it is completed, the Atwater Kent plants will have 33 acres of floor space. Last fall the Atwater Kent plant was turning out an average of 1000 sets an hour. The new factory should be in production in May. So you can imagine what Atwater Kent production capacity will be then.

"A. Atwater Kent said early last year that in the fiscal year from May 1, 1928, to May 1, 1929, he would manufacture and sell 1,000,000 sets. He lacks only 200,000 of doing it now, and still has nearly four months to go. There are 2,000,000 Atwater Kent sets in owners' hands.

"When the Model 37 Atwater Kent set was announced Jan. 2, 1928, business immediately picked up. Instead of a holiday boom and lean warm weather business, it made a profit for Atwater Kent dealers in every month of the year just ended. A. Atwater Kent says the new line will do the same thing this year."

Quartet of 'Cellos on WLW.

A quartet of 'cellists will play "Song of Dedication" (Grutzmac) and "Ave Maria" (Fitzenhagen) in a Musicale Novelisque over WLW at 10:15 tonight.

NURMI SETS WORLD RECORD IN OPENING U. S. CAMPAIGN

Mehlhorn Among Three Tied for Lead in El Paso Open

AL ESPINOSA AND HARRY COOPER MATCH 36-HOLE TOTAL OF 137

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 19.—Bill Mehlhorn, Harry "Lighthorse" Cooper and Al Espinosa were tied for honors at the completion of the first 36 holes today of the third annual El Paso 72-hole golf tournament, which will come to a close tomorrow. The three negotiated the first half of the tournament barrier with scores of 137.

Fifty-five entries, comprising some of the best known golfers of the nation, are participating in the tournament over the El Paso Country Club course.

Al Watrous, Bobby Cruickshank, Joe Kirkwood, Horton Smith and Johnny Golden are among the better known players participating.

Miss Turpie Wins Title at Biloxi.

By the Associated Press.

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 19.—Miss Marion Turpie of New Orleans, Southern champion, won the Pan-American women's golf tournament here today, defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago in the final, 7 up and 6 to play.

Mrs. Jones yesterday upset the tournament dope by defeating Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia.

Young Collegian Captures Tourney.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 19.—Playing the most spectacular golf seen here in several years, Carl Morris Dann Jr., 19, of Orlando, Fla., beat Harold Webber of Toledo, five times Ohio State champion, by 3 and 1 today to claim the national championship of Golf Club Champions trophy.

The Rollins College freshman starting on the second hole this morning set a terrific pace all day. Only through great golf was the veteran Webber able to even the match on the seventeenth in the first 18 holes, and this afternoon, after having been four down twice, the Ohioan lost his chance on the seventeenth, where his chip shot was too far from the pin.

Dann went through the entire tournament in even fours, including one round at 75, his highest score. Today, he was stroke for stroke with Webber from tees and his iron shots were under control, while Webber's were inclined to wander. Dann shot three par five holes in birdies.

BRETZ AND CONNELL WIN SKATING TITLES

Two city skating championships were decided yesterday afternoon at the Winter Garden rink. John Bretz added the 220-yard junior title to his list when he defeated Robert McDonald and Elbert Hunter in the finals. The time was 25 seconds.

The 220-yard juvenile honors were won by Truman Connell, who defeated Leonard Leffler and James Mackey. Connell circled the rink in 26 seconds.

Diving Season Is Over.

AFTER next Friday Young Stribling will settle down to some serious and, perhaps, more arduous work. On Jan. 25 the diving season for Stribling opponents ends, with Solly Montgomery scheduled to head into the canvas for knockout No. 110, or thereabouts. The ensuing work of preparing for Sharkey will probably be more strenuous than his recent fighting.

Stribling is trying to write into the pugilistic guide the highest total of knockouts known to man; but considering the setups who faced him, it is a moot question whether the achievement should not rather be included among the plain and fancy diving records.

In Dempsey's Day.

ONCE upon a time they charged that Jack Dempsey was padding his record with pushovers. But the lowliest victim of Dempsey's mitts could finish the Art Maley, the Jack League and the Billy Freas type quite as quickly as Stribling has done.

It took Dempsey just 18 seconds to blot out Fred Fulton; but Fred could have cleaned out almost any 10 of Stribling's victims in one night.

One can't blame the fighter who, with such bait, is still able to attract fans in paying numbers to see him. Fans are not so dumb. They can smell a spoiled cod as far as wiser men. If they pay to see Stribling it is with their eyes open—they want to see Strib, no matter who his foe may be.

But when he points with pride to his wonderful record we can only grasp the nose firmly between the thumb and forefinger and register pain and deep grief.

Mr. Pesek Becomes Normal.

A FEW years ago that near-champion wrestler, John Pesek, went to the dogs. Reports today indicate that he has returned to normalcy.

On the one hand, Promoter Al Haft of Columbus, O., informs us that he has acceded to the management of Pesek while in the Greyhound Graphic we learn that John has quit the dogs—or that part of the canine promotion which relates to greyhound racing. The publication sets forth that Pesek has sold six racing dogs and has offered for sale some 50 more, probably his entire stable.

Putting the two together, we absorb the thought that at last Pesek is going to start a real drive for the title. We hope he wins it, but not in the Ed Lewis, Big Munn or Gus Sonnenberg way. We prefer our champions to win by skill, and not by theatricals.

Had the Title—a Few Minutes.

PESEK, as nearly as we can piece together from accounts of his match with Joe Stecher, in Los Angeles, two or three years ago, won the title then fairly enough, pinning Stecher.

The referee slapped John on the back and Pesek arose, world champion—for a few minutes only.

For, history relates, the referee, after adjourning to the dressing room and conversing with Stecher and others, later announced that Pesek had not won, but had LOST the match on a foul!

That wasn't all John lost, we are informed by the underground route. There was a matter of some $20,000 protection money lingering around, concerning which Pesek once wailed loudly but without avail.

John may be willing to win the title, but how to get it? Sonnenberg will surprise everyone if he consents to meet him. And, whether he deserves it or not, Sonny boy is the only champion we have.

Rickard's Post to Go to Dempsey if Bout in Florida Goes Over

By Edward J. Neil,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—They're putting the acid test on the vaunted drawing power of William Harrison Dempsey down under the waving palms of Florida's playgrounds.

Not as a fighter who pulled close to $10,000,000 through fistiania's turnstiles as the greatest ring attractions of all times, but as a promotor is the final test of the old Manassa Mauler being made. The makers are the directors of Madison Square Garden and the reward of success is the empty chair that stands before Tex Rickard's two-tone bronze desk in the garden.

That chair and all the power that went with it when Rickard played his lone hand as a promoter and sometimes told his board of directors of his fantastic plans just in time for them to order seats will be offered to Dempsey if the meeting of Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami Beach Feb. 27 turns out a financial success. Otherwise Dempsey must return to fisticuffing to re-kindle the interest of the Garden directorate. The quest of as successor to the late promoter will follow other channels.

This analysis of the troublesome situation in boxing left by Rickard's death is made by one of the Garden's most powerful directors. He won't sign the confession, but he swears it's the truth and is willing to elaborate.

Dempsey, it seems, has agreed to serve his apprenticeship, to stand or fall as a promoter and the successor of Rickard, on the financial outcome of the battle of the South, the last and one of the most ambitious of all the Rickard schemes. He is interested financially in the dog track where the fight will take place and which Rickard controlled. His willingness to forego another shot at the title Gene Tunney snatched away is seen in

15,000 ORDERS FOR TICKETS FOR FLORIDA FIGHT

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 19.—Cash and reservations for Sharkey-Stribling fight seats swamped officials of Madison Square Garden Corporation at their offices here today.

Jack Dempsey, promoter, and W. F. Carey, secretary of the corporation, reported they had received by mail, telegraph and cable more than $10,000 in cash orders for seats, and 15,000 reservations which were not accompanied by the price of admission.

Georgia, in particular, is taking the fight seriously, Dempsey said, as he spread over a desk in his office several hundred reservations made by "neighbors" of Stribling.

Dempsey and Carey today leased an ocean front home as headquarters for fight officials.

Clas Thunberg Skates 500 Meters In Record Time

By the Associated Press.

DAVOS, Switzerland, Jan. 19. CLAIMS to two new world's records were set up today at the European speed skating championships when Clas Thunberg of Finland won the 500-meter event and Ballangrud of Norway won the 5000-meter event.

Thunberg's time was 42 4-5 seconds and the two Norwegians, Ballangrud and Pedersen, tied for second place in 43 4-5 seconds.

In the 5000-meter event, Ballangrud's time was eight minutes, 24½ seconds. Thunberg was second in eight minutes, 40 4-5 seconds.

ILLINOIS SWIMMING TEAM BEATS CHICAGO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 19.—Scoring first in every event but the 150-yard back stroke and taking the two relay events, Coach Manley's University of Illinois swimming team started the Big Ten Conference season this afternoon by defeating Chicago, 56 to 15.

The water polo game ended Illinois 5, Chicago 2.

Ray Holmes, With 1684, Leads First 4 Squads In Peterson Classic

Ray Holmes, with a score of 1684 for eight games, took the lead in the Charles C. Peterson Tenpin Classic at the Peterson Alleys yesterday afternoon. He rolled on the second squad.

Five of Holmes' eight games were 200 or over. His best 10-frame score was 235 and his lowest single game was 189.

Eddie Grubb had the highest single game bowled with a 269. But Eddie was off to a bad start and did not get going until his seventh game when he shot 225 and came back with the 269 but he had lost his chance earlier. His low score was 144.

Blickhaun had a high game of 256 and a low score of 169 while Exler shot a high game of 247 and a low score of 144.

Heuerman was high man on the first squad with a score of 1623 and he also had the high single game on that squad with 246. His low game was 176.

Alley owners and those employed by bowling alleys were barred in this year's tournament but this fact did not affect the number of entrants, apparently, for 176, a new record, entered the event and Peterson was forced to reject enough entries to have made up two more squads.

The tournament will be concluded today with six squads rolling.

BEAR SWIMMERS LOSE, 39-32, IN MEET WITH IOWA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 19.—University of Iowa swimmers upset the dope here tonight, opening their season with a 39 to 32 victory over Washington University of St. Louis, Missouri Valley Conference titleholders for the last six seasons.

First places were shared equally between the two teams, each scoring four firsts. Liddle was the only Hawkeye to place in individual races, however, the 200-yard relay team bringing in the only other old glory victory.

The feature battle came in the 150-yard breast stroke event. Capt. Heideman of the Bears staged a thrilling spurt in the final third of the race to nose out Lloyd, Iowa sophomore, by a scant two yards in time which lowered a university record by more than a second, the Washington leader being clocked in 1:55 2-10. Brenner and Curtis romped away with first and second honors for the Bears in the 200-yard breast stroke, Brenner breaking a university record by nearly four seconds when he crossed the route in 2:50 1-10. In the fancy dives, the victory of Wolfe, Washington springboard artist, was equally decisive, his point totaling 99.2, as compared with Capt. Bender of the Hawkeyes, who placed second with 80.2.

The summaries:

200-yard relay—Won by Iowa (Crookham, Larsen, Vanhorn, Wright). Time—1 45 1-10.

200-yard breast stroke—Brenner (Washington), first; Curtis (Washington), second; Hoegh (Iowa), third. Time—2:50 1-10.

50-yard free style—Liddle (Iowa), first; Larsen (Iowa), second; Kunkel (Washington), third. Time—25 4-10.

440-yard free style—Liddle (Iowa), first; Skinner (Washington), second; Jones (Iowa), third. Time—5:39 4-10.

150-yard back stroke — Heideman (Washington), first; Lloyd (Iowa), second; Lowell (Iowa), third. Time—1:55 2-10.

100-yard free style—Liddle (Iowa), first; Crookham (Iowa), second; Frank (Washington), third. Time—:59 8-10.

Fancy diving—Wolfe (Washington), first; Bender (Iowa), second; Nauert (Washington), third.

300-yard medley relay—Won by Washington (Heideman, Brenner, Skinner). Time—3:31 8-10.

'FLYING FINN' BEATS A FAIR FIELD TO WIN AT 3000 YARDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Paavo Nurmi, Finland's flying phantom, galloped to an easy victory in the first start of his new American campaign, out-distancing a fair field to win a 3000-yard special race at the Brooklyn College track meet at the Thirteenth Regiment Armory here tonight. The time, 7:43 2-5 was announced as a new world's record although no official mark for the distance is recognized.

The best time on the books was made by Nurmi nearly four years ago when he covered the distance in 7:45 3-5 at Baltimore.

Finn as Great as Ever.

Four years apparently have taken little from Nurmi's speed at distances over a mile. His time at the first point, 2000 meters, was 15 seconds slower than the record and at a mile and a quarter he was about the same distance away. At 1½ miles he was only eight seconds away from the record, while the last three times were announced as new records, 6:58 for 2500 meters, 7:23 2-5 for 1⅝ miles and 7:43 2-5 for 3000 yards.

Ove Anderson, another Finn, who makes his home in New York, finished second, 100 yards behind, beating out Gus Moore, National cross-country champion, who kept the pace with the Peerless Paavo up to the last half mile.

James Kennedy, of Georgetown, won the Brooklyn College thousand.

Kennedy finished only a few inches ahead of Sam Martin of the Boston A. A., with Phil Edwards, star of the New York University and Canadian Olympic teams third, about two feet farther back. The time was slow, 2 minutes, 20 2-5 seconds.

Joe Hickey, competing unattached, won the two-mile handicap race. T. F. Bailey of the New York A. C. was second, both started from the 75-yard mark. Joe Hagan, Columbia cross country star, who started from scratch, took third place. The time was 9:30.

McAllister Wins Sprints.

Bob McAllister, New York's flying cop who is trying a comeback campaign, from the retirement he went into after the Olympic games, won the 100-meter dash, the first event of the sprint series. In the last 30 yards he pulled away to beat out Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown. Jim Daley of Holy Cross took third and Jimmy Pappas, former Princeton star running for the Newark A. C., was fourth. McAllister made the fast time in 11 seconds.

McAllister won the sprint series by taking first place in the 100-yard dash after finishing second to Wildermuth in the 75-yard event. The point total for the flying cop was 14. The Georgetown star slipped badly in the final race, finishing last while Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross star, took second. The total for Wildermuth was 11 points. Daley was third with nine points, from a second, a third and a fourth, while Pappas trailed with eight points.

GREENLEAF DEFEATS SEABACK 1500 TO 1144 AT POCKET BILLIARDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Ralph Greenleaf defeated Charles Seaback by more than 350 points in their 1500-point pocket billiards match completed here tonight. The final score was: Greenleaf 1500; Seaback, 1144; total innings, 119.

Greenleaf won both of today's blocks. This afternoon the score was 112 to 40 in four innings. Greenleaf's high run was 40, Seaback's 32. Tonight Greenleaf won, 125 to 80, in 10 innings. His high run was 69, Seaback's 19.

During the week's match Greenleaf won nine of the 12 blocks.

GRIMM AND LANDS WIN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK Jan. 19.—Willis Grimm and Dave Lands won the 46th international six-day bicycle race which ended tonight in the Kingsbridge Armory.

During a late sprint, Cesar Debaets went down with a crash on the high bank at a turn and suffered a broken collar bone. The team of Benezzo and Debaets were declared out of the race.

ROOSEVELT WINS THIRD STRAIGHT GAME DEFEATING BEAUMONT, 28-26

FOULS MAR THE MATCH; CENTRAL VICTOR OVER CLEVELAND FIVE

By Harold Tuthill.

As a result of Roosevelt's 28-to-26 victory over Beaumont last night on the Beaumont floor, the Rough Riders lead the City High School Basketball League. In another league contest on the Beaumont floor, Cleveland was relegated to the cellar when it lost to Central, 18 to 16. Although about 1500 fans saw the game at Roosevelt to break the tie for the lead, only a few saw Central win its first league contest.

Roosevelt was forced to the limit to meet Beaumont's challenge. After trailing at the end of the first quarter, 7 to 4, Roosevelt began a barrage of Beaumont's basket that carried it to the long end of an 11-to-8 count at the half, due mainly to the remarkable shooting of Bob "Kuby" Kessler, who scored three times from the floor.

Free Throws Decide Game.

Things were enlivened in the second half when numerous fouls were called on both fives. Inability to score the free throws cost Beaumont the game, as the North Siders missed 14 chances from the foul line. Roosevelt, in sharp contrast, only missed four out of 16 tries, or the margin that determined the ultimate winner since Beaumont scored one more field goal than did Roosevelt.

Roosevelt led at the end of the third period, 20 to 12, a lead which was narrowed by Beaumont's sudden rally. Brown and Holtman started a scoring attack which drew the North Side team to within two points of a tie in the final minutes of the game. With the score 26 to 24 in favor of the leaders, Kessler scored a "set-up" which was the winning points of the game. Schwandt's field goal just before the gun brought Beaumont's total up to 26.

Central Gains Victory.

Although no importance was attached to the Cleveland-Central game, the teams were so evenly matched that the largest margin of difference between the two teams was at the end of the game. The score was tied at the end of the first quarter, 5 to 5 and again at the half, 10 to 10. Central led at the end of the third period, 14 to 13, and finished the game two points ahead of the Carondelet school.

The work of Sibley, who scored five field goals and a free throw for Central, and of Ketterer, who counted three times from the floor and twice from the foul line, provided most of the game's interest.

The standings:

Soldan Crushes Principia, 41-13

Scoring almost at will, Soldan High School's basketball team gained its second one-sided victory of the season over Principia Junior College, 41-13, on the latter's floor last night.

Taking the lead early and holding a 22-7 advantage at the half, Soldan used 12 players. Levy, right forward, was high scorer with five goals for 10 points.

Principia teams thus lost only one of four games played during the day, the A, B and C teams winning.

MURPHY SCORES 15 POINTS AS PURDUE WINS

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Jan. 19.—Purdue's basketball team was given a scare by Indiana University tonight, but Murphy and his teammates went on a scoring spree in the last minutes of the game to overcome a six-point lead and win 29 to 23. It was Purdue's fifth consecutive Big Ten victory and gave them undisputed conference leadership.

Murphy, Purdue's lanky center, added 15 points to his Big Ten leadership with five field goals and five free tosses. McCracken, Indiana center, scored 11 points.

The first half was featured by close guarding on the part of both teams with Indiana University trying long shots and Purdue slipping through for short attempts. The Boilermakers led at the half, 13 to 10.

Illini Win, 22-19, Over Maroons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 19.—Coach Ruby's Illinois basketball team defeated Chicago here tonight, 22 to 19, in a bitterly fought game, after leading at the end of the first period, 11 to 7. Chicago was held to a lone field basket until the game was three-fourths over, although the Maroons registered on a number of free throws during the interval.

The Maroons made a strong comeback, in the final 10 minutes of play and although Illinois was leading by 10 points, gradually cut down Illinois commanding lead and were going strong at the finish.

Capt. Dorn of Illinois made five out of 10 free shots.

Wisconsin Wins From Minnesota.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 19.—Wisconsin won its fourth Western Conference basketball game in five starts by easily defeating Minnesota here tonight 39 to 17 in a game that was marred by roughness. Twenty-three fouls were called. The Badgers took a seven-point lead at the start, never to be headed. The score was 17 to 6 at the half.

DEMPSEY TO GET RICKARD'S POST IF FIGHT GOES OVER the eagerness with which Dempsey jumped at the chance to prove himself as a promoter.

Planned to "Break in" Jack.

Jack believes that he knew Rickard's plans and line of action better than any other man. He valued Rickard's friendship highly enough to want to carry out personally the projects Tex had planned. In the mind of this one director, at least, is the idea that Rickard himself had planned to "break in" Dempsey as his successor. Jack would like the job.

Although rumors always were prevalent, it was not generally known that Rickard intended to remain at the head of Madison Square Garden for just one more year. He was constantly embroiled in exchanges with the directorate of the corporation he conceived, but controlled through friendship with bankers who owned a majority of the Garden stock. Several hard-headed business men on the board of directors never could understand how Tex promoted that $3,000,000 Tunney-Dempsey project at Chicago and came away with only $400,000 profit.

Tex in turn couldn't understand their attitude and lack of realization that profits for the 11 other months of the year accrued in great part from the impetus of the open air extravaganzas. The constant bickering led him to invest heavily in a dog track and real estate at Miami Beach, where he planned to turn his energies when once free of the garden.

Two Business Advisers.

There will be two powers close to the rear of the throne if Dempsey does step into the breach left by Rickard's death. Constant advice will come his way from Col. John S. Hammond, assistant to Rickard under the old regime, and John E. (Cyclone) Carey, the dynamic Irishman who made millions as a contractor and business promoter before he built the garden and bought a huge block of the stock. Dempsey can supply the knowledge of boxing; they the business judgment.

And so with the battle of the Miami seashore still six weeks away, the possibility of Dempsey ever fighting again dwindles with every dollar that falls into the box office. Already that sum totals $80,000 and the garden directors believe they have found Rickard's successor.

Shasta Orange	110	6	6	6^{3}	5^{h}	7	7	F. Moon	44.93

Pagan Laddie well ridden under restraint in first half mile, raced into a short lead after reaching stretch but tired near end and was greatly benefitted by strong handling in last furlong. Marshall Seth had most early speed, appeared done after five furlongs but came again at end. Golden West closed fast when urged hard in final furlong after being prominent. Cardo Blanco showed a good effort. Panama was done after reaching stretch. Simon Legree broke slowly.

$2.00 mutuels paid. Pagan Laddie, $3.88 win, $2.88 place, $2.60 show; Marshall Seth, $6.50 place, $4.18 show; Golden West, $3.92 show.

THIRDRACE—$1200, 3-year-olds and upward, one and one-sixteenth miles—Start good; won esily; place driving. Went to post 3:01 p. m.; at post one minute. Winner, br. c. 4, by Col. Vennie—Little Bit. Trainer, S. J. Kelley. Time, :26, :53 3-5, 1:21, 1:51, 1:58 4-5. Value to winners, $850; second, $200; third, $100.

Prince Bozo	91	1	3	3^{2}	4	4	4	4	S. Hebert	12.30

Little Colonel slow to begin moved into a long lead racing on inside in first five furlongs, came wide around stretch turn, then went to extreme outside in stretch and closing gamely held his lead safe. Duelist under restraint to the last furlong, closed gamely and outfinished Marlboro but could not menace the winner. Marlboro dropped back after five furlongs but came fast through stretch and was wearing down Duelist. Prince Bozo showed poor form and was eased up.

$2 mutuels paid: Little Colonel, $7.74 win, $2.78 place, out show; Duelist, $2.48 place, out, show; Marlboro, out, show.

FOURTH RACE, $1200, Jung Hotel Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 3:31, at post 1 minute. Winner, b h 6 by Golden Maxim-Lily Mac. Trainer: J. H. Buscher. Time: :25 2-5, :51 3-5, 1:19. Value to winners, first $850, second $200, third $100.

Hypnotism	99	2	6	3½	6	6	6	E. Shropshire	24.94

Golden Mac moved with a rush around stretch turn caused some crowding entering stretch, then drew into a long lead and won well in hand. Solace was cut off entering stretch and closed gamely when clear and outstayed Helen Dean. Latter raced on the inside of the field throughout and held on stubbornly in the drive. Good Shepherd quit. Orestes II had most early speed, retired fast in the stretch.

$2 mutuels paid—Golden Mac, win $9.36, place $4.06, show $3.14. Solace, place $4.42, show $2.52. Helen Dean, show $2.66.

Bosporus	107	4	9	6^{h}	6^{h}	9	9	A. Pascuma	6.92

*Mrs. J. Sciacculaga entry.

Calfroper away in a tangle raced wide moving up after first quarter and going as if much the best took the lead and won a handy race. Virado having an advantage at the start was taken back and rated under restraint to stretch where he responded well and closed gamely to final 70 yards where he tired. Chip began sluggishly but came with a rush on outside in stretch. Upset Lad was taken back repeatedly under a weak ride and was racing well at end. Maidens Choice tired after reaching stretch. Roodles quit. Bosporus was away poorly and with scant chance.

$2.00 mutuels paid: Calfroper, win $13.94, place $5.14, show $4.14; Virado, place $4.72, show $3.30; Chip, show $3.88.

SIXTH RACE—$1200, 4-year-olds and up, one mile—Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post at 4:37; at post 3 minutes. Winner, b. h., 5, Behave Yourself—My Boot. Trainer, J. B. Partridge. Time, :26 3-5, :52 2-5, 1:21, 1:51 1-5. Value to winners, $850, $200, $100, $50.

Charmarten	106	6	6	5^{4}	5^{h}	6	6	6	J. McCoy	1.42

Ruane began slowly and raced wide for the best footing throughout, began moving fast coming to the stretch turn, wore down Wacker Drive and held on gamely. Wacker Drive suffered from racing in worst footing for the first five-eighths and after going wide thereafter held on well. Tiffin took a long early lead, dropped back entering stretch, then came with a rush in last furlong. Gold Bet had no mishaps. Charmarten, taken to extreme outside at once, showed a dull performance.

$2 mutuels paid: Ruane, win $8.74, place $4.94, show $3.16; Wacker Drive, place $4.78, show $2.88; Tiffin, show $4.32.

SEVENTH RACE—$12.00, 4-year-olds and up, one and one-sixteenth miles: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post 5:07, at post 4 minutes. Winner, br. c. 4, by Tall Timber-Allegiance. Trainer, A. V. Thomas. Time, :27, :54, 1:21 1-5, 1:50 3-5, 1:58 4-5. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100.

Bunthorne	105	3	6	7	7	6^{4}	7	7	L. Jones	16.84

Oregon Fir, a keen factor after first quarter, raced into an easy lead and won in a canter. Old Bill was much used disposing of Roycrofter, could not withstand winner's rush, but easily bested others. Billy Baughn tired in stretch. John Peel tired after three-quarters. Howard Lee away poorly raced into contention quickly but weakened after six furlongs. Roycrofter tired after six furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid. Oregon Fir, win $17.08, place $6.86, show $4.86; Old Bill, place $8.06, show $4.36; Billy Baughn, show $4.40.

GOLDEN MAC AND CALF ROPER WIN AT NEW ORLEANS

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—Mrs. J. H. Buschar's Golden Mac, ridden by Coltiletti and well played, scored an easy victory in the Jung Handicap, fourth and feature race on the Fairgrounds race program here today.

The race was run over a very heavy and holding track. Golden Mac and Coltiletti were both guilty of rough riding on the stretch turn, where Golden Mac took the lead, knocking Solace, the favorite, back. Golden Mac then drew away to win by four lengths. Solace ran a real good race. He picked up 123 pounds, overcame interference and was up to gain the place by half a length over Helen Dean.

Golden Mac paid $9.26.

The Three D's Calf Roper, with Coltiletti up won the Rex Handicap, the fifth race on the program, a six furlong sprint, defeating the favorite, Virado, with Chip third.

Roodles dashed to the lead with Maiden's Choice right after him. In the stretch Calf Roper came along, took the lad and won by two lengths. Virado took the place by two lengths.

ST. LOUIS GETS NATIONAL INDOOR SKATING MEET

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—Dates and places of the national and international speed skating championships of the country and Canada under sanction of the Amateur Skating Union of the United States were announced here today by William Carroll Hill of Boston, president of that body.

The United States national outdoor championships were assigned to Minneapolis on Feb. 2 and 3 and the United States national indoor championships to St. Louis on Feb. 22, 23 and 24.

The Canadian national indoor championships were scheduled at Montreal on Feb. 15 and 16.

The North American outdoor championships were awarded to Saranac Lake, N. Y., and will be held on Feb. 7, 8 and 9 and the indoor title races will be held in Detroit on March 15 and 16, though these last dates President Hill said, were subject to change.

He said that his body had sanctioned the North American figure skating championships at Boston, March 4 to 8.

After trying to modernize his country and place it on a par with the Turks, King Amanullah of Afghanistan found he couldn't get away with it so he turned the job over to his brother and pulled his freight to Kandahar by airplane.—News item.

AMANULLAH had a plan
To redeem Afghanistan,
Good old Amanullah!

Tried to make 'em like the Turk,
But he found it wouldn't work,
Poor old Amanullah!

To escape the frenzied mob,
Gave his brother Bill the job,
Foxy Amanullah!

Puffing on a good cigar,
Pulled his freight for Kandahar,
So long, Amanullah.

Well Done.

WRAY'S COLUMN

kee baseball club, is seriously ill at his home there and that hope for his recovery has been given up almost.

As one of the pioneers of the American League during its expansion period, Killilea was president of the St. Louis club for a brief period before Robert Lee Hedges took it over. Later he was president of the Boston American League club and subsequent to that he was the legal brains of the organization for many years.

A few months ago he bought the Milwaukee club from the widow of Otto Borchert, more, he said, as a venture than because he wanted a baseball club. The investment proved a profitable one.

Killilea was also keenly interested in track sports and athletic history is indebted to him for discovering several great athletes. Archie Hahn, the great runner, and Ralph Rose, the greatest weight man of his own and later periods, not to mention Geston and Garrells of Michigan football fame, were brought out by Mr. Killilea.

Jack's Hardest Fight.

JACK DEMPSEY'S hardest fight? That's easy to answer—he hasn't had it, yet. He's just starting this battle in which he is to substitute for Tex Rickard as a promoter.

In the promotion of big fights, the blows come from everywhere. There is no foul territory. It's one man against the entire world, in the battle to keep the ticket sale straight, show the right favors to the right people, keep the publicity tom-toms beating, watch the preparation of the candidates and safeguard their condition, checkmate grafting politicians and other parasites and go over the top at last with a profit for the promoting company.

The mere matter of stepping into the ring and taking a few on the chin or ribs is comparatively easy.

Lots of Worry, Little Glory

AND so it is highly probable that if Dempsey wins his fight to make good as a promotor he will deserve more honor and fame than if he had regained a title.

But he won't get the credit. It's the director of movie actors who makes the play, but the vamps and the matinee idols get the glory. In the ring it's the promoter that makes the show a success, but its the eggs and cheeses in the ring that get the credit—and most of the money.

So here's hoping Dempsey wins his next and HARDEST fight trying to put across two men who failed in previous elimination fights—Sharkey and Stribling.

How It Figures.

ESTIMATES of the seating capacity of the Miami fight arena put the top at 30,000. The price will be from $5 to $15. If the average gate is $15, the receipts for the occasion will just about reach the coveted half million predicted by the late Tex Rickard.

The fighters will be doing very well, if the receipts reach $400,000 as, with a 20 per cent guarantee, it would mean $80,000 apiece.

Anyone who can pick up $500,000 for 30 minutes' effort in Florida in these days is working a miracle.

St. Louis Girls Are Invited to Millrose Meet

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Ethel Catherwood, tall and attractive Canadian girl who holds the Olympic high jumping championship, will be pitted against four of the best jumpers in the United States in the special invitation event of the Millrose A. A. games at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 9.

The field announced today includes Mildred Wiley of Boston, national champion; Katherine Maguire, St. Louis; Jean Shiley, Philadelphia, and Miss Huber, New York.

Miss Wiley, who holds the world's indoor record of 4 feet 11 inches, tied for second in the Olympics before losing the jump-off. Miss Shiley was fourth. Miss Maguire is holder of the United States outdoor record of 5 feet ¾ inch, while the queenly Miss Catherwood tops all marks with her outdoor world's record of 5 feet, 3 inches.

Because of their affiliation with the Headlight Basketball team in the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball League, it probably will be impossible for either Miss Maguire or Dolores Boeckmann to accept the invitation of the Millrose A. C. it was learned last night. Miss Boeckmann was asked to compete in the running events.

A game scheduled at Chicago Feb. 7 against the Taylor Trunk team, one of the strongest girls' basketball teams in the country, will make it impractical for two of the star players of the Headlights to attempt the trip to New York. Miss Boeckmann said she and Miss Maguire had written Mr. Shephard, Millrose coach, declining the invitation.

CARDINALS, DESPITE LOSS OF 11 MEN, HAVE GAINED STRENGTH

WITH SEVEN NEW PLAYERS, CLUB IS LIKELY TO BE IN FLAG FIGHT AGAIN

By J. Roy Stockton

Baseball writers who are making it fashionable to pick the Cardinals as the "Flivvers of 1929" are likely to be surprised before the next pennant race has gone very far. It is natural for the casual observer to string along with the calamity howlers. Didn't the Pittsburg Pirates take a high dive in their own league after being smacked by the Yankees? And wouldn't the wholesale changes in the Cardinal roster since October make it appear that the St. Louis Bosses saw evidences of dry or "wet" rot?

Then there's the law of averages to encourage the experts. The Cardinals have won two league pennants, a world championship and finished in second place in three years and under ordinary conditions, that would mean that the team was about ready to fall apart.

But don't figure the Cardinals out of the pennant race of 1929 just because an unusually large group has been shipped to other parts of the baseball world.

Let's look over the material that has been given up and compare it with the replacements.

Here's the list of men who have departed since the world series:

Pitchers — Arthur Reinhart, Flint Rhem and Charlie Littlejohn.

Infielders—Walter Maranville and Tommy Thevenow.

Outfielders — Ray Blades, George Harper, John Martin and Howard Williamson.

Manager—Bill McKechnie.

Coach—Jack Onslow.

It can be assumed that the managerial change will at least do the Cardinals no harm and the same can be said for the shift in coaches. Surely Billy Southworth and Greasy Neale can make up for the loss of McKechnie and Onslow if they try real hard. Though McKechnie was popular personally with his men, they did not consider him a master strategist. They will not tackle the 1929 campaign with confidence impaired in the least by the change.

Not Indispensable.

Surely the loss of Pitchers Littlejohn and Reinhart will not hurt the Cardinals. Neither did enough last year to earn salary. The same can be said of Outfielders Williamson and Martin.

Ray Blades won a couple of games with pinch hits, hitting a home run in one pinch and a triple in another. But he was merely a substitute, seldom used, and his part in the 1928 race was not important.

Thus seven of the 11 "discards" can be dismissed as unimportant in looking forward to the next campaign.

The four remaining are Walter Maranville, George Harper, Flint Rhem and Tommy Thevenow. The list can be reduced further by leaving Thevenow out of the computation. Tommy played very little last season. The loss of Thevenow after 1926 would have been a real blow. But the Cards won a pennant without any great help from him last season.

We'll Miss the Rabbit.

Maranville was the spark plug of 1928 and his release was a surprise. But it is true that he was fading near the end of the season. At his age he can't play regularly. Even when he was fielding at top speed his hitting was weak and though he was the spark plug, there were times when it appeared that shortstop was the weak spot in the Cardinal team and that a change would have been wise That is why sentiment was disregarded and Maranville was sent to Boston. Owner Breadon and Business Manager Rickey saw that the team would have to have a younger and harder hitting shortstop.

Harper won many games with his home run punch, but he was not good enough to play regularly and would not have seen much service and perhaps would not have been sought in trade if Walter Roettger had not been injured. With Roettger back in form in 1929 Harper would be a benchwarmer and therefore he will not be missed.

Rhem is more likely to be missed than any other of the 11 men released. He always has been a great spring pitcher. In 1926 his fine work in the spring kept the Cardinals in the race until the other hurlers hit their stride. This spring the staff will have to get along without him, unless he is recalled early. And he will be available at short notice, so he can be counted as a near-member of the Cardinals of 1929.

No, it doesn't appear, after analysis, that the Cardinals have parted with any great stars.

And who will the new men be? The list follows:

Charley Gelbert, shortstop.

Carey Selph, second baseman.

Bill Hallahan, southpaw pitcher.

Harold Elliott, right-hand pitcher.

Fred Haney, third-base reserve.

Billy Southworth, manager, utility outfielder and pinch hitter.

Breadon and Rickey insist that they are not gambling with the shortstop problem. They insist that Gelbert is sure to make good as a fielder and that he will outhit Maranville or Thevenow by 50 points sure and possible by 100 points. He played short for Rochester last year and is described as another Napoleon Lajoie as a fielder and hitter.

Selph is counted on to play second base, because he is a slugger. He was picked for the Cardinals as a better prospect than Heine Schuble, who played short for St. Louis for a time after Thevenow was injured in 1927. If he is that much better than Schuble, the Cards are not gambling much at second, either. Detroit paid $50,000 for Schuble and a pitcher.

Pennant Winning Pitchers.

Herman Bell pitched the Rochester club into a pennant and Bill Hallahan did the same for Houston. Both were with the Cardinals in 1926.

Bell always had big league curves. He lacked only a change of pace and pitching smartness. It is said he has developed both. Hallahan needed only control. In 1926 he was a great pitcher when he had control. One day in Brooklyn he pitched no-hit ball for six innings and suddenly went wild and walked seven men in a row. It is said he has learned to find the plate. If that is true he will be a consistent winner in the majors.

Little is known of Elliott. His record was not so impressive and until he proves himself, he can't be figured as a sure asset. But Gelbert, Selph, Southworth, Hallahan and Bell far outweigh in importance the men released by the Cardinals since October.

It Sounds Drastic.

Probably the announced infield plans of the Cardinals have caused the experts to raise the eyebrow and pick the Cards as the year's best flivver bet. Bottomley is the only member of the 1928 inner line of defense not scheduled to shift. Selph is expected to play second base, Gelbert short and Frankie Frisch is slated for the shift from second to third. But if Selph fails, the Cards can move Frisch back to second and Andy High and Fred Haney can divide the duties at third base.

Of course if Selph and Gelbert both fail, the experts and their arched eyebrows won't be so far wrong. But Breadon and Rickey have planned wisely in the past and they are not making snap judgment in picking Selph and Gelbert to make the grade. The men have been developed carefully, under hand-picked managers and have shown their ability over a long period of steady play.

And any big league manager in baseball would be glad to swap the equivalent of Martin, Williamson, Onslow, Reinhart, Littlejohn, McKechnie, Maranville, Harper, Blades, Thevenow and Rhem for Gelbert, Selph, Hallahan, Bell and Southworth, not to mention Elliott and Haney.

Osage Club's New 'Pro'

Jim Fogertey

JIM FOGERTEY,

Jim has been signed as golf professional at Osage to succeed Homer Herpel, who resigned to accept a similar position at the new Hillcrest Country Club. Jim learned his golf as a caddie at the St. Louis Country Club. His brother, Frank Fogertey, will be his assistant at Osage.

NEIGHBORHOOD OPPOSES CENTRAL ELEVEN TODAY

The feature game in the Community House Soccer League on the Beaumont High School this afternoon will be between Neighborhood and Central elevens, scheduled to start at 2:20 o'clock. Central has been defeated but once and Neighborhood has won its last three starts.

Wesley House will tackle the Huber eleven in the third game. In the first contest Kingdom House will take on the last-place Holy Cross eleven at 1 o'clock.

34 PLAYERS ON BROWNS' SPRING TRAINING ROSTER

Thirty-four athletes will report to Manager Dan Howley when the Browns gather at West Palm Beach late in February for spring training, according to the informative roster prepared by Secretary Willis Johnson and released for publication today. The roster, incidentally, contains more information than any other similar pamphlet issued by big league clubs. Players' names, addresses, age, weight, height and complete records for 1928 are given.

Howley's squad will include 12 pitchers, five catchers, six outfielders and 11 infielders. Dan would like to find a little added strength for his inner line of defense, which accounts for the unusual number of candidates for infield jobs.

The first squad of Brownies will entrain in time to arrive at West Palm Beach Tuesday, Feb. 26 and will include batterymen and coaches. The main contingent will arrive at camp a week later, with a full squad scheduled to start work Tuesday, March 5.

Manager Howley in a letter to Willis Johnson, said the ball park at West Palm Beach was ready for the players. Part of the grandstand was blown away by a tornado last fall, but it has been repaired. When Phil Ball heard about the damages, he sent a check for $500 to the West Palm Beach authorities.

The Browns' first spring exhibition game is scheduled with the Columbus of the American Association at West Palm Beach, March 16.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

URBANA, Ill., Jan. 19.—The University of Illinois reserve basketball team fell before De Paul University of Chicago here last night, 21 to 16.

MISSOURI FIVE OVERWHELMS THE KANSAS AGGIES

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 19.—The Missouri Tiger basketball team overwhelmed the Kansas Aggies, 51 to 36, with a terrific last-half rally in a Big Six Conference game here tonight.

The Tigers led 20 to 15 at the half, after Craig's two hooks and Welsh's free throw broke a tie. The Aggies went one point ahead early in the second period, but relinquished the lead and were overcome by the dazzling floor work and shooting of Craig, Welsh and Morgan, sophomore who played his first conference game.

OKLAHOMA BASKET TEAM SCORES 26TH CONSECUTIVE VICTORY

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Jan. 19.—The University of Oklahoma 1929 Big Six basketball team paraded before the home folks for the first time tonight and defeated Iowa State 35 to 22.

It was the Sooners' 26th consecutive victory. Led by Churchill and Shearer, who succeeded Victor Holt at center, the Oklahomans got off to an early lead. The score at the half was 22 to 18.

SUBSTITUTES MAKE POSSIBLE NEBRASKA VICTORY OVER KANSAS

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 19. — A trio of Nebraska substitutes supplied sufficient punch in the last half to enable the Huskers to nose out the University of Kansas five, 30 to 29, here tonight.

Trailing 16 to 11 at half time, Munn, Grace and Krall rang the basket with regularity and put the Huskers in the lead. The lead changed frequently.

Grace and Witte were outstanding for Nebraska. Bishop, Thomson and Cox led the Kansas attack.

Wyndham Monroe Named Golf Pro At Crystal Lake

Wyndham H. Monroe, who for the past four years has been golf professional at the Midland Valley Country Club, has been signed as chief instructor at the new Crystal Lake Club, officials of the latter organization announced last night. Monroe will take over his new position on April 1.

Monroe is considered one of the best teachers of golf in the district, although his own game has suffered because of enforced inactivity. He began his career as an apprentice at the Richmond Country Club in London in 1909 and since then has been associated with Wanamakers in Philadelphia, the Edgewater and Oak Park clubs and Chester Horton school in Chicago, and the St. Louis Country Club. He had the advantage of being tutored by such famous players and teachers as Willie Hunter, J. H. Taylor, six times British open champion; Stewart Maiden, who gave Bobby Jones his start, and Chester Horton.

Crystal Lake will open its 18-hole course this spring. The club is located three miles west of Clayton on Clayton road. The links have been laid out by W. H. Diddle, well known constructor of courses. The club charges an initiation fee of $100 and monthly dues of $5. Walter Haller, one of the district's most promising young amateurs, will represent Crystal Lake in local tournaments this season.

TWO FIGHT CARDS THIS WEEK AT SOUTHBROADWAY

The South Broadway A. C., at 2301 South Seventh, will be the scene of two boxing shows this week. On Thursday night the South Broadway club will hold an amateur fistic tourney with four interclub special bouts featuring the card. Two nights later, on Saturday, the Walter Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion will hold a professional ring program of seven events, ranging from four to 10 rounds.

Doetzel Meets Emmerich.

A return contest between Clifford Doetzel, senior Western A. A. U. flyweight champion, and Johnny Emmerich of the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus is the premier attraction booked by Matchmaker Willie Miller for Thursday night's amateur card. Doetzel had to extend himself in their previous fight with Emmerich to carry off the judges' decision.

Freddie Kaiser of the South Broadway club and Joe Stein of the Young Men's Hebrew Association have been tentatively paired for a featherweight special. Kaiser was rated one of the leading local candidates for district title honors last season, but a low blow in his match with Jack Wilson put him out of the championship tourney. Stein was a leading candidate in local ring circles two years ago. He is being groomed by Coach Benny Kessler to go after the district crown in the coming annual meet.

Matchmaker Miller is seeking opponents for Carl Holst, Motorbus heavyweight, and Edgar Terry, Flori Olympian featherweight, to provide two more specials for Thursday night's show. Fourteen boxers have filed entries to date as candidates for prelim pairings.

Mack on Pro Card.

Johnny Mack, Pittsburg heavyweight, and Arthur "Sailor" Maley of Chicago have been paired by Matchmaker John J. Kelly for the 10-round headliner of Saturday night's show. Kelly also has booked Pete White, local junior lightweight, with Eddie Speeks of Louisville, Ky., for an eight-round contest, and has paired Joe Ghnouly, South Side bantam, with Mickey Dugan of Lorain, O., for a six-round go.

Another six-rounder will feature the professional debut of Jake Graswick, East Side lightweight and senior Western A. A. U. title holder, whose opponent is to be selected later. Two prelim events of four rounds each are planned by Kelly to round out his card.

MISS BURKHART STILL LEADS WOMEN'S BASKET CIRCUIT IN SCORING

By scoring nine points as her club was beating the Bachelors last week, Ruth Burkhart, of the Peetz team retained her grasp on the scoring honors of the Greater St. Louis Girls' Basketball Association, boosting her total to 53 points. Miss Madison of Crystal City, remians in second place, with 46.

Miss Burkhart, with 22 field baskets, leads in this department. Capt. Madison is the leader in the free tossing, with 14.

Statistics, released by Secretary Carrol Schuepbach, follow:

TWO INTER-CITY TENPIN MATCHES TO BE ROLLED AT ROGERS ALLEY TODAY

Two intercity matches will be rolled at Rogers' today. The first, between an all-star team from the Burlington Railway of this city and the Kansas City Southern five of Kansas City, will be rolled at 9:30 o'clock this morning, while the other, between a team from the Armour plant at Washington, Mo., and a local Armour team, will be rolled at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The latter match will be the first three games of a six-game contest, the final three games to be rolled at Washington, Mo., next Sunday.

Another event at Rogers' will be a match between the Martin-Breitts and Chase Specials, women's teams, which is to be rolled at 3 p. m.

Tall Center Required in Long Pass Basket Attack

Herewith is the thirty-fifth of a series of instructive articles on basketball, written for the Post-Dispatch by C. O. Benson, assistant coach of Washington University. Others will follow.

By C. O. Benson,
Of Washington U. Coaching Staff.

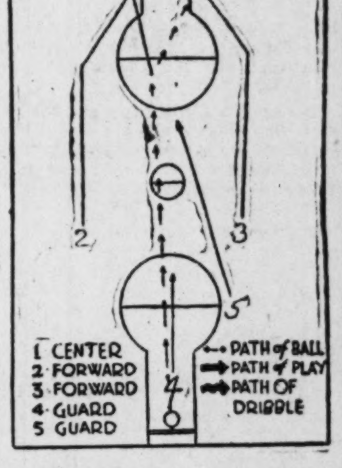
35—LONG PASS OFFENSE.

THIS is typically a fast breaking offense. Many teams use a variation. The fundamentals to be used are the flip shot, push pass, jump stop, high dribble and all pivots.

The type of players required are a high jumping center who is tall and rangy, an excellent rebounder and a good shot; a guard who is an excellent defensive rebounder and a good shoulder passer, the other three men must be fast running, quick and good shots with the ability to play individual defense to perfection.

Let us consider the back guard has just received the ball off the defensive backboard. The two forwards start down the sidelines with the floor guard going down the middle. The center comes out to meet the ball from the offensive endline. The back guard gives a hook or shoulder pass to the center the full length of the floor.

This type of offense brings a race horse game. If this attack is used correctly many points will be scored. Do not use the low dribble for it will cut the speed of your attack. Run in straight lines. This style can be used successfully on a small floor.



Next—Development of Long Pass Attack.

SOCCER CLUBS TO USE NEW MEN IN TODAY'S GAMES

Managers of the professional soccer teams, playing at Sportsman's Park, promise some new faces in today's lineups. Youngsters who have shown especial promise are being brought up from Municipal league teams to replace fading veterans. Other changes will be made when the Municipal League group pennant races have been decided, making players available for transfer.

In the opening game today, the Ben Millers will oppose the Madisons. The Millers can't do themselves much good by winning but they can tighten up the race, for the Tablers, in second place, have hopes of overtaking the Madisons if one of the other teams will halt the leaders.

The Wellstons will meet the Tablers in the second game. Starting time is 2 o'clock with Oscar Mossmann in charge as referee.

Schweigler Smiles Lead South Side Event With 2896

Rolling on the second squad, the Schweigler Smiles took the lead in the South Side handicap tournament last night at the Benton Park Alleys with a score of 2896; J. Wolker, their anchor man, rolled 256 in the last game, to put them in the lead. He totaled 615 for his three games while Bartels had 605.

Schweigler No. 1 took second place with 2889. Johnstone was high for the team with 622 and Brown was second with 607.

The Miami Five, rolling on the first squad, occupies third place with 2809. Fox was high for that team with 565.

Other scores last night were: Karforms 2768, Transcontinentals 2683, Arways 2661, Obermeyers 2659, Banners 2642, Schweigler Sodas 2737, Schweigler Sodas No. 3 2724, Schweigler Sodas No. 2 2702, Schweigler Smiles No. 2 2687.

Five squads are scheduled to roll in the team event today.

Hanson to Meet Sonnenberg.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 19.—Charley Hanson today was selected as the opponent for Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, in a match here Jan. 28.

ST. LOUIS U. HIGH BEATS MAPLEWOOD, 5-4

IN a fast game in which guarding was very close, St. Louis U. High defeated the Maplewood High School basketball team at St. Louis U. gymnasium last night, 5 to 4.

Cullen scored all the points for the winners with two field goals and a free throw, while Ker, with a field goal and a free throw and Simpson with a free throw did all the scoring for the losers.

There were only eight fouls committed, three being charged to St. Louis U. and five to Maplewood.

COMPANY F CAPTURES BASKETBALL TITLE IN BARRACKS TOURNAMENT

Company F, Sixth Infantry, won the basketball championship of Jefferson Barracks yesterday afternoon, defeating Company B, 18 to 16. Both teams played a defensive game in the first half and Company F led second half and took a six-point lead, but Company F rallied and the score was tied at 14-14 at the end of the regular time, an extra period being necessary.

In the extra period Best put Company F ahead with a field goal Wade tied the score and then with less than a minute to play Mullen, captain of the F quintet, shot one through the hoop to give his team the championship.

CONCORDIA TO MEET THREE STRONG TEAMS

After a period of inaction lasting for 10 days, Concordia Seminary's basketball five will now face three strong teams. The first encounter, scheduled for Wednesday, will see the Blue and White in action at the St. Louis U. gymnasium against St. Viator College of Bourbonnais, Ill. Next Saturday the Evansville College team will offer the opposition. Louisville U., last year's champions of Kentucky, will meet the Preachers on Jan. 29.

TIETJEN HEADS JUNIOR MUNY NET RANKING

By Davison Obear.

The ranking committee of the Municipal Tennis Association has completed its work in naming players on the basis of their showing during the 1928 season. Ranking lists for men and women were announced several weeks ago while the committee released the juniors, boys and girls rankings last night.

Vernon Tietjen of the Oakland Tennis Club heads the list in the junior singles. He won the municipal junior singles at Forest Park defeating Joyce Portnoy in the finals. William Bascom of O'Fallon is third, while the No. 4 player is Junior Boehmer, district junior player. Boehmer was unable to continue in the tournament last summer, after having reached the third round. He was called to New York, otherwise he would have been a serious contender for the title.

Warren Davis of Forest Park won the municipal boys' championship, and is No. 1 in the boys' singles ranking. The Forest Park youth also won the district boys' title. Many local tennis officials consider Davis the coming champion of this district. He is the son of Everett Davis who takes considerable interest in Warren's playing and also in Everett Davis Jr., who is ranked in the junior division.

Louise Rauch of Fairgrounds Park heads the girls' singles ranking for 1928. She defeated Marion Brokaw of Forest Park in the finals. The women champions of the future may come from Fairgrounds Park as that club has more players ranked in the first 10 than any other club.

The ranking lists follow:

AMERICAN LEGION TO HOLD VETERANS' BOWLING TOURNEY

The first annual World War veterans' handicap bowling tournament is to be held on Feb. 18 at Rogers' Recreation Parlors, open to any honorably discharged veteran of the World War. An entrant must be able to show an honorable discharge certificate, insurance certificate, membership card in the American Legion or in the Disabled Veterans of the World War or Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Only two-man and individual events will be rolled. Handicaps will be figured on a basis of 60 per cent for all those who have a league average for 15 games or more. Those who have no league average will have to roll from scratch.

The entry fee will be $1 for the doubles and $1.50 for singles, which will include the cost of bowling. Ninety cents of each $1.50 entry fee will go to the prize fund, which will be distributed on a basis of one prize for every six bowlers.

In addition to the cash prizes, the winners of each event will receive gold medals. Also there will be special prizes, including first-year memberships in the American Legion.

Paul R. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion is to roll the first ball on opening night.

SOME TRICKS OF THE PITCHING TRADE EXPLAINED BY BABE RUTH

"TELEGRAPHING" THE PITCH A BIG WEAKNESS WITH YOUNG BOXMEN; GOOD FIELDING IS IMPORTANT

By Babe Ruth.

CHAPTER V.

WHEN I hear the boys talking about pitching motions I always think of Paul Zahniser, who used to pitch for Washington and the Red Sox. All the time Paul was in the big leagues he was a "cousin of mine." (That's what we call pitchers who are easy to hit.) Every time he pitched against us I knew I would get two or three hits—and so did he.

BABE RUTH.

But he never knew why. Now that he's back in the minor leagues again I can tell the secret. I got hits off Paul because I always knew just what he was going to pitch. Zahniser had a Walter Johnson motion. That is, he lifted his arms above his head before he delivered the ball. And after I faced him once or twice I noticed that on his fast ball he raised his hands far above his head. When he was pitching his curve ball his hands went only as high as his eyes.

Naturally I knew what was coming before he ever threw—and I was all set.

Most pitchers have some little habit in pitching that gives them away. I had a habit of my own like that in my pitching days. And I never knew it until I had stopped pitching and had started playing the outfield. Then some of the boys tipped me off.

The Tattling Tongue.

IT all happened one day when we were siding along through Indiana on a Western trip. The boys had been playing cards all morning and along about noon interest in the game began to lag and they started talking baseball. Sherry Smith had beat us the day before, and there's a baby with a real pitching motion. Naturally the boys talked about Sherry and in the course of the conversation I started in to kid some of our pitchers.

"Why don't you guys get a motion like Sherry's?" I asked Pennock, "then you'd be real pitchers. There's one fellow who doesn't telegraph everything he throws."

Wallie Pipp laughed.

"Listen, Big Boy," he said, "let me tell you something. You try to kid these other fellows and you did more telegraphing in your pitching days than any of them. That curve ball of yours was a breeze!"

And then Wallie told me that whenever I pitched a curve ball I stuck my tongue out of the corner of my mouth. And everybody in the league knew it except me! Imagine that— a pitcher for four or five seasons, and still telegraphing a curve ball everytime I threw one. It just goes to show that a pitcher can never be sure of himself.

Another place where a pitcher needs a good motion is in holding a runner on first base. And there again, is a thing that comes only from practice. Some fellows never get it. I've seen Carl Mays work for a half hour at a time practicing throws to first base, and trying to perfect a throw that started the same as his regular pitching motion. Ed Walsh was a wonder at picking men off. And all left handed pitchers can develop a move pretty easily. That's because as they stand on the rubber they face first and can get the ball over with a flip.

How to Pitch to Prevent a Sacrifice Or to Make Batter Hit to Chosen Field

AFTER a man has been pitching for a time he just naturally picks up certain tricks of the trade—little things that have nothing to do with the physical side of pitching but have a lot to do with making a man a finished performer.

For instance, suppose your club is one run ahead or tied toward the end of the game. The first man up singles. The next fellow comes to the plate and you know he is going to sacrifice. What do you do?

It's a question that has many an amateur pitcher guessing—but the old-timer doesn't even hesitate. No matter who the hitter is, or what type hitter he may be, the wise pitcher pitches high and fast. And here's why.

When a man is bunting he uses a stiff arm motion, and pushes the ball. With a motion of this sort it's hard for him to reach a ball shoulder high effectively, and still keep control of bat and ball. You can prove that in a minute. Pick up a bat, with hands well separated as if to bunt, and then try to hit an imaginary ball that's on a line with your shoulder and just over the inside corner of the plate. See how awkward you feel and how hard it is to reach the given spot effectively.

With a pitch of that sort the hitter seven times out of ten will foul off the pitch, or will pop up a little fly that can be gathered in by the pitcher or catcher. Better still, there's a fifty-fifty chance that he will miss the ball entirely. That's a little trick of pitching that becomes a habit with the old timer.

Placing the Hits.

THERE are others, too. For instance, the pitcher must always work in conjunction with his infield and outfield. A hitter is up—say a left hand hitter who naturally hits to right field. The infield and outfield know this and they naturally shift their position to handle a ball hit in that direction. Once shifted, then it's up to the pitcher to see that he makes the hitter send the ball to the right side of the diamond.

And nine times out of 10 the method is identical. They pitch inside to a left-hand hitter and outside to a right-hand hitter. If they want to make sure the hitter hits to left field, the system is reversed.

Naturally there are exceptions—but these are individual cases. And individual hitters are classified by pitchers after a few turns around the league.

In late years slow ball pitching has come to be particularly effective. That's because there are so many free-swinging hitters, and men of this type are apt to be thrown off balance by slow stuff. But just the same the smart, experienced pitcher knows that a certain type of hitters cannot be fooled on slow stuff.

Hurlers Have to Pick Up So Many Tricks It Takes Years for Them to Reach Stardom

AND there are hundreds of other little stunts that are part of the pitching profession—stunts that can't be taught or explained. They're just little inside pointers that a man must pick up for himself.

But they're the things that mark the difference between a good pitcher and an average one; between a veteran and a rookie. Perhaps you've noticed that our really great pitchers are fellows who have been sticking around for several seasons. A kid may come right up from the sticks and make good as an infielder or an outfielder. A lot of them have done it. Eddie Collins did. So did Frankie Frisch, and George Sisler, and Tony Lazzeri and a half hundred others that you could mention.

But it's very seldom indeed that a pitcher can do it. Even the Mattys and the Brownes, the Pennocks and the Vances and the Alexanders had to stick around for several seasons before they finally came through. And it wasn't because they didn't have plenty of stuff, either. It was simply because half of pitching is learning and practicing these little tricks of the business; simply because 50 per cent of pitching success is due to pitching knowledge and these things are learned only through long weeks and months of experience.

Fielding Important.

ANOTHER thing that the average kid pitcher overlooks is fielding. And fielding is a mighty important part of a pitcher's business. A pitcher who can't field bunts and slow rolling balls down the base line won't last a season in the big leagues. Allan Sothoron was an example of that. When Allan came into the American League he had as much stuff as any pitcher I ever looked at. And for a few weeks he went great.

Then one day some player tried to bunt on him, and Allan kicked the ball all around the infield trying to pick it up. It wasn't three days until every club in the league knew about his weakness, and they proceeded to bunt him right back to the minors. He couldn't field—and three times out of five when a hitter laid one down that Allan had to handle he would either kick the ball around until the runner reached first base, or else in his hurry he'd throw to the stands.

But I'll say this for Sothoron. He knew his weakness as well as anyone. He went back to the minors and the night he left he came around to say goodby to his buddies.

"Listen, you eggs," Allan said. "I'll be back here in a year or two. And when I do I'll be able to field a ball."

He made good, too. Once he went back to the minors he started to work on fielding. He would get out and handle bunts for hours at a time, and he even changed his whole pitching motion. And he came back again. His first time out the gang tried the old bunt stuff and Allan handled seven straight bunts without a bobble. After that the fellows knew that their little trick was all up. Allan Sothoron had got wise. He had learned to field.

SPANISH SOCCER CLUB OPPOSES SOUTH SIDE TEAM

Today's Municipal Soccer League schedule offers nothing particularly interesting except at Carondelet Park where the South Sides meet the Spanish Club, and at Fairground No. 2 Group where the Schulze's oppose the Russels. Only three league games remain for each team. This means, in some cases, that pennants are practically clinched but there remains a doubt at Fairground No. 2; Carondelet No. 1; Concordia Park and Fairground No. 3. In the latter division, the Palermos and Pettys are tied and since both are likely to win today and next Sunday, the tie will not be broken until the final game, if form holds true. The Spanish Club is going at top form, having overwhelmed St. Thomas last Sunday.

A protest lodged by the Angelicas against the Schulze's is in the hands of the Municipal Soccer League Executive Committee and will be decided Tuesday. The Angelicas hold that the referee erred in not allowing a goal when a shot hit the goal posts and deflected to the ground in the goal mouth. Unelss some very strong evidence is presented the protest probably will be disallowed for the committee has long followed the policy of upholding the referee in all similar cases. Only where interpretation of rules is involved has a protesting club much chance of winning its point.

Tulsa Scores 5-0 Hockey Victor

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Ok., Jan. 19. — Tulsa climbed to fourth place in the American Hockey Association here tonight by taking an easy 5 to 0 victory from the Minneapolis Millers in the final game of a two-game series.

It was a close and thrilling battle for one period, neither team scoring, and it appeared as if the overtime scoreless tie of Thursday night might be duplicated. But with the second period nearly over, Sheppard flipped the puck into the net on a pass from Townsend; just 20 seconds later Graham scored unassisted. The remaining goals in the third period were counted by Marker, Graham and Moffat.

ST. PAUL DEFEATS DULUTH HOCKEY TEAM IN FAST CONTEST

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 19.—St. Paul equalled the American Association hockey series with the Duluth Hornets here tonight, winning the second game by a 3 to 1 count in a brilliantly played contest.

The Saints took the lead late in first period when Goheen slapped in a loose puck on the rebound of a Des Jardin's shot.

Duluth tied up the count early in the second period when Koski took a pass from Davis and beat Goalie Stark with a back hand drive. The Saints regained the lead at the 16-minute mark when Connelly skated in to lift a loose puck over Goalie Turner's prone body.

The Hornets brought all five men to the attack late in the third period. Goheen got a clear break the length of the ice, with only Davis to pass near center. He circled Davis and bore in on Turner. The goalie dove out and swept Goheen down to the ice in a feet-first dive. The puck fell loose a few feet in front of the cage and the alert Connolly again came in to flip the puck into the unguarded cage.

JUNIOR COEN WILL PASS UP DAVIS CUP TRIALS TO GO ABROAD

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 19.—Warren F. (Junior) Coen, youthful Kansas City tennis star, will participate in mid-winter tournaments on the French Riviera and at Wimbledon, England, this year, it was announced tonight.

He will sail from New York Feb. 4 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Coen, and a brother, Gilbert. He will not try out for the Davis Cup team of which he was a member last year. The youthful athlete believes his European trip will provide needed experience.

Coen is a student at the University of Kansas.

PLAY NO. 8.

ALL around me during the big series I heard expressions of disappointment over Jim Bottomley's failure to get going as a slugger. On account of this feeling I think thousands of fans overlooked the skill and beauty of his fielding.

leaping forward Bottomley threw

One of the outstanding fielding plays of the whole series was made by Bottomley in the third game at St. Louis and it should get a place in baseball history. In their disappointment over the result I fear that even the St. Louis fans overlooked it.

Bottomley, you must know, was just as chagrined over his batting slump as were his admirers and he deserves all the more credit for the way he gritted his teeth and played a great game at first base.

In the fourth inning of that great third game when it still looked close, Mark Koenig came to bat and hit the ball right on the button, whipping drive past first that sounded like a two-base hit. The ball started just inside the foul line; instead of himself the other way and by perfect timing of distance and speed reached out and intercepted the hard hit ball. With the same motion of his body he pulled himself up and in a circular run beat Koenig to the base. In no other way could the play have been made.

That was about as perfect a bit of fielding as any one ever saw.

Though it could not stop the later rally of the Yanks cut off at least one run and perhaps more. Ruth singled and Gehrig hit his home run that was misjudged by Douthit.

These later developments made the fans forget Bottomley's great fielding play but it should be recorded in the list of really brilliant World Series plays.

Wellston Knocks Kirkwood Out of First Place Tie

Kirkwood High School's basketball team dropped out of its tie with Maplewood for first place in the County league race last night when it fell before the attack of the Wellston High quintet, 25 to 23. The contest was played at the Kirkwood gymnasium.

The game was a battle of centers. C. Houston, the Wellston pivot man, scored six field goals and one free throw for a total of 13 points and Fedder of Kirkwood shot four from the field and two free throws for 10 points. Wellston led at the half by 14 to 12.

NOTRE DAME HANDS PENN FIVE ITS FIRST DEFEAT IN 9 GAMES

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Notre Dame's basketball team ran away from the Pennsylvania five tonight, winning 31 to 19. It was the second time Notre Dame had met Penn, Notre Dame having won the first game also. Tonight's game was the Quakers' first defeat in nine games.

Notre Dame led at the half, 13 to 11, and near the end of the game the Westerners leading, 23 to 19, Jachym put on a dazzling spurt and scored six of Notre Dame's last eight points. Crowe with 11 points, and Jachmyn with 9, were outstanding players for the invaders.

Ten thousand persons packed the Palestra to capacity and several thousand outside fought unsuccessfully to get in.

Billikens Look For Two Hard Games This Week

St. Louis University is expecting two difficult basketball games this week. On Tuesday night the Billikens will meet St. Viators of Bourbonnais, Ill., which has a good record for the season, and on Saturday night, St. Xavier of Cincinnati, reported to be one of the strongest teams in its section, will furnish the opposition at the St. Louis U. gymnasium.

Coach Miwe Nyikos believes that only practice makes perfect, and despite the fact that the team has won three straight games and seven this season, the Billikens will work out again this afternoon. Sunday practice has been the rule ever since St. Louis lost a one-point decision to North Dakota.

Last week was the best of the season for the Billikens. On Monday the Blue and White was at its best and defeated Washington handily. Friday night's 41-24 defeat of the Oklahoma Aggies didn't cost the home team a great deal of effort.

After this week most of the remaining games on the schedule will be second meetings with teams already played. Drake and Grinnell are likely to prove more difficult the next time and Washington is almost certain to make a better showing on its home court. The second Billiken-Bear game is set for Feb. 26.

BURROUGHS SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS PRINCIPIA, 5-1

FLYERS TO PLAY FOUR MATCHES DURING WEEK

By W. J. McGoogan

A stiff workout today will complete the Flyers' preparation for the two-game ice hockey series with the Minneapolis Millers scheduled at the Winter Garden tomorrow and Tuesday evenings.

So well did Chief Boileau perform at center in the final contest against Kansas City that Coach Irvin has decided to send him in at defense at the start of tomorrow's game. Breen will occupy the other defense position and Headley will be held out to give him a much-needed rest. Irvin tried to give Curly a layoff against Kansas City by keeping him out of the opening period of the final, but as the contest went 10 minutes overtime, Headley was forced to play 50 minutes.

Larry Goyer is to start at center, with Hill and Cameron on the wings. Hill was struck in the head with a stick last week, but has experienced no ill effects.

Minneapolis will present Winkler in front of the net, a goalie obtained from the Boston Bruins of the National League. Winkler was not with the Millers when they opened the season here by losing two games to the Flyers.

The champions of last season got off to a bad start this season, but came back and have been going well of late. They are pressing St. Paul for second place, and the Flyers will probably have their hands full.

However, Irvin is confident that his men will continue the fine work they showed in the final game with Kansas City and expects them to win this week.

The Flyers will be called upon to play four games in the next six days, for only Wednesday and Thursday nights will be idle, St. Paul calling for a brace of games Friday and Saturday.

Capt. Jim Seaborn, who has been on the shelf since the Tulsa games last month with a broken bone in a foot, expects to get into the game again in one of the St. Paul contests.

After this week there are but four games scheduled for the Winter Garden during the remainder of the season.

Des Jardines Leads Scorers.

Vic des Jardines, who led the scorers of the American Ice Hockey Association last season, is out in front again this season with 18 points. He has scored 11 goals and has been credited with seven assists. (A goal and an assist each count one point.)

Cameron and Headley, with 12 points apiece, lead the St. Louis players.

Records of goals scored, assists and points, including games of Friday, Jan. 18, follow:

WILLIAM MULDOON

Real Iron Man

Life Story of the 83-year-old Athlete

Rich and Poor Look Alike at the Conditioning School—How to Take a Shower Bath and How to Tie Shoes.

By Ed Van Every.

Of the New York World Sport Staff

CHAPTER XXXIII.

WITH the dawn of the new century came the proudest days in the life of William Muldoon. Very early in 1900 his hygienic institute at Purchase, Westchester County, N. Y., was formally opened to the public. To find himself master of the possession which he now surveyed was indeed excuse for personal pride.

"The Olympia," as he had christened his new home, was located some four or five miles outside the city limits of White Plains. In explanation of the odd name of the township where Muldoon had his headquarters, he wrote to Charles B. Dillingham as follows:

"Harrison Township: How named—the Town of Harrison was named after James Harrison of Flushing, L. I., who in 1695 acquired the land from the Indians. Here the Friends, founded by George Fox in England in 1647, began to settle. They gave to the territory the designation of 'The Purchase.'"

Fine Estates.

WITHIN the past dozen years or so the land on every side of the Muldoon property has blossomed out into fine estates.

When Muldoon first acquired this beautiful terrain it still presented a primeval aspect. There are still evidences of the days when the Indians roamed its wilds and found habitation. It took a considerable expenditure of money and months of labor before the scene took on its sylvan charm and the wide Muldoon acres were studded with substantially constructed buildings.

Decidedly it was a place to be proud of and inviting to visit, and its master certainly took pride in its proprietorship. The surroundings which afforded a fine natural refuge for those suffering from physical and mental debility had been expertly improved so as to afford the full benefits of the retreat.

And as the head of this splendid possession it seemed that its master took on new dignity, even though such a thing seemed hardly possible. In a perfectly natural way, Billy Muldoon became William Muldoon; the boss, or chief, or champion, as he had been generally hailed, suddenly became the "Professor." And among the visitors to his new institute were to be two of no less renown than President Roosevelts and Taft, and on its lawns these two were actually to indulge in a foot race.

Decidedly, William Muldoon was now a personage and "The Olympia" an institution.

When All Look Alike.

ALTHOUGH many noted persons went there, more fuss was made outside about the presence of notables than was the case within the walls of the Muldoon place. For inside of Muldoon's the famed ones got no special attention whatsoever.

To Prof. Muldoon, once you became an inmate of his institute, you were just a patient of him and nothing more. You abided strictly by the rules and regulations of the place else you were welcome to take your departure just as quickly as you pleased. Your presence was never solicited by the proprietor. You came of your own need or desire. You did what you were sold, and if it was necessary to repeat orders, the tone of voice, even more than the words, jolted your hearing.

Muldoon, you found, was certainly a disciplinarian, though his treatment of his guests has been greatly exaggerated. Gentlemen are treated as gentlemen. Laggards are made to buck up. Try to help yourself and Muldoon will help you. Try to fool him and you are in for a jolt.

A man loses his grip, he points out, through "loafing" at the expense of some part of the human machine. Over-absorption in business, self-indulgence, laziness, dissipation, soft-living, feeding rather than eating, spinelessness in myriad harmful ways and other ills of this nature and their effects Muldoon seeks to wipe out. It is a mind as well as body training that he undertakes and, insists the professor:

Entertaining if Not True.

MISREPRESENTATION applies to most of the stories and newspaper articles that have to do with his treatment of guests, including Ambassador Joseph H Choate and Senator Chauncey Depew. I have read, in digging back through the newspaper files, the identical story of an incident in the shower bath told on both Choate and Depew. There is supposed to have been an argument following the shower bath over the necessity of bending down to cleanse the toes. Muldoon is supposed to have addressed one or the other, or both, rather harshly, because the task of drying the feet was not done to his satisfaction. This is described as having brought the indignant reply:

"Sir, I am a gentleman and am accustomed to being addressed as such."

To which Muldoon is made out to have answered:

"Gentlemen don't have to be told how to dry their feet."

Both Choate and Depew, I am reliably informed, got along very nicely at Muldoon's.

How to Take a Shower.

THOSE first mornings in the shower room are liable to be trying ones. You are allowed one minute in the shower. Twenty seconds to get wet, twenty seconds to soap yourself and twenty seconds to wash off again. Once you have tried the Muldoon system of taking a shower you generally adopt it for everyday use. It is selected as a partial exercise system and a normal aid to circulation. You are instructed to begin with your face, working both hands in a brisk pressure, then the rubbing of the calves, the thighs, chest, back, neck and arms and face last.

This involves quite some bending and movement. Even the lacing and unlacing of your shoes is done in a way to tax muscles ordinarily neglected. You are ordered to place one foot forward and work on the laces of your shoes with both feet on the floor. You are not permitted to sit down or to rest your foot on a stool or other elevation during this routine of dressing. After a few trials you do not find the strain a severe one.

If the simple habits such as these stick to you, and they probably will, then you have derived something beneficial to your health. And such a benefit is estimated as something of real value by many others than William Muldoon.

Mary Brooks Holmes Weds Francis Boyer In Brilliant Ceremony

Nuptials at Second Presbyterian Church — California Orange Grove Transplanted to Home of Bride's Parents for Reception.

THE most elaborate wedding in St Louis for many years, if not in its entire history, was that of Miss Mary Brooks Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Holmes, and Francis Boyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Boyer of Philadelphia, which took place late yesterday afternoon at the Second Presbyterian Church, before a fashionably gowned assemblage which crowded the stately building to its capacity. A bridal party comprising 27 friends of the couple, preceded them to the altar.

The church was decorated with palms and ferns which covered the chancel, and great golden bowls of Easter lilies on the altar, the choir stalls and the altar railing, formed a flowering semicircular inclosure where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor. White satin ribbons marked the pews for members of the families. A program of organ music was played as the guests assembled. Mr. Holmes gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a shimmering gown of the new French bridal satin, antique in tone, with the shadows and luster of rare pearls, a material new to the modistes' art in St. Louis. It was fashioned simply, with no trimming except for a spray of orange blossoms at one hip which had been worn by the bride's mother at her wedding. The front of the gown was en princesse, with almost a high neck line and the satin falling in straight lines to the hem. In back the bodice ended in a low pointed effect, and from these points the wide circular train depended in full folds, three yards on the floor. There were long close fitting sleeves of the same lustrous satin, ending simply in points over the hand. The veil and its cap were in one, of exquisite rose point and princess lace, with the lacy border at her brow, fastened at the back by a half wreath of tiny orange buds ending in clusters at either side. Between the satin of her gown and the lace hung a second veil of full filmy tulle. The bride wore slippers specially designed of the satin to match her gown, elaborately embroidered in seed pearls. She carried lilies of the valley arranged in a great round bouquet.

Miss Amy Walcott of Litchfield, Conn., served as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Janet Gardner, Miss Caro Holmes, a cousin; Miss Marian Davis, Miss Kathleen Sheldon, Miss Elise Whittemore, Miss Janet Shields and Mrs. Alan Thompson Smith, formerly Miss Katherine Herndon Smith, all of St. Louis, Miss Elizabeth Seymour of Cleveland, Miss Anita Shields of Philadelphia and Miss Ruth Walker of Boston.

The young women were gowned alike in lovely gowns of Chantilly lace combined with matching chiffon, Miss Walcott in poudre blue and the bridesmaids in the pink characteristic of a wild rose. The frocks were made with a deep circular cape cut from a single piece of lace, which veiled the bodice and covered the arms to the elbows. The skirt, quite short in front and dipping to the heels in the back, was similarly designed from a circle of lace and fell in soft folds. A smart line of the gowns was achieved by a bodice and girdle developed from one piece of chiffon, crushed at the waist and held in place by a rhinestone feather ornament. They wore cloche hats of pink felt, in the off-face mode, untrimmed, and pink slippers to match. Miss Walcott carried butterfly roses with her blue frock, and the bridesmaids' flowers were Briarcliff roses tied with ribbon to correspond.

Philip Boyer, brother of the bridegroom, of Manhasset, L. I., was best man, and the long list of groomsmen included John A. Holmes, a cousin of the bride; Daniel H. Hodgman of Pasadena, Cal., another cousin; Alexander Biddle, Samuel Wagner Jr., Devereux C. Josephs, William W. Battles, S. Bowman Wheeler, R. Sturgis Ingersoll, Dr. Owen J. Toland, William Bell Watkins, Samuel B. Eckert, Edward Law, Clarence M. Kline, C. Gared Ingersoll and Robert McLean, all of Philadelphia.

A California orange grove, fragrant with thousands of tangerines hanging from leafy trees, was the central decorative theme for the reception which followed the ceremony, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, 6500 Forsythe boulevard. A huge canvas marquee, built on the spacious grounds at the back of the stone walled house, inclosed this bit of California atmosphere. The walls and ceiling of the great rectangle were covered with wild smilax, leaving a palm screened alcove for the orchestra, against the greenery were placed the orange trees, transplanted from their native clime in Oriental tubs, the containers painted in yellow and green. Screening the stone wall of the house fluffy flowering acacia bloomed in all its yellow

Charity Dance Instead Of Inaugural Ball

President-Elect Hoover's Decision to Eliminate Old-Time Function of March 4 Gives Rise to New Entertainment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.

THE National Capital's society is excited over the prospects of an elaborate dance on the night of inauguration, March 4. The affair, however, will not be an inaugural ball, as President-elect Hoover has ruled against such an official event as a part of the program of his induction into office. It will be a dance for the benefit of Washington charities.

Telegrams and letters already are pouring in by the hundreds ordering tickets for the dance. It is known that the new President and the new first lady of the land will not attend that night, but since the new Vice President Curtis, and his sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and his daughters and sons-in-law and his son, Harry Curtis, and his pretty young wife will be there, the event will be worth while.

The passing of the inaugural ball with its old time triumphal parade around the ball room of the new President and the first lady of the land, and the President's cabinet, with some times the outgoing President and his lady also attending, is after all but little mourned in the Capital. It is realized that balls like all other forms of entertainment and recreation must change with the progress of life, and just so there is some form of diversion with which to close the day's varied and brilliant program at the Capitol and in the streets, it does not matter.

So the inaugural committee has elected to recognize a magnificent charity ball, the profits from which will go to Washington charity, it being specified that the police and fireman's funds each would receive $5000. Plans for the ball, which is to be held in the Washington Auditorium the night of March 4, have been placed in the hands of Mrs. John Allan Dougherty of Washington as chairman.

It was Mrs. Dougherty, who, when President Harding refused to sanction an inaugural ball as a finish to his inaugural day, hastily completed plans for a child welfare ball to be held at the Willard Hotel. While President and Mrs. Harding did not attend, Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge did, and so did several thousand other notables who were in the Capital. The proceds reached nearly the $30,000 mark. This so encouraged Mrs. Dougherty that she planned and carried to success another semi-inaugural dance upon the induction of the Coolidge administration, again a ball minus a President and first lady as guests, and this time the result was a fund of about $42,000. Vice President and Mrs. Dawes attended the ball four years ago as did the Governors of the states who came to attend the inaugural ceremonies, and many

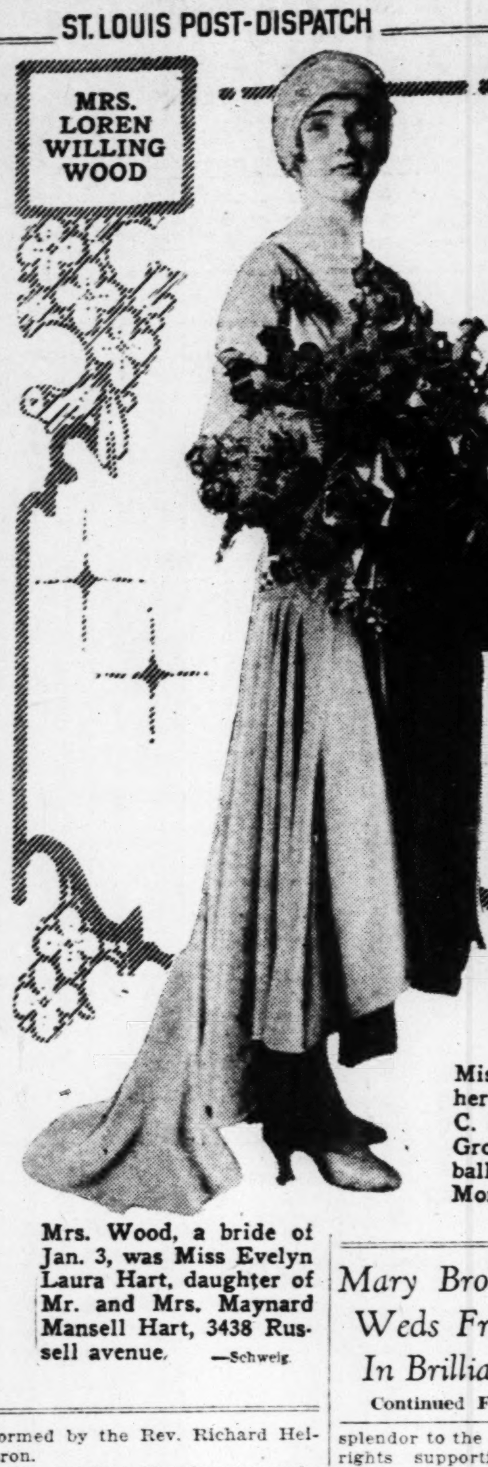
MRS. LOREN WILLING WOOD



Mrs. Wood, a bride of Jan. 3, was Miss Evelyn Laura Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Mansell Hart, 3438 Russell avenue. —Schweig.

Weddings and Engagements

THE marriage of Miss Marie Elizabeth Mullally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mullally, 5158 Westminster place, and Ralph Raymond Thomas, son of Mrs. W. S. Thomas, 27 Windermere place, and the late Mr. Thomas was solemnized yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Huttig of Webster Groves, the Rev. Father John Spencer of St. Roch's Church officiating. The guests were relatives and a few close friends.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Huttig, and was married in an ensemble of brown moire with which she wore a hat and accessories to match. Her flowers were bride's roses and lilies of the valley in a shoulder corsage. She was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent and is popular socially.

Mr. Thomas is a graduate of the University of Illinois and a member of the Glen Echo and University Clubs. The pair will spend their honeymoon in California.

The marriage of Miss Martha Hodgdon, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Sam D. Hodgdon of Webster Groves, to Edwin Basye Shannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Shannon of Kirkwood, will take place Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church of Webster Groves with Dr. David M. Skilling officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Schwartz of Clayton, will be the only attendants. The wedding which is to be informal will be followed by a dinner for the members of the two families at the home of the bride's parents.

Among the out of town guests will be Miss Frances Kenny of Kansas City, who will remain with Judge and Mrs. Hodgdon over the week-end.

Several parties were given in honor of Miss Hodgdon during the past few weeks, among them being a bridge luncheon by Mrs. Theodore Flint of Louisville, Ky., who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Dziatzko. Miss Elizabeth Tompkins of Glen road, was the hostess at a bridge party and shower Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Jacobsmeyer of Clayton were the host and hostess at a bridge party Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kropp of St. Louis were the host and hostess at a bridge party and buffet supper Saturday evening, Jan. 12. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Adams of St. Louis gave a bridge dinner for Miss Hodgdon and her fiancee Tuesday evening, Jan 8. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schwartz of Clayton were the host and hostess at a bridge party last evening. This afternoon, Miss Hodgdon will give an informal tea in compliment to her guest, Miss Kenny and Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz.

The wedding of Miss Helen Frances Simon and Francis L. Kane took place at St. Luke's Church Wednesday morning, Father John Kane officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Tuchschmidt as maid of honor, Miss Ruth Ward and Miss Marie Scheer, bridesmaids. Mr. Kane's attendants were his brother, Jerome Kane, who served as best man, and Edward Frick and Earl Smith, groomsmen.

The bride wore white bridal gown, made in bouffant style, with tiers of chiffon edged with silver. Her veil was simply made with a wreath of small pearls and orange blossoms. Her only adornment was a diamond pendant which was the gift of the groom. She carried lilies of the valley and white roses. The bridesmaids' dresses were of rose chiffon with hats and slippers to match. They carried American beauty roses and wore the bride's gifts, diamond-cut crystal necklaces.

Oscar Condon presided at the organ and Guy Golterman sang the bridal song, "Mavis," by Craxton.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the Jefferson Hotel.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Simon and a 1927 graduate of Webster College, and was the St. Louis University Prom Queen of that year.

Mr. Kane is the son of Joseph Kane. He is a graduate of St Marys College, Kansas, and the St. Louis University Law School.

The couple left immediately after the breakfast for a tour in the East.

A quiet wedding of last week was that of Miss Julia Margaret Manahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Manahan, and Fred S. Funsch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Funsch, which was solemnized Wednesday morning at St. John's Catholic Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her cousin, Miss Eleanor Manahan. Frank Bertells acted as best man.

Following the ceremony, breakfast was served for the immediate family in the Italian room of the Forest Park Hotel, after which the bride and bridegroom departed for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will remain until spring.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Blackwell of Festus, Mo., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Grace M. Blackwell, to Lee Peters of Webster Groves. The wedding took place last Sunday at Webster Groves.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Anne Sweeney, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Sweeney, 4857 Fountain avenue, and J. E. Murphey Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murphey Sr., 5216 Page boulevard. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Helbron.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphey are making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Murphey Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. George William Leapord, 5921 Maple avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edna Ruth Leapord, and Robert John Stimson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herbert Stimson of Waterman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stimson have taken an apartment in Webster Groves.

Friends have been informed of the wedding at Carbondale, Ill., last Saturday of Miss Parlee Vick Aikman and Louis Veitch Conrath, both of Marion, Ill., the latter the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Conrath of 942 Catalpa street. Only immediate relatives were present. The attendants were Miss Mary Lee Baker of Marion and Fred P. Conrath of St. Louis, a brother of the bridegroom. After a visit in St. Louis and Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Conrath returned to Marion to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Singer, 6308 Cates avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mrs. Frieda Singer Colowick, to Morris Silverberg, son of Mrs. Goldie Silverberg, 5868 Cates avenue. The wedding date has not been announced.

THE Vanishing parties which are being arranged and sponsored by the Zonta Club to help the treasury of the Town Club will be continued this week.

Several hostesses joined last week in entertaining their circles. Included in this list were Mrs. Byron W. Moser, Mrs. Sam Bassett and Mrs. F. L. Davis who united in giving a bridge party to 36 guests. Mrs. Horace G. Beedle, who has been made program chairman for the Town Club, gave one of the largest bridge parties of the series when she entertained 40 tables of guests last week at the club.

Other hostesses who have arranged parties for this week are Mrs. Flint Garrison, Mrs. R. Walston Chubb, Mrs. A. H. Mansfield, Madam H. de Bernard, Mrs. J. A. Dickson, Mrs. Victor J. Miller, Mrs. Henry Meier, Miss Myrtle Wood, Miss Ione Alexander, Miss Viola Grosby, Miss Nell Qualey, Miss Mabel Ketcham, Miss Edna Schaumberg, Miss Lorena Peabody, Miss Gertrude Bradley, Miss Martha Krebs, Miss Elizabeth Pratt, Miss Hester Sherwood, Miss Esther Diercks and Miss Anna Place.

splendor to the ceiling and the uprights supporting the marquee, wrapped in smilax held more of the colorful flowers.

The receiving line stood in the living room, before French windows through which could be seen the orange trees. At either side stood vases of Easter lilies combined with pink roses and the mantels were banked with long baskets of the same flowers. An open porch was inclosed as an entrance to the garden, and similarly decorated with pink roses and Easter lilies, combined with Stevia.

A dinner for the bridal party, with the wives of the out-of-town groomsmen, was served at a large oval table laid in the dining room and adorned with a tall French crystal vase of white roses and lilies of the valley. Surrounding the central decoration were smaller vases of the same flowers and branched silver candelabra.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyer have departed for the East, and will sail Thursday on the Berlin for Europe on their honeymoon. They will spend some time on the Riviera and on a motor trip through France and Italy. Upon their return they will occupy a home near the Whitmarsh Valley Hunt Club in Philadelphia, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes. The house is a remodeled white stone farmhouse set in several acres of cultivated land.

Mr. Boyer's gifts to her bridesmaids were rhinestone evening bags.

Mrs. Holmes wore a blue ensemble at her daughter's wedding, with a matching poudre blue felt hat. Mrs. Howard Holmes, an aunt of the bride, was in green, the gown trimmed with cream lace, and a matching coat lined with seed pearl crepe. Her furs and accessories were of a pale beige to match.

The out-of-town guests included Mr and Mrs. Henry C. Bover, parents of the bridegroom; his sister-in-law, Mrs. Philip Boyer; Mrs. Toland, Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. McLean, wives of out-of-town groomsmen; Mr. and Mrs. William La Beaume of Pasadena, Cal.; Mr. and Mrs. George Mersereau of Kansas City and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brooks of Cleveland and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brooks of Indianapolis brothers and sisters-in-laws of Mrs. Holmes.

New York Society Attends Silver Ball

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — New York's social life resembled a stately grand march this week after a holiday season jazzed up by collegians at home and dominated by debutantes. With the younger crowd no longer leading the dance, supremacy was assumed again by the older group of society, and parties assumed a more formal tone, although marked by unique entertainment and brilliant decoration.

The silver ball, characterized by pageants, costumes and decorations of silver, drew 5000 guests to Madison Square Garden Monday night for one of the most brilliant affairs of the season. "The Crystal Fountain," a pageant given by 300 girls in blue and silver frocks, powdered wigs and silver hats, was a climax of the entertainment. Thousands of silver balloons were passed by the girls from hand to hand up each ramp of the central stage and released, giving the appearance of fountain water breaking into bubbles, under the radiance of simulated blue moonlight which flooded the stage.

Ethel Barrymore headed a group of actresses who sold balloons, and Mrs. Vincent Astor was among committee members in charge of the affair. Harry Payne Whitney and W. Averill Harriman were among the box holders for the evening.

The annual Beaux Arts ball, to be given by the Society of Beaux Arts Architects Friday, promises this year in its portrayal of the Napoleonic era to surpass previous balls in brilliance. Society figuratively has laid itself out for costumes. Although suitable ones may be purchased at the door for $10 on the night of the ball, many of those worn by guests will cost hundreds of dollars, are ordered from Paris months in advance, and are fashioned of the richest silks and jewels. That to be worn by one woman of fashion 's ornamented with 221 ermine tails.

A deep well in which guests fished for everything from silk hose to cigarette lighters was an entertainment feature of the Russian ball Thursday night in aid of the Russian Church Assistance Fund. The ball, which was to have taken place Jan. 7, was postponed because of the death of Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, and the well was a substitute for the gift Christmas tree which was to have been a central figure of the ball.

Miss Natica de Acosta was among the debutantes directing the efforts of those who fished for the gifts. Dancing competitions in the tango, fox trot and waltz, and a Russian dagger dance by Capt. Martinoff, were other entertainment features of the evening.

Social Life at Florida Resorts

By the Associated Press.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 19.—Mid-January has been fraught with a certain magic in this resort. The season is swinging into a quick step, marching gaily toward its crest. Social affairs become more numerous and more elaborate, and from now until the season begins to wane in March there will be a whirlpool of gaiety.

Arrival at "El Mirasol" of Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia, regarded as Palm Beach's premier hostess, was the signal for the starting of formal entertaining. Mrs. Stotesbury, however, has been spending a few days quietly to rest and become acclimated, and Mr. Stotesbury, too, is convalescing from his motor accident of last October. The Philadelphian, a pioneer of society here, is president of the exclusive Bath and Tennis Club and of the Society of Arts of Palm Beach, as well as an important member of the group sponsoring the Everglades Club.

The list of hotel and colony arrivals this week resembles a section from "Who's Who." Lady Diana Duff Cooper, the former Lady Diana Manners, has been the guest of Otto H. Kahn of New York, at Oheka Cottage, Ocean boulevard here. Lady Cooper has gone to Nassau for a visit, but expects to return here later in the season.

Tecla de Malhou, the etcher, and Rachael Hartley, the painter, the latter a grad-daughter of George Innes, are here as guests of Contessa Denise Dolfin of Venice, Italy, and Palm Beach, and Maria Lawrence Wetherill, the etcher, at their home, "Thatchcote," on the south lake front. Other prominent arrivals in the next few days will be Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Republican National Committeewoman from Kentucky, mentioned prominently for a portfolio in the Cabinet of President-elect Hoover, and Congressman James Francis Burke of Pittsburg, Pa., who will remain here for the season.

The first musicale thus far this season was given at "Marcheta," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Skiff of Short Hills, N. J., and Palm Beach, when John Charles Thomas, baritone, formerly with the Royal Opera Company of Brussels, gave the program.

There was a little surprise when Mr. Thomas sang a composition, written by his wife, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bobyne, Beverly Farms, Mass., in honor of the host and hostess.

Another outstanding event of the week was the first Sunday night dinner dance at the Everglades Club. This saw Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury with a group of guests, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Chadbourne of Greenwich, Conn., Mrs. Richard Croker, Palm Beach, widow of the former Tammany chieftain, and others.

Guests of the Stotesbury's were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Barklie, Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Yarnall, Mrs. Edward Moore Roberts, Miss Katherine Connell, Henry P. Sloan and William Henry Harrison.

Polo is king when the smart tires of chasing the white ball over fairways, or weary with other countless diversions. Maj. Edward C. Metcalf, a former equarry to the Prince of Wales, who, with Lady Metcalfe is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn, has been in the tilting. Teamed with Laddie Sanford, Winston Guest and Harvey Shaffer, Maj. Metcalfe wore the laurels of victory when his four trounced by 11 to 9 the team composed of Godfrey Preece, Sluart Preece, Raymond Firestone and Howard Phipps.

The links tournament season was under way this week. Among those seen on the Kelsey City links were George W. Anderson, Newport, R. I.; Nick Blair, Leo Touster, J. N. Scudder of Houston, and Jules Bashe, all of New York; Karl H. Schrade, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Hogarth, Toronto, Canada.

Fashions have kept pace with the swelling visitors' list. Among the chic costumes noted during the week was one worn by Mrs. George Simon, the daughter-in-law of Franklin Simon, of New York, on Breakers Beach. Mrs. Simmny wore a frock of yellow flat crepe with a design of sunburst tucking on the blouse. Accessories also were in yellow.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt of New York City joined the colony this week and is in the Gurnee Hunn home on North Ocean boulevard. Another prominent arrival was Rodman Wannamaker II of New York, who brought as his guests Dudley Ward of London and William Rhinelander Stewart Jr., Dante Leland and James Harrison, all of New York. They are at "La Querida," where Mr. Wannamaker gave a dinner celebrating the arrival. Mr. Wannamaker intends staying at Palm Beach for about five weeks.

Tampa—The stately dining room of the Tampa Bay Hotel was dressed as never before this week, when on Tuesday night members of the Junior League transformed it into a night club for their "cotton pickers' ball." Among the distinguished guests were Gov. and Mrs. John Trumbull of Connecticut and their daughter, Florence, fiancee of John Coolidge.

Miami—All States Card Club gave a luncheon and installation of officers this week. Mrs. J. C. Dornes was installed as president Miss Clarissa Green, founder, presented each officer with a badge.

Hygiene Society Dinner Meeting.

Invitations have been issued for the twentieth anniversary dinner meeting of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association next Friday evening at 7 o'clock in the Hotel Chase. Mrs. Virgil Loeb is chairman of the Dinner Committee and is being assisted by Mrs. George Niedringhaus, Mrs. Ira L. Bretzfelder, Mrs. D. O. Ives, Mrs. Arthur Burr, Miss Edith Baker, Mrs. A. P. Greensfelder, Dr. Frances L. Bishop and Miss Claribel Wheeler. Col. L. W. Harrison of the British Ministry of Health is to be the principal speaker.

At Jefferson Barracks

Items of Social Interest From the Army Post.

The Tuesday Evening Bridge Club held its first meeting of this year at the Officers' Club with Mrs. Harry V. Hand hostess. Among the guests were Mrs. Moor N. Falls, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Morse, Maj. and Mrs. William E. Hall, Maj. and Mrs. Henry B. McIntyre, Maj. Charles A. Ross, Capt. Glenn A. Ross, Capt. John R. DeVall, Capt. Thomas G. Carlin, Capt. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith, Lieut. and Mrs. Crump Garvin, Lieut. and Mrs. Creswell G. Blakeney, Lieut. Harold Doud and Lieut. Howard H. Hastings.

Lieut. William S. Wood of the Third Field Artillery is spending a month and a half leave in Janesville, Wis.

Lieutenant-Colonel Charles T. Smart of the Sixth Infantry is spending leave with relatives in Jacksonville, Fla.

On next Friday evening the Officers' Club will give a dance at the Red Cross Hostess House. The officers of the First Battalion and their ladies will comprise the Entertainment Committee.

Lieut. and Mrs. Charles C. Higgins entertained at bridge last Sunday evening in honor of Miss Virginia Stillwell who is leaving soon for Bowling Green, Ky., where she will attend school. Additional guests were Capt. and Mrs. Earl Almon, Lieut. and Mrs. Creswell Blakeney and Lieut. Arthur E. Deway.

Mrs. Charles F. Morse, wife of Colonel Morse of the Medical Corps, has returned to Jefferson Barracks from an extended visit with relatives in South Carolina.

Mrs. William S. Wood gave an attractive bridge and tea at her quarters in Jefferson Barracks on Thursday afternoon in honor of her mother, Mrs. Ambrose Bruner of Louisville, Ky. The guests were Mrs. Moor N. Falls, Mrs. William E. Hall, Mrs. Charles A. Ross, Mrs. Harry B. Hildebrand, Mrs. Arvid P. Croonquist, Mrs. Lloyd Zuppann, Mrs. George C. Nielson, Mrs. Frank W. Capt. George Downing, of the Third Field Artillery and Lieut. Albert H. Dickerson, of the Sixth Infantry, have returned to Jefferson Barracks from a few days stay in Chicago, Ill.

Maj. and Mrs. Charles A. Ross were hosts at dinner Saturday evening at their quarters in Jefferson Barracks. The table was covered with an exquisite Normandy lace cloth and had for its centerpiece a green bowl filled with red carnations and red candles burned in green crystal holders. The quests were Maj. and Mrs. Henry B. McIntyre and Capt. and Mrs. Frank W. Romaine.

Capt. and Mrs. Edward A. Austin and children, who are en route to End, Ok., from Fort Williams, Me., spen tseveral days of the past week at the home of Lieut. and Mrs. Clinton J. Ancker.

Capt. and Mrs. Fred O. Wickham entertained at dinner on Tuesday evening preceding the bridge party at the Officers' Club. Narcissi in a silver bowl was the pretty centerpiece used for the table, at which covers were marked for Capt. and Mrs. Earl Almon, Capt. and Mrs. Edward A. Austin, Lieut. and Mrs. Clinton J. Ancker, Miss Virginia Stillwell and Lieut. Harold Doud.

Mrs. Ambrose Bruner of Louisville, Ky., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. William S. Wood, at Jefferson Barracks.

Capt. and Mrs. Frank E. Brokaw were hosts at dinner on Tuesday evening. Narcissi in a blue bowl and blue candles in silver holders adorned the table. The guests were Capt. and Mrs. Arnold Reeve and Lieut. and Mrs. Harry L. Lewis. After dinner the party attended the bridge club meeting at the Officers' Club.

Capt. and Mrs. Stanley Backman returned by motor from Perry, Mo., where they spent the last week-end with relatives.

The Monday afternoon Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. William E. Hall, wife of Maj. Hall. The guests were: Mrs. Willis S. Matthews, Mrs. Frank E. Brokaw, Mrs. Arvid P. Croonquist, Mrs. Robert H. Vesey, Mrs. Charles Morse, Mrs. Frank W. Romaine and Mrs. Crump Garvin.

Miss Charlotte Fernau of Flatonia, Tex., who is visiting relatives in St. Louis, spent Monday and Tuesday at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Lloyd Zuppann.

Church services will be held at the Post Chapel this morning. Father Dalton and Chaplain Jones will conduct the services. This evening at 6:30 o'clock there will be Community Services at the chapel.

Maj. Thomas L. Smith of the Dental Corps has been assigned to duty at Jefferson Barracks effective upon the completion of the present terms at the Army Medical School. Maj. Smith is expected to arrive during the month of June.

Woman's Legislative Committee Bridge

THE Missouri Women's Legislative Committee of St. Louis will give a benefit bridge party at the Chase Hotel, Thursday, Feb. 7, at 2 p. m., the proceeds of which will be used to defray the expenses of an educational campaign throughout the State in the interest of better schools for Missouri children, better child labor conditions and to secure the infancy and maternity appropriation.

More than 5000 invitations have been issued to the members comprising the organizations represented on the Legislative Committee and the various women's clubs of the city who are in sympathy with the movement.

The Welfare, Legislative and Educational committees of the Missouri Federation of Woman's Clubs will hold a joint meeting at the Town Club Thursday at which time Miss Ella Victoria Dobbs, State chairman of applied education of the Federation of Woman's Clubs and the State chairman of education of the League of Women Voters, will speak on the educational measures now before the Legislature.

The following organizations and representatives compose the Missouri Women's Legislative Committee: American Association of University Women, Mrs. Walston Chubb and Mrs. Roscoe Anderson; Missouri Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Holmes Wager, Mrs. H. H. Muchall; Board of Religious Organizations, Mrs. J. Hal Lynch, Mrs. Thomas Harkness; College Club, Miss Bonita Schramm, Miss Adele Niesen; Consumer's League, Miss Mary Reber; Missouri Tuberculosis Society, Missouri Conference of Social Welfare, Miss Bertha Howell, Miss Mary Alexander; Missouri State Nurses' Association, Miss Margaret McKinley, Mrs. Bertha Yeniceck; Missouri Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Miss Gertrude Ryan, Miss Florence Weigle; Missouri Social Hygiene Association, Mrs. A. P. Greensfelder, Mrs. Arthur Burr; League of Women Voters of St. Louis, Mrs. Walter Harral, Mrs. L. A. Haworth; Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Leon Geldman, Mrs. Leo Rosenheim; Wednesday Club, Mrs. W. R. Chivvis, Mrs. Arthur Kimball; Missouri League of Women Voters, Mrs. George Gellhorn and Mrs. Oscar Doerman; Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, Mrs. V. C. Whitfield; Bindery Women's Union, Miss May Shannon.

Mrs. H. H. Muchall is chairman of the Missouri Women's Legislative Committee of St. Louis and the bridge party is directly sponsored by the Finance Committee, including Mrs. George Gellhorn, Miss Mary Reber, Mrs. H. H. Muchall and Miss Bonita Schramm, chairman.

Parties and Other Social Events

THE Opera Club will meet tomorrow night in the Pal Lido of Hotel Coronado. The following will be among those who will entertain at supper parties: J. E. Baker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champ, Carl Hodge, Mr. and Mrs. Sears Lehmann, St. Aubin Bell, Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins, Albert Dehlendorf, Julian Frampton, Ambrose Lortz and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hennssy.

The St. Louis University student conclave has announced the officers selected for the Mardi Gras ball. This will be a dress masquerade and will take place on Shrove Tuesday, the evening of Feb. 12. The officers are Robert S. Denvir, chairman; Rene Lusser and Alfred J. Wetzel.

Following the precedent established at the barn dance in the fall, none will be admitted without a costume. To stimulate originality in dress, the committee has announced that it will award three prizes. Jules Brinkman, a junior in the Law School, is president of the Student Conclave.

St. Roch's Mothers' Club will entertain at a benefit card party at Nugents' Auditorium on tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A circus party was a change from the accustomed formal parties at Lindenwood College, Friday night. Pink lemonade and peanuts were the refreshments, and the girls appeared as children in country costume. The college clubs of northern and western states were in charge, led by three club presidents, Misses Elizabeth Sawtell of Omaha, Miss Naida Porter of Neodesha, Kan., and Miss Doris Arnold of Keokuk, Ia., and assisted by committees, with the following chairmen, Misses Lucille Kelly, Jean Whitney and Lucy Spence. There was a circus parade of animals and entertainers. The orchestra pit of Butler gymnasium was decorated as a band wagon, near which stood a balloon man. There were side shows, fortune-tellers, snake charmers and freaks.

The Kappa Theta Delta Sorority at its annual election last week at the Forest Park Hotel chose the following officers: Miss Marion McFarland, president; Miss Dorothy V. Pepper, vice president; Miss Ida Feldman, secretary and Miss Rose Joseph, treasurer.

The Beaumont-Yeatman Alumni Association will give a reception and dance in honor of the graduating class of January, 1929, Friday, at 8:30 p. m. at the Beaumont High School.

The twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Max Nelson of Pershing avenue, University City, was celebrated at the Forest Park Hotel. Decorations of flowers and silver leaves hung in the bal lroom and spot lights were flashed on the words "silver anniversary." More than 300 guests, among them many relatives, were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson's children, Sidney, Isador, Stanley and Adele were present.

Charity Dance to Replace Inaugural Ball

other officials and dignitaries, diplomats going because it was a big parade and they wanted to see how it was done.

Washington is having a brand-new experience in having a Vice President-elect in town where he can be seen on all occasions and can make visits and be entertained. Indeed, Senator Charles Curtis is having scarce a moment to himself, for when he is not at the Capitol, he is someone's guest.

In moving into the presidential suite at the Mayflower, taking with him his half-sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, he makes himself much more accessible to his colleagues and constituents.

Mrs. Miles Poindexter has returned to Washington. Of course, her husband, former Senator Poindexter, has returned, too, coming from his post as Ambassador to Peru, but that is not half so much to the point. No woman who has ever figured in Senate circles has produced quite so much excitement and given so much to talk about in an agreeable way as Mrs. Poindexter. Lima will never forget her. She would not hesitate to advise either the President of the United States or Peru, if she thought he needed it, and he would be in gales of laughter while she did it.

Mrs. Poindexter was honor guest of the Women's National Press Club a few days ago, and after the feast, the members moved their chairs into a circle and while she refused to make an address or a set talk, gave them the privilege of asking questions. They asked them, and the answers kept the company in roars of laughter. Mr. and Mrs. Poindexter have a delightful house on N street, which they bought some years ago, and they are living there while in Washington.

Society is looking forward to the wedding of Miss Janet Newblod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fleming Newbold of Washington, to Allan A. Ryan Jr., in St. Matthews' Catholic Church Feb. 5, and many New York society folk will come here for the event.

Another wedding is that of Miss Virginia Mason, daughter of Mrs. Charles Field Mason and the late Brigadier-General Mason, who on Feb. 9 is to marry Dr. Montgomery Blair Jr., whose mother was Edith Draper, aunt of Princess Marguerite Boncompagni.

This afternoon in the home of Senator and Mrs. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, their daughter, Miss Marian Frances Barkley, will be married to Max O'Rell Truitt of Columbia, Mo., the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, Chaplain of the House, officiating. The event will be simply arranged. Miss Barkley is still a school girl and one of the most popular in the congressional set.

State societies in Washington, once small and neglected bodies which pepped up over the visit of a single Representative to one of their meetings in a twelve-month, have advanced steadily until now almost every state in the union has its organization of voteless Washington, and few of them are without a Senator or Representative as president. Senator Charles S. Deneen, former Governor of Illinois, has been made president of his State society. A reception will be given soon for the Senator and Mrs. Deneen, which will be attended by all of the members of Congress in the Capital. Representative-elect Ruth Hanna McCormick will attend, as will many high officials in various branches of the Government. Where a Senator or Representative is too busy actively to take part in the proceedings of State societies and the hundreds of constituents who write back home, their wives do it for them. Mrs Maurice H. Thatcher is president of the Kentucky Society and has been for several years.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives relief even for those dreaded "flu" coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest cold, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Adaptos Fit with the Comfort and Precision of Custom-Shoe Measurements

ADAPTOS are not ready-to-wear shoes in the sense that they are standardized to just the length-and-width-measurements of usual ready-to-wear footwear.

For so studied are the various measurements of Adaptos . . . . .

They Fit the Entire Body of Each Individual Foot with custom-shoe precision . . . And Adaptos possess the fine style lines, the niceties of detail and little elegancies of custom footwear because they are so exquisitely balanced, so ideally proportioned.

Adaptos have that fineness and smart style which is born from clever construction.

Adaptos have the air of belonging to your foot exclusively, of being made for your particular foot and no other foot. You walk or stand with supreme comfort and with unconscious beauty and grace in Adaptos.

The narrow-heel is encased with that trig well shod snugness; the arch is gently curved in restful support; the close-fitting ankles never gape; the whole foot joys in a smooth, velvet-comfort . . .

A dainty fineness is revealed in every elegant detail of this Adapto style conception. The same smart model may be had in a wide variety of leathers—black patent leather, black kid, black or gray python, black satin and black or brown suede.

Health Questions Answered

By Dr. Lewis Baker and Associates
An Advertisement Informing the Public in a Common-Sense Manner How to Distinguish the Simpler Ailments and Symptoms, and the Right Remedies for Treatment. Each Medicine Possesses the Highest Qualities for the Purpose Intended.

Dr. Lewis Baker

At this time of the year probably 20 per cent of our population exhibits a debiliated state of the system. The rigors of the winter, living much indoors with frequent exposure and colds, bring forth the evidence that implies anemic blood. The symptoms of anemia vary with the individual. Extreme physical weakness, mental dullness and nervous irritability are generally outstanding symptoms. "Always tired," "Always worried," "Weak and Rundown," "Nervous Indigestion," "Dizzy Spells," "Cold Hands and Feet," "Perspiring Palms" and "Oppressed Feeling" are some of the symptoms observed by anemic persons.

The treatment I recommend is directed to the organs concerned in making the blood and those concerned in elimination. Cadomene Tablets improve the quality and vigor of the blood, in any case of simple anemia, if taken as per directions over a period of several weeks or months as the case may require.

C. K. K. writes: "I am 19, and afflicted with unsightly pimples (acne) all over my face. Also constipated and about once a month suffer dreadfully with 'itching hives.' Please help me?"

Answer: To correct the tendency to constipation and aid the elimination of the poisons in the blood, take Sulpherb Tablets three times daily for several weeks.

W. E. B. asks: "My hair is falling, have itching scalp and bad case of dandruff."

Answer. Medicated Chex Soap used as a shampoo, quickly stops dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp and improves the strength and beauty of the hair.

Mrs. L. C. C. asks: "Will you tell me of a cough remedy safe to give my children?"

Answer: I recommend Mentho-Laxene as the most effective and harmless, as it contains no opiates or chloroform and is quite inexpensive. Children take it willingly, as the taste is pleasant.

H. C. L. writes: "Please suggest a medicine that will help me put on good solid flesh. I am too thin."

Answer: Many have found Hypo-Nuclane tablets to be very helpful toward increasing weight.

P. T. S. asks: "I have catarrh of head and throat. It is disagreeable and most annoying. What should I use to correct the trouble?"

Answer: Obtain Vilane Powder; use as per directions. Also apply triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve in nostrils twice daily.

K. R. C. writes: "Have heard that your rheumatism prescription is wonderful in the quick results it affords. Will you kindly publish?"

Answer. Druggists have advised me that the following prescription is becoming well-known for its effectiveness. I have prescribed it for years: Iodide of Potassium 2 drams; Sodium Salicylate 4 drams; tincture of Colchicum ½ oz.; comp. essence of Cardiol 1 oz.; comp. Balmwort 1 oz.; Elixir Lactated Pepsin 5 oz Take one teaspoonful at mealtime and at bedtime, and you should soon be well. For those who do not like liquid medicine, I recommend Cardiol Tablets, a formula similar to the foregoing liquid.

S. A. H. asks: "Advise a medicine to aid in correcting a most distressing kidney and bladder trouble which makes me get up at all hours of the night, and causes headache and backache a few hours after being on my feet."

Answer: A tonic - diuretic medicine, Balmwort tablets, should give you aid and relief as it has to so many of my correspondents.

Note: Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director of The Blackburn Products Co., 12 College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, will send his valuable guide to Health and Beauty, to any address upon receipt of 10cts. Coin. The trustworthy medicines advised, can be obtained of all leading druggists.

Dr. Baker is known to millions, and the esteem in which he is held is evidenced by the scores of grateful letters received daily, similar to the following:

LETTERS to DR. BAKER

SABOTTUS, MAINE. James A. Libby, Box 52, writes: "I write you because of the wonderful relief the Balmwort tablets have given my wife. She had such severe pains in bladder region and had to leave her bed eight to a dozen times each night. Her agony was such that the doctor had to inject morphine. We decided to try Balmwort tablets. She continued and today she is like a new woman, as far as that trouble is concerned. She can sleep and does not have those stinging pains, etc."

FREEDUN, PA., Martin L. Howell, 399 5th Ave., writes: "For the benefit of thousands of stomach sufferers and those who have bowel trouble I think that a letter to you may be of benefit. I had been suffering for years with my stomach and bowels and had taken hundreds of dollars' worth of different medicines, until I had given up all hope. I am aged 47 years, and have worked on railroad for 17 years as brakeman and conductor. I have taken only one box of Triopeptine tablets and a half box of the Casca Royal Pills. I can now eat anything and no more indigestion or bowel trouble. Respectfully."

HAYS, PA. Mr. Mel C. Schotting, writes: "Was troubled with headaches, boils and carbuncles for years. Had as high as 36 carbuncles in one year—all left scars. Had tried the most advertised blood medicines on the market without results. Then I took 4 boxes of Sulpherb tablets and seldom have a headache (bilious headache) and no more carbuncles or boils. My condition was so bad if I got a bruise on my fingers it would turn into a felon, but now I am O. K."

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. Mrs. Wm. H. Burns, 1217 W. 62nd St., writes: "I think I had tried everything imaginable for colds and catarrh, until I tried your wonderful Mentho-Laxene Salve, which is a sure relief, and I will never be without it, as it is so good for so many things, especialy painful joints, bruises, or scratches, etc."

INDIANAPOLIS, IND. Mrs. A. C. Couts, 324 S. N. Jersey St., writes: "Four years ago I suffered a nervous breakdown. I tried different remedies and doctors and received little benefit. I was all run down, weak, had headache in back of head, also backache; stomach was weak, heart would beat so fast; had spots before my eyes and my hands would swell till my fingers were stiff. Two years ago I bought Cadomene tablets, took them as directed, and began to improve, till now I feel like a different person. I can recommend Cadomene for such trouble, etc."

• • •

E. E. PITTSBURGH, PA. A. Martin, 371 Bruston Ave., writes: "I want to tell you that Hypo-Nuclane tablets are the 'real goods' for putting on flesh. I had tried many remedies, and now I know that Hypo-Nuclane tablets are the best of all as I have gained four pounds in two weeks. Sincerely, etc."

• • •

CHICAGO, ILLS. Mrs. Harry Graff, (Maker of coats, suits, dresses) 324 S. Market St., writes: "Have used Chex soap and find it all you claim. I like it so much that I have put in a supply of a dozen bars. I think it is the greatest article on the market, etc."

• • •

NEWARK, N. J. Nicholas M. Dan, 7 Newark St., writes: "I contracted a cold this winter that developed into neuralgia, headache, toothache and nasal catarrh. It made me so miserable I could not sleep. Then I read your adv. in Newark Star and found that Su-thol tablets just fitted my case. Have also tried Sulpherb tablets and found them more gentle as a laxative than any ever taken. Respect., etc."

• • •

MATHESON, COLO. Mrs. Orena Kashner, writes: "I am 66 years old. I had a severe cough for two months. Could get no relief from anything I tried, until I got a bottle of Mentho-Laxene. After taking about two-thirds of it, my cough stopped. I do not think there is anything to equal it. Sincerely."

Dandy Way to Tint Gray Hair
By MONA EVERS

I don't blame any woman for wanting to do something about gray, faded or streaked hair because there is nothing that makes one look older.

Whenever I am asked for a method of restoring gray hair I invariably recommend nothing more or less than a mixture of good old sage tea and sulphur. Common garden sage, when properly brewed and mixed with sulphur and a little alcohol, makes a wonderful recolorer of gray hair. You can either prepare the mixture at home yourself or, more conveniently, buy it already prepared and ready to use. All druggists carry it in the form of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, and since the cost is only 75c a bottle, there is really no need to prepare it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your hair to its original color, so evenly, so naturally that no one can possibly tell you have used it. Everyone who tries Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur tells me he, or she, gets perfect results, so I don't hesitate to pass the secret on to others.

Missouri Boy Like Mother

"Out of sight, out of mind" is a true saying. The fact that we can't see what's happening inside our children's bodies is the reason so many of us allow them to go on suffering from constipation until they are full of the poisons from decaying waste and they're bilious, headachy, sallow and weak, with no appetite or energy. Watch your baby or child Mother, and at the first sign of coated tongue, bad breath or feverishness, give him a little California Fig Syrup. This rich, fruity product gently expels all the souring waste; gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels, so they continue to act normally; stimulates the circulation; tones and nourishes the entire system.

Its sales record of over four million bottles a year and the enthusiastic praise of women everywhere, prove mothers depend on it today as they have for more than fifty years. A Missouri mother, Mrs. C. C. Ryan 6108 Charlotte Ave., St. Louis, says: "I used to take California Fig Syrup as a child, so when my little son began to suffer with constipation I started him on it. It stopped his trouble quickly and made him look ever so much better. I kept using it with him for a few weeks and it made a different boy out of him. He has grown so well and strong and is never sick any more."

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on my imitators.

Biggest Air Mail Cargo.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Shipment of 700,000 air mail letters, weighing 15 tons from Toledo, O., today by an automobile company, is the greatest air movement in the history of aviation. Mail contractors propose to deliver 75 per cent of it in from 12 to 24 hours and all of it within 36 hours to 108 airports. From these airports, the mail will be sent to every state in the Union—6000 towns in all.

DOGS KEEP WORKMEN WARM

Custom Still Exists in Cutlery at Thiers, France.

By the Associated Press.

THIERS, France, Jan. 19.—Dogs furnish the heat in one of France's oldest cutleries. The workmen are required by the nature of their task to lie on their stomachs all day and in winter each provides himself with a big wooly warming dog.

This custom exists only in Thiers and dates back three and a half centuries. The grinders lie prone and hold the knife blades against stones turned by water power. Generations ago the men trained their dogs to keep them warm.

40 PRIESTS LIVE IN CELLAR

Mexicans Afraid They Will Be Blamed for Plot.

By the Associated Press.

QUERETARO, Mexico, Jan. 19.—The plight of 40 priests who went into hiding several months ago and have been living since in a cellar has been brought to the attention of the Governor, with a recommendation that steps be taken for their relief.

The president of the local Rotary club explained to the Governor that the priests took up their abode in the cellar because they feared they would be blamed for a political plot discovered about that time, in which they took no part. They have been afraid to leave their hiding place since and are suffering from lack of fresh air and proper nourishment.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this sample remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

KIRKWOOD SOCIAL NOTES

FETE FOR WILHELM'S BIRTHDAY

Invitations to German Officials Are Source of Embarrassment.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Considerable embarrassment has been caused to several prominent officials of the German republic by an invitation issued by Count Adolf Arnim-Muskau, president of the Union Club, asking all members to appear in evening full dress at a gala dinner Jan. 27 "on the occasion of the seventieth birthday of the exalted protector of the Union Club, his majesty, Kaiser Wilhelm II."

Among those who received an invitation as members of the club were Karl von Schubert, an Undersecretary in the Foreign Office; Robert Weissmann, State Secretary and right-hand man of the Prussian Premier; Hugo von Kayser, Inspector-General of Cavalry, and various men in active diplomatic service. While none of these will attend, they nevertheless are amazed at the invitation, the more so as the Union Club is the official highest board in matters affecting horse racing and as such receives a subvention from the Reich and the Prussian State. Count Arnim-Muskau also is president of the Automobile Club of Germany.

AGAINST CUTTING SUGAR OUTPUT

Head of League Committee Gives View of International Crisis.

GENEVA, Jan. 19.—Efforts to lessen sugar production as a means of solving the international sugar crisis would be bad economics and will not be advocated by his committee, said Dr. Trendelenburg of Germany, president of the League's Economic Committee, which has just completed an examination of international economic problems. Dr. Trendelenburg declared the sugar situation was so serious that there must be increased consumption or reduction in cultivation or both, but that no one could favor cutting the output. He added that experts, representing producers, consumers and traders, as well as spokesmen for the beet sugar industry would meet in March to examine the question and seek remedies.

He also announced that the committee had decided to push an inquiry into the feasibility of advocating international cartels in industry and that a special group of experts, including Americans, would study the juridical aspects of the question.

"Babies" of Opera Company Wed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The "Babies" of the Chicago Civic Opera Co., Miss Marion Claire, youngest lyric soprano of the company, and Henry G. Weber, the world's youngest opera conductor, are to be married here Monday. Despite the fact that both are Chicagoans, the romance had its inception in Europe where they met while Miss Claire was studying abroad, and Weber was traveling. The marriage will take place at noon at the Congress Hotel, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Preston Bradley of the People's Church. The couple will go on a month's honeymoon. Miss Claire is the daughter of Horace Wright Cook, Chicago attorney.

U. D. C. Dinner Dance at Gatesworth.

A dinner dance was held at the Gatesworth Hotel last night under the joint auspices of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Confederate Veterans. About 250 persons attended.

Read this before you buy any Cough medicine

{Take 2½ minutes to learn these important facts}

"Will it relieve my cough quickly?"	REM will, or you can have your money back. The fact that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back tells the story.
"Is it harmless?"	REM is,-there's positively nothing in it to hurt you.
"Is it an experiment?"	REM is no experiment. 43 years of pharmaceutical experience are back of it.
"Does it soothe the irritation and soreness?"	That's one of the most noticeable qualities of REM. It clings to the throat, starting relief quickly. Right away you'll notice a soothing, cooling effect.
"Does it 'cut the phlegm'?"	REM does. It clears the air-passages and thus makes it easier to breathe during the day and sleep soundly at night.
"Does it taste bad?"	Not REM! It's easy to take. Even children seldom have to be coaxed to take it.
"Is it economical?"	REM is. Simple coughs usually yield to a single bottle. Remedies that don't help are expensive at any price.
"Does it claim more than it can do?"	REM is no "cure-all". We frankly tell you it's no good for anything but a cough,—but how remarkably good it is for that!
"Are all cough medicines pretty much alike?"	Indeed they aren't! No other cough medicine on the market has the same formula as REM, and "it's the formula that counts!"

NOW you know why . . .

"it's REM FOR COUGHS"

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon: apply it at night when retiring: use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails

Report Again Heard That He Will Soon Marry; Princess Giovanna Mentioned.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Jan. 19.—King Boris of Bulgaria has recently received a substantial increase in salary and the report echoes once more that he is going to get married.

He has made drastic cuts in his household expenses and reduced clerical staff from 26 to 14. Princess Giovanna of Italy continues to be the center of all gossip concerning the prospect of a royal romance.

King Boris has abolished the annual ball, diplomatic receptions and banquets, which were making serious inroads on his meager personal exchequer. He has also stopped smoking and refused the installation of a modern wireless set in his working rooms, for reasons of economy.

He is abstemious in all his tastes and adheres to a simple diet. He drinks nothing between meals, and his favorite dish is Irish stew and green peas. He avoids meat as far as possible. Vegetables, milk and buttered toast comprise his breakfast.

14,000,000 TURKS HASTEN TO ACQUIRE FAMILY NAMES

Law to Be Framed to End Confusion Caused by Interpretation of Koran.

By the Associated Press.

ANGORA, Turkey, Jan. 19.—Fourteen million Turks are in frantic search of a family name. Warning signals have been up for some time that President Kemal was contemplating a name reform and now a commission has been formed to frame a law.

All the Fatimas, Mustaphas, Husseins and Hassans of this land where family names have never existed will be obliged to concoct a Turkish counterpart for Smith, Jones and Brown, and tag it to their given names.

The confusion arising from the fact that hundreds of thousands of women are all called by the same name of Fatima and hundreds of thousands of men by the same tag, Moustapha, has brought about this next occidental reform of the champion reformer, Kemal.

In prescribing family names for his Turks, the Ghazi is once again flouting Koranic precept. It is said that the reason for the absence of family names among the Moslem Turks is to be found in a verse from the Koran which exhorts: "Be not proud of your father's, your grandfather's or your ancestor's names. It is what you are yourself that counts."

IRISH FREE STATE CUTTING NUMBER OF DRINK SHOPS

State Compensates Dispensed Dealers, Charges It Up to Those Left in Business.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Jan. 17.—The Free State, by act of Parliament, is reducing the number of its drink shops.

The police decide which houses are redundant and submit their findings to the district justices. The state advances the money to compensate the dispossessed drink sellers and recover the sum from those who are left on the theory that they must benefit by the restriction of competition. Three hundred saloons were thus extinguished in the first year.

When the act of Parliament was passed there was in the Free State one drink shop for every 230 of the population, as against one for every 650 in Scotland. Today, despite the reduction, there is still one drink shop for every 220, a higher proportion than when the reform began. The explanation is that the census has disclosed a smaller population than was estimated.

Turks Take Up Wine Making.

By the Associated Press.

BIGADOS, Turkey, Jan. 19.—Though the Koran forbids it, the new Turkey is looking more and more frequently on the wine when it is red. The Kemalist Government, which has made alcohol one of the 16 state monopolies, has sent the director of the monopoly to Europe to study wine making. The director chose this rich Anatolian grape region as the location for Turkey's future wine industry.

MANY SPECTATORS DRAWN BY FIRE IN DOWNTOWN CAFE

Blaze Across From Jefferson Hotel Brings Out Dozen Pieces of Apparatus.

Fire, caused by an overheated pipe, broke out in the basement of the five-story building at 410 orth Twelfth boulevard, at 2:30 p. m. today. The first two floors of the building are occupied by the Bismarck Cafe.

Fire Chief Alt made no estimate of the damage, but believed it to be slight and caused mostly by smoke and water. The restaurant and its furnishings were insured. About a dozen pieces of fire apparatus responded and blocked traffic on Twelfth while they fought the blaze.

Clipped from the St. Louis Star Saturday, Jan. 12, 1929.

NEW SIZE PAPER MONEY JULY 1

No More Bills of Present Design After April 1.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — The United States will cease issuing currency of the present size on April 1 in preparation for putting out the new and smaller currency on July 1.

Printing of the new paper money has been under way for several months. The first sheet consisting of 12 one dollar bills, will be purchased by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The next 12 sheets have been reserved for purchase by other Government officials. The distinctive design of the new bills is expected by Treasury officials to make it easy to detect counterfeits.

FREE TOOTH-PULLING CLINIC AT ST. LOUIS U. WEDNESDAY

Study Club Members, Graduate Dentists, to Offer Services Between 8 and 10 p. m.

Persons suffering with decayed or infected teeth may have the teeth drawn free of charge by graduate dentists at the St. Louis University Dental Clinic, Grand boulevard and Caroline street, between the hours of 8 and 10 p. m. next Wednesday.

The service will be performed by members of the St. Louis Study Club, an organization of dentists, who began meeting 11 years ago to promote mutual advancement in their profession. The club is not affiliated with any school, but receives the use of clinics at both St. Louis and Washington Universities for meetings, held every two weeks during the winter months. Children under 14 years of age will not be treated Wednesday night.

Prescription He Wrote In 1892 Is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

BILL TO LICENSE AUTO DRIVERS DRAWN

Safety Conucil to Present to Legislature Road Patrol Measure Also.

Bills for the licensing of all motor vehicle operators with provisions for revocation and suspension of licenses for cause, and for the creation of a State road patrol under the supervision of the State Highway Commission, have been drafted by the St. Louis Safety Council and will be submitted to the State Legislature this week.

The bills were drafted Friday afternoon at a special safety conference called by Joseph T. Davis, president of the council. A third bill regulating the operation of vehicles on streets and highways will be prepared at another meeting Tuesday. An effort has been made to make the bills conform to the uniform vehicle code adopted by the Hoover traffic conference.

To Restruct Licenses.

Under the terms of the bill for licensing drivers, licenses would be issued by the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles to persons 16 years of age or older, with a special minimum for chauffeurs of 18 years. Licenses would not be issued to any person who was an habitual drunkard, a drug addict, an idiot, an imbecile, an epileptic or feeble-minded. Each applicant would be required to file a statement giving his description and a record of physical defects, and would be required to pass a driving examination.

The Commissioner would have authority to revoke the license of any driver on conviction of manslaughter by automobile, driving when intoxicated, any felony in which an automobile was used, flight from the scene of an accident or three charges of reckless driving within a year.

Commissioner as Judge.

The Commissioner would also have the authority to suspend the license of any driver on his reasonable belief that the driver had caused or contributed to an accident resulting in death, injury or serious property damage, or that he was physically or mentally incompetent, habitually reckless or negligent in driving.

The State Road Patrol would be composed of a chief to be appointed by the State Highway Commission and a motorcycle squad of not more than 100 patrolmen. Their duties would be limited exclusively to the enforcement of laws governing motor vehicles.

RETAILERS TO HOLD MEETING IN ST. LOUIS, FEB. 4 TO 11

Semi-Annual Convention of National Association Will Take Place at Hotel Statler.

The semi-annual convention of the American Retailers' Association will be held at Hotel Statler from Feb. 4 to Feb. 11, inclusive. Railroad rate reductions for visiting merchants have been granted in every state, and a heavy attendance is expected.

On three evenings of the week, Feb. 4, 5 and 6, a "school" for merchants will be conducted by experts who have demonstrated efficiency of their methods in their own establishments. The annual banquet will be held the evening of Feb. 7. This has been designated as "Railroad Night" and presidents of seven railroads serving St. Louis territory are on the program as speakers.

Speakers who will address the educational sessions include Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, on "New Trends in Distribution"; Miss Ida Kruse McFarlane, professor of English literature, University of Denver, on "What the Customer Would Like"; Huntley M. Sinclair, assistant professor of economics, Washington University, on "The Independent Merchant in the Scheme of Distribution," and Paul D. Kranzberg on "Sane Store Aids."

WIFE OF CONTRACTOR FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Husband Failed Last Year; She Lists Liabilities at $73,861 and No Assets.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy, growing out of the failure of a building business in which her husband was interested, was filed yesterday in Federal Court by Mrs. Celia L. Schuermann of 608 Kingsland avenue, University City, who listed her liabilities at $73,861 and no assets. She took the pauper's oath to save the charge of $30 for filing the petition.

Mrs. Schuermann's liabilities consist for the most part of mortgages, notes and mechanics' liens, amounting to $72,831, which are listed as secured. The unsecured claims amount to $1030. They are personal accounts at stores.

In May of last year her husband, W. O. Schuermann, building contractor, filed a similar petition, listing liabilities at $641,489 and assets of $10,915.

AUTOS HIT CHICAGO PARK PLANS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The world's largest outdoor parking area might have been a beautiful section of Grant Park if Chicago's traffic problem had not been so acute.

Parking was prohibited in the loop before the park commissioners had realized their plans to improve and enlarge Grant Park's lake front territory. Immediately there arose a demand to allow parking in the unfinished area of the park—including more than million square feet. Now 4000 cars find an outdoor garage in Grant Park. The park commissioners wonder if their beautification program ever will be a reality.

DEAFNESS and CATARRH

Offensive Catarrhal Conditions Ended by Famous Specialist

Successful Home Treatment Originated by Dr. W. O. Coffee Which Assures Quick Relief for Nasal Catarrh

Free Trial Sent to All Sufferers

This is a generous offer. An offer of a regular, scientific, carefully prepared and tested home treatment for catarrh of the nose, throat, head and air passages absolutely free. No strings to it in any way—it is open to everyone—to every catarrh sufferer in the entire United States. Every sufferer, everywhere, who reads this announcement, should unhesitatingly accept it.

There are sure to be thousands of these treatments given away. The more the better; because it is certain that all who make this free test will prove to their satisfaction the worth of Dr. Coffee's famous treatment, that—Every self-treatment will make a permanent booster.

For no matter how much you are told about the wonders of this way of combating catarrhal conditions, or of the thousands who have been given complete freedom by its use—a real test—a chance to actually try it and its reactions—in your particular case is better than all explanations.

This treatment for catarrh—for freedom from that condition, relieves and forestalls many feared and distressing situations. A real test is better even than the real testimonials from those who have been given that wonderful relief. And when the gift-treatment has been tried, you will wonder why this wonderful method was never called to your attention before.

Dr. Coffee won national renown as a noted catarrh and deafness specialist. He, too, suffered with catarrh, deafness and head noises and many of its complications. Innumerable treatments failed to better his condition.

Is This Your Condition?

He experimented until he found a way that gave him real and actual relief in a permanent way. Following this, he treated literally thousands of sufferers in the same manner. Many have written, after completing the treatment, expressing thanks for their recovery; for their absolute freedom from colds, nose, bronchial and throat discharges; from poisoned systems, foul breath, bronchial troubles and even rheumatism and intestinal troubles. All due, as they say, to their catarrhal condition.

Catarrh Is a Handicap

Dirt and dust, from contaminated sections are deposited in the nose and throat with every breath. Much of it finds its way into the mouth, for nasal catarrh causes the disgusting, offensive mouth breathing. The impurities in this filth laden air are deposited in the catarrhal fluid—the mucus. Soon it finds its way into the body—and it is a strong constitution indeed that can withstand the fight, once it is started.

Thousands Recommend Dr. Coffee's Treatment

Don't miss this chance to make the acquaintance of this logical, scientific and purely medical catarrh treatment. A treatment, the worth of which is attested by so many who have written of their relief.

A treatment which has given complete freedom to sufferers everywhere as grateful letters will prove. It is the result of 45 years of active medical preparation and practice. More than four decades devoted to eye, ear, nose and throat work.

Slowly and carefully it was developed—until at last, after many thorough, painstaking tests, Dr. Coffee was convinced that he had the best treatment, the most effective course he had ever found. Its success in the past proves that it accomplishes its purpose. And it is free on trial to you. Just send the coupon.

Deafness Due to Catarrh of Air Passages

Authorities Blame Ear Tubal Catarrh for 90 Per Cent of Deafness Throughout the World

Free Trial Offer to All Sufferers

According to authorities who base their assertions on years of research and actual medical observation and practice, 90 per cent of the deafness in the world today is due to catarrh—ear tubal catarrh.

Not only is ear tubal catarrh which is really a development of nasal catarrh, blamed for deafness, but at its door are laid many other diseases, such as stomach catarrh, poisoned conditions of the body, and a generally diseased condition.

This May Be Relieved

This condition may be relieved. Dr. W. O. Coffee, a widely known specialist in the middle west for many years, developed a home treatment for deafness, head noises from ear tubal catarrh, and catarrh itself. Through his method, it is possible to remedy the catarrhal condition in many cases and make hearing practically normal once more. It has been proved that in many cases this is true.

Great Success

Phenomenal success has attended the Dr. Coffee home treatment. More than 500,000 cases of deafness, head noises due to ear tubal catarrh and ordinary nasal catarrh have used this method in all sections of the country and out of this number a huge number have reported complete satisfaction.

Most of these sufferers have been people whose hearing was bad in one ear and was rapidly getting bad in the other. With every cold, the hearing grew worse. This condition was relieved for many; relieved not only for the time but the catarrhal condition was bettered and in many cases all traces of the disease were gone.

Deafness strikes at all ages—and Dr. Coffee's home treatment has been used by people of all ages. By this method many who were apparently destined to go through life with the handicap of impaired hearing were made normal once more.

Improvement General

Physicians state, authoritatively, too, that in these cases doubtless other diseased conditions were combated and relieved by the defeat of catarrh; for it no longer poured its daily portion of poison into the human system and the body was no longer required to use a great portion of its strength in throwing off this poison. As a result it was better able to combat new disease and the general physical condition was bettered in addition to the relief given for deafness.

Free Trial Treatment

Dr. W. O. Coffee, for many years an eminent specialist in the middle west, and originator of this Home Treatment which has greatly benefited thousands of sufferers.

Sidelights on this Treatment for Ear Tubal Deafness, Head Noises and Nasal Catarrh

Literally thousands of people from different sections of the United States have used this special, original home treatment. Not only have many found relief from distressing head noises but restoration of good or normal hearing as well.

Contrary to the general belief, deafness and head noises due to ear tubal catarrh often lend themselves to treatment and relief very readily. The peculiar construction of the ear in its relation to the nasal passages both creates a condition which results in deafness and makes possible a ready relief when that is corrected. This was the basis of the home treatment as perfected by Dr. W. O. Coffee which has resulted in relief to thousands of sufferers from deafness and head noises from ear tubal catarrh, and from nasal catarrh itself.

Those who are just beginning to notice that they are losing their hearing in one ear and with the coming of a cold find the other ear affected are especially urged to try Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment. Many who are now stone deaf may have been made to hear again if their cases had been properly cared for at the first showing of dullness of hearing.

Many cases of deafness are caused by dry catarrh—a type which gives no noticeable discharge or symptom.

Insurance authorities place deafness in the list of those defects which add to the risk of the insured life. Many railway accidents, accidents in the street with automobiles and in practically every walk of life are due to deafness or dullness of hearing. This condition in many cases can be corrected—if the condition is due to ear tubal catarrh. This form of catarrh is responsible for practically 90 per cent of the deafness today, authorities state.

There is no obligation attached to this Home Treatment plan. It is simply a means proving to the world that such a thing as relief for deafness, dullness of hearing and head noises from ear tubal catarrh and nasal catarrh itself, is possible. There is little doubt of what this treatment will do; but the sufferer is not sure unless it is proven, the facts that it is effective and has given relief in thousands of cases will never be known by victims of this terrible affliction.

Deaf Since Childhood; Hearing Greatly Benefited This Way

Mona McBride

Chronic and Acute Deafness Ends

Mrs. Mona McBride of Illinois, says, "This is to certify that since having scarlet fever when a little girl, I have been hard of hearing, and for the past four or five years I have been almost entirely deaf. A few months ago my left ear began to discharge. I found it to be abscessed and discharging a foul fluid. Nothing seemed to stop it and finally I tried Dr. Coffee's treatment. To my surprise and delight the hearing in the ear which was partially deaf for nearly 20 years has returned and the abscess has healed. Now I can hear a conversation six feet away. I didn't believe it possible and I certainly advise anyone suffering with deafness to try this treatment. I obtained relief in a short time."

Dr. Coffee's Home Treatment for Deafness has been used by over 500,000 persons. It will benefit you likewise provided you are not totally deaf from disease of any kind, or from shock, or from any cause where the whole hearing apparatus has been entirely broken down.

Ear Tubal Deafness Successfully Treated by Simple Home Method

25,000 Trial Treatments Given Free for the Next 30 Days to Sufferers from Deafness, Head Noises and Catarrhal Conditions

Dr. W. O. Coffee, for many years an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist in the middle west, developed a treatment for deafness and dullness of hearing from ear tubal catarrh and for catarrh itself which has resulted in the restoration of hearing to hundreds.

Basing his treatment on the fact that in practically 90 per cent of the cases, loss of hearing is due to a catarrhal condition, Dr. Coffee by concentrating his efforts in that field proved that restoration of hearing is not a myth. Literally thousands of people from all sections of the United States have taken this original home treatment and have been benefited. Letters from hundreds of these people attesting to the effectiveness of this method are on file here.

Dr. Coffee never claimed that his original treatment would restore hearing to all cases of deafness, but he said if the deafness or head noises are caused from a catarrhal condition and the tissues of the middle ear are not damaged, the hearing should be restored to real good or normal. Basing his experiments in his office on this practical relief of these conditions, he positively demonstrated that the restoration of hearing to many severe cases is an easy, practical thing for the sufferer to accomplish for himself at home.

Literally thousands of people from different sections of the United States have used this original home treatment and many found relief from distressing head noises and restoration of good or normal hearing.

Tells of Development

Years ago, Dr. Coffee, himself, began to suffer with head noises, dullness of hearing and with catarrh. He was rapidly losing his hearing. It was bad in one ear and with every cold it would get bad in the other. Slowly but surely his hearing appeared to be leaving him. He naturally tried every treatment that he knew of, as deafness in his profession would have been fatal to his success. After a great loss of time and when two operations had failed to give permanent relief he calmed his fears and began to analyze the cause and effect of the trouble.

Basing his treatment on the results of this study he evolved a system which he believed would remove the handicap of deafness if anything would. There was nothing magical about it. It was a logical scientific treatment, and within a short time he began to improve. After some time, he was normal again.

He did nothing spectacular; all he did was to slowly but surely remove the causes of the deafness, and when the causes were removed, he was able to hear again.

Treatment Sent to Thousands

Acquaintances and friends of the doctor's inquired as to the treatment, and soon he was overwhelmed with requests for the method. To treat this number of people in time allotted to office hours would have been impossible; and so, he started to develop a home treatment. After careful consideration he effected a course which he believed to be effective. He allowed a number to try it at home, without the assistance of a physician, and found that they could do the work with almost the efficiency and the good results that a doctor could.

Tells of Home Treatment

Changing the treatment and developing it—adding here and taking away there, after several years, the "home treatment" was perfected. Now it is possible for anyone, anywhere, with just ordinary household surroundings, to treat themselves for relief of deafness, dullness of hearing or head noises from ear tubal catarrh.

500,000 Treated for Ear Tubal Deafness and Catarrh, by Home Method

A remarkable record was established by Dr. W. O. Coffee, for many years an eminent eye, ear, nose and throat specialist at Davenport, Iowa, who originated this treatment for deafness, head noises from ear tubal catarrh, and for ordinary nasal catarrh.

During his 45 years as practising physician, he probably established a record which no other physician in the country can match. The records show that more than 500,000 people suffering from deafness, head noises from ear tubal catarrh, and from nasal catarrh, have used this treatment. These people live in all sections of the country and have been treated, in the majority of cases, at home, using the home treatment for this distressing condition, as developed by Dr. Coffee.

The results of these different cases have been gone over and compiled, and the beneficial effects of this home system of treatment have been proved. When the average physician has treated fifty cases with one definite system of treatment, it is sufficient to demonstrate what it will do. Dr. Coffee treated thousands of such cases. Letters from people who have used this home treatment are on file here as proof of the wonderful results.

Explains Free Offer

To prove that this treatment is effective—that deafness, dullness of hearing and head noises from ear tubal catarrh, and nasal catarrh can be treated and relieved at home, 25,000 trial home treatments will be given away. These announcements are being made in newspapers throughout the entire country and quickly the free demonstration packages will be gone.

Those who are suffering with deafness, dullness of hearing or head noises from ear tubal catarrh, may try free, at no cost to them whatever, this original treatment. Even the parcel post charges are prepaid and they arrive at the home of the deafness sufferer free of all cost or obligations.

It Is Sent Free

HOLDUP MAN HITS BAR OWNER AND FLEES WITH $1400

Joseph Novokovitch Attacked as He Leaves Street Car With Money to Cash Pay Checks.

ROBBER SEIZES CASH AFTER VICTIM FALLS

Pair in Auto Had Followed Him From Bank to Soft Drink Place at Forest Park Av. and Sarah St.

As he returned from a bank with $1400 he had drawn to cash pay checks for his customers, Joseph Novokocich, 40 years old was slugged with a revolver and robbed of his money by two men in front of his saloon, at Forest Park avenue and Sarah street, yesterday.

Following a weekly custom, Novokovich left his saloon shortly after 10 a. m. and went alone to the Manchester Bank at Manchester and Chouteau avenues. Returning, he boarded a northbound Sarah street car and rode to Forest Park avenue, alighting in front of his saloon.

The robbers apparently had followed the car from the bank. As Novokovich walked toward the curb, their automobile drew toward him and one of the men jumped out. Without a word, the robber struck Novokovich on the head from behind as the saloonkeeper stepped to the sidewalk.

Dazed by the blow, Novokovich fell to the sidewalk. The robbers quickly found the money package in an inside coat pocket, seized it and ran to join his companion. The automobile moved rapidly east on Forest Park avenue.

Novokovich staggered to his feet and was assisted to a physician's office nearby, where he was treated for lacerations of the scalp, after which he returned to his saloon.

Fairmont City Man and Marshal Robbed of $1919.

Money packages containing $1919, which Frank Gregovitch, Fairmont City confectioner, was to have used to cash pay checks for employes of the American Zinc Works, near his shop, were stolen by four robbers who held up Benjamin Frazen, Marshal of Fairmont City, and Frank Powlek, an employe of Gregovitch, in East St. Louis, shortly before noon yesterday.

In Frazen's automobile, the two men went to the Union Trust Co. where they obtained the money. Franzen, who was driving, carried $515 and Powlek $1404.34.

Appoaching the Ninth Street subway another automobile crowded them to the curb. While two robbers remained in the car brandishing shotguns, two others with revolvers ordered Frazen and Powlek to the street. They took the two money packages as well as Frazen's revolver which hung in a holster at his side, and left the two men standing in the street.

As the automobile swung around in the street, moving back into the city, one of the robbers fired a shot into the air. The machine bore no license plates, but its description fitted that of one stolen Friday night in East St. Louis.

FIVE INDICTED FOR GANGSTER MURDER ON EAST SIDE

Only One Has Been Caught; Sixth Already in Prison for Manslaughter.

Murder indictments of five men, four of whom are at liberty, were returned by the St. Clair County Grand Jury at Belleville yesterday in connection with the killing last July 16 of John Reinhardt, St. Louis gangster, in an East St. Louis resort at Fifty-first street and Lake drive.

John Costello, one of Reinhardt's alleged assailants, who was arrested in Jefferson City, escaped and was captured in Kansas City a few weeks ago, is held without bail for the murder in the St. Clair County jail. Don Shelton, who confessed firing the shots that killed Reinhardt, and later repudiated the confession, was convicted of manslaughter for the killing and is now serving a sentence of 14 years in Chester penitentiary.

Reinhardt met his death following a quarrel over the relative merits of St. Louis and Cicero gunmen. His body was flung into a ditch on the Caseyville road near French Village. The other four men named in the indictments are being sought.

U. S. AUTOS LEAD IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Jan. 19.—Rumania, one of Europe's smallest nations, is a flourishing market for automobiles of American manufacture. Of the 12,000 cars registered in Bucharest, the capital city, 10,000 are medium priced machines from the United States.

Despite favoring customs dues, continental manufacturers have been unable to break down the prejudice in this country in favor of the American car. American trucks and tractors are familiar sights in the rural districts of Rumania, which exhibit a sprinkling of Canadian motor tractors, but prefer those made in the United States.

CHROMIUM FOR AUTO LIGHTS

Best Reflector, Bureau of Standards' Experiments Show.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Chromium, which can be electroplated on steel and is more permanent than nickel, has been found particularly suitable for reflectors in automobile headlights, after an exhaustive research made by the Bureau of Standards.

The research, undertaken to study the reflecting power of chromium, was extended to cover not only light in the visible part of the spectrum, but also the ultraviolet and infre-red. As a result, it was found that chromium has much higher reflecting power than nickel in the ultra-violet and, since it is less affected by ultraviolet rays, it is more useful as a reflector of these rays. Data also was obtained on beryllium, another metal which is more easily obtained in commercial quantities through recent discoveries, and may come into general use.

Nansen Tells of Plan To Reach North Pole Next Year in Zeppelin

Craft Will Succeed Because It Is Larger Than Ill-Fated Italia, Explorer Thinks—Party Plans Three Cruises With Two Bases in Arctic Regions.

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, the great arctic explorer and scientist, is to head an air expedition over the North Polar regions in the Graf Zeppelin, which recently flew across the Atlantic and back to Europe. In this article Dr. Nansen describes the plans for the expedition of scientific research and presents the problems it will try to solve. Dr. Nansen is on the point of sailing from Norway for a visit to the United States.

By FRIDTJOF NANSEN.

(Copyright, 1929.)

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 19.

THE titan airship Graf Zeppelin, which recently crossed and recrossed the Atlantic in nonstop flights, will embark on a series of daring Arctic explorations across the top of the world in 1930, according to present plans.

As president of the International Society for the Exploration of the Arctic Regions by Means of Aircraft, I have the good fortune to be leader of the proposed expedition, which will set out from Leningrad, Russia, a little more than a year from now, on a new Arctic Odyssey of the skies.

The expedition has taken form in an agreement signed with Dr. Hugo Eckener, head of the Zeppelin plant at Friedrichshafen, and with the German Minister of Aerial Transport. Dr. Eckener, it is likely, will be the ship's commander. In all respects, the expedition shapes up on paper as the most ambitious aerial enterprise yet planned for gaining knowledge of the ice-bound desert that caps the globe.

We plan a first flight from Leningrad, across the Polar Sea to Nome, Alaska—a second northward flight from Nome after our great ship has been reconditioned—and a third Arctic cruise which will take us back to Leningrad. We are counting, at the present time, on our ability to land on the polar ice with the Graf Zeppelin. Each of the flights is to cover from 3000 to 4000 miles, and to require from four to six days. We are choosing the spring, because at that time daylight is continuous in the Arctic and troublesome fogs are few.

Will Build Mooring Masts at Leningrad and Nome.

Mooring masts will have to be built for the expedition—one in Leningrad, and another in Nome. The Russian Government already has agreed to the construction of a mast. Thus far, American authorities have shown markedly friendly interest in the undertaking.

The plan of the first flight, from Leningrad to Nome, is approximately 4160 miles, or 6700 kilometers. The second flight, as planned, from Nome northward to the Pole and back, would cover approximately 3100 miles or 5000 kilometers. The third flight, by which we plan the return from Nome to Leningrad, would cover 4290 miles or 6900 kilometers.

Our plan is to start from Friedrichshafen, the home of the Graf Zeppelin, to go to the mooring mast at Leningrad, to complete our equipment there with the necessary fuel for engines, then to go north across the sea between Spitzbergen and Franz Joseph Land to survey by photography, the possible islands observed on the way, and to take a few soundings to determine the northern edge of the continental shelf in that region. Then we will direct our course toward the sea north of Greenland, and farther westward across the north of the Canadian Arctic Archipelago and the sea north of Alaska, taking soundings on the way, wherever there is a possibility, in order to ascertain whether the sea is deep or shallow, and thus determine the extension of the continental shelf.

If the conditions are favorable, we may also land on the ice in order to make a series of oceanographic observations. At last we will set our course to the mooring mast in Alaska, probably in Nome. Here we will take a new supply of fuel (petrol and blau gas) for the engines, and also some hydrogen to replace what may have been lost on the way.

Unknown Region Between Alaska and North Pole.

As soon as the Graf Zeppelin is ready for the start from the mooring mast in Alaska, if the conditions are favorable, we may make a trip north into the unknown region between northwestern Alaska and the Pole, going as far perhaps as latitude 84 degrees north, then on toward the unkown edge of the continental shelf northeast of the New Siberian Islands, and after that back to the mooring mast in Alaska. By that trip we may be able to ascertain whether there is any land in that completely unknown region, and may determine by soundings the extension and depth of the deep sea.

Finally, after having again filled up and being ready for the last start, we will go north through Bering Strait till we reach the deep sea, and then turn in a more westerly direction through the sea north of Siberia, trying to determine by soundings the edge of the broad Siberian continental shelf and the depths of the sea to the north. When we reach the region of the New Northern Land to the northwest of Cape Chelyuskin we may fly over this land and determine its unknown extension and configuration. That being accomplished, we will return to Leningrad and thence to Friedrichshafen.

The tragic fate of the Italia, headed by Gen. Nobile, has given rise to the belief that polar exploration with an airship is dangerous. It is our belief that such an expedition, undertaken with the mighty Graf Zeppelin, is comparatively safe. The Italia, we now believe, was much too small a ship for the rigors of the Arctic. Its capacity of 18,000 cubic meters of hydrogen was approximately one-fifth of that of the Graf Zeppelin—105,000 cubic meters. It must be remembered also that the Norge, under the great Roald Amundsen, crossed the Arctic from Spitzbergen to Alaska without mishap.

Latest reports indicate that an accident overtook the Italia, by which the balloon cover of the rear part was ripped off, allowing gas to escape. An accident of this sort could not possibly overtake the Graf Zeppelin. The huge ship showed, indeed, in its encouter with Atlantic storms, that it could ride out fierce winds, even hurricanes.

Plans to Descend on Ice to Take Ocean Soundings.

In the first Arctic expedition of the Graf Zeppelin, it is obvious that we cannot expect to solve all the problems of the Arctic regions, so we shall concentrate all efforts on solution of the most important ones. It would then be natural, first of all, to direct our attention toward the geographical problems.

The most important one of these will be the determination of the extension and shape of the deep North Polar Sea or Basin, and thus the extension of the continental land masses towards the north. This has to be done by tracing by means of sounding the edge of the continental shelf around the deep basin. This shelf is in reality a continuation of the continents, which now happens to be covered by shallow water, as a rule less than 300 feet deep. If one can land with the ship on the polar ice, it would be quite simple to make soundings in any open water channel or also by making a hole in the ice. By means of the modern echolead, a sounding can then be made in a few seconds. According to Dr. Eckener's experience, such a landing can easily be made if the wind is moderate.

The conditions over the North Polar Sea in the spring are more favorable for the navigation of an airship than those prevailing in any other part of the globe. There is perpetual daylight, the temperature is uniform and will cause no appreciable changes night and day in the volume of the gas of the ship; the temperature is low, which will make the carrying capacity of the ship comparatively great; there is very little condensation of moisture in that cold air, there is no rain, snowfall extremely rare, and the grains of snow are dry, so that they will not stick to the surface of the ship. There is very little wind in the interior of the North Polar region.

What is to be gained by our attempt to explore the barren polar regions? The answer is: knowledge. This should be sufficient; for ever since the days of Eden, when Eve first tasted the fruit of the unknown and gave her man to eat, knowledge of all kinds has been the one condition for the development of human culture. We wish to know everything, but we have in particular an irresistible craving to know this little planet of ours in all its parts.

Lure of Arctic Regions Has Long Attracted Men.

The polar regions are of special interest as their conditions are different from those prevailing in all other parts of the globe; and on the other hand, they are less accessible. The unknown North has, therefore, been the playground of our wildest imagination, and has always had a magic attraction for men. In the many undertakings to explore these unknown regions there may, however, have been too much of the racing spirit, too much desire to beat records, and in their race for glory

HEALING ITALY'S BREACH WITH THE VATICAN: A NEW CHAPTER IN SIXTY-YEAR-OLD QUARREL

Origin of Political Dispute Which, for Six Decades, Made Popes Virtual Prisoners in Their Own Palace—Creation of a New Papal State Will Restore Ancient Rights of Head of Church.

Self-Imprisonment of Last Five Popes a Protest Against Being Deprived of Political Position—St. Louisan Once a Sponsor of Plan to Buy Pontiff a Corridor of Land to the Sea.

By HIRAM MOTHERWELL.

"THE voluntary imprisonment" which all Popes have imposed upon themselves since 1870 is soon to end, if the tentative agreement between the Vatican and Mussolini, recently announced, comes to final fruition. Within a few months the world may see a spectacle which most experts five years ago would have adjudged impossible—that of Pius XI riding in a coach through the city of Rome.

For representatives of the Holy See and the Kingdom of Italy have at last agreed (unofficially, yet with a large measure of authority) on a satisfactory basis for settling the dispute which has existed between them for the last 60 years.

This basis of settlement is, briefly, as follows: Italy acknowledges the Pope's temporal authority in principle, and in fact recognizes (not grants) his absolute dominion over a specified parcel of land, of about four or five square miles, adjacent to the Vatican; the Pope, in agreeing to this settlement, acknowledges the rightful sovereignty of the King of Italy, who rules much other territory formerly belonging to the Vatican, and resumes normal relations with him as with one of the lawful temporal rulers of the earth.

Principal Claim of Vatican Conceded.

The fact that the future territory of the Pope is of negligible magnitude is, according to repeated Vatican pronouncements, of small consequence. The crucial point, in the Vatican's view, is the abandonment of the doctrine which the Italian State has officially held for 60 years—namely, that the church may exercise its authority only within the limits fixed by the civil state.

The present tentative agreement, of course, requires the formal ratification of both the Vatican and the Italian Government. This may not occur in the near future. In fact, the present agreement has no juridical existence whatever. It is not like a treaty of peace, negotiated between authorized delegates and requiring only formal ratification; it is rather a protocol between "friends of both parties," which the principals may accept, or reject, or modify, as seems best to them.

Much must be done before the present rough outline is drafted in final and legal form. Many things may yet happen to impede the progress of the subsequent negotiations. But it can now be said that for the first time since the year 1870 the Vatican and the Italian Government have reached a friendly and concrete, although informal, agreement on the issue which has so long divided them, and that if no unforeseen developments arise the formal documents will in all probability be signed within a year.

Technically a State of War for 60 Years.

The relations between the Vatican and the Italian Government for the last 60 years have been, from a strictly juridical point of view, those of a state of war. On Sept. 20, 1870, the Italian Government, after summoning Pope Pius IX to surrender his temporal domains to the King, ordered the bombardment of the walls of Rome, and the Italian army, after breaching the fortifications near the Porta Pia, marched in and occupied the city.

The Pope withdrew his army and retired to the Vatican, where he remained for the rest of his life. He refused to sign the treaty of peace which the Government offered him, maintaining that this Government was a "usurper" and "despoiler."

Although in his view the Vatican might treat with a temporal sovereign concerning the cession of territory it could not admit any unilateral fiat (such as the secular principles of the Italian constitution implied), to the effect that he had no right to treat concerning such a matter at all. Hence he refused to negotiate a treaty of peace; hence the state of war, juridically speaking, has continued to this day.

Temporal Authority of Pope Admitted.

Under the new tentative settlement the Italian Government reverses its position and acknowledges that the Pope was never lawfully deprived of his status as temporal sovereign and that he negotiates the long delayed peace treaty as an independent agent.

This principle being acknowledged, the Vatican quite willingly grants to Italy virtually all the territory originally disputed; for, as it has consistently maintained, the question at issue was not the amount of territory which the Pope might rule, but his right to rule in a temporal sense—or in the formula which the Vatican has used in recent years, the Pope's "liberty and independence, not only real and perfect, but also manifest (physical and visible) to all Christendom."

It is a curious coincidence that the territory now provisionally assigned to the Pope comprises almost precisely the battlefield of the six-weeks' struggle between Garibaldi's volunteers and the attacking French army in 1849.

At this time Rome was a republic under Mazzini, and the Pope had retired to Naples. The French Government sent an army of 20,000 to restore Rome and the Papal states to the control of the Pope, and the Republicans resisted bitterly but unsuccessfully.

The center of the fighting was the corner of the Villa Doria-Pamfili, adjacent to the San Pancrazio gate of the Roman wall. Here the small Villicorsini, an edifice situated in the larger Villa Doria-Pamfili, was utterly demolished by Garibaldi's cannon. It was later rebuilt in the form of a memorial arch dedicated to the memory of the French troops who fell in the effort to restore the Pope. The French remained until they were needed in 1870 to fight their own war with Prussia.

Early Adjustment on Practical Lines.

For many years after the occupation of 1870 the Vatican and the Italian Government were utterly estranged. The uncompromising adherents of the Vatican party—the "blacks," as they were called—acted much as the inhabitants of Belgium acted under the German invasion. They refused to have any dealings with adherents of the Government and draped their windows black on the anniversary of the "usurpation."

But the parish priests were both servants of the church and citizens of the Italian kingdom. They had to get along with their superiors in both capacities. Although nearly all church property had become in law part of the Italian public domain and religious societies were forbidden to hold corporate property, the local authorities, ecclesiastical and civil, in all Italian cities and villages, had to find a modus vivendi.

So it came about, in the course of years, that in the daily contacts the two parties got along very well together. Church buildings remained in all respects under the authority of the Bishops, save when the Government chose to make artistic restorations or alterations. Most of the religious orders were permitted to occupy and own their monasteries, provided the ownership was formally vested in a private individual. Church schools, or schools run by religious orders, were not interfered with so long as they met the Government's very lenient educational requirements. In the course of time the Vatican even resumed its practice of consulting the civil authorities, very informally, on the nomination of Bishops.

No Compromise in Principle, However.

But in matters of high policy the two institutions were uncompromising. Officially there was no contact between them. When the King of Spain visited Rome, some years ago, he paid a call on the King of Italy, then prepared to pay his homage to the Pope, but it was pointed out to him that the Pope could not receive him after he had, by his visit, recognized the "usurper."

On another voyage, perhaps. But he must first return to Spain, then come again to Rome, not as the capital of Italy, but as the seat of the Supreme Pontiff.

The difficulty was solved when it was recalled that the Spanish Embassy was technically Spanish soil. The King then made the "voyage" back to "Spain" in his coach, then "traveled" again to the Vatican.

Ex-President Roosevelt, it will be remembered, experienced the same difficulty, which he brusquely solved on one occasion by refraining from visiting the Vatican, fearing perhaps that this would be interpreted as according recognition to the Pope's temporal claims.

Beginning with the early years of the Twentieth Century innumerable suggestions were made for the solution of this "Roman question." But all met with irremovable objections from one side or the other. Italy would not surrender a single Italian subject or an inch of Italian soil to the Vatican; the Vatican would not accept any recognition which did not involve temporal dominion over some specified piece of physical territory. So the Roman question came to occupy a position similar to that of squaring the circle.

Mussolini Tackles Anomalous Situation.

Thus was the Roman question regarded until Mussolini made his bold bid to achieve the impossible. In his first speech as Fascist Deputy in Parliament Mussolini asserted that the Roman question must be solved before any Italian Government could take full advantage of any international situation. It was absurd, he said, that a Government should remain perpetually at loggerheads with the institution to which 95 per cent of its citizens acknowledged spiritual allegiance.

Coming from the lips of a man who used to write inflamed pamphlets in praise of atheists and heretics, this was somewhat startling, yet there is no point in his program to which he has adhered so tenaciously as to this.

Immediately upon assuming power he got in touch with the Vatican through Father Tacchi-Venturi, a Jesuit priest possessing the full confidence of both sides.

For three years things moved slowly. The Vatican waited to see whether Mussolini could consolidate his power. Mussolini waited until he, or the Vatican, could convince France and other nations that they must keep their fingers off the negotiations.

When, in the fall of 1927, the Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, announced that the Roman question was a matter to be settled exclusively by the two parties involved, the question became one of practical politics, and semi-official negotiators were appointed on both sides. These were Mgr. Boggongini-Duca, Secretary of Extraordinary Affairs at the Vatican, and Mgr. Pacelli, Brother of the Papal Nuncio at Berlin, on the one side, and Prof. Giannini and Domenico Barone on the other. The protocol which they drew up has just been, so to speak, initiated. It remains to be seen how the two principals will regard the document after due reflection.

Terms of the Accord Provisionally Drawn.

What are the terms of this provisional settlement?

First, the Pope is to be recognized by the Government of Italy as inherently an independent sovereign, exercising his sovereignty unrestricted over a specified piece of territory. This territory is an area comprising some three or four square miles, contiguous to the Vatican but lying outside the walls of Rome. In this territory are located the Villa Abamelek and the Villa Doria-Pamfili, the latter, perhaps, the most magnificent in Rome and easily one of the most splendid in all Italy.

But how, one may ask, does the Italian Government manage to acknowledge the Pope's sovereignty over this territory and its inhabitants without breaking its pledge never to cede an inch of Italian soil or a single Italian subject? By a series of subtleties which carefully avoid bringing the disputed points to an actual issue.

The full terms of the settlement have not been announced, but something like the following has been in the minds of the negotiators:

First, the Vatican may buy the territory outright as private property, doubtless using for the purpose the $52,000,000 which the Government is to pay it as a lump compensation for the revenues which it lost through the Italian annexation of 1870. So there need be no cession in a political sense.

Pope a Sovereign Without a Subject.

Italians residing there will have the opportunity of moving elsewhere, or at least of establishing a legal residence in another part of Rome. The land will thus become empty of inhabitants in the eyes of the law. It is almost so in fact.

Now, since the Pope is recognized as having the right to exercise unrestricted sovereignty, he can proceed to exercise it over his own property; and since there will be no Italian "transferred" to the new sovereignty the question of whether the territory is politically "Italian" or "Papal" will never be raised.

Meanwhile there will be no conflict of authority in everyday matters. The Pope is not going to close his new territory to traffic, and ordinary policing, maintenance of roads and the like, can be done, at his invitation, by the Italian Government.

If all this seems like a mere quibble to save the Government's self-esteem, there are other senses in which the Pope's sovereignty will be very substantial indeed.

He will have complete extra-territoriality. Italy will promise unconditionally never to exercise political rights on the Pope's domain. It is expected that all embassies to the Holy See will be housed on this land, as well as Vatican administrative offices. In case of war in which Italy is a belligerent, the Italian police or secret service cannot make arrests or perquisitions on this territory. In practice, foreign embassies situated in Rome have enjoyed this diplomatic immunity; but such immunity could legally be withdrawn at any time on the plea that the Ambassador had, by some act, violated "Italian hospitality." Now, there will no longer be any plea that the Vatican's diplomatic business functions by courtesy of Italy. In this sense, too, the Pope's independence will be "real and perfect."

Picture of Papal Domain of Future.

It is easy to picture in one's imagination what the future papal domain will look like 30 or 40 years from now. Instead of two vast gardens flanked by a dreary expanse of stubble and dried grass, we may see a series of splendid ambassadorial palaces situated on winding pine-lined avenues, modern office buildings will rise over to the north; on the highest elevation will be situated the superpowerful Vatican radio, by which, at need, the Vatican can keep in touch with its far-flung diplomatic corps. And on the low ground over to the west we can glimpse the Papal aerodrome. Not Italian railway trains, but fast tri-motored planes will carry the Pontiff's instructions to the Generals of his spiritual army. A new city is soon be built

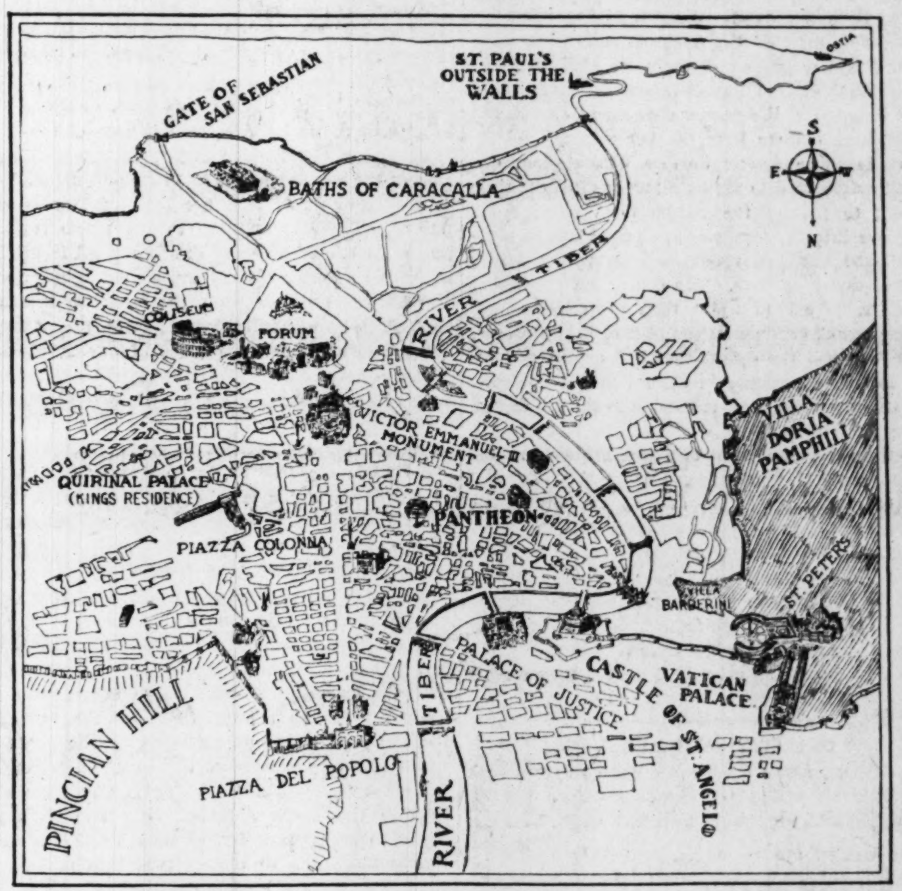
Rome and the Proposed Papal State



THE shaded section indicates in a general way that area, about four square miles, adjoining St. Peter's and the Vatican Palace, which it is planned to set aside as an independent political unit in which the head of the Roman Catholic Church would have jurisdiction in temporal affairs should he desire to exercise it.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Making Foods for Home Consumption.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ACTING, I suppose, on the success of the prohibition element in the recent election, we are now, after nine years of inaction, confronted with court action to stop the making of beer in the home. A Kentucky Federal Judge has fined three chain stores $500 each for selling malt extract.

I am an old man and need some mild stimulant, and have found that a bottle of home-made beer after supper is not only wholesome but a necessary addition to my food, as my appetite is poor. I make this beer and use it in moderation, neither selling nor giving it except occasionally treating friends. It is part of my food and my use of it injures nobody.

Nor do I believe I am violating the eighteenth amendment, which prohibits the "manufacture" of intoxicating beverages. The making of food or drink in the home, for one's own use, is not manufacture. Is the housewife manufacturing when she makes bread, biscuits, catsup, jams and jellies? Certainly not, unless she makes these things for sale.

I believe that if this question of the meaning of the word "manufacture" in the prohibition amendment were brought before the Supreme Court by an able lawyer, the court could not avoid a sensible interpretation of the amendment, but must decide that it does not prohibit making an article of food or drink in the home, for home use exclusively. That is not manufacturing.

Compulsory Vaccination.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ALBERT W. PEACOCK of Milford, N. H., lies in the county jail at Manchester, N. H., for refusing to have his little son vaccinated. He is sentenced to serve 236 days. But in Farmington, N. H., the children are all free to go to school without vaccination because it is the home of Judge A. H. Wiggin. His only child, a beautiful 6-year-old girl, died in his arms 21 days after her vaccination that was demanded that she might enter school. It is reported that Judge Wiggin will dismiss all who are brought before him for failure to vaccinate.

At this time, three homes in East St. Louis are in mourning because they complied with the illegal ruling by having their children vaccinated, with fatal results.

Is Senator Reed "Hexed?"

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SENATOR REED'S speech against the Kellogg peace treaty should have been reserved for the Fourth of July. Its verbal pyrotechnics were blindingly brilliant. In our country, so gravely afflicted with militant nationalism, the Senator shines out as the last touch in rhetorical hyperbole. His fear, distrust, and even hatred of the various European cradles of our composite race is fanatical in its fierceness. We have long sought a word to describe his unhappy mania, and at last fortunately found it in the recent witchcraft case in Pennsylvania. The Senator is evidently "hexed." His vicious anti-foreign, anti-peace diatribes can be only thus explained. Someone has "hexed" him.

The problem now is to remove the "hex." We cannot peacefully or forcibly obtain a lock of hair from the "hexer," bury it and thus remove the curse, until we discover who the "hexer" is.

L. R. JOHNSON.

St. Louis' Popularity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE had the pleasure to spend some time in your wonderful city, and I want to tell your good citizens that all over the country I have been hearing about this city. In the small towns the boys are all anxious to get in aviation. They want to go to St. Louis, where "Lindy" lives. I find you folks have four airplane factories here, and the largest aviation school in the country is located here.

In all the dance halls, picture shows and other public gatherings they still play "St. Louis Blues." When they talk baseball, they think of your Alexander, Hornsby, Sisler and other stars from St. Louis.

Talk about getting free publicity; they no longer say St. Louis, Missouri—just St. Louis—the flying center of America. Hats off to your old town.

The War and Its Aftermath.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN defending the German attitude at the outbreak of the war, "W. E. E.," in your issue of Jan. 6, builds his case largely on the word of one Ponsonby, M. P. Unfortunately, however, "A French Officer," in a letter in the same issue, gives us an idea of about how much reliance may be placed in Mr. Ponsonby's book. But there are bits of familiar history that need no propaganda.

The German people are a great people. The world needs them and they need the world. They have made their mistakes, as do all peoples. They followed their false god and he led them to disaster, which is the business of false gods.

If the German nation is bearing unjust burdens, the nations of the earth should get together and remove them.

FAILURE OF UTILITY REGULATION.

It is well for the public to understand clearly how the public utilities plunderbund operates through State Public Service Commissions to reap rich profits from the people. An excellent example is that of the Laclede Gas Light Co., which, through the rulings of the Missouri Public Service Commission, has been enabled to add about $600,000 to its revenues.

When Charles A. Munroe and his associates bought the property for about $40,000,000, he induced the State Public Service Commission to fix the valuation of the Laclede at $52,000,000, with a rate-basing valuation of $48,500,000. On the strength of this increased valuation, made on his repeated statement that the rates would not be increased and could not be increased on account of competition, but that the valuation was asked for financial purposes, he sold the property to the Harvey L. Clarke group of public utility interests at a profit of millions.

When the Munroe group decamped with its speculative profits, the Harvey L. Clarke group applied for an increase in rates, on the basis of the increased valuation fixed by the Public Service Commission. The Commission, reducing the rate-basing valuation to $47,000,000, granted the application for increased rates and laid a burden of from $600,000 to $700,000 additional cost of gas on about 90 per cent of the gas consumers, the poorer element of consumers, who are least able to bear the burden.

Thus the State Public Service Commission, created and maintained to regulate public utility monopolies and to protect the people from extortionate rates, plays into the hands of the public utility plunderbund and enriches speculators in public utility properties and securities. The courts, on appeals in some cases, have been worse than the commissions. It is this sort of conduct on the part of public service commissions and the courts that has caused a widespread lack of confidence in the regulation of public utilities by commissions. It has led to the conclusion that regulation by such commissions has been a failure from the standpoint of public protection from extortion, and that the people must find another means to obtain protection and assure fair public utility rates. It has greatly strengthened the argument in favor of public ownership of public utilities.

It should be borne in mind, however, that the Public Service Commission is a part of the Government of the State. The Commissioners are appointed by the Governor, and while the Commission exists the State Government must be held responsible for its conduct.

OUR CULT OF UGLINESS.

Leon Dabo, painter, credits the United States with a monopoly on ugliness. Speaking before the St. Louis Council of Jewish Women last week, he said:

> The women are to blame, because a nation's taste depends upon its environment. What kind of environment are American women offering in their homes? All your houses are alike. None of them tells what the mistress of the home is like or what she likes. Every $10,000 house is like every other one. Your homes are as much alike as your dinky little hats, which are all alike, with dinky little shiny beasts stuck on one side. The shapes are alike, the colors are alike, and all the ridiculous brass animals are alike.

Art in the home is more important than art in the Sistine Chapel, Mr. Dabo says, and women should express their personality in what they do and have and wear. They should not merely follow the mob. In Germany, he says, there is a museum devoted to things to avoid, and the United States has contributed 70 per cent of all the things in it. Mr. Dabo thinks this is because we have made a cult of ugliness, and we probably have.

At any rate, what Mr. Dabo is doing is all of a piece with the self-criticism which Europe thinks is going to make us another people. It is a labor of Hercules, but it does not dismay the people who, like Sinclair Lewis, Henry Mencken, Sherwood Anderson, and this Michigan painter, are hard at it. There are no people anywhere such as they want us to be, but upon the other hand we are even more unique as we are.

KING CORNSTALK.

The chemist has come to the aid of the farmer. The cornstalk, a waste product and something of a nuisance, has been converted into an economic asset. Cornstalk paper is no longer a dream. It is a fact. The Danville (Ill.) News printed its Sunday edition of Dec. 16 on cornstalk paper. The Prairie Farmer, published in Chicago, recently printed its weekly edition on cornstalk paper. "Farm Products in Industry" is, appropriately enough, the first book to be printed on cornstalk paper. It is reported, too, that paper of almost every variety of quality, weight and finish can be made from cornstalks—not only news print, but the calendared product required for rotogravure printing and tinted bond for letterheads and envelopes.

Chemical analysis shows that cornstalks contain 45 per cent of cellulose, which is not only the chief constituent of paper, but also of rayon, film, insulating materials, cardboard, pasteboard, explosives, absorbents, lacquer, radio dials and horns and many other commodities. Scientists have long been looking for a new source of cellulose supply. Now they have found it, and their Eureka, it is believed, means prosperity for the corn belt.

Chemistry, in its mission of farm relief, will not stop with the cornstalk. There are many waste products on the farm which, it is predicted, will be made commercially valuable. The prediction is, of course, in accord with the evolution of industry which, in so many instances, is thriving largely by transforming waste into revenue. The cornstalk is only a beginning, though an impressive promise of the day when agriculture will keep step with industry, not only in results but in operating methods as well.

It is in the laboratory, apparently, rather than in legislation, that the farmer will find his friend.

Our loans to foreign countries were increased by $1,407,000,000 during the calendar year of 1928, according to estimates by the Department of Commerce. This reflects some slowing down in the process. Estimates for recent previous years have been around $2,000,000,000 a year. But the estimated grand total of such loans is now well above $26,000,000,000, and that is a formidable sum. How are we ever going to get it back along with interest accruing all the time? Can it be done by shutting down more tightly than ever on our foreign trade? And yet Congress is starting in with tariff hearings which have no other end more certainly in view than a broad, general upward revision of rates which are already the highest we have ever had.

THE NEW LATIN AMERICA.

In making a tour of Latin America before he assumed the presidency of the United States Mr. Hoover likely had in mind that it is a new Latin America with which we have to deal today and one of immense commercial potentialities.

What these potentialities are Mr. Julius Klein, who has been studying them for the Nation, tells in another place on this page. There has been, he says, a great awakening in Latin America since the World War. As that sanguinary conflict closed everywhere the age-long era of acquiescence in things as they were, so, too, did it close that era in Latin America. The people down there, like those in China, in Egypt, in Turkey, and in many another part of the world, want to be abreast of the times. They do not want to be ignorant any longer, or to content themselves with laissez faire, or to live as their fathers did. They have seen the airplane in the air, they have heard the radio, and they are sending their sons to tech. More than 2000 of these pupils, says Mr. Klein, are attending the technical schools of the United States.

This means to commerce, of course, that from a mere native of a foreign country, which he has been to both Europe and the United States for so long, the Latin American has become a potential buyer. There are 80,000,000 Latin Americans, and, as Manuel Gamio says in the Latin American edition of the Nation, from which Mr. Klein's article is taken, the ambition of the whole mass is to be up and doing. Whether we know it or not, the case of Mexico is not unique. There is an urge in the whole region between the Rio Grande and the Tierra del Fuego to another and a better culture and a more modern estate. The time has passed when the Latin American was content to be our inferior, to parade his ragamuffin army before the modern arms of our marines, and to see Americans and Europeans make off with the natural wealth of all those countries when by being modern and wide awake the Latin Americans can do as much for themselves.

No doubt Mr. Hoover, in contemplating the future of American commerce in Latin America, had in mind this very point. He must as Secretary of Commerce have seen the old Latin America passing and the new Latin America emerging from the romantic chrysalis of the old. If so, it is no surprise that his coming to the White House promises an entirely different Latin American policy than Mr. Coolidge has maintained. Mr. Klein makes the interesting point that the opportunity down there is not necessarily competitive with Europe. Neither the British nor the Germans have lost anything by the great gains which our own commerce has made in Latin America since the World War. They, too, have gained, because the Latin American has become a better buyer. Our opportunity, as both Mr. Klein and Mr. Gamio see it, is to realize that this is so, and to address ourselves, both politically and commercially, to the new condition.

Which is, of course, if we are a wise people, what we will do.

BARGAINING WITH CRIME.

Criminal trials in Illinois, according to Dean Albert J. Harno of the Illinois College of Law, have become bargain marts in which criminals barter with the law for such mitigation as will favor their parole or probation.

Under the Illinois statutes persons convicted of the more serious law violations are not eligible for probation. Persons who have committed such offenses are eager to keep themselves out of the ineligible class, and in order to gain that advantage they are usually anxious to plead guilty to a lesser offense. That is quite natural and easy to understand. A study of the criminal records, Dean Harno says, reveals that prosecuting officials and courts are willing to accept pleas of guilty of lesser offenses and frequently do so. That is not so natural nor so easy to understand.

In some instances the complacence is apparently prompted by the indolence which prefers to be satisfied with an easily obtained plea of guilty to a degree of guilt less than the actual rather than stand out for a hard-won conviction in keeping with the gravity of the crime. In others, the inference is justified, the leniency is the reward of influence, political or otherwise, brought to bear where it will do the most good.

In either case the practice is a distinct favor to criminals and operates to enable them to escape the proper penalty for their crimes. It is a practice that is probably followed as extensively in Missouri as in Illinois and to the extent that it is followed, here or anywhere, it encourages the commission of the gravest offenses. While doubtless there are occasions which call for the exercise of this sort of leniency, it should never be exercised out of indolence or in deference to influence.

WAR TINDER.

The word comes from Geneva that "the world's climb toward peace and disarmament during 1929 will encounter a big obstacle, observers think, in the problem of European minorities." In other words, those millions who became residents of countries wherein the majorities are of a different race, due to the redistribution of territory after the war, contend, in numerous instances, that they are being deprived of their personal and property rights. So 3,500,000 Hungarians, distributed in Jugo Slavia, Rumania and Czecho-Slovakia, charge that those countries are not fulfilling their treaty contracts concerning the protection of the rights of the minorities. Many alienated Germans make similar complaints.

To take sections of territory and sections of people and dogmatically join them to lands and races not in sympathy with them, to take the conquered and give them to the conqueror, is, obviously, to sow the seeds of discontent and court the god of war. Parceling of the vanquished, be it by a victorious alliance or a conquering entente, brings with it the same evil. As long as Central Europe is partitioned off by boundaries other than natural boundaries of race and the wishes of the populace, so long will there remain dry tinder waiting for the never-far-off spark.

THE BARRIER.

Our Latin-American Trade

The World War profoundly stimulated the buying power of the Latin-American countries. United States trade with them enormously increased. We supply them with many things peculiarly American. Improvement in their living standards makes for new opportunities in American trade lines, to be grasped by efficient management.

JULIUS KLEIN in The Nation.

A PROBLEM which has vexed the economic development of these countries has been their concentration upon one or two major commodities. This has been, of course, an obvious and natural tendency characteristic of all economically new lands, but its perils have frequently been felt in drastic fashion. The collapse of sugar, for example, has wrought havoc with Cuba in recent years. The increasing volume of synthetic nitrogen has presented a grave difficulty to Chile. Brazil is in constant anxiety whenever anything interferes with the steady price of coffee. Yucatan lives or dies according to the fluctuations of the sisal trade.

This situation has, of course, a vital bearing upon the whole future of trade in the countries involved. It simplifies the task of our exporters who can gauge their prospects rather closely by the trend in the price curve of the given raw material upon which the buying power of the various countries depends. The situation also explains the tendency of several of the Latin-American countries to evolve various official controls, valorization schemes, price-stabilizations, etc., in defense of the vital major industry.

In the long view, however, the resultant position must be regarded as precarious, and far-sighted Latin-American leaders are struggling to bring about a healthy diversification. In this task they certainly deserve the most effective collaboration from their Northern Anglo-Saxon neighbors, not simply in capital, but in technically trained personnel and in schooling for their own native experts. The 2000 or more Latin-American students now in our technical establishments are an encouraging indication that this collaboration is well under way. Indeed, the whole of our own westward march across the continent, our struggles with precisely similar frontier difficulties, and our prolonged experiences with the same problems in transportation, mining, forestry, and agriculture, should certainly provide abundant sources of helpful experiences in solving these questions.

ONE of the truly dramatic aftermaths of the World War has been the awakening and expansion of commercial life in the Latin-American countries. Their remoteness brought to them during the war the dangers of prolonged isolation from the streams of world trade, and this fact coupled with the grave need in Europe for all types of foodstuffs and raw materials during the crisis of 1914-1918 and the reconstruction years thereafter, has resulted in a complete alteration of the commercial position of most of the countries. Their buying power has been profoundly stimulated. Take, for example, Venezuela and Colombia, which in pre-war days were among the most primitive markets in that part of the world. In 1913 these two Republics bought about $10,000,000 worth of goods from us. In 1927 their joint purchases exceeded $90,000,000. There is no part of the world in which a comparable nine-fold increase in our trade was accomplished in that period of time. True, it has been made up in considerable quantities of oil-well equipment, railway supplies, road-building apparatus, etc., but large parts of this impressive expansion were also contributed by the increased purchasing power of the workers receiving improved wages from these new industries.

ONE phase of this particular trend has been the alteration in trading routes. Of course, the opening of the Panama Canal had something to do with this so far as the West coast countries are concerned, but another element has been the creation of new markets for Latin-American raw materials in the United States and the establishment of new shipping services and banking facilities which permit of the direct shipment of these wares from South to North instead of by way of European intermediaries. Before the war large portions of our importations of South American wool, hides, cacao, and other raw materials were being brought to us by way of London, Antwerp, Hamburg, Amsterdam and other great European ports of transshipment. The dislocation of these roundabout transactions has been most beneficial to the Latin-American producers, as well as to the North American consumers. It has resulted in the establishment of considerable credits in the United States against which purchases of machinery, agricultural implements, and other manufactured supplies are made with greater facility.

The United States is taking a rapidly increasing proportion of all of Latin-America's exported commodities. Our share of those from the 12 Northern Republics is just under 70 per cent of their total exports and for Latin-America as a whole we provided a market for no less than 40 per cent of her total overseas sales—far larger than any single European country or even two or three major Old World consumers taken together.

In the case of the West coast countries our advance in this respect is even more impressive, due, of course, in part to the influence of the Panama Canal. In 1901 we took 8 per cent of the total exports of that rapidly awakening area. Last year our share was more than 35 per cent. It is natural to find that our proportion is lowest in the case of the River Plate countries (7.6 per cent in 1927) since their products are so closely comparable to our own.

ONE important angle in this connection is the much misrepresented question of our tariff and its influence upon the trend of Latin-American imports to the United States. If we exclude Cuban sugar, which is in a preferential category because of the reciprocity treaty, we find that over 80 per cent of the goods coming into this country from our Southern neighbors are admitted free of all duties. In several cases, such as Chile, Brazil, Peru, and Mexico, the figure is considerably more than 90 per cent. This, of course, is due to the fact that the products are in large part non-competitive raw materials essential for our living standards.

With reference to our shipments to Latin-America, the situation is almost exactly reversed, that is to say, more than 8 cent of our xports are subject to in Latin-America. This again is understandable and logical since our modities are almost entirely manufac goods, in many cases providing revenues for the various countries and other instances competing with rising industries. So long as there are no a trary discriminations against our com ities and in favor of those of our tors, we can offer no justifiable

As for the trade balance in general tween the United States and the 20 ern Republics, it is not usually that the interchange is in their 1927 their shipments to us exceeded 000,000, whereas our sales to them slightly less than $932,200,000. In words, the favorable balance for America was not far from $124,000,0 situation which has been character this trade from its very beginnings.

MANY fears have been expressed our prospects in the event of European trade drives in these mark has been alleged that the notable which we have made in recent been at the expense of our Europe It is quite true that England's example, in the total imports of republics has fallen from 25 per 1913 to 16 per cent in 1927. The tion of Germany during the same fell from 16.5 per cent to 9.7 per Meanwhile, our share has risen from cent to a little less than 38 per

On the surface, it would seem that had capitalized the grave preoccupa the Old World by appropriating earned and badly needed Latin-Ame trade outlets. As a matter of analysis of the situation country try reveals that our gains have every single case been made up ly North American specialties biles, motion-picture films, clothing, agricultural implements pliances, etc., which had never plied by Europe in any quantity as the countries of the Old World vived their industries and com chinery, they have been able to their commerce without very pairment. In several countries the Germany and England is already war levels. In the case of Colo Venezuela, mentioned above, German ports are now three times what in 1913 and England's have more doubled. The difficulty seems to in the revival of production in Europe er than in the stifling of consum European goods in Latin-America.

IN fact Europe is fa from her approaches to these new ities. There are four times as many banks throughout Latin-America are United States establishments sort. German progress in commerci tion, to take another instance, is ously successful in various parts region. The Europeans have been ally vigorous in carrying out governmental credit insurance, ment in dealing with such long- ment markets.

We must pay our Southern compliment of appreciating the differences that prevail among spread populations and their living standards improve known riches of their resources cessible, we are likely to vancement in their buying

The opportunities are there; guilty either of scorning bungling them.

ISES ST. LOUIS VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

President of Typographical Union Says Better Apprentices Now Are Provided.

Wider opportunity for the youth, higher type apprentices for the employer, and better service for the public have been brought about by the St. Louis Public Vocational School, according to William J. Gibbons, president of Typographical Union No. 8.

By working with labor organizations, the school has a class of 95 printers' apprentices attending special classes at 3432 School street, at both day and night sessions, twice a week. One period is spent in spelling, English composition and punctuation, and another in type composition, make-up and press work. An apprentice must have completed the eighth grade at grammar school.

Apprentices in union printing shops, all of whom become members of the Junior Typographical Union, must attended classes of the vocational school, T. E. Spencer, principal and organizer of the school, which is a part of the public school system, explained.

"Five years' apprenticeship is required for admission to the union, and the student, having an opportunity to apply his knowledge gained in class to his practical shop work, is an artist in the craft in that time," Spencer said.

"Through co-operation of the Board of Education with organized labor, standards will be raised and no trade will be over-supplied with workers," Gibbons declared "When the new $3,000,000 Public Vocational School building is completed, St. Louis will have the finest vocational school in the country, and the Board of Education will have taken one of its most progressive steps."

STANDARD OIL OUSTER COMMISSIONER DIES

Former Judge Robert A. Anthony Succumbs to Heart Disease at Fredericktown.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., Jan. 19.—Robert A. Anthony, 70 years old, former Circuit Judge, died suddenly at his home here yesterday afternoon, of heart disease. He had been in poor health for several weeks. He was born in Texas, but spent his boyhood here teaching school and studying law at home.

He was appointed in 1902 as Judge of the Twenty-seventh Judicial District to succeed Judge Fox, who was elected Supreme Judge of Missouri in the Republican landslide of 1904, but was defeated in the election for the office by Judge Killian, of Perryville.

In 1904, Mr. Anthony was appointed by the Supreme Court as special commissioner to hear the evidence in the ouster proceedings brought against the Standard Oil Co. by Herbert S. Hadley, then Attorney General. He heard evidence in many sections of the United States and after a trial lasting more than two years he made a report to the Supreme Court finding for the State. His report was accepted by the Supreme Court without change.

Another notable legal case in which he participated was in 1910 when he and the late Martin L. Clardy represented the Canadian bondholders in the foreclosure proceedings against the North American Lead Co.

He is survived by his widow, one sister, Mrs. John R. Casey, and one brother, S. C. Anthony. The funeral will be held from St. Michael's Church here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Healing Italy's Breach With The Vatican

on Mount Janiculum, and it will be unique in the modern world.

When the last signature is affixed to the last document, the Pontiff who in 1922 entered the Vatican unquestionably expecting to die there, will be released from his self-imposed imprisonment to make what will certainly be a triumphal tour in the Eternal City.

Perhaps elsewhere? He will come to America? It is hardly probable, but there will be nothing to prevent him. The august prisoner will at last be free.

The new Papal realm will be small indeed beside the territory which, for 11 centuries, constituted the States of the Church. It is small even in comparison with the "corridor" which, in the last quarter century, has ben proposed as a matter of private purchase.

The corridor plan, with which the names of two wealthy American Catholics, Martin Maloney of Philadelphia and Richard C. Kerens of St. Louis, were connected in 1907, was designed to give Pius X, the "prisoner" of that time, access to the sea. That Pope, who before his elevation was Patriarch of Venice, loved the blue Adriatic. The Maloney-Kerens plan was to give him, in its place, a view of the Mediterranean. A narrow 65-mile strip from the Vatican gardens to he sea was to be acquired, the town of Civita Vecchia was to become the papal seaport, and the Italian Government was to be induced to treat the corridor as extra-territorial. The last detail took the scheme into the sphere of international politics, and made it too big a matter for the wealthy churchmen to handle. Revived in discussion from time to time, the "corridor" has remained only a big idea.

Nansen Tells Plan to Reach North Pole in Zeppelin

the explorers may often have forgotten the earnest search for knowledge, which only is of real, lasting value.

But now the Pole has been reached several times, the North Polar Sea has been crossed in several directions, there are hardly any more records to be beaten in that part of the world, and the time for really methodic scientific research may therefore happily begin in the North Polar regions; the knowledge of them is of great importance for our knowledge of the construction of the whole earth and for our understanding of the conditions in the different parts of it.

But that knowledge will not be increased unless, through polar exploration, certain important problems are solved. They are geographical problems, meteorological, oceanographic and biological problems, aside from the interesting problems of tidal waves, terrestrial magnetism and northern lights.

Depth of North Polar Sea Discovered by Fram Party.

On the Norwegian expedition, 1893-1896, when our ship, the Fram, drifted three years with the ice across the then unknown North Polar region from the New Siberian Islands to the sea north of Spitzbergen, we discovered the deep North Polar Sea, 3000 to 3850 meters (9850 to 12,600 feet) deep, extending north of Spitzbergen, Franz Josef Land, the New Siberian Islands, and probably farther eastward. Based upon our soundings and our oceanographic researches, I then expressed the view that this deep sea probably extended over the greater part of the still unknown polar region, eastward toward Alaska, and northward across the polar region toward the northern side of the Canadian Arctic Archipelago and Greenland. The correctness of this view seems to be corroborated by later exploration.

We know now the continental coasts round the North Polar Sea, and we also know the northern extension of the island groups to the north of the continents, with only the exception of the New Northern Land (Nicholas II Land or Lenin Land) northwest of Cape Chelyuskin, the northern and eastern coasts of which are still unknown.

During the flights of Byrd to the Pole, of Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile across the Pole from Spitzbergen to Alaska and of Wilkins from Alaska to Spitzbergen, no new land was observed. It is, therefore, highly improbable that any land of considerable extension may exist within the still unknown regions in the north although the possibility is not excluded that scattered islands may still be found. We may thus assume that we actually know the main features of the distribution of dry land and sea in the whole of the North Polar region.

We do not know, however, to what extent the sea crossed by the flying explorers was shallow or deep, their observations could give us no information regarding the real shape and size of the deep North Polar Basin, or the distance to which the continental land masses extend under present sea-level from the known coasts as the so-called continental shelf.

Weather Problems Also May Be Solved in Arctic.

Another important problem that the coming expedition hopes to help in solving is the relation of the polar regions to the weather of the world. The climatic conditions, wind, temperature, rainfall, affecting our daily life in all latitudes, depend on the circulation of the earth's atmosphere, which is created by two fundamental processes: the heating of the atmosphere, by the radiation of heat from the sun, which is of greatest effect in the warm and tropic latitudes, and the cooling of the atmosphere by the radiation of heat from the earth's surface to space, which is most effective in the polar regions. It is, therefore, obvious that the physical conditions of the North Polar regions have a very fundamental influence upon the weather in our latitudes.

The North Polar region is covered by a huge cap of cold air, which may have its dynamic center near the very cold interior of Greenland, where we discovered a remarkably cold weather pole when we first crossed that ice-covered land in 1888. Nature is continually trying to set up the discontinuity between this polar air and the equatorial air, it is in this manner the cyclonic depressions arise which have such dominating influence upon the changes of weather; we can observe how bursts of cold polar air bulge out from the so-called Polar Front and spread southward between successive cyclonic depressions.

For the understanding of the meterologic conditions in our latitudes and for the forecast of the weather it will, therefore, be of the greatest importance to study methodically the physical conditions of the various layers of the atmosphere in all parts of the North Polar regions; and more than that in the future we shall need a considerable number of permanent meteorological stations with radio scattered over these northern polar regions, in order that we may always know the meteorological conditions there and thus be able to forecast the weather in our latitudes for some time perhaps.

We thus see that polar exploration and research will be of much importance for our daily life, for all undertakings dependent on the weather, for agriculture, for the oceanic navigation, and especially of course, for future air navigation, for which the reliable forecast of the weather along the traveled routes will be of the greatest value.

Knowledge of Magnetism to Be Acquired in Arctic.

It is self-evident that the knowledge of the various elements of terrestrial magnetism in the polar regions is of paramount importance to the solution of the great problems of the earth's magnetism. We must not only know the so-called magnetic constants: the declination, the inclination (dip) and the magnetic intensity in the still unknown regions, but the fluctuations in these magnetic elements and the magnetic storms must be studied by continuous registrations, they are of special interest in these regions where the fluctuations are so very considerable and so is a study of the relationship, between them and the variations in the sun's activity. Here is a field of specially great importance for future polar research.

Simultaneously the atmospheric electricity should also be studied. In that respect very little has hitherto been done in the polar regions. The induced electric currents in the earth's crust causing interruption of telegraphic transmission, should likewise be carefully studied, as well as the polar lights (aurora) and the conditions of radio-telegraphy and the interference in radio transmission, caused by processes in the upper atmosphere affecting the so-called Kenelly-Heaviside conducting layer. These are all of them questions of great scientific as well as practical importance.

To all kinds of organic life, the polar regions offer extreme conditions and most forms of life meet with the extreme limit for their distribution at lower or higher latitudes toward the poles. The study of the development and distribution of plant and animal life, and the study of the forms which have thus arisen and of the effect which the extreme physical conditions have upon them, is naturally of great importance for the understanding of the problems of life on the whole. Here is still a fertile field for future research, and the flora and fauna of the polar regions deserve therefore special attention.

Lifeless Frozen Desert.

In the interior continuously ice-covered parts of the North Polar Sea, animal life is extremely scarce, as we found during the Fram expedition. No mammals can find sufficient food there, and only an accidental, solitary straggler of a bear, a fox, or seal, or even a walrus may be seen in that frozen desert.

These peculiar conditions seem, however, to have a noteworthy effect. The nutritive substances (chiefly nitrates perhaps) generally used to sustain plants and through them animal life in the sea, are to a great extent stored in the upper layers of the sea water, as there are so extremely few plants to use them. This accumulation of nutritive matter may continue for years during the drift of the ice and of the upper layers of water across the North Polar Sea.

But as soon as this water with the accumulated riches is freed of the ice near the outskirts of the North Polar Sea, and is exposed to the sunlight in the spring and summer, an extremely rich plant and animal life, plankton, is developed and flourishes. This plankton offers favorable conditions for higher life, and we therefore find a greater abundance of animal life in these regions than in any other parts of the ocean. There are the enormous swarms of fish, seals, whales and walruses.

Mystery in Animal Life.

These biological conditions are not, however, sufficiently known, the explanation given above is to some extent a hypothesis. It would undoubtedly be of much value to have these questions methodically studied in detail in different parts of the North Polar Sea. Here is also a fertile field for future research.

The Northern Light is a remarkable phenomenon which fills the arctic night with its wonderful display of mystic fire rushing through the heavens Until late years the nature of this light was a perfect mystery. Now the Norwegian scientists, Christian Birkeland and Carl Stormer, have proved that it is due to a radiation of kathodic rays from the sun, the electrons being sucked into our atmosphere by the earth's magnetism along belts surrounding the magnetic poles. By ingenious photographic methods, Stormer has also succeeded in measuring the heights of the light above the earth's surface, and in the region of Norway he has found it to be chiefly between 60 and a few hundred miles.

Excellent instruments for the study of this remarkable phenomenon have now been constructed by Stormer and also by Vegard, who has especially studied the spectrum the Northern light, and it would be of great interest that researches of this kind be carried on in the different parts of the polar regions. The occurrence of the northern lights has a very intimate connection with disturbances in the terrestrial magnetism, and also with electric currents within the earth's crust, and with the conditions of radio transmission. There may also be a connection with certain meteorologic fluctuations. By future investigations we hope to get a better understanding of the relationship between the solar activity and these various conditions on the earth which are of importance for our whole existence.

Ours will be the third airship expedition in arctic regions. We will seek to take advantage of any errors our predecessors may have made in going into a new field of research. The Graf Zeppelin gives us confidence. We believe it will triumph over any climatic and meteorologic obstacles the frozen North may cast in our path.

THE RADIUM ROBBERY

by

and

GRETTA PALMER

WILLIAM BASSET, M. D., author of "Pep, the Panacea," boarded the train at Chicago with the satisfaction that comes from a duty well and ostentatiously performed.

He had wound up a whirlwind drive through the Middle West, collecting a very respectable sum for the Michigan institute which was astute enough to include him among the more visionary members of its staff.

His methods, founded on the principles of the latest inspirational psychology, had left behind him a trail of bewildered philanthropists who were unprepared to meet, in a mild medico begging for donations, the high-pressure methods common to insurance salesmen and the young ministers

Basset sank complacently into the green plush of his compartment and watched the porter struggling with the elaborate pigskin bags which always accompanied him on his travels. As the perspiring Negro heaved three large suitcases up to the rack, Basset bit the end from his cigar and pointed to the remaining Pullman bag.

"Never mind that, George, just put it next to the seat here. Go buy yourself a house and lot with this," and Basset pressed a quarter into the porter's hand with all the aplomb of a multimillionaire bestowing a new dime.

William Basset, M. D., glanced with distate at the narrow corridor that ran to the opposite side of the car. There was something damned unsociable about these compartment cars—they lacked the bonhomie of the smoker and the neighborliness provided by long rows of shoe, identical with one's own, protruding from beneath green curtains.

But the Appearance of Prosperity was one of the fundamental tenents of the Basset mail-order philosophy, and its exponent dared not be caught purchasing a single berth. There was, moreover, another strong reason why privacy was essential on this short trip.

Not the least part of Basset's mission to Chicago had been to receive, from the hands of an awed bank president, a shipment of radium valued at a quarter of a million dollars, which was destined for the research laboratories of his prosperous institution. The event had been celebrated at a luncheon at which eminent scientists were induced to doff their white jackets and attempt the tenor of "There's a Long, Long Trail," at the instigation of Basset, who earnestly assured them that "if Hippocrates had been alive today, fellows, he would have been a Christian and a go-getter."

The radium, when it was finally entrusted to Basset, presented a singularly unimpressive appearance. The lead container which prevented its injuring the health of the person handling it, was about the size of an ordinary brick, and the case was finally placed by Basset in his Pullman bag, between a copy of "Salesmanship and Success" and a quart of Scotch whisky. Radium, after all, is not a substance favored by any burglars who have a sense of self-preservation.

Basset comfortably unfolded a copy of Snappy Stories, rang for seltzer and ice, and settled down to a dull five hours' ride through some of the most beautiful scenery of the West. Nature, to him, was merely a convenient source for sentiments appropriate to an inspirational address. After three hearty highballs he slipped into the corner of his seat, his back half turned to the closed door, and promptly fell into a heavy sleep.

Some five hours later, only a few miles away from the town where plaudits awaited the physician, the train turned a sharp curve and puffed into sight of the lovely little lake, set about with cheap resorts, which was a favorite vacation spot with middle-class Chicagoans. For several miles here the tracks ran along the lakeside with only a six-foot stone wall between them and the water. It was a sight which made most of the occupants of the train gasp with excitement but Basset continued to doze peacefully.

He was rudely aroused by a gleam of light that dazzled his eyes as the sun hit a shiny object a few feet to his left Half turning, he saw with amazement that it was held by a dark brown hand which emerged from a white sleeve that reached through the door, just as he smelt a strong whiff of chloroform. Then the brightness of the afternoon slid from before his eyes and complete unconsciousness descended on the doctor.

When he came to he found that the train was still roaring ahead. He immediately groped for his Pullman bag with a foreboding of the truth.

The radium, in its lead case, had vanished, leaving a dreadful lacuna between the half empty bottle of Scotch and the book on success. Basset reached for the porter's bell and ran out into the corridor screaming the news that he had been robbed. When the porter arrived he looked at the staggering medico with concern and understanding as he saw the empty glass on the table.

"What were you doing in there, you thieving devil?" thundered the irate passenger. "Call the conductor. You've stolen something out of my bag and unless you give it back I'll murder you!"

While the Negro quivered in terror, and passengers hurried from the doors of all the other compartments in the car, Basset continued to roar and threaten until the conductor arrived. When that dignitary hastened from another car he immediately had the train stopped and despatched men of the train crew back to search the tracks for the past few miles on the chance that the radium might have been thrown overboard.

He found that Basset's car was between the engine and the diner, and as no one had gone through the diner in either direction for the past hour, and everyone who had boarded the car at Chicago was still present, it was logical to suppose that both the robber and his loot would be found close at hand.

Basset had fortunately a clear impression of having glimpsed the blue of the lake from the window in the moment before the anaesthesia took effect, so that the time of the robbery could be placed within the past half hour, after the train had taken its curve and turned along the lakeside.

Suspicion naturally attached to the porter, the only Negro on the car, and a thorough search of his frightened person, his cabinets, and all berths and hiding places open to him was made Every place which could conceivably contain the lead case was probed by a dozen official fingers. The passengers were then treated to the same extravagantly careful search.

There were five other occupied compartments in the car. In one of these was an innocuous clergyman, traveling alone; in another a young wife with her two small children, and in a third a respectable middle-aged banker and his wife and in the fourth an acidulous school-teacher of the musical comedy spinster type. The possessions of none of these yielded a suspicious trace.

The occupant of the fifth compartment, however, gave the investigators a chance to exchange knowing glances and warm to the search.

He was a practicing physician Emil Jaccard, of a type which Basset, in more happy moments, would have described as "one of those lackadaisical old-fashioned doctors, who think their whole job is to give pills and cut out tonsils without boosting the profession."

Jaccard had not even so old-fashioned a medical requisite as a charming bedside manner He boasted a scientifically ruthless intelligence, a great capacity for work and an extraordinary cupidity. It was his firm intention soon to demonstrate the fallacy of the belief that professional men are naive in matters of business and already, by a few astute investments, he had mounted up a comfortable fortune at an age when most physicians are looking about for another year at internship.

He was setting out for a short holiday at a small lake resort a few miles farther on, and his baggage, when carefully examined, proved to consist of a very simple wardrobe, including his surgeon's jacket, the most elementary of fishing tackle, a small medical kit and a volume on the fascinating habits of the human liver under certain circumstances. His medical kit held only such simple remedies as argyrol, novocaine and iodine and two extra-professional flasks, each half filled with brandy. There was no trace of chloroform or of any instrument by means of which it could be sprayed across the compartment.

None the less a guard was set to watch Jaccard's movements after he was allowed to depart to his fishing resort. The search of the tracks had yielded only the barren information that the radium was certainly not to be found there and could only have been thrown, on either side of the tracks, into a good 12 feet of water. Passengers on the back platform of the observation car testified that there had been no one along the tracks who could have acted as accomplice for someone on the train

The detectives on Jaccard's trail kept out of sight as much as possible during the following days, which he spent in serenely following his program and fishing in a rented rowboat all over the lake. On one of his many trips, however, they saw him row rather close to the railroad track at a point near the place where the robbery was supposed to have occurred.

They saw nothing extraordinary in his movements from a little distance and were assured that he did not leave the boat. But as he rowed back to the hotel, his line still out, they approached him, under the guise of friendly fishermen, and managed to get a very good peer at the interior of the rowboat.

They saw nothing but an obviously empty bailing can and an extra line and bobbin. There was not even a string of fishes on which to center their attentions, and Jaccard's tight-fitting clothing eliminated any possibility of his having secreted the radium, no matter how mysteriously obtained, about his person.

How were all traces concealed by the robber?

What happened to the radium after its removal from Basset's luggage?

The solution of this mystery will be printed next Sunday. Another mystery outline will also be published on that date.

Who Was Guilty

Solution of "A Murder in Montmarte," in last Sunday's Post Dispatch.

TED'S testimony was absolutely true. He had no earthly reason for wanting to murder Duroc, or the woman either, and could not have left the key on the studio side of the door. It was never determined whether the murderer had a key to the front door, or whether the door had been carelessly left open. At any rate, the killer entered before the policeman had come down the street and slipped through the studio into the bedroom. The two there were sleeping drunkenly, so the murderer shot Duroc before he awoke and quickly shot the girl twice as she screamed and attempted to rise.

The murder was not planned, so when the killer heard Ted's footsteps, she rushed and locked the studio door. For of course it was Elise. There was no hiding place in the two rooms—except for Elise.

She wiped off the gun, while the two men were struggling with the heavy door, and seized by an inspiration, tore off her one garment, caught it up against her like a drapery and stepped into one of the empty frames leaning against the wall. The ceiling was low, so the big life-size pictures were all hung fairly close to the floor. They were all realistic studies of herself, so in the flickering gaslight, the living woman looked startlingly like the other pictures.

When Ted and the agent came into the room, it was obvious—so they thought—that no one was there. There was not a chance in a thousand that two excited men, rushing to find if someone had been shot, would examine some pictures closely.

While the investigators were in the bedroom, examining the bodies Elise stepped out of the frame, slipped on her tunic, made a silent dash from the door and escaped.

GROUP WILL DISCUSS CHILD LABOR AT TEA

League of Women Voters to Hold Meeting Jan. 28 at Hotel Chase.

Miss Maud Swett, director of the Woman and Child Labor Department of the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin, will speak before the League of Women Voters of St. Louis and associated organizations at a Child Labor tea, to be held Jan. 28 at 2:30 p. m. at Hotel Chase on the occasion of National Child Labor Day.

Child labor conditions in Missouri will be discussed by Miss Gwen Geach, field secretary of the Child Labor Educational Campaign of the Missouri Women's Legislative Committee, which is sponsoring a proposed child labor bill for this State.

Mrs. E. T. Senseney, director of the Missouri Educational Campaign for the ratification of the Multilateral Peace Treaty, announed yesterday that plans were being made by the League of Women Voters to invite eight other organizations which also worked for ratification to a meeting to celebrate the passage of the treaty. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

A radio "voters' service" under the joint auspices of the National Broadcasting Co. and the National League of Women Voters will be on the air at 6 p. m., central time, Tuesday, from Station WRC, Washington. United States Senator Walter E. Edge and Charles G. Ross, chief Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, will be the speakers.

HARDWARE EXHIBIT OPENS TOMORROW

Held in Connection With Convention of Missouri Retail Dealers.

The thirty-first annual convention of the Missouri Retail Hardware Dealers Association will be held at the Hotel Statler, tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Seventeenth annual Hardware Exhibit will be held at the hotel in conjunction with the convention.

St. Louis, the announcements for the convention point out, is the largest wholesale hardware market in the world. Floor sales at the conventions of the dealers total approximately $500,000. In addition, the association extends the privilege of the convention, which is a post-graduate course in retail hardware selling, to hardware dealers in Southern Illinois, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Western Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama.

"The hardware merchants of the United States realize that in order to keep abreast of the times, they must devote some time to the study of economic conditions and the changes and trends of business," F. X. Becherer, secretary of the association said. "We make our convention a post-graduate course, bringing authorities on sales display, advertising and sales management to the convention. The convention is virtually a school for retail hardware dealers."

Topics of discussion at the convention are: Monday morning, "Buying for Profit," Monday afternoon, "Operating for Profit," Tuesday morning "Planning for Profit" Wednesday morning, "Controlling for Profit."

Guarding Against the FLU

Any cold can mean the flu; the surest way to avoid flu is to avoid colds

To avoid coming down with a cold make prompt use of Bayer Aspirin.

Don't wait to see if that first sneeze or cough is going to be a cold. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of any cold, and be safe.

And whatever you do, don't neglect a sore throat these days; gargle with Bayer Aspirin and remove the infection.

Guard against the flu by guarding against the colds that make you susceptible to the flu germs that lurk in crowded cars, public places, wherever there are people. Bayer Aspirin tablets are indispensable at such a time. Get the pocket box. Carry it with you.

RESERVE BANK HEAD DISCUSSES RELIGION

Martin, in Lee's Birthday Address, Deplores Attitude of "Intelligentsia."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Va., Jan. 19.—William McC. Martin, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, a member of the class of 1895 at Washington and Lee University here, delivered an address today at the University, at exercises held in observance of Gen. Robert E. Lee's birthday.

He reviewed the growth of universities from the institutions of medieval times, and dwelt on the changes made in man's physicalt surroundings by the latest methods of transportation and communication. Then he touched on matters of religious discussion, saying:

"Material things are changing so rapidly that in bewilderment there seems to be an idea abroad that everything must change, and there is an effort to remove the ancient landmarks. There are those in the pulpit preaching what they call Christianity, but it is only pagenism and is nothing new. Christ, the divine son of God, the same yesterday, today and forever, is called only a man, and the one sure anchor in the midst of change is thrown aside so that the soul may drift on a men-made tide. What is sin, is called a complex. A psychology, with its conclusions changing with every text-book written, is appealed to as a means of correction. We have the interesting phenomenon of men in this era of credit doing 95 per cent of their business on faith, and then asking that faith be discarded for reason, entirely overlooking the reasonableness of faith.

The Deriding Intelligentsia.

"Most interesting theories are being taught as facts, and a tribe that calls itself the 'intelligentsia' mocks at any one as uneducated who will not believe in the newest fad. Frequently they are so ignorant they do not know how old the fad is.

"It is well thta we pause and listen to Paul: 'Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ.' (Col. 2:8.)"

Martin also discussed, from the standpoint of a banker, the relation of university training to the requirements of business. "There are men," he said, "who say that the present-day high school education is sufficient, and four years at college is a waste of time, but as a rule these men seem to have the idea that the making of money early in life is the chief end of existence.

"I heard the head of a large wholesale organization say with disgust that he would never employ another man who had been through college; that such a man knew how to dress, order a good dinner, dance, spend money, but either lacked the power or the will for concentration and hard work and in a few months became superior to the entire organization and in his opinion knew more than the head of the concern could possibly know. This was interesting and I followed the matter further. I learned that this man's experience with college men had been mostly with those who had gone to college but had not finished, and not on account of lack of funds either, and to my mind it is proved by the very fact that they did not finish college, that they lacked the qualities which he desired in his business. I may add that this particular man sent his son to college.

College Not Needed for Contacts.

"A number of men who have been through college think that the curriculum and campus life could be improved in one respect or another. In fact, some of them go so far as to see tendencies that they consider extremely dangerous unless corrected. Not one of them I have been able to talk to would say that his four years at college were wasted.

"I have known a number of men who had college degrees but gave the impression of having little, if any, education. I believe in all instances, however, these particular men had taken the easiest courses and had done probably as little work in any of them as they could get by with. Either through laziness or deliberately, 'contacts' were probably all they had thought worth while in college. And in passing let me say one does not need to go to college to make 'contacts.' They can be made just as satisfactorily while about the daily work in the city."

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF MAN HIT BY TROLLEY CAR IN 1927

Jason L. Brown, 46, Had Been in Hospital Since Accident; Leg Amputated Recently.

An open verdict was returned by a Coroner's jury yesterday in the death at City Hospital Thursday night of Jason L. Brown, 46 years old, a laborer, of Second and Branch streets, who was injured by a street car at 7300 North Broadway on Aug. 28, 1927, and had been in the hospital ever since. It was necessary to amputate his right leg three days ago, and resultant blood poisoning caused death.

The leg and Brown's right shoulder were fractured in the accident. He was crossing the street when struck by a southbound car. There was no evidence at the inquest except the reading of police reports. The car motorman, Edward Thompson of 910 North Eighteenth street, and conductor, Marvin McCann of 2112 Sallsbury street, did not testify, on advice of counsel.

VON HOFFMANN TO BUILD TWO NEW HANGARS AND BARRACKS

Two new hangars and a barracks for students will be erected at Lambert-St. Louis Field by the Von Hoffman Aircraft Co., it was announced yesterday by Albert Von Hoffman, president of the concern.

The buildings, to cost $35,000, will be constructed on a four and one-half acre site owned by Von Hoffman on the south side of the airport. The barracks, a one-story brick structure, will accommodate 100 students and will contain, in addition to dormitories, a dining room, kitchen, recreation room and lavatory. Lodging and meals will be supplied students at a cost not to exceed $8 a week, Von Hoffman stated.

The hangars, one large and the other of smaller proportions, will be of an accepted modern design with steel frames and glass sides. The large hangar will be devoted to ground school instruction purposes, containing offices, classrooms and machine shop. The smaller hangar will be used for maintenance and repair of the company's planes.

Bids for the construction of the buildings have been advertised and work will begin early next month. The buildings will be ready for occupancy about April 1, it is expected.

The large hangar on the west side of the airport now used as a school building by the Von Hoffman Co., will be retained to house planes owned by the company and as a service station for visiting ships.

ADMITS PEDDLING OPIUM SINCE 1921

Negro Arrested by U. S. Agents Says He Has Smoked Narcotic 26 Years.

Jesse Cooper, 56-year-old Negro, whose attractively furnished Kirkwood home was raided by Federal narcotic agents and city detectives Friday night, told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that he had smoked opium for 26 years and had been peddling it since 1921.

"The panic has been on lately, that is, Federal agents are in town making a cleanup, and I haven't been making $50 a month," he said "Before the panic, business was good."

The narcotic agents reported that they kicked in the kitchen door of the bungalow despite four locks that held it, and seized two smouldering bills from the kitchen stove, into which Cooper had thrown them.

The bills, according to Agent Ralph Oyler, were marked and had been used by an informer who reported that he had purchased yen shee, an opium product, from Cooper. The Negro is said to have told the informer, "I can't get you any morphine, the panic is on. But I can sell you some yen shee."

In the bungalow, the agents found a radio worth about $500, as well as an automobile in a basement garage. Cooper said he owned two bungalows. A bunk used in smoking opium and a complete opium smoking layout were found in the house. "I use that myself," Cooper said. "It's just my own little luxury."

Early Days of Catholic Church In St. Louis Described by The Rev. John Rothensteiner

Volume I of History of the Archdiocese Covers Period From Arrival of De Soto and Coronado Expeditions to 1847.

VOLUME I of the History of the Archdiocese of St. Louis, by the Rev. John Rothensteiner, has been published. This volume has 860 pages, with many illustrations and maps. Vol. II is to appear soon. The Catholic Historical Society of St. Louis is the publisher.

The first volume carries the record to 1847, when the Archdiocese of St. Louis was created, with Peter Richard Kenrick as Archbishop. Vol. II will tell of the administrations of Archbishops Kenrick, Kain and Glennon.

Geographically, the first volume has far the larger story to tell. This is shown by the map of the original diocese of St. Louis, as administered by Bishop Joseph Rosati in 1827 and later years.

Bishop Rosati's diocese embraced the entire present states of Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Colorado and Utah, the eastern half of Nevada, the western half of Illinois, the western two-thirds of Wisconsin, and a segment of Upper Michigan. In addition, the State of Washington, as Father de Smet's mission territory, was attached to the diocese, and Northeast Illinois, including Chicago, was administered by Bishop Rosati, by delegation from the Bishop of Bardstown and Vincennes. The original St. Louis diocesan territory now constitutes five archdioceses and 35 dioceses.

Begins With De Soto Expedition.

The story begins with the first penetration of Western rivers by the expeditions of De Soto and Coronado, both accompanied by priests, in 1541, and proceeds with Father Marquette's voyage, 132 years later. At the founding of St. Louis, in 1764, no priest was present. This, the author believes, was not because the members of the Laclede-Chouteau party were not good Catholics, but because there was no priest who could accompany them. Father Sebastian Meurin of the Jesuit order, who had been sent away from Kankaskia Mission, was permitted to return to Kaskaskia in the spring of 1764, and he became the pioneer priest of St. Louis, making occasional visits.

Father Meurin left no description of his St. Louis ministrations, but such a record was made by a visiting Sulpician, Bishop Benedict Flaget of Bardstown, in 1814. Bishop Flaget found the St. Louis congregation "in a state of extreme indifference," yet confirmed 72 persons and "revalidated" some marriages. Gov. William Clark presented three of his children for baptism. Bishop Flaget found Florissant a home of the faithful, who rowed him across the Missouri River in a flower-decked canoe. During his visit to this region—at just what point is not shown—an episcopal throne was made for him from beaver skins, adorned with jewels lent by the women.

Found Irreligion in District.

An earlier visitor, Father Joseph Dunand of the Trappist order, crossed the Mississippi on the ice to St. Louis the day before Christmas, 1808. He neglected to carry a pole, as others did, "wishing no other staff than trust in God." When he and his companions were in the middle, the ice "cracked with a great crash," but the guide reassured the priest, and both got to land. He "found the district in a pitiful state. Deprived of priests and all spiritual aid, the morals of the people were entirely corrupt, and ignorance of religion was so general that the inhabitants scarcely recognized the name Catholic. The small number of the better instructed rejoiced in their faith. For the rest, some openly mocked at it and others behaved with perfect indifference. This fatal carelessness had its source in want of instruction. I am not referring to the natives of the country, who, generally speaking, were good. It was through the incursion of foreigners that irreligion and licentiousness had made their way into this distant land. Divided in language, sentiments and interests from the rest, the aliens worked against the community's good. They were the persecutors of the priests. Having gathered a fortune by dint of crimes and injustices, and having retired to the villages to enjoy the pleasures and comforts of life, they naturally resented the zeal of the missionaries who exposed their baseness."

Father Dunand tells of baptizing a prisoner about to be hanged, the ceremony being performed over the objection of "six Protestant ministers," who had tried in vain to convert the criminal.

Nun Disappointed in the Indians.

Mother Duchesne of the Sacred Heart order, who arrived in 1822, was disappointed in the Indians of the region, the historian records. "Formerly," she said, "we entertained the pleasing thought of instructing docile and innocent savages, but the women as well as the men are idle and addicted to drinking. Moreover we have half castes who unite all the moral miseries of the two races." Her work for the Indians, however, is described as "the crown of all her labors."

When Bishop Du Bourg first undertook the building of a Cathedral in 1818, $6566 was subscribed, and $4271.75 was collected Thomas McGuire and Jeremiah Connor were the collectors. Among the chief subscriptions were these:

Auguste Chouteau $400, Pierre Chouteau $200, A. P. Chouteau $50, Thomas Brady $200, Jeremiah Connor $200, Bernard Pratte $300, John B. Sarpy $20, Alexander McNair $100, B. Berthold $100, John Mullanphy $100, Theodore Papin $20, Theodore Hunt $100, Frederick Bates $100, Thomas H. Benton $100 (added $50 later), M. Sanguinet $50, Henry Von Phul $50 (paid $30), Francis Robidoux $60 (paid $30), William Carr $100 (paid $50), P. B. and J. P. B. Gratiot $30 (paid $50), Anthony Soulard $50, J P. Cabanne $20, William Clark $100 (paid $75), Manuel Lisa $150. A second subscription, some months later, added $1303.36.

"Mother of St. Louis" Defended.

The author agrees with the late Dr. Alexander N. De Menil in holding that Mme. Marie Therese Bourgeois Chouteau, "mother of St. Louis," was "a true, honest and respectable wife and mother," and that all her children were the children of her husband, Auguste Rene Chouteau, who did not accompany her from New Orleans to St. Louis. The "scandalous legend as to her relations with Laclede Liguest, broadcast by Billon and Paul Beckwith," and accepted also by the later historians, Scharf and Hyde, is rejected by Father Rothensteiner, who holds that the Catholic

BUREAU ACCEPTS RESIGNATION OF C. S. THOMPSON

Former St. Louis Narcotic Agent, Had Been Under Charges of Misconduct in Office.

THIS CLEARS HIM, COCHRAN ASSERTS

Congressman Active in His Behalf Interprets Decision but Federal Officers Are Silent.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The resignation of Narcotic Agent Charles S. Thompson, formerly in charge of the St. Louis office, who has been under charges of misconduct in office, was accepted without prejudice by the Prohibition and Narcotic Bureau today. The resignation, submitted through Congressman John J. Cochran of St. Louis, was effective immediately.

Cochran, who has been active in Thompson's behalf since the beginning of the investigation of his official acts, said that the acceptance of the resignation officially gave Thompson a clean slate. He said that had any of the charges made against Thompson been proved, the bureau would have demanded the resignation and proceeded in court against Thompson.

Narcotic Bureau officials here refused to discuss the case. It was intimated, however, that the investigation of Thompson and the subsequent investigation of his investigators involved so many narcotic agents working in Missouri that Thompson's usefulness to the bureau had been seriously impaired.

Thompson was removed from authority early last summer and transferred to Oklahoma while the investigation was in progress. In September he returned to St. Louis and devoted his time to preparing a defense. In November, Congressman Cochran announced that he had inspected the evidence against Thompson and was convinced from its "silly and ridiculous" nature that the agent had been "framed." He demanded a new and sweeping investigation which, it was announced at Washington, would be made.

EARLY DAYS OF CATHOLIC CHURCH IN ST. LOUIS

clergy of New Orleans and St. Louis would not have countenanced such conduct by admitting Mme. Chouteau to the sacraments.

The elderly Bishop Du Bourg, the history shows, had great plans for his Upper Louisiana diocese, and he picked the Rev. Angelo Inglesi, a native of Rome, as the "young Timothy" who should be the founder of a great work. His plans to establish Inglesi as his coadjutor were shattered when the young priest was expelled from Rome for improper conduct.

Bitter Feeling Over Languages.

Chapters on the far-flung provinces of the St. Louis diocese are alternated with those containing local records. Father Joseph Anthony Lutz, first German priest here, found 'much bitter feeling in the parish of St. Louis on account of the two languages, English and French; and now the Germans also demanded sermon, prayer and instruction in their own language. Good Bishop Rosati was mortally afraid of them and their priests. Still, something had to be done for the Germans. Because a third language could not be introduced in the Cathedral, the Bishop gave orders that the German should be preached in St. Mary's Chapel, south of the Cathedral, which had been used for the Negroes." Father Lutz's first sermon there was on Jan. 24, 1834. Soon the Germans had Our Lady of Victories (now St Mary's), St. Joseph's and other churches

The Jesuit fathers from St. Louis College, later University, were the English preachers at the Cathedral, under Bishop Rosati. Because the Jesuits were better preachers than the English-speaking secular clergy, some of the latter besought the Bishop not to countenance the opening of their own churches by the Jesuits. "You will preach to empty seats in your Cathedral," wrote one priest. The Bishop however, aided in the founding of the College Church of St. Francis Xavier.

City Divided Into Four Parishes.

As late as 1840, the preaching at the Cathedral was partly in French. "French sermons," Father Verhaegen wrote to Bishop Rosati, then in Europe, "are poorly attended, and religion suffers in counsequence. A good French preacher would fill a great void."

Division of the city into four parishes was first ordained by Bishop Kenrick in 1845. The parishes were those of St. Louis (Old Cathedral), St. Francis Xavier, St. Patrick and St. Vincent de Paul. The German churches were denoted as "succursal churches or chapels of ease" for the German Catholics, and this continued until Archbishop Kain, in 1896, declared the German, Polish and Bohemian parishes to be "altogether equal to those of the English language and entirely independent of them."

Oscar Wilde Letters to Be Sold.

LONDON, Jan. 19. — Startling, frank revelations of the life and personalities of the end of the nineteenth century are contained in a series of unpublished letters by Oscar Wilde written to his most intimate friends during and after his imprisonment, which will be put up for sale at the end of January. As many of the people referred to are still living, the approaching sale is viewed here with intense interest, mingled with apprehension.

New Goitre Remedy

my goitre 's gone . . . see?

"Operation? No! I treated it myself, at home. The swelling receded at once; in a short time there wasn't a sign of the ugly old thing! That awful nervousness and the stifled feeling are gone, too. I'm getting strong again, and doctor says there isn't a trace of goitre now. Oh, but I'm happy and full of pep—look like a new person, don't I?"

What joy and happiness this scientifically successful new medical treatment is bringing to goitre sufferers! Everywhere, hope is expressed that here at last is the one treatment for every type and degree of this dread disease. It's so simple and safe that anyone can successfully use it at home. Its results are immediate and lasting, as countless such radiant testimonies prove.

A valuable and authoritative book recently published tells all about it—the causes and prevention of goitre, the symptoms and treatment of its various forms, the experiences of men and women joyously freed and restored to abundant health once more. This book will gladly be sent, free, without obligation of any kind, to anyone interested in this increasingly vital subject. It may come in time to save you from the consequences of this horrible affliction. Its advice followed will relieve suffering from all kinds of goitre; will entirely remove most of them.

You who have goitre, or loved ones threatened with this all too common affliction, send your name and address to the W. T. B. Laboratory, 219, Sanborn Building, Battle Creek, Michigan, and receive your copy of this invaluable book immediately. Send today.

INQUEST CONTINUED IN FAULTY DIAGNOSIS

City Hospital Physician Who Overlooked Skull Fracture to Be Heard Tomorrow.

The inquest into the death of Lawrence Leahy, who was kept 12 hours in a cell at Carr Street Police Station, suffering from a skull fracture, through an error in diagnosis in the receiving room at City Hospital, was begun yesterday, but continued until tomorrow at the request of Coroner Dever for further police investigations. Leahy, who was 65 years old, a molder, lived at 4428A Floriss place.

When Leahy was first brought to the hospital receiving room, Dr. Eber Simpson, of the clinic staff, pronounced him suffering from lacerations of the scalp and alcoholism. Leahy had been found unconscious in front of the Morgan Street Garage, 718 Morgan street, at 11 a. m. on Jan. 7.

After Leahy's examination at the receiving room, he was taken to Carr Street Station, booked as drunk on the street, and put in a cell to be released when sober. Twelve hours later, while still in the cell, he lapsed into unconsciousness. He was taken back to City Hospital, where the fracture was discovered. His death followed Friday.

At yesterday's hearing, Richard Sommers, 3704 Juniata street, and Fred Vazis, 4370 West Papin street, employes of the garage, testified they found Leahy on the sidewalk and carried him inside out of the cold. Sommers said the man was bleeding profusely from what looked like "a crack in the head." All Leahy could remember was that he had fallen down. At adjournment of the inquest Coroner Dever asked the police to summon Dr. Simpson for tomorrow's hearing.

Dr. Simpson was under investigation by his superiors in 1922, when, as an interne of two years experience, he examined at City Hospital receiving room, four physicians hurt in an automobile accident, pronounced one suffering from skull fracture, and the other three not serious. Two of these latter three, it developed, also had suffered skull fractures, and one of them, Dr. Herman C. Ross, died from his injuries.

Eczema Caused Discomfort and Loss of Sleep. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema first appeared on my hands and itched and burned very much. It was in small blotches which gradually grew larger. Next it broke out on my face and neck and caused much discomfort and loss of sleep at night. At first it was of a dry nature, but later became wet.

"My mother advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Laura R. Nafe, Pierson, Iowa.

$75,000 FOR SPONGE SEWED UP IN PATIENT

Mrs. Nellie M. Cowman Gets Jury Verdict Against Two Surgeons.

Mrs. Nellie M. Cowman, restaurateur's wife of 521 North Vandeventer avenue, who caried an overlooked surgical sponge the size of an egg in her abdomen for 17 months after being operated on, received judgement of $75,000 damages from a jury in Circuit Judge Falkenhainer's Court yesterday.

The defendants were Dr. P. H. Harmann, 530 North Union boulevard, and Dr. J. H. Crenshaw, 5953 Enright avenue, former head of the now extinct Liberty Hospital. Mrs. Cowman underwent an operation on April 24, 1924, at Liberty Hospital. Following the operation, she suffered pains for 17 months, after which, the edge of a piece of gauze appeared on the scar of the wound. Dr. Harmann, wha had performed the original operation, made an incision and removed a sponge which inadvertently had been sewn into the woman's body following the operation.

Dr. Harmann contended that he was not responsible for the error. The negligence, he said, was that of hospital attendants, whose duty it was to cleanse the wound following the operation, and to unpack it before the surgeon took the final stitches. The surgeon, who told the court of the belated removal of the sponge, said that Dr. Crenshaw, as director of the hospital, had assisted at the operation.

Dr. Crenshaw declared that trouble with his automobile made him late for the operation and that he did not arrive until three hours afterward. Other testimony was introduced to show Dr. Crenshaw was present in the operating room.

ENGLAND-TO-INDIA AIR ROUTE SURVEY PARTY STARTS WORK

Line Expected to Carry Travelers From London to Karachi Within Seven Days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A survey party of the Imperial Airways, Ltd., is working on the exact location of bases for the England-to-India air line in the Mediterranean region, H. R. Buckley, Trade Commissioner at Paris, has reported to the Department of Commerce.

Passengers to India from England, who will fly over an air line 5000 miles long, will travel by land plane from London to Basel, where they will take a night train arriving at Genoa in time for breakfast.

At Genoa they wil lembark on one of the Calcutta flying boats and travel along the coast, calling at Rome and Naples, and either at Brindisi, Taranto or Gallipoli before flying along the Greek islands and Suda Bay, Crete.

The route will then proceed to Tubruk in Italian Libya, and follow the coast to Alexandria, where the Egyptian Government has agreed to construct a combined marine and land airport. Here the route will link up with the present service. Based on a liberal estimate, the new airline will carry passengers from London to Karachi within seven days.

GETS 25 YEARS FOR MURDER

Negro Convicted of Killing Another in Row Over Dice Game.

James Johnson, a Negro, 817 North Leffingwell avenue, was found guilty of second degree murder and sentenced to 25 years in the penitentiary by a jury in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court yesterday.

Johnson was convicted of killing David Staunton, a Negro, 3652 Morgan street, in a general shooting affray which terminated a dice game at Staunton's home a year ago. Johnson's wife, who is reported to have fired some shots in the fight, was killed by a bullet from her husband's revolver when Staunton held her in front of him as a shield. Lelia Williams, another Negro, was wounded by stray bullet. Johnson was indicted for first degree murder, but was found guilty in a lesser degree.

NEW PLAN FOR HOSPITAL WORK

Board of Religious Organizations Assigns Units for Each Month.

Each unit of the Board of Religious Organizations has been assigned to a hospital or institution, to plan the social activities for a month, it was announced today. Through the method of assigning institutions, it was explained, the charitable work of the various churches belonging to the Board is co-ordinated and duplication is avoided.

Beginning next Friday, and continuing on the fourth Friday of each month, the neighborhood service and recreation department will conduct a class in church recreational leadership, in the board rooms, 417 Victoria building, at 11 a. m.

Gets Three Years for Assault.

George C. Hormann, 34-year-old laborer, 153 Le May Ferry road, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Mulloy in Clayton yesterday on his plea of guilty of abuse of his 12-year-old stepson. Charges that Hormann had atempted to attack his three stepdaughters were nolle prossed. The stepson, a delinquent, is at Bellefontaine Farms.

NEEDLE IN BODY 60 YEARS

Removed From Man's Shoulder; Swallowed When He Was Child.

By the Associated Press.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 19.—A needle which was thought to have traveled through a man's bdoy for 60 years was removed by physicians yesterday. The patient is Porter L. Smith, 63 years old, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad track foreman of Roanoke, Va.

The needle, which his mother had told him he swallowed when he was three years old, was removed from his right shoulder.

Quart of Water Cleans Kidneys
Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You
No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.
The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.
This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

666 VS. INFLUENZA
To combat the flu, take 666 every three hours till it acts well on the bowels, then three times a day. As a preventive, take it two or three times a day. 666 was found to be one of the most effective remedies during the last flu epidemic.

29th Annual Chicago Auto Show to Open Next Saturday

As Last Year, Will Be Staged at Coliseum—Salon of Foreign Cars to Be at Drake Hotel—Special Days for Visitors Announced.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The greatest event of the year in the largest industry in the world—the twenty-ninth annual Chicago National Automobile Show—will get under way next Saturday, Jan. 26, in the Coliseum and adjoining buildings, wherein under one roof are to be gathered the newest developments in motor cars, in accessories and in shop equipment.

A veritable army of workmen have already taken possession of the Coliseum under the personal direction of Samuel Asch, renowned artist and exposition builder, who is responsible for the unique decorative effects that will feature the show. They have started their efforts a bit earlier than usual this year, for the setting surrounding the various exhibits will possess greater beauty, luxury and grandeur than ever before.

Coming as an innovation this year, "special days" are announced by S. A. Miles, veteran general manager of the show. Saturday will be opening day. The exhibits will be closed Sunday, after which in order will follow: Engineers day, Monday; Outdoor Sports and Golfers day, Tuesday; Army and Navy day, Wednesday; Aviation day, Thursday; Theatrical day, Friday; Municipal and Closing day, Saturday.

Primarily, "the car's the thing" at the forthcoming show, and more so this year than ever before. Interest in the latest features of design and the standards of quality, style and performance has reached new heights. It is universally recognized that the motor cars of 1929 offer far more in worth and at lower prices than any of their predecessors. Innovations which represent notable refinements and improvements have made their appearance, a fact which in itself is a tribute to the ingenuity and progressiveness of automotive engineers as well as the economies and efficient methods extant in motor car manufacturing plants.

The setting for this $5,000,000 display of shining new car models will be thoroughly in keeping with the spirit of aristocratic elegance. The motif back of the decorative scheme will reflect the greatness of the automotive industry, its prosperity and its artistic achievements. Entering the Coliseum, the show visitor may well imagine himself in a great, palatial ballroom, with a mighty, domed ceiling after the Italian Renaisance style, an artificial skylight in the center to simulate daylight and an arrangement of lights that will make the building twice as brightly and powerfully illuminated as at any previous show.

Greeting the eye will be festive arches towering almost to the top of the Coliseum, thus setting off the mezzanine floor in artistic manner. Silk banners and tapestries will be further decorations along the balcony, the railings of which will be decorated by nine huge pennants on staffs, each carrying a symbol of the industry in appliqued art effects. Supporting the mezzanine and along the side walls from floor to roof will be a series of Corinthian columns. A further touch of originality will be the transformation of the car exhibits into replicas of finely appointed automobile showrooms, with the individual cars standing for the first time on real carpeting.

The Salon of foreign cars will this year as last be staged at the Drake Hotel. This display of luxurious cars will be the last in the Middle West, since it is a part of the National Auto Show which, began at New York, passes on to Chicago, thence to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mail Planes Get Ice Warning Aids

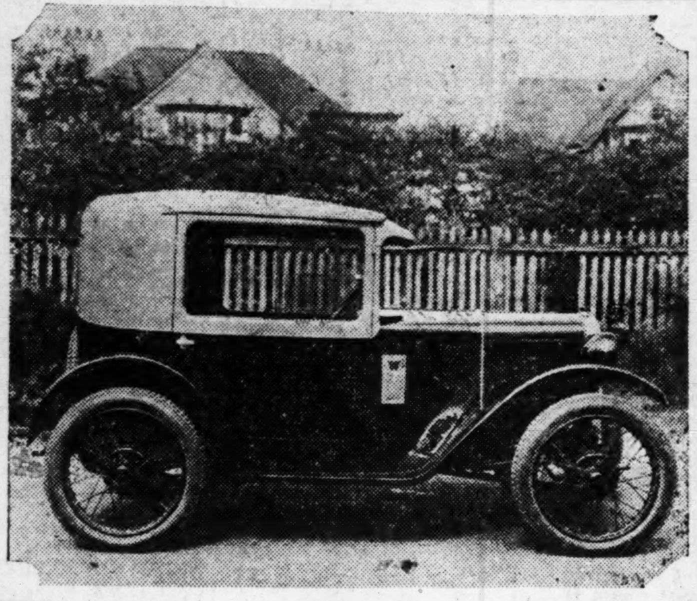
By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 19.—Eleven air mail planes operated by the Varney Air Lines with its Eastern terminus here soon will be equipped with new ice-warning instruments to aid pilots in flying through cold, wet skies.

Ice is a great hazard to airplanes, often forcing them down when heavy coatings form on the wing and cut down the aerodynamic efficiency. The pilot's only hope is to know the temperature and atmospheric conditions along the wing surfaces of his plane so that he may avoid areas that are likely to increase the ice hazard.

The new instrument was developed by the Moto Meter company of New York and exhibited at the Chicago air show for the first time. With it the pilot can, when warned, seek a new air level.

LOWEST PRICED FOREIGN CAR



THIS is the Austin coupe, manufactured by the Austin Motor Car Co. of England, and introduced at the New York Auto Show by Sir Herbert Austin, president of the company. It seats two passengers, has a metal body and fabric top, and is built on a 75-inch wheelbase chassis. It is priced at approximately $700. Plans are being made to market it in the United States.

Battle of Autos Expected With Turn of New Year

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—War clouds are gathering over the automotive industry as the new year dawns, with indications of what is expected to be the greatest industrial battle of history.

Tire and accessory manufacturers probably will be drawn into the conflict of motor car manufacturers in the "under $1000" price field, and it takes no unusually astute observer to appreciate the fact that the outcome of the battle will find many companies involved either in "red ink" or absorbed by the stronger firms.

Competition in car and truck sales will be far more intense in 1929 than in prosperous 1928, from present indications. Not only in the home market is the war expected to rage, but also in the foreign field, where American manufacturers have drawn their skirmish lines of factories and sales branches.

Ford and General Motors are likely to be the chief contenders, Ford production having during the last half of 1928 increased to a point where the company will be in position to make more prompt deliveries and to a degree overcome the lead of General Motors and other companies who profited by the Ford shut-down during development of the new model.

Willys-Overland, Studebaker, Durant, Chrysler and other manufacturers of light cars undoubtedly will be forced to fight a battle, victory in which rests almost entirely upon ability to match prices, make deliveries and overcome intense competition.

Tire makers also will participate especially in the primary market where low prices and quick deliveries will mean much to vehicle manufacturers desirous of equipping their product efficiently and cheaply. Business acumen far above the ordinary will be needed to weather the storm in this division and to serve the growing home market simultaneously with maintenance of prestige in the foreign field.

Goodyear is regarded as a major factor in this welfare, with Firestone, Goodyear, Seiberling, U. S. Rubber, Goodirch, Lee and others sharing the brunt of battle.

Lines of battle are less clearly marked in the accessory field, but undoubtedly parts and accessory manufacturers will occupy a position, especially as regards the primary market, not unlike that of the tire manufacturers.

Wholesale mergers would occasion little surprise, although the war clouds in this area are shot with the silver lining of a growing demand for aircraft accessories, thus broadening the market.

Repercussions of the battle undoubtedly will be felt in the stock markets, with future price trends of securities of the warring companies presenting puzzles worthy of any economist. Maintenance of sales supremacy at prices which insure attractive returns to stockholders will be a problem, solution of which Wall Street will watch with interest.

U. S. Road Mileage.

There are 560,000 miles of surfaced roads in the United States today, while the total of all mileage is 3,000,000. Approximately 40,000 miles of surfaced roads are added each year.

Total Cars in U. S. in 1928 Increased by Only 7 Percent

24,750,000 Units Registered in Country Jan. 1, 1929—Gain for Last Year Set at 1,622,685—Smallest Percentage Ever Recorded.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 19.—There were, in round numbers, 24,750,000 passenger cars and trucks in operation in the United States on Jan. 1, 1929. A comparison of this amount with the 23,127,315 units shown on Jan. 1, 1928, indicates a gain in registrations during the year of 1,622,685 units, or 7 per cent. With the exception of the 5.1 per cent increase shown during 1927, this was the smallest percentage increase noted since the first year or two in tne industry's history, and the numerical gain was the smallest since the low production year of 1921.

Assuming that the increase in total registrations from year to year represents owners making their original purchase, or, in other words, those that did not have cars to turn in as part payment on new cars, certain rather interesting conclusions can be reached as to the present condition of the domestic automobile market.

Of the estimated 1928 United States production of 4,399,000 passenger cars and trucks, approximately 568,000 cars and trucks were exported, leaving a balance of 3,831,000 units for the domestic market. Eliminating original buyer sales from the total domestic market, we find that replacement sales during 1928 were the largest on record, amounting to 2,208,315 units. This was practically 400,000 units above replacements shown for the previous year, and about 350,000 units over the record established at the end of 1926.

Time alone will tell how important a part replacement sales will play in 1929 automobile sales, and to just what extent they will influence the total for the year. However, this point should be borne in mind when considering the 1929 sales situation. This year will be the first year to mark the lapse of seven years since the United States annual production exceeded the 3,000,000 mark.

NEW SPEED CAR OF BRITISH DESIGN

THE "Golden Arrow," pictured above, is the automobile which Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, English racer, will make his next American attempt to lower existing automobile speed record of 207.552 miles per hour. Streamlining of the car simulates that of the world's fastest seaplane, the Supermarine S-5, of the British navy.

SEGRAVE MODELS RACER AFTER CRACK PLANE

By the Associated Press.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 19. Streamlines copied from the world's fastest seaplane will make Maj. H. O. D. Segrave's new racing creation look similar to a gilded monster.

Named the "Golden Arrow," the new car will be brought to America early in February for speed trials in which Maj. Segrave believes he will be able to drive nearly four miles a minute—possibly as fast as 235 miles an hour.

Streamlining, power, lightness, strength and controllability are the qualities upon which the new racing car will depend for its speed, but the streamlining is certain to attract first attention among motor enthusiasts.

The "Golden Arrow" will be different in appearance from any racing car yet created. Three bulges in the front end will provide space for the three cylinder blocks, which project fan-like from the crankcase. The body has ecn resigned to fit the engine like a glove, accounting for the major part of the car's appearance. From the front it will look like a great gilded toad, for it will be gilded from stem to stern.

Special measurements of Major Segrave were taken before the car was designed, so that the new machine might fit its chosen driver perfectly. There is no waste room in the car, and every part has been streamlined to perfection.

Capt. J. S. Irving, who designed the "Sunbeam" in which Major Segrave achieved the distinction of being the first man to drive faster than 200 miles an hour, is the designer of the new car. He has modeled the streamline effects after those of the Supermarine S-5 seaplane in which Lieut. Webster of Great Britain won the Schneider cup trophy last year and recently reached a new world mark of 319 miles an hour.

The streamlining of this plane has been considered by many experts to be the finest example yet achieved. Since the fuselage of the Supermarine S-5 was designed to contain the 12 cylinder Napier engine which Capt. Irving is using in the new Segrave ar, the streamlining is especially adaptable to this project.

Cutting down wind resistance is of great importance in the designing of fast racing cars, just as it is of primary importance to the flight of airplanes and seaplanes. At speeds over 200 miles an hour the air is no longer a thin substance easily penetrated by moving objects. It takes on the form of a

500-Mile Race Is Renamed Grand Prize Of America

Annual Indianapolis Memorial Day Contest Has Been Premier Speedway Contest in U. S. Since 1911—William Pickens Reinstated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The annual 500-mile Memorial day race on the Indianapolis Speedway, which since 1911 has been the most colorful event in the world of automobile racing, will henceforth be titled the Grand Prize of America, it was announced today by the contest board of the American Automobile Association, the official governing body of racing, which voted at its annual meeting in New York last week to award this high honor to the Indianapolis classic, which has always been run under A. A. A. sanction.

The contest board said that the Memorial day event in May will mark the seventeenth renewal of this premier race. It was first inaugurated in 1911, but in 1916, due to the World War, it was shortened to 300 miles and was not held in 1917 and 1918.

"Throughout the period of its running," says an official of the board, "the Indianapolis race has consistently been regarded as the greatest held on track and speedway. At the same time, its cash prizes have been steadily greater than those offered on any other speedway and the event has always been the focal point of interest on the part of automotive and allied accessory industries."

PIERCE-ARROW OFFERS NEW STRAIGHT "8"

Orders From Distributers in January Total $3,000,000.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Pierce-Arrow's new straight eights, seen for the first time at the national auto show at New York City, have met with a response equalled but few times in automobile history, officials of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. say.

Orders for January delivery aggregating $3,000,000 have been placed by Pierce-Arrow's distributers and dealers, who, after viewing the cars and the public's enthusiastic interest, were unanimous in declaring that the company's estimate of doubled production in 1929 was too conservative. Some of the company's principal distributers predicted that 1929 sales would be triple any previous year's volume.

The new cars which have put Pierce-Arrow in such a strong competitive position, have luxurious coachwork of traditional Pierce Arrow excellence, and are powered with a new straight-eight engine which develops 125 horsepower and attains a speed of 85 miles per hour. Factory prices range from $2775 to $8200.

Each of the two groups of cars is longer in wheelbase than Pierce-Arrows of recent years. One group, comprising eight body types, is mounted on a 133-inch chassis; the custom group, of five styles, has a wheelbase of 143 inches. The new cars are lower than preceding models, but have been so ingeniously engineered that there is more headroom than ever before.

The power plant of the new cars has a nine-bearing, balanced crankshaft. The cylinders have a 3½-inch bore and a 4¾-inch stroke, a total displacement of 366 cubic inches. Double carburetion, duplex ignition and dual manifolding are responsible for the unusual power output of an engine of this size.

A new type of coachwork, the product of skilled Pierce-Arrow craftsmen, is in keeping with the highly efficient power plant. A new note of trim slenderness offers modern contrast to the "dowager" type of design which once prevailed among cars of large size. Although interior dimensions are as liberal as ever, exterior lines have been handled so adroitly as to eliminate any impression of bulk.

The new cars are lower, being only 72 inches in height, yet headroom has been increased so that the headroom above the rear seat measures 37 inches. The shoulder width is greater than that of any other American car. Doors are extremely wide. Cushions are unusually luxurious, the rear ones having great depth because of the manner in which the car frame rises and then drops over the rear axle. Marshall springs enhance the comfort of the cushions.

Lengthened springs, frictionless ball-bearing springs shackles, Houdaille shock absorbers, and six-ply balloon tires contribute to the characteristic Pullman-like riding qualities of Pierce-Arrow motor cars. The rear tread has been widened to approximately 59½ inches.

The eight cars of the 133-inch wheelbase group are: Sport phaeton, roadster with rumble seat, club brougham with trunk, five-passenger and seven-passenger sedans, club sedan with trunk, coupe with rumble seat, and the enclosed drive limousine. In the 143-inch custom group, five body styles are offered: The touring car, convertible coupe with rumble seat, the sedan, the all-weather town car, and the enclosed drive limousine.

The Western Auto Co., local distributor, will introduce the cars here soon.

Dodge Officials Forecast Best Year

DETROIT, Jan. 19.—With the total 1928 production of Dodge Brothers cars 12.8 per cent above the 1927 mark, according to figures announced today, Dodge Brothers Corp. is entering 1929 with prospects of the largest year in its history. Monthly shipments of cars and trucks have exceeded the corresponding months of 1927 in nearly every case, and, under Walter P. Chrysler, the company expects to establish new production records.

Cotton Gloves a Help.

Modern car owners may have discarded goggles, linen dusters, caps and the like, but the more thoughtful of them still keep a pair of cotton gloves around. They make the job cleaner and, as such, it is less likely to be dodged.

solid wall like water resisting the passage of the car with hundreds of pounds of pressure per square foot.

To counteract that force, Capt. Irving has designed the "Golden Arrow" so that the silhouette area in a dead front is only 12 square feet. Most small light automobiles have frontal areas more than twice this size.

Maj. Seagrave will sail for America Jan. 30 to carry Great Britain's challenge for the world's speed record now held by Ray Keech of Philadelphia. Keech made 207.552 miles an hour at Daytona Beach last winter, the present record.

William S. Sturm, American manager for Maj. Segrave, is already in this country arranging for the speed trials at Daytona Beach.

Gardner Interests Many at Car Show

"Gardner officials are highly pleased with the enthusiastic reception accorded the Gardner exhibit at the National Automobile Show in Grand Central Palace, New York City, last week," Russell E. Gardner Jr., president of the Gardner Motor Co., Inc., said on his return here yesterday. "We had anticipated a warm reception on the part of the motoring public and the dealers in attendance at the Show but the reception accorded the new line certainly exceeded our expectations, and we are proud to say that this Eight-in-line automobile manufactured in St. Louis went over so big at the New York show. Furthermore, we feel that this reception is a credit to St. Louis as a great industrial center.

"Many automobile distributers attended the Gardner banquet held Wednesday, Jan. 9, in the Belmont Hotel, New York City, and the enthusiasm shown by these men offers us a great incentive to build even better motor cars in the future and to carry the name of St. Louis around the world."

Reo Truck Runs 11 Miles on Two Wheels

Acrobatics are not usually associated with motor truck performance, but officials of the Reo Distributing company, 2921 Locust boulevard, say that a Reo speed wagon was recently driven 11 miles with the front wheels off the ground, a feat which is probably without precedent in the history of commercial vehicle transportation.

While carrying a four-ton load of oil-field equipment near Helotes, Tex., the cargo shifted to the rear, but the driver of the speed-wagon kept right on going up hill, because it was not necessary to guide the truck. The front wheels left the ground about 11 miles from the destination, and at one place four men had to sit on the bumper to allow the driver to turn a corner.

While Reo officials do not recommend this type of performance for any truck, they nevertheless believe that this unusual feat proves that the speed-wagon is capable of meeting any sort of an emergency.

ciation also announced that it will award a suitable permanent challenge trophy to the winners of future races on Memorial day. The winner will be presented with a replica and given possession of the trophy for a period of 11 months. The A. A. A. said this recognition is well deserved and will give added prestige to the greatest race developed up to this time in automobile racing history.

The contest board of the A. A. A., at its annual meeting, also removed the disqualification which has stood against William Hickman Pickens since 1924. Pickens has been connected with automobile racing since its earliest days and recently petitioned the governing body to let bygones be bygones.

He was last disqualified because of an executive connection with unsanctioned races held at Ascot Speedway, Los Angeles, which culminated in a road race in which no prize moneys were ever forthcoming and in alleged other irregularities. This was not his first disqualification, however. In 1911, Pickens promoted and handled a match race between Barney Oldfield and Jack Johnson against the express prohibition of the A. A. A. Restored to standing in 1916, he later on again broke regulations and, when denied further sanctions ineffectually sued the American Automobile Association.

Pickens is regarded as one of the greatest outdoor amusement promoters. He first received fame as manager for the famous Barney Oldfield. In recent years he has been with C. C. Pyle, first in handling "Red" Grange, later on the Susanne Lenglen tour, and last Pyle's cross-country marathon.

Pickens is now contemplating a dirt racing circuit, including Los Angeles, Bakersfield, San Jose, Stockton and Sacramento, all in California.

New Railway Tunnel Under Cascade Range

Eight-Mile Bore Longer Than Famous Moffatt Tube.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 19. — Former opening of train operation last Saturday, Jan. 12, through an 8-mile bore penetrating the Cascade Range east of here inaugurated a new chapter in railroad history.

The tunnel, built for the Great Northern Railway Co. at a cost of $14,000,000, is the longest railroad tunnel in the United States, exceeding by two miles in length the recently opened Moffatt tunnel in Colorado. It is the fifth longest in the world.

On the same date the Great Northern's 75 miles of mountain track was changed from steam to electric operation, a $25,000,000 project, with the largest and most powerful electric locomotives ever built hauling trains up the mountain grades and through the new tunnel.

The cab of each locomotive contains a traveling sub-station, capable of taking up 11 000 volts alternating current from an overhead wire and converting it to low voltage direct current operating the driving motors. On the downgrade more than a quarter of the power required to move the train upgrade is regenerated. Regeneration units also serve to control speed without the use of brakes.

Driver's Ability Big Factor In Car's Performance

Motorist's Failure to Familiarize Himself With His Machine Often Gives Him Wrong Impression.

Consideration of the human equation in automobile driving is essential, if the owner is to derive from his car the efficiency and performance built into it by engineers and manufacturers. In other words, how a motor car is operated has a great deal to do with the results.

It is all a question of whether the driver is familiar with the principle involved in the various units of his car.

Automobile progress in design as engineers discover that certain principles are more generally satisfactory, but there would be far less trouble, even with principles which are not considered satisfactory, if all owners would make an effort to understand thoroughly the various principles employed in the construction of their cars and cater to them.

When something goes wrong with a car the motorist often decides that the principle is wrong. He condemns it. A rumor develops to the effect that such-and-such a car has a poor clutch, transmission, engine or carburetor. And a lot of unnecessary trouble is created.

Some years ago one make of car used a certain type of transmission attached to the rear axle Some owners had nothing but trouble with it, while others found it satisfactory in every respect. The trouble was simply that in its location at the rear it required certain attention. Those who catered to it had no trouble.

Many units in cars nowadays seem to give less trouble, but that is simply because the attention required is so simplified that the car owner couldn't miss it. This process has its bad features, too; for the more nearly troubleproof the units of a car become the more the motorist is inclined to be neglectful. There was once a time when the motorist had to think of gas, oil, water, air, tubes, patches, wrenches, gaskets, bearings, plugs, wires, cranks, and so on, whenever he started out for a short ride. Folks thought that if things were simplified to a point where but three or four matters had to be looked after all would be well.

But such was not the case. Today the motorist has little more than gas, oil and water to consider for the short spin, yet the number of people who forget gas is nothing short of remarkable. In the old days it used to be a question of running short of fuel through no fault of the driver's. Today motorists just forget it altogether.

Whenever one hears a motorist condemning a certain make of car because it does things he doesn't approve of, it is more than likely that he is not really acquainted with the car. Some owners do not know that different engines require different levels for their oil, some working more efficiently on more than the average number of quarts, others less.

Many people drive their cars, summer and winter, without ever making carburetor adjustments for the change in temperature They invariably complain of low gas mileage. If one is not careful one may make the mistake of being misled in a choice of cars.

There is quite a difference in the methods of starting cars. The set rules by no means apply to all. Some drivers, therefore, continue to have trouble starting and hand along the rumor that a given car has a certain unsatisfactory feature.

In the final analysis, the "weak point" about most cars is the driver.

LAY PLANS FOR RAIL CROSSING ELIMINATION

Road Builders and U. S. Bureau Chief for Definite Program.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 19.—Taking into consideration the insurmountable difficulties in preventing grade crossing accidents, which yearly take a heavy toll of motorists' lives, E. W. James of the United States Bureau of Roads outlined a plan for grade crossing elimination at the constructors' session of the annual convention of the American Road Builders' Association held here Wednesday of the past week.

James said it is impossible to eliminate all grades, or to make trains or motorists stop at crossings. He advocated a definite classification of all crossings based upon their value to the traveling public, as the foundation for the elimination of unnecessary ones. The classification, according to James, should be based upon a complete census at each crossing of the automobiles and trains which pass.

Other recommendations by James included: A definite annual program by each state and railroads for the elimination of certain grade crossings of the highest classification; restriction of the authority to create new crossings; a definite progressive program for each state for installing safety warning devices rigidly standardized; the readjustment between the public and railroads of the share of cost of elimination and of the installation of safety devices.

With reference to restriction of erection of new crossings James declared that the record of grade crossings in existence shows that the number is actually increasing in spite of a constant and growing program of elimination.

Need for Standard Road Markers Cited

"Why aren't the standard route markers of the United States Highway System more generally erected in cities through which the routes pass?" a cross-continent motorist recently asked the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. "I started from the western coast last summer over one of the U. S. routes and had no trouble in following the road across the country," he explained, "except when it crossed the larger cities. There were no markers to indicate when I was on the route or when I was off it. It is through the cities that we motorists are most likely to get off the route, especiall. at five-point intersections," he asserted.

Officials of the bureau explained that the route markers in the various States were erected by the State highway departments only upon the highways under their jurisdiction; that city streets, which are connecting links, are under the jurisdiction of municipal authorities, and that the erection of the markers within city limits is up to the city officials.

A few cities have recognized this need of the motorist, the Bureau says, and have erected the standard markers on their streets

Since the standard route markers and danger and caution signs were adopted in 1925 for use on the United States Highway System, 28 states have completed the marking of the system within their borders and under their jurisdictions, eight States have marked from 75 to 99 per cent of their roads, and four States have marked from 5 to 75 per cent.

Willys-Overland Boosts Production

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 20.—Production of Willys-Overland Co.'s Whippets and Willys-Knights will be stepped up to 1500 cars daily from the present figure of 1200, according to President John N. Willys. The company now has a payroll of approximately 25,000 and this force, Willys stated, will be enlarged by 10,000 within the next 30 days.

January orders booked for the new Superior Whippet fours and sixes and the new style Willys-Knight models are breaking all previous January records. Willys said that at the present rate January shipments are expected to pass the 30,000 mark.

During 1928 Willys-Overland products led the industry in new car registrations with an increase of 86 per cent.

Buick Owners Loyal

That Buick owners are loyal to Buick principles and Buick design is convincingly shown, according to C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Co., in figures just compiled which reveal that between 45 and 50 per cent of all Buicks sold are purchased by former Buick owners.

"This loyalty, displayed year after year by so many thousand of former Buick owners throughout the nation, naturally is very gratifying to Buick officials," Churchill declared. "It proves to us that our efforts, not only to maintain but even surpass our successes of the past, are appreciated by those who keep faith with Buick.

"The enormous repeat business of the last year, which steadily has been climbing for the last decade, assures us, too, that next year will see even more than 100,000 new Buicks in operation by men and women who have owned and driven Buicks before—a greater number than that enjoyed by any other fine car manufacturer."

◆ At St. Louis Air Fields ◆

THAT the airplane is opening a new trade opportuninty in the Far East is indicated by the announcement that Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Mfg. Co., Lambert Field, and experts from the Curtiss Airplane & Motor Co., Long Island, will sail next Saturday for China to survey the commercial aviation possibilities in that country.

China is notorious for its inefficient transportation and it is the opinion of Maj. Robertson and Curtiss Co. officials that the problem can be solved with planes. Maj. Robertson and his fellow experts will conduct a survey to determine the extent of the transportation needs and how far they can be met through the establishment of commercial aviation lines, with resultant sales of American manufactured aircraft in China.

Maj. Robertson departed for New York Thursday, where he will join other members of the survey group. They plan to fly to Seattle, Wash., the port of debarkation this week. Maj. Robertson will be met at Seattle by Mrs. Robertson and her sister, Miss Loraine Livingston, 40 Kingsbury place, who will make the trip with him. They plan to be gone three months.

Delivers Planes in China.

The Curtiss people are not alone in advancing commercial aviation in China. Earl Baskey, representative of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation, of St. Louis, arrived in Shanghai last week with five Ryan broughams, which are to be used in passenger service between Hankow and Canton. Baskey, one of the early mail pilots working out of St. Louis, will supervise the assembly and testing of the planes before they are put in service. He expects to return to St. Louis next June.

Lindbergh's Visit.

Col. Lindbergh spent less than 24 hours in St. Louis during his visit last week but found time to admire "Bud" Gurney's son, Leslie, born since Lindbergh's previous visit to St. Louis.

"He's a fine kid," Lindbergh said. "Bud" and "Slim" came to St. Louis together during the 1923 air races, the details of their friendship being set forth by Lindbergh in his book, "We."

While here Lindbergh tested the new low-wing monoplane, which is being developed by the Mahoney-Ryan Corporation, spending about 45 minutes in the air stunting the the little ship. He also tested the new 6-place Ryan brougham, an improvement of the "Spirit of St. Louis" type, carrying as passengers Phil Ball, president of the Mahoney-Ryan Co., Field Manager O. E. Scott and other old friends.

Lindbergh departed before noon Wednesday in a Curtiss-Robin lent him by Maj. Robertson, and all the way to Indianapolis bucked the sort of weather he formerly encountered when flying the St. Louis-Chicago mail route.

A break in the oil system held the tri-motored plane, in which Lindbergh and a party of friends set out from New York for a flight to California, at St. Elmo, it was learned. The break is being repaired and the ship, the "City of Columbus," flagship of the proposed Trans-continental Air Transport fleet, will be flown here by John Collins, reserve pilot. The plane was forced down by sleet Monday with Lindbergh at the controls.

Gurney Goes to Mexico.

"Bud" Gurney, chief pilot of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, departed for Mexico City, Mexico, in a Cessna yesterday on business of the Robertson corporation. He expects to return in a week.

Following his return from Mexico "Bud" Gurney, accompanied by Frank H. Robertson, head of the Robertson Corporation, plan to survey a proposed southern air mail route to California. This route probably would make connections to the north and east at Memphis, Tenn.

"Tex" La Grone Stops Over.

"Tex" La Grone, one of the oldest civilian pilots in point of service in the country, stopped at Lambert Field, Thursday, in a Waco, on his way from Dayron, O., to Kansas City. La Grone was an instructor at Scott Field during the war.

Time Payment Plan Considered.

Albert von Hoffmann, president, and M. R. Bouse, manager, of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Corporation, returned home Thursday from the conference of Eaglerock distributors at Colorado Springs, Colo. They report that plans for financing Eaglerocks on the time-payment plan were discussed at the meeting.

Arrow to Be Tested Today.

The first model of the Arrow, a cabin monoplane, to be manufactured by Parks Aircraft, Inc., will be tested in flight at Parks Airport today, weather permitting.

The ship is powered with a Whirlwind motor and is expected to attain a speed of more than 100 miles an hour with a landing speed of less than 35 miles an hour. The tests will be made by Edgar C. Schmid, an instructor at Parks Air College. Schmid, as is usual in flying untried planes, will wear a parachute as a safety first measure.

The Arrow is the fourth plane to be manufactured in the St. Louis district, the others being the Ryan, Curtiss-Robin, and Cardinal All are monoplanes. Parks Aircraft, Inc., recently completed a model plant at Parks Airport and will go into production on the plane as soon as the tests are completed.

2550-Pound Mail Cargo.

The Robertson Aircraft Corporation handled a 2550-pound air mail cargo from Toledo, O., to Chicago and St. Louis yesterday, made up of advertising matter of an automobile concern. A tri-motored plane was sent to Toledo in charge of Pilots Sloniger and Steele to carry the shipment. Fifteen hundred pounds of the cargo was transferred to trans-continental mail planes at Chicago and the remainder was brought to St. Louis. The Robertson Corporation collected an agreed fee from National Air Transport for carrying the mail from Toledo to Chicago and receives $2.53 a pound for the 1050 pounds carried to St. Louis. The poundage rate totaled $2656.50.

Love Loses a Souvenir..

Phil Love has been advertising for the return of his handbag, stolen from his car near Hotel Statler last Monday night, containing, in addition to clothing worth $200, a souvenir which Love has carried for nearly four years. The souvenir is a piece of steel tubing bearing the impression of Phil's teeth. He bit the tubing when a plane, in which he was dusting cotton in Georgia in 1925, crashed. The handbag was stolen while Phil was visiting "Casey" Jones at the Statler.

Aerial Honeymoon.

An aerial honeymoon party visited Lambert Field last Sunday, the newly married pair being Mr. and Mrs. George A. Henshaw Jr. of San Antonio, Tex. Henshaw, a wealthy oil man, chartered the plane, a tri-motored Fokker, from Western Air Express at Los Angeles and took a jazz band on the first part of the journey. Accompanying the bride and groom on their arrival here were Henshaw's brothers, Paul and Walter; E. E. Fogelson, an attorney; the pilots, Cy Morehouse and Bart Cox; Mrs. Morehouse and Mrs. Henshaw's maid.

Harry Perkins Promoted.

Harry Perkins has been promoted from secretary to vice president and general manager of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation by the directors of the Universal Aviation Corporation, which controls the Robertson corporation. Frank Robertson, head of the Robertson corporation, is in charge of all operations of the Universal system.

Phil Ball Plans Trip.

Phil Ball, baseball and airplane magnate, and his pilot, Frank Dunn, will depart for Chicago tomorrow, and on Wednesday will hop off for San Diego, Cal. On the return trip they plan to visit Brownsville, Tex., and may go over into Mexico for some hunting. Ball plans to fly to the Florida training camp of the Browns in March.

Flies Mail Despite Sleet.

Weather such as prevailed throughout last week calls for the highest type of skill and courage in flying the St. Louis-Chicago air mail route. Tricks of the elements also call for ingenuity on the part of the pilots, as was evidenced by an experience Pilot Ray Fortner had last Monday.

The sleet storm which forced Col. Lindbergh's trimotored plane down at St. Elmo, Ill., coated the mail plane flown by Fortner from Chicago to St. Louis that morning to such an extent that Fortner had to land three times to knock the ice off the wings. On the third landing, Fortner noticed that the weight of the ice had bowed the center section struts of the plane to a degree making further flying hazardous until the struts could be straightened. Fortner borrowed a single-tree, a fence wire puller and a two-by-four timber from a farmer, placed the single-tree and the timber on each side of a strut and straightened them with the wire puller. He brought the mail in with his crude straightening apparatus still on the plane.

New Observation Plane.

The Thirty-fifth Division Air Service will shortly receive new Douglas-O2H plane, which is the largest in observation ships. The plane has an instrument board resembling the control room of an electric power plant, according to reports. Capt. Harry H. Young, regular army instructor of the unit, will make the trip to the Douglas plant at Santa Monica, Cal., and will ferry the ship here.

Veterans Entertained.

"Boots" Dempsey and Gentry Shelton flew to the Veterans' Hospital, below Jefferson Barracks, Monday with a trio of singers, who entertained the veterans. "Boots" also provided some entertainment not on the program before he landed his plane.

248 Parks Graduates.

Instructors at Parks Air College flew a total of 7855 hours with students during the period between last March 21, when the first student was taken up, to the end of the year.

During the period 248 students were graduated from the primary flying course and 70, who took the advanced course, passed Department of Commerce examinations for licenses.

Clyde Brayton, chief instructor at Parks College had the high individual record for hours in the air during the period the school has operated, having spent 804 hours and 35 minutes aloft with students. He also checked 1000 hours of solo flying and sold 19 planes. Claude Sterling, first assistant instructor, had 785 hours in the air instructing.

Three Broughams Sold.

The Mamoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation received orders for three broughams last week from the United States Air Lines of Cleveland. The order was given by S. Z. Kraemer, chief pilot of the United States Co., who made some tests before placing the order.

Cuts Down Time 12 Hours.

C. T. Stork, a New York business man, cut 12 hours from a journey from Kansas City to New York, last week by using established air lines in place of rail transportation. Stork used the Robertson Aircraft Corporation's service from Kansas City to Chicago, changing planes at Lambert Field, and continued on from Chicago by plane to Cleveland, where he boarded a train.

For Advertising Campaign.

The board of directors of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation made up of Phil Ball, Harold Bixby, Harry Knight, and John C. Nulsen, met at the plant Wednesday and approved a national advertising campaign.

Guard Election.

Maj. C. Ray Wassall, commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, has been elected treasurer of tha National Guard Air Association, and Lieut. Stafford (Casey) Lambert of the Thirty-fifth Division unit, secretary of the association. Lambert, who is an amateur cartoonist, was appointed editor of the monthly news published by the association.

Johnson to Build Hangar.

Charles O. Bedell, Lebo, Kan., a student at the Robertson Flying School, purchased Oscar Johnson's Travel-Air last week. Bedell plans to use the plane in commercial work. Johnson has a new Stearman, in which he plans to make cross-country flights this summer with "Boots" Dempsey as his pilot. Johnson plans to build his own hangar at the field and has presented specifications for the structure, to house four ships, to the city air board for approval.

Shrubbery on Highways.

Women's clubs and other organizations are fostering the planting of trees and shrubbery along roads and highways.

Airplane Venture Causes Change in Marmon Personnel

H. H. Brook Retires as Sales Director to Head New Concern.

G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Co., announces the appointment of Thomas E. Jarrard as general sales director, succeeding H. H. Brooks, who retires to head a new Indianapolis aircraft manufacturing company now in process of formation.

Jarrard has been general sales-manager of the Durant Motor Car Co. of Michigan. He was associated with the Durant organization for six years.

The company Brooks will head is to engage in the development and manufacture on a large scale of commercial airplane engines and later the production and nationwide distribution of airplanes

Williams said that the new organization would have no direct relationship with the Marmon company and that a plant in Indianapolis would be opened in the near future.

It was stated also that in all likelihood Howard Marmon, while retaining his position as vice president in charge of engineering of the Marmon company, will be responsible for the engineering development of the airplane engine project. Col. Marmon gained recognition as a member of the engineering staff of the War Department which developed in 1918 the famous Liberty motor for airplanes.

As to the airplanes to be manufactured by the new organization, Williams states that they will be the development of one of the best known aircraft engineers in the world and are the culmination of a number of years of experimental work.

Signal Lights Beneficial.

Safety officials credit traffic signal lights with the marked diminution of mishaps at highly congested intersections. Rigid police supervision is another factor.

Gear Lever May Be Changed.

There is a trend toward relocating the gear shift lever in such a way that it permits the driver to leave the car on the right side without any inconvenience. Drivers in the habit of alighting on the left—the dangerous side—should notice the change.

THE REMARKABLE NEW

"FINGER-TIP CONTROL"

What it means to you in driving convenience and Safety

WILLYS-OVERLAND is the first producer of automobiles to equip all its passenger cars and commercial vehicles—both Whippets and Willys-Knights—with the wonderful new "Finger-Tip Control."

A single button, conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel, controls all functions of starting the motor, operating the lights and sounding the horn.

This fundamental improvement does away with all troublesome foot fumbling for the starting button, usually located in a somewhat inaccessible position. You can keep your foot always on the brake when starting or re-starting on a hill—an obvious safety advantage of major importance.

"Finger-Tip Control" also avoids changing from the comfortable driving position to reach a light switch on the dash. You can at all times keep your eyes on the road, and the hand that operates the button can be flashed back to the rim of the wheel in any steering emergency.

Greater beauty and improved design in new Whippets and Willys-Knights

The ultra-modern lines and larger bodies of the new Superior Whippet are winning the enthusiastic praise of Four and light Six buyers, while the new style Willys-Knight Six is the largest, most beautiful and most powerful Knight-engined car ever offered at so low a price.

See and examine these superb new cars without delay! An immediate order will aid in early delivery.

FORD OPENS NEW FACTORY IN YOKOHAMA

Japanese Assembly Unit Covers 158,000 Square Feet.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 19.—With the completion several weeks ago of the great Yokohama assembly plant of the Ford Motor Co. of Japan, one more important unit has been added to the large number of Ford plants in various parts of the world.

The building is said to be the second largest in all Japan in amount of floor space under one roof, it containing 158,000 square feet. It is of reinforced steel construction, with concrete walls and concrete flooring strengthened with steel netting; and is so constructed as to minimize the danger from earthquake shocks. Ford engineers have been able to benefit from experiences of the past in planning the building.

Its location is strategic from a transportation standpoint, as two main highways are now under construction to its doors and it is within a stone's throw of the Tokio-Yokohama highway. The west side of the building opens onto a canal leading to Tokio Bay, on which the property fronts. Two sidings afford ample railway connections.

A large loading platform adjoins the sidings, equipped with a three-ton crane. Model A cars will be driven onto the platform and then directly onto flat cars for shipment to various parts of the Nippon Empire. Parts will be trucked to the platform and loaded by crane. On the west side of the plant is an unusually large customs godown, opening on the canal and separated from the rest of the building by steel netting. It is 480 feet long and 86 feet wide, and two five-ton electric cranes operate overhead for shifting material.

One interesting installation at the plant comprises two Wicks-Marine boilers which are being used for heating and for the enamel ovens. They were taken from one of the 199 ships salvaged by the Ford company at the Fordson plant. The assembly lines run on the east side of the building and the body drying ovens are in the center. Twenty motor-driven conveyors are needed to supply the assembly line and stock. During each eight-hour day more than 1000 fenders will be dipped in the enamel tanks and sent through the baking ovens.

The executive offices are located at the southeast corner of the building. The superintendent's office is unusually large and is so situated that it opens into the general office and commands an open view of the assembly lines and parts department. A large conference room is in the southwest corner of the building with windows fronting on the bay. Behind it is a large garage for storing company cars and surplus stocks. At the northeast corner of the plant where assembled cars are driven away is a waiting room for drivers.

One feature of the structure is the forethought that was given to the comfort and welfare of the workmen. In the sawtooth faces of the roof are 44 runs of steel windows, each window being 5 feet high and 192 feet long. They are electrically controlled. Similarly in the side walls are rows of ventilators which can be opened or closed by pressing an electric switch. Ample light has been provided through the use of so many windows.

IMPROVED TYPE OF G. M. TRUCK

THIS is the new T-42 General Motors truck powered by a six-cylinder Buick motor. It has four forward speeds, dual wheels with pneumatic tires and four-wheel Bendix brakes. The General Motors Truck Co. factory branch here is displaying this model now.

Exhaustive Tests Preceded Showing Of New Franklin

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The most exhaustive tests ever conducted by the experimental and engineering departments of the Franklin Automobile Co., covering almost a year of laboratory and road tryouts, preceded the introduction of the three new models which the Franklin company has just placed upon the market, Cannon Ball Baker, famous road driver and chief test pilot for Franklin, said today.

Baker joined the Franklin organization early in 1928, completing as his first job a world's record run from coast to coast and return in which he clipped more than 10½ hours from the best existing record for the journey. The run and several which followed it were made with the Franklin car and engine standard for the spring of 1928 in order to give the veteran test pilot a thorough knowledge of the power, speed and endurance qualities of the former Franklin line. Immediately thereafter he took our cars with the new power plants and put them through comparable runs over thousands of miles of mountain, desert and city travel on both sides of the Mississippi and in the Rocky and Appalachian Mountains.

"The engineers' job is to put cars together; mine to make them fall apart," Baker says jocularly of his job, and so far he admits he has failed in his attempts to make the Franklin "fall."

The transcontinental record was the most spectacular of his Franklin tests, he says, but the nonstop two round-trip runs which he made on Mount Mitchell, N. C., was the most punishing to the car. Both were made with 1928 Franklins, yet he insists the performance records turned in do not begin to touch the capabilities of the new Franklin line. The 1929 Franklins have an increased power development capable of running away with grades, which would tax any car of any make hitherto built, he declares. In riding ease and roadability, Franklin has built for fast, luxurious travel over any kind of road surface, and with the additional power and speed, the car will add new meaning to the reputation we built up this year of "world's fastest road car," Baker says.

Protect Spare Tire.

It is known that an unprotected tire hanging on the back of a car will deteriorate sooner than one getting service and care on a wheel. The spare should be given the protection of a covering, either of the conventional removable fabric cover or of a composition that is painted on. Care should be exercised in the selection of the latter.

Triplex to Be Raced in World Speed Trials

AMERICA is certain to be represented by a defender of the mile record now set at 207.552 miles an hour, as J. M. White, Philadelphia sportsman, is tuning up the three mighty engines of the Triplex with which he brought the record back to America last April. Maj. Segrave may not carry back the world speed honors to England, as he expects, without a struggle.

A mid-western designer, who has been cloaking his activities in mystery, is said to have laid out a car for the beach with the engine finished and ready to be dropped into a frame. Many years of experience are known to lie behind this effort and should the creation be ready to start in March at Daytona it can be depended upon for a good showing.

Willys-Overland Sets New Export Output Record

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 19.—Willys-Overland, Inc. broke all its previous export sales records during 1928, officials of the corporation announced yesterday.

Shipments to foreign countries during the year totalled 36,698 cars as compared with 27,592 during 1927 or an increase of 9106 units or 31 per cent. Many of the European and Asiatic countries showed a much larger increase in percentage but the average was well over 25 per cent, it was said.

The company has been steadily increasing its foreign business for years. President Willys said that preparations are being made for increasing export business during the new year by 40 per cent over the record breaking shipments of 1928. The company has greatly increased its dealer organization abroad in addition to development of manufacturing plants in Canada, Great Britain and Germany.

Countries which showed the largest increases during the year include: Argentine, Brazil, Chile, Japan, India, Spain, Australia, Java, Sweden, South Africa, New Zealand and England. The big season of automobile buying is just beginning in Argentina, Australia and New Zealand and the company's dealers in these countries are ordering larger quantities than ever before and have cabled their confidence that from 35 to 40 per cent more cars will be sold in these countries during the next six months than in the corresponding period of 1928, Willys said.

Radiator Cleaner Tests Successful

The importance of a clean radiator is stressed in every automobile manual, the manufacturer recommending frequent changes in water and flushing of the cooling system. Exhaustive research on the part of Liquid Veneer Corp., of Buffalo, N. Y., a $5,000,000 corporation, demonstrated that just flushing with water was not enough, as it carried out only the loose dirt. It did not remove that which clung to the waterways.

To meet the need for a radiator cleaner that would remove the clogging elements, Liquid Veneer Corp. experimented with dozens of radiators and found that the accumulations consisted of rust, slime, sludge, oil, lime and magnesia.

There is no one chemical which will efficiently attack and eliminate all six of these "cloggers," or, for that matter, any two of them. Consequently a formula was developed which contained a mixture of chemicals and which does the trick in 48 hours, during which time the car can be used in the regular manner.

Before this preparation was placed on the market it was tried out in hundreds of cars and a careful check made of the results. The outcome is a preparation that millions of motorists have found of the utmost benefit in keeping their cars in a sweet running condition. While this product, placed on the market under the name of "Purgo," is drastic in its action on the six clogging elements in the radiator and cooling system, it is perfectly harmless to metal, finish, hose and gaskets. As a matter of fact, you can wash your hands in it without roughening them.

How to Clean Lenses.

Headlamp lenses may be cleaned effectively by dipping absorbent cotton in alcohol and lightly rubbing the surface. The rubbing should be done with a circular motion.

Baking Soda for Corrosion.

Corrosion at the battery terminals can be cleaned with baking soda. Sprinkle a little of the soda on the corroded part, pour a little water on top of it, and watch the corrosion disappear.

U. S. EXPORTS CREATE MANY JOBS ABROAD

Employment Offered One Man for Every Six Cars Put in Use.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Improved employment in all parts of the world is being created by the growth of motor transportation, George F. Bauer, export secretary of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, declared in a speech before the annual banquet of the Overseas Automotive Club, according to the report made available today.

"Employment is created for one man by every six cars put into use," said Bauer. "As a result of the 810,000 motor vehicles of American design bought by countries outside of the United States during the past year, there were created 135,000 jobs in the countries of purchase. This figure is based on experience in the United States, where more than 4,000,000 persons are employed in motor transportation in selling, servicing, highway building and related activities.

"Motor executives are looking forward with confidence to demand for motor transportation in other lands," the speaker stated. "With nearly 7,000,000 cars now registered in other lands, there will soon be an annual replacement market for a million motor vehicles, in addition to the market among new buyers. Manufacturers of all countries are uniting to promote conditions favorable to highway travel. Better highways, more equitable taxation, increasing agreement as to traffic regulations, and better financing facilities are among the activities which are adding to the economy and the efficiency of motor travel in other lands."

Cities Service Buys Oil Company

As an important step in its 1929 expansion program, Cities Service Co. has announced the purchase of the plants, business and real estate of the Republic Oil Co. of Washington, D. C.

The Cities Service organization has already taken over the operation of the Republic properties in Washington and Virginia. "Plans are under way for immediate extensions which will substantially increase the outlets of the business," said Charles E. Foster, president and general manager of Crew Levick Co., the Cities Service subsidiary which will operate the Washington pumps. "This purchase marks the entry into the District of Columbia of the Cities Service petroleum marketing division, which has for years been furnishing gasolene and lubricants to motorists in hundreds of cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

"The Washington filling stations will carry the complete line of Cities Service petroleum products, including Koolmotor gasolene, introduced more than a year ago and known to the trade as the original high-test, antiknock green gas. E. C. Beck of our company will be the local manager."

Motor Car Called Prime Factor in Human Happiness

Credit for the greatest stimulation of human activity during the last century if not for all modern time must be given the automobile, according to John R. Lee, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers.

"The motor car has been the prime contributing factor in our national welfare and prosperity—economically and psychologically—during the past 25 years," Lee said in a recent address in New York. "The industry has given profitable employment to 4,000,000 persons, who form a large percentage of our total population when the customary four dependents of each employe are considered. The purchasing power of wages and salaries connected with the manufacture and sale of cars and associated industries, represents billions of dollars annually.

"When people have cars, they want to go. In order to go, good, wide highways must be built, and roads lead to fellowship and understanding between communities and the wholesome recreation of outdoor travel. Russia would present a different picture today if 20,000,000 motor cars had been poured into that vast country. India, China, Africa and the Far East countries are slowly being aroused to the advantages of the motor car. Remote districts have been pierced by automobiles. Bus lines have been started. The motor car is completely changing the habits and customs of most provincial people everywhere.

"Yet with all the cars owned and being bought today, the pleasure and convenience of possessing an automobile has not been grasped by millions who are financially able to buy. First sales to this market and replacements on the present market indicate that the surface has barely been scratched in the automotive industry, and that years of prosperity are ahead.

"The future happiness—even the very life of millions the world over—will depend upon road development, increased power facilities and the use of millions of more motor vehicles."

His speed is not the only interesting thing about the performance of the man who always gets away fastest at the traffic light or other signal. Indirectly, he is giving his slower fellow drivers a lesson in car care. The lesson is that he stays in the lower gear combinations to pick up speed. He does not have to slip his clutch as many of the others do. As a result, his old clutch is good when they have had to buy new ones.

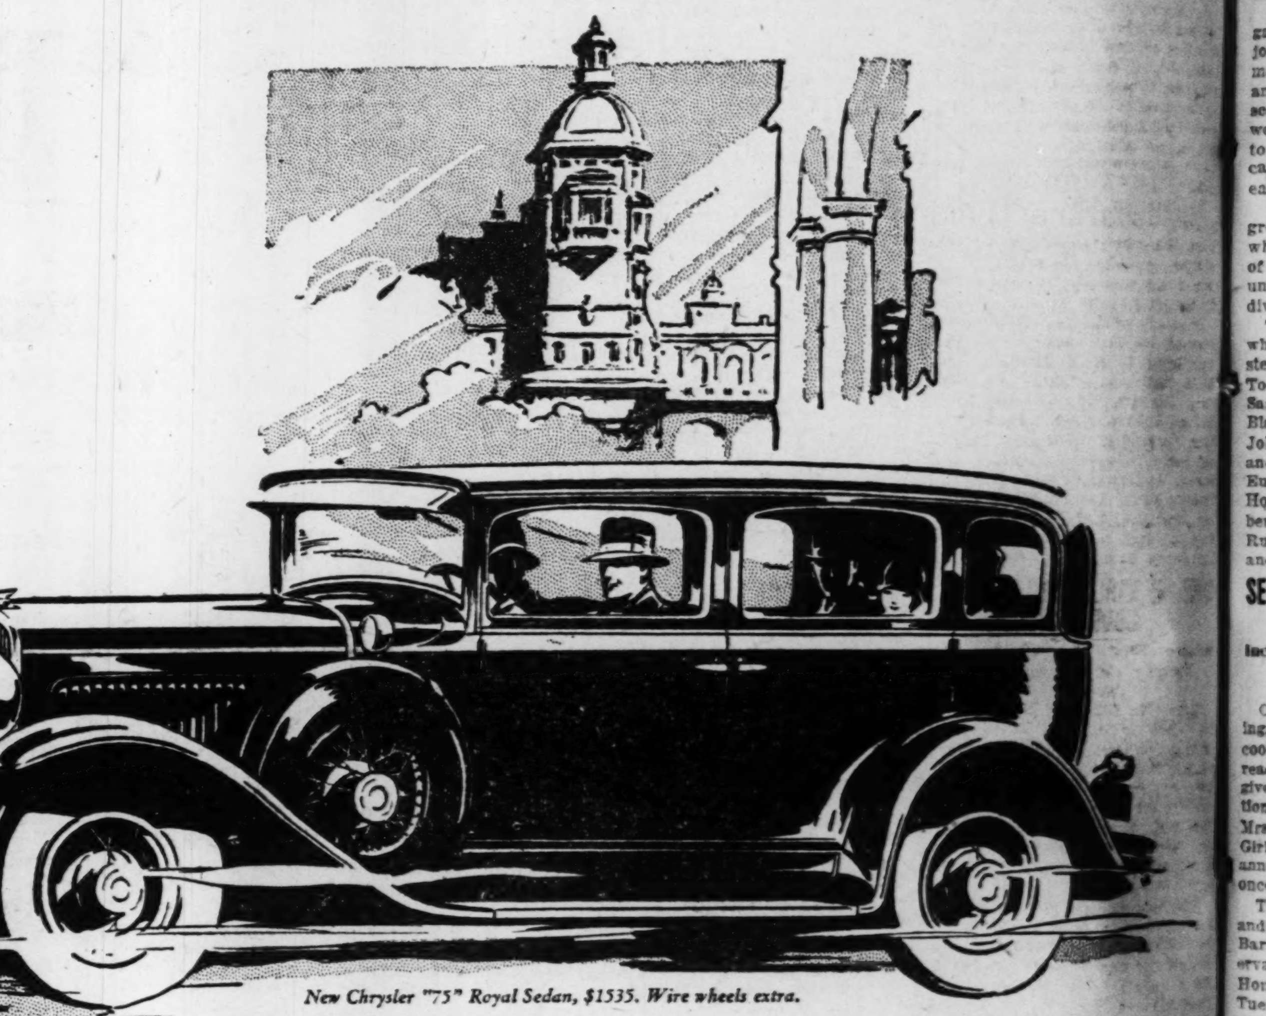
A CHRYSLER MOTORS PRODUCT



New Chrysler "75" Royal Sedan, $1535. Wire wheels extra.

In Speed, Dash, Stamina, the public knows ranks with cars costing hundreds of dollars more

CHRYSLER

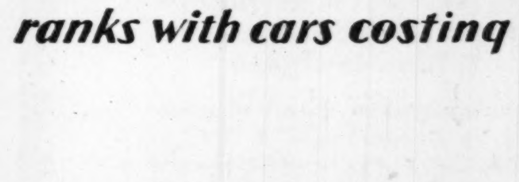
CHRYSLER popularity is due not only to the public acceptance of Chrysler originality in style and beauty, but to the acclaim of the freshness of Chrysler engineering and performance.

Chrysler engineers bring to the task of developing their new cars the same originality and the same enterprise which characterize their achievements in style and beauty.



All Chrysler engines are provided with counterweighted 7-bearing crankshafts. An expensive feature, but one that provides an almost incredible engine smoothness and remarkable long life.

Chrysler engineers, from the beginning, have applied what is best in the existing art and practice of the industry, but have not been content to accept even such features without subjecting them to their own improving touch.

In addition, they have devised and developed so many entirely new features that Chrysler cars are in no sense like anything else that runs.

That is why the speed, the dash, the stamina you find in Chrysler can scarcely be equaled, much less surpassed, in cars costing even as much as a thousand dollars more.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

200 SCOUTS ENROLL TO SAVE FOR CAMPS

Troops Will Be Permitted to Stay at Irondale as Units.

More than 200 Boy Scouts in St. Louis and County enrolled in the St. Louis Boy Scout Campers' Saving Club last week, the first week it was opened by the local Boy Scout council, according to R. L. Wandas of the Council staff. The Campers' Club is a service of the local organization enabling a scout to save toward the expenses of summer camping. Last year 451 boys entered the club the first week, and 1239 joined before the club closed.

Part of the heavy enrollment, according to Wandas, is attributed to a new system adopted by the Irondale, Mo., camps conducted by the Council, whereby a troop may enter a camp as a unit, with its own scoutmaster in charge, and follow the regular camp routine only insofar as it pleases. Two troops, Webster Groves 7, under Scoutmaster W. Kendrick, and Glendale 1, under Scoutmaster R. B. Mueller, registered as units last week.

These unit troops, who will live in cabins apart from the regular camp, are officially recognized for the first time this year, although six troops followed the plan unofficially last summer, more or less as an experiment.

A special club has been organized for scouts intending to join the Roving Camps, which make bus tours to the east coast and Yellowstone Park. Thirty-six scouts enrolled in this club last week. The membership is limited to 250, as there are only five camps, accommodating 50 scouts each.

Members of both clubs are grouped together until May 1, when each scout selects the section of camp he wishes to attend. The unit troops are also listed as individuals until this time.

The scouts of the two unit troops who enrolled last week are: Webster Groves 7: H. S. Foote, J. M. Todd, Val Cravens, Watts Johnson, Sam Comfort, J. R. Hundley, Blaine Ebling, Jack Pickering, John Carmichal, Warren Engler and Herbert Patton; Glendale 1: Eugene Andrews, Frank Andrews, Houston Betty, Leon Mathey, Herbert Mortland, Bill Powers, David Ruhl, Wallace Seidel, David Haley and Henry Beard.

SERIES OF GIRL SCOUT COURSES ANNOUNCED

Includes First Aid, Child Care, Nursing, Cooking and Life Saving.

Courses in first aid, home nursing, child care, life saving and cooking for Girl Scouts who have reached second class rank will be given by the Girl Scout organization during the next 10 weeks, Mrs. D. K. Rose, chairman of the Girl Scout Standards Committee, announces. The courses will meet once a week.

The courses in home nursing and child care will be given at the Barnes Nurses' Home by Miss Minerva Cooper and Miss Theo Welsh. Home nursing will be given on Tuesdays at 4:15 p. m., and child care on Fridays at 4:15. Both courses will continue for eight weeks.

First aid, also an eight-weeks course, will be given at Barnes Hospital on Thursdays at 4:15 by Dr. William Hamm.

The cooking course, which consists of 12 Saturday morning classes, met for the first time yesterday morning. This class is given at the Laclede Gas Co. by Miss Helen Wethrell, director of the home service department, and her assistants.

The life saving course consists of 10 meetings and meets on Saturday mornings at 11 o'clock at the Town Club, beginning yesterday. Miss Caroline Feuerbacher is the instructor. This course is limited to good swimmers. At the completion of the course the members will be examined by a board of Red Cross life saving examiners, and the successful ones will receive the emblem of the Red Cross Junior Life Saving Corps. Many Girl Scouts already are members of this corps.

THREE NEW SCOUT TROOPS

Organized in St. Alphonsus', St. Pius' and Notre Dame Churches.

Three new Boy Scout troops were organized in St. Louis last week, all at Catholic churches, Carl H. Laemmli of the registration department of Boy Scout headquarters announced. None has been assigned a troop number.

The new troops were formed at St. Pius' Church, with F. Metzger as scoutmaster and the Rev. F. Meagher as troop advisor; at St. Alphonsus' Church, with D. Forrestal as scoutmaster and the Rev. P. Forbes as advisor; and at the Notre Dame Church, with L. L. Mana as scoutmaster and the Rev. William Drimpid as advisor. In addition to the new troops, nine other boys joined the organization as tenderfoot scouts. They were: Herbert Suering, Troop 33; Alfred Harnagle, Harold Lendall and Edward Vincent, Troop 42; Thomas Barlow, Troop 72; Ralph Grimsley and Joe Sirira, Troop 92; and Johnson Robert and George Bagot, Troop 101.

Charles Galloway Recital.

Charles Galloway will present an organ recital in Graham Memorial Chapel at Washington University from 3 to 4 p. m. today. Miss Mabel Henderson, contralto, will sing.

Troop Notes

West District.

A blue ribbon award for first place in an interpatrol contest was awarded to the Panther patrol of Troop 26 at an open meeting held at the Delmar Baptist Church, the troop headquarters, last week. The Fox patrol won second place and the Flying Eagles third. Parents and friends of the scouts attended the meeting.

Sixteen scouts of the troop, led by Scoutmaster Carleton and Troop Committeeman Moss, hiked to the troop campsite on the St. Charles road last Sunday to cut logs for a bridge to be built at the Scout Circus. Logs also were cut for a cabin to be built on the site. Six scouts passed tests on the hike.

The first Honor Scout medals to be awarded at Troop 49 of the First Presbyterian Church were presented to Scouts Billy Phirmir and Richard Shipley at an Indian pow-wow conducted by Scoutmaster Gillespie at the last meeting. Both medals were presented for exceptional proficiency in scouting. The pow-wow was witnessed by a large neighborhood audience. The fire ceremony was given by Scout Phirmir and the Medicine Dance by Scout Eugene Hail. Ben Tichky sang Indian songs and told Indian stories.

A new interpatrol contest will be inaugurated at Troop 101 of the West Park Baptist Church next meeting, to take the place of one that closed just last meeting. A hike to the Missouri River is scheduled for today.

A parents' and investiture night at which new officers were installed was held by Troop 246 of the B'nai Amoona Synagogue last week, before an audience that filled the synagogue auditorium.

Exhibitions in knot-tying, drill, first aid and signaling were given. Fifteen scouts, winners in an interpatrol contest, were awarded scout staves, and eight other scouts, winners in another contest, received first aid kits. Six new scouts were invested into the troop. Abe Gallant, the new Senior Patrol leader, was installed and presented with the badge of his rank. Patrol leaders Otis Gallant, Daniel Weisman and Harvey Rudolph were presented watch fobs, while Scribe H. Sorkin received a miniature first class pin. Charles Frischlowitz, who has been connected with West District scouting for a number of years, was installed as the new scout master. The chief speakers were Rabbi Helpern and Field Scout Executive S. C. Reaves. Assistant Scoutmaster Simon Becker was master of ceremonies.

North District.

A contest in first aid between the Wolf patrol, challengers, and the Bob Whites, at Troop 3, of the Grace Holy Cross Church, was judged a tie at the last meeting of the troop. The deadlock between the two patrols is to be broken by a signalling contest to be held at the next meeting. Fifteen scouts, three officers, and two visitors from other troops witnessed the contest. Troop Committeeman Diefenbach, who has just joined the troop, was guest of honor.

A novel plan to inspire advancement in scout rank has been inaugurated at Troop 42, of the Zion Lutheran Church, by Scoutmaster Muldner, who has decreed that in order to be eligible to attend a troop hike each Tenderfoot and Second Class Scout must pass five scout tests, while each First Class Scout must pass at least one merit badge to become eligible. Ten scouts have passed tests since the last meeting, and three new scouts have been enrolled in the troop. The troop is planning a banquet for every scout who sells his quota of circus tickets. A drum and bugle corps also is being planned for the troop.

Most of the last meeting of Troop 161, of the Webster School, was spent in preparing plans and a program for an overnight hike the troop has scheduled for the near future. Instruction in first and second class work was also given by Scoutmaster Kripplaben, and a number of tests were passed.

The drum and bugle corps of Troop 206, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Tubbesing, is holding rehearsals several times a week to practice for its part in the Drum and Bugle Corps event at the coming Scout Circus. Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Herzog has been placed in charge of the sale of the troop's quota of Circus tickets.

South District.

As evidence that Troop 57 of the J. M. Fournier Jr Post American Legion, does not confine its good turns to the holiday season, Scoutmaster Fichtel reported last week that the troop had presented a quantity of food and clothing to a destitute family, in which both the father and mother and two of the six children were seriously ill.

The troop is taking part in the signaling, first aid and clown events at the coming circus. A drive for new members to be admitted at the circus has resulted in enough recruits to form an entire new patrol. The patrols are now the Wolves, with Jack O'Connor as patrol leader; the Hawks, Bruce Lewis patrol leader; the Cats, Oliver Dietz, patrol leader, and the Flying Eagles, A. Ambroz patrol leader.

Suburban District.

An investiture ceremony, during which Candidate Andrew Nowak was admitted into the troop, was held by Maplewood 3, of the Maplewood High school, at a meeting last week. Parents and friends of the troop attended. The troop committee participated in the investiture.

A Boy Scout watch will be awarded to the scout in Webster Groves 7 who becomes most proficient in second class first aid, Scoutmaster Kendrick announced at the last meeting. A competition will be arranged to determine the winner. Three new officers were installed at the meeting: Oliver Stone Senior Patrol Leader; David Carpenter, leader of the Moose patrol, and John Powell, Scribe. Lowell Freeman and Val Cravens were admitted as Tenderfoot scouts. Scout Freeman, however, has passed five of his second class tests. The meeting was featured by a short play on the Scout Law, given by the Moose patrol, and a knot tying contest between Patrol Leader Comfort's Fox patrol and Patrol Leader Walker's Panther patrol. The Fox patrol won. Patrol Leader Ebling's Lion patrol conducted the closing ceremonies.

Headquarters Notes.

The ninth meeting of the scoutmasters' training courses, and the tenth meeting of the first aid course, will be held tomorrow evening at the Stix and Michael schools, and the Washington University Medical School. A training hike, as part of the course, will be held next Saturday afternoon to Dr. F. H. Staley's cabin at Castlewood, while an overnight hike will be taken Feb. 2 and 3 to Irondale. Scout leaders desiring to attend the overnight hike must register at headquarters, Educational Director Puffer of the Council announces.

Scout Executive Earle W. Beckman will speak on "Why Boys Drop Out" at the elementary training course, while E. N. Birge will talk on "Scout Advancement and Specialization" at the advanced course. Assistant Scout Executive Jack Wright will also talk on Troop Administration at the latter course.

All Boy Scout troops affiliated with Catholic institutions, and all Catholic scouts belonging to other troops, have been invited to participate in a city-wide Catholic rally to be held at the Cathedral Sunday, Feb. 3. The scouts are to assemble at the corner of Lindell and Kingshighway boulevards and parade to the cathedral. The Rev. Charles P. Maxwell is in charge of the arrangements.

The office of National Tribe Chief of the Theatrical Tribe, Lone Scouts of America, a tribe of the Lone Scouts composed of young men engaged in theatrical work, was conferred last week upon Eddie Peabody, master of ceremonies at a local theater, by O. H. Benson, National Director of Lone Scouting. Benson visited Peabody last week as the personal representative of Chief Scout Executive James E. West, to confer the position. The Lone Scouts are a branch of the Boy Scouts for those living on farms, who are unable to join a regular troop.

Peabody has been a Boy Scout for several years, and has fourteen merit badges to his credit.

District Boards of Review for the next Courts of Honor will be held in the four districts on the following dates, according to Educational Director William Puffer:

West District: Clark School, Feb. 5; South District, Rose Fanning School, Feb. 5; Suburban District, Webster Groves High School, Feb. 6; North District, Farragut School, Feb. 7.

TROOP 147 CONDUCTS SCOUT 'KINDERGARTEN' CLASS

Junior Troop Is Directed by Boys From the Older Organization.

An innovation in scouting, in the form of what has been styled "a kindergarten course in Boy Scout work," has been carried on quietly for the last four years by Troop 147, Field Scout Executive L. L. Hotchkiss of the North District discovered during a visit to that troop last week. The "course" is for boys under scout age, from 9 to 12 years old, and consists of meetings similar to the regular troop meeting, but specializing on Indian lore. These meetings are held in a room adjacent to the troop room, under the direction of boy leaders from the troop.

The junior troop was the outcome of a chance meeting between Scoutmaster J. W. C. Mahon of the troop and a number of boys who were "shooting craps" in an alley. Although they were under scout age, Mahon invited them to come to the scout meeting, where they were given an insight into Indian lore and taught several Indian games. As they continued to attend, and other boys joined them, they were assigned a separate room, and the best boy leaders in the troop assigned to work with them.

Although they do not take up regular scout work, the subjects they are concerned with are so similar that when they reach scout age and join the regular troop they are enabled to advance more rapidly than boys who do not have this preliminary training, according to Mahon.

Joined Army at 112 Years of Age.

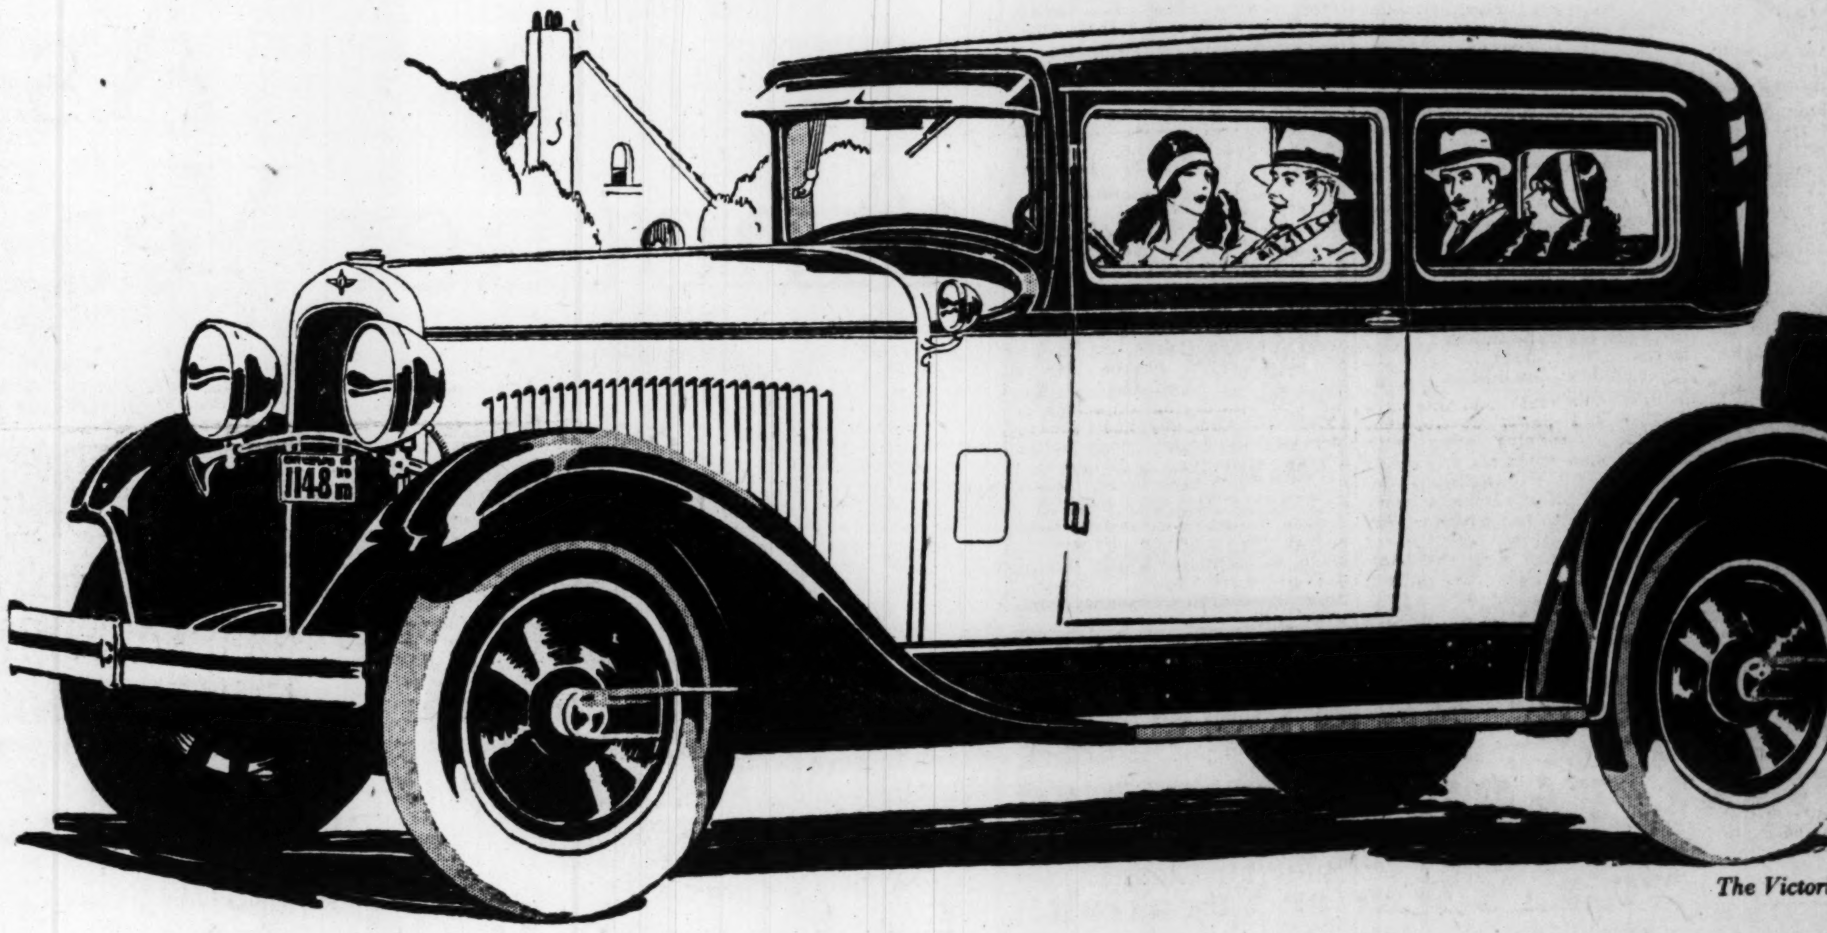
SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, Jan. 19.—An extraordinary career has been ended with the death here of Rodalio Salazar, who attained the age of 116 years. Salazar participated in 33 war campaigns, including that against the De la Huerta revolutionists in 1924, when, despite his 112 years, he insisted upon joining the Federal forces.

NEWNESS radiates from end to end
Outside . . . Inside . . .



The Victoria

THE NEW Dodge Brothers Six is not merely new in a superficial way. It is new in the essential things that count for something; new in body structure—new in chassis betterments—new in all-around performability. It is emphatically the newest manifestation of Walter P. Chrysler's inimitable genius for design and the celebrated craftsmanship of Dodge Brothers.

Its exclusive new Mono-piece Body marks a notable advance in body engineering, so constructed that there are no joints to squeak. Outside, a new beauty characterizes the harmonious silhouette, with its deep-faced narrow-profile radiator, full-welt one-piece fenders, and Chrysler steel channel running boards. Inside, a new luxury and roominess glorify the car. The upholstery is sumptuous. Fitments and accessories are jewelry-like in pattern and finish, and as complete as in highest-priced cars.

Mechanically, the new Dodge Brothers Six includes such betterments as Chrysler weatherproof 4-wheel hydraulic brakes; Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers all around; and greatly oversized (5.50) tires—feature after feature never before offered in a car of such moderate price.

Eight distinctive body styles: 2-Pass. Business Coupe, $945; 5-Pass. Sedan, $995; 5-Pass. Brougham, $995; Roadster with Rumble Seat, $995; 4-Pass. Victoria, $1025; DeLuxe Coupe with Rumble Seat, $1025; 5-Pass. Phaeton, $1023; 5-Pass. DeLuxe Sedan, $1065. All prices f. o. b. Detroit.

AYRES, FORD DEALER, IN NEW PLANT

Building on 8th and Cass, Completed—Opening Set for Tomorrow.

The new sales and service plant of the Ayres Auto Co. Ford dealer, on the southeast corner of Eighth street and Cass avenue, will be formally opened tomorrow morning. The building, completed by the contractors Saturday, has a frontage of 97 feet on Cass avenue and a depth of 130 feet on Eighth street. It is two stories high and constructed of concrete and steel. Joseph Ayres is president.

The new building is the fourth the Ford dealer has occupied in the 13 years it has operated in St. Louis. Numbered among the first three dealers appointed here by the Ford Motor Car Co., the firm originally occupied a small building at 1045 North Grand. A year later, 1917, having outgrown its quarters, a building at 1418 North Kingshighway was erected and this was occupied until April, 1928, when it was sold to Sears-Roebuck Co., who razed it to make way for its new department store. Thereafter the dealer occupied temporary quarters at 4700 Washington avenue while its present plant was being built.

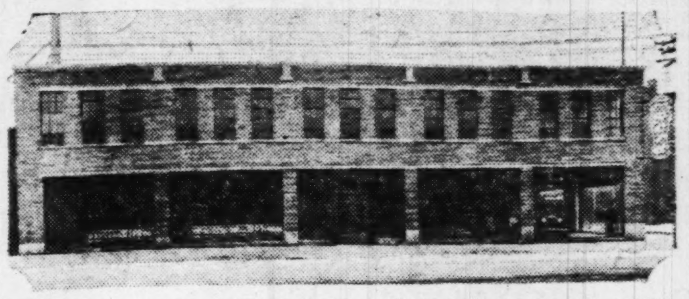
The first floor of the new building is divided into a display room, 50x50 feet, ladies' and men's rest rooms, executive offices and a modern parts department in which stocks are stored in steel bins. In the rear is the car receiving department, a car washing department and a battery service station.

A ramp leads to the second floor which is occupied exclusively by the repair department. This department is equipped with such features as overhead trolleys for removing engines from cars and transporting them to various departments of the repair shop, and steel work benches each with motor-driven repair equipment. Part of the second floor has been given over to an "employes' room" with lockers for clothing, shower baths and comfortable chairs to be used during luncheon periods.

The building has been so built that if more room is ultimately necessary another story can be added. At present a ramp leads to the roof upon which it is planned to storage used cars when weather permits.

Other officers of the firm besides Ayres are: C. C. Seiling, secretary; Mike Kane, sales manager; Roy Nicely, Kenneth Littedale and Emil Shweizer, sales staff; Al. Hagemeyer, shop superintendent; Frank Heffernan, parts department.

HOME OF AYRES FORD COMPANY



THIS is the new two-story sales and service building at Eighth and Cass avenue completed last Saturday for the Ayres Automobile Co., Ford dealer. The building is to be officially opened tomorrow.

Oakland-Pontiac 1928 Sales Total 260,246 Vehicles

Final sales figures for December—5,175 cars—just reported to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce by the Oakland Motor Car Co.—bring the total Oakland-Pontiac sales for 1928 to a new high record of 260,246 cars. This total is 67,280 greater than during the preceding year when 192,966 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes were sold to dealers.

Indianapolis Ready For Speedway Race

The first sanction granted by the A. A. A. contest board in the new year was for the annual 500-mile classic at Indianapolis on Memorial day. This race is the Grand Prize of American racing. The total purses posted for the drivers again reaches $60,000. In addition to this many of the larger accessory firms put up sums ranging from $1 to $5000.

BERRY MOTOR BUILDING IS REMODELED

Ramps From Floor to Floor Replace Obsolete Elevators.

G. M. Berry, president of the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributor here, announced yesterday that contractors have completed the remodeling of the four-story building at Twenty-second and Locust streets which his firm owns and occupies. Berry, in a statement yesterday, says:

"Present-day service work consists of a large number of comparatively small jobs which must be handled quickly. For this reason, all modern multi-storied automobile buildings are built with ramps instead of elevators. The slow-acting elevator creates congestion on the first floor because of the inability to move the cars fast enough. The Berry Motor Car Co., which has been seriously handicapped because of this condition, has modernized its building by the construction of a ramp.

"The company owns not only the four-story building, but the adjoining one-story building. Utilizing this additional property has made it possible to construct the ramp entirely independent of the main building, and without in any way either damaging the structure or sacrificing floor space.

The entrance to the ramp to each floor is through the elevator shaft. The entire ramp for the full four stories is inclosed by a steel and glass structure so that the cars may be moved from floor to floor within the inclosure.

"Because of the elevator handicap, short jobs, classified as quick-service jobs, have heretofore been done on the first floor. This, and the number of customers' cars which might come in at approximately the same time for service attention have created congestion that has in many cases caused annoying delays.

"With the increased accessibility of the second floor by means of the ramp, all quick service work will hereafter be done on the second floor. This will leave the entire first floor available for receiving and delivering customers' cars.

"The Berry Motor Car Co.'s service department is in charge of James N. Gaither. He has been in the Packard organization for the past 20 years, part of this time as a factory employe and for [illegible] years as manager of the Denver distributors' service department."

WENZLICK TOWER STIRS INTEREST IN SITES NEAR PLAZA

Eleventh and Market and Twelfth and Chestnut Tracts Considered for Large Buildings.

BANK MERGER LIKELY TO AID VICINITY

Noteworthy Demand for Ground Floor Quarters in Downtown Neighborhood.

By Berry Moore.

The Wenzlick Tower Building project for the quarter block at the southeast corner of Eleventh and Chestnut streets, announced exclusively in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch, suddenly awakened real estate men to the future of that part of the city, with the new Civil Courthouse as its pivot.

The offices of the proposed building will be designed primarily for lawyers. The ground floor will be occupied by the Wenzlick Realty Co. It will have 37 stories and will be 405 feet high, overtopping the Bell Telephone Building, the tallest in the city—396 feet.

The site occupies 106 feet on Chestnut and 104 feet on Eleventh, facing the new Civil Courts Building. On the Chestnut street side, the plans provide for a setback of the upper floors, with an octagonal tower at the top, on which a beacon to guide aviators will be placed. Whether a setback will be required on the Eleventh street side depends upon the interpretation of the city building code.

Wenzlicks Form Corporation.

Albert Wenzlick, president of the Wenzlick Real Estate Co., which occupies quarters on the premises, is the owner of the site. He was formerly head of one of the title companies, absorbed by the Title Guaranty Trust Co., now the Title Insurance Corporation.

The building is to be erected by a corporation composed of Albert Wenzlick, Delbert Wenzlick, vice president of the Wenzlick Real Estate Co., and Roy W. Wenzlick. It will cost approximately $2,500,000.

Several sites in this center are under consideration for large buildings. These include notably the northeast corner of Eleventh and Market streets, controlled by Joseph Darst Jr., and others, under a 99-year lease, and the northeast corner of Twelfth and Chestnut streets, controlled under a 99-year lease by Arthur J. Fitzsimmons, W. A. Kinney and Michael Kinney. Both sites are opposite the new Civil Court House and the Twelfth street corner is opposite the Memorial Plaza.

Eighth and Locust, it is believed, will take on new importance with the merging of the Mercantile Trust and the National Bank of Commerce, as is now proposed. The Mercantile Trust building, facing Locust, Eighth and St. Charles streets, now three stories in height, is to be increased to five stories. Foundations and frame work of the building contemplated ultimately increasing its height to 10 stories.

Purchasers for Federal Building.

The Federal Building block, running from Locust to Olive and from Eighth to Ninth streets, will be available for purchase as soon as a new Federal Building is erected. One of the largest banks in the city and several department stores are said to be considering the purchase of the Federal Building.

A large brokerage concern, according to the street, is dickering for the quarters of the National Bank of Commerce and its adjunct, the Federal Commerce Trust Co. on the east side of Broadway, extending from Olive to Pine street. The safe deposit vaults render the quarters attractive for large brokerage concerns.

There has been a noteworthy demand for ground floor quarters, especially in that part of the city. A recent feature was the purchase, on the part of brokerage concerns by Waldheim, Platt & Co., stock and bond brokers, of the eight-story concrete building at 513 Olive street, owned by the Pulitzer estate. Francis Bros. & Co. recently enlarged their ground floor quarters in the Rialto Building at Fourth and Olive streets to almost twice its former size. This involved the purchase of property on Olive street adjoining the Rialto Building.

JOHN A. LATZER RESIDENCE ON LAST LOT IN BRENTMOOR

The residence for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Latzer is being erected on the last remaining unimproved lot in Brentmoor. The plot is heavily wooded and very rolling and the house has been planned in an "L" shape to take advantage of views and exposures, and broad terrace is provided in the angle with stone retaining walls to form a foundation for the building. The house is designed in a Colonial style reminiscent of the houses of Charleston. The house will be of fireproof construction. The rooms are very spacious and the designs of the interior are in keeping with the same style. The building was designed and is being erected under the supervision of Maritz & Young, Inc., architects.

ARTOPHONE CORPORATION LEASES NEW BUILDING

The Artophone Corporation has leased a two-story building under construction by Joseph Berkowitz on the north side of Brown, east of Geraldine avenue. The building when completed will be equipped with modern heating facilities, sprinkler and electric elevator. One of the units of the building is fireproof.

The Mercantile Trust Co. represented both parties in making the lease.

NEW BANK BUILDING FOR CLAYTON PLANNED

Watchman - Advocate Also to Put Up New Quarters at Cost of $76,000.

Another large building is planned for Clayton, it was learned yesterday, following the announcement of the Trust Company of St. Louis County that it will expand. The trust company, of which James M. Rohan is president, plans a new structure and negotiations have been opened with the owners of property on Central avenue.

It also is announced that the St. Louis County Printing & Publishing Co., publishers of the Watchman-Advocate, plans to erect a new building and enlarge its present quarters on Central avenue.

Roy F. Essen, managing editor of the Watchman-Advocate, said the publishing company needed at least double its present space. The new building will represent an investment of $76,000.

JOHN H. GUNDLACH & CO. REPORTS SALES OF WEEK

John H. Gundlach & Co. reports an increase in sales for 1928 in the northwestern section. The following sales are reported for last week:

LOANS OF NEW YORK LIFE CO. TOTAL $100,000,000 IN 1928

The New York Life Insurance Co. reports that mortgage loans made by the company in 1928 aggregated $100,000,000. This makes the total mortgage loan investments that the company holds on various properties aggregate more than $500,000,000.

In 1928 the company made 3735 mortgage loan investments amounting to $99,962,522 and accommodating 13,128 families, it was announced. These loans were distributed throughout 246 cities in 41 states and the Dominion of Canada.

The outstanding mortgage loan investments of the company now total 29,607 loans for $533,420,660.

Of the $99,962,522 lent by the company in 1928, $1,210,210 was lent in the State of Missouri.

The Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co. is the St. Louis mortgage loan correspondent.

W. A. GIRALDIN INTERESTED IN BEVERLY HILLS MARKET

It is learned that W. A. Giraldin, president of the Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co., is one of the principal owners of the Sunset Hill Market Building, just completed in Beverly Hills, Cal. D. J. P. Hendrickson is interested with Giraldin in the project, which is a realization of a dream of W. A. Giraldin Jr., formerly of St. Louis, now prominent in the real estate business in Beverly Hills. The building, a "drive-in" market, was formally opened Wednesday. It is at the entrance of Sunset Hills at the corner of Sunset boulevard and Doheney Drice, of Spanish type architecture, with electric refrigeration and elaborate lighting effects. Space in the market has been lesed to well known market men.

HEINEMAN OFFICE UTILITIES LEASES LOCUST ST. BUILDING

Isaac T. Cook Co. reports closing a lease with the Heineman Office Utilities for the building at 1123 Locust street. This company opened a store Nov. 1 in the Arcade Building, but has outgrown those quarters.

The company will incorporate this month for $50,000. E. H. Heineman will be president and general manager. Heineman formerly was district manager for the Remington Rand Co. in St. Louis.

The two-story building at 3624 North Grand boulevard was also leased during the week to the North Side Motors, agency for Chrysler automobiles.

A new lease has been executed by G. H. Walker & Co. for the ground floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building at Broadway and Locust streets.

WOLF-POLLOCK COMPANY REPORTS NINE SALES

The Wolf-Pollack Real Estate Co. reports sales totaling $104,250 during the past week as follows: Apartment building. 720 Syracuse avenue, University City. for A. Simon to M. Bobolsky; flat, 1434-36 South Eighteenth street, for A. Rothman, to a client; flat for John Meyer at East Grand avenue, to A. Huegler; flat, 1519-21 South Compton avenue, for S. Lerner to P. Strickner; flat at 2521-23 Minnesota avenue, for M. Bobolsky to J. Chasson; southeast corner of Eleventh street and Ann avenue, flat, for Bertha Huegler to John Meyer; southwest corner of Folsom and Klemm avenues, store and flat building, for J. Amann to Felice Fusco; bungalow at 2748 Sidney street, for A. Payton to Janice Mason; 2012 Kraft avenue, bungalow, from A. Rothman, to M. Imperiale.

PRUDENTIAL REAL ESTATE MORTGAGE LOANS INCREASE

The Franciscus Realty Co., loan correspondent of the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, reports the company's real estate mortgage loans for 1928 amounted to $217,737,094, or $11,000,000 in excess of similar loans in 1927.

The total loaned on dwellings and apartment houses was $164,883,947. There were 23,155 dwelling loans and 1346 on apartments, for the accommodation of 44,669 families. In 1927 the total was $159,112,896.

On city properties other than those used for dwelling purposes, the loans for 1928 were $40,085,850, while those for the same purpose in 1927 were only $27,115,172.

Farm loans decreased during the year.

The company's total outstanding real estate mortgage loans, including those in force as of Dec. 31, amounted to $975,635,641.26.

DR. JOHN PARLE BUYS HOME ON RUSSELL BL. NEAR GRAND

The Julius S. Feydt Jr., Realty Co., reports the sale of 3542 Russell boulevard, a 10-room residence, with two baths, steam heat, by Edwin Roscher to Dr. John Parle, who will make extensive alterations and build a garage for two cars.

After alterations are completed, Dr. Parle will occupy the residence. Knickmeyer Fleer R. E. Co., represented the seller.

HIGH MONEY RATES CAUSE SLOWING DOWN OF BUILDING

S. W. Straus & Co. Predicts That 12-Month Period Probably Will Show No Great Loss Over 1928.

The year did not open under as auspicious conditions in the building industry as might be desired, says S. W. Straus & Co., in its report, which says there are unmistakable indications of a steady and general slowing down. According to reports received by the company from 540 cities and towns, there was a loss of 11 per cent in building permits issued in December, compared with December of the preceding year. This followed a series of monthly declines (in comparison with the same months in 1927), which were as follows: August, $316,004,086, against $354,241,575; September, $267,261,008, to $296,607,719; October, $293,006,602, to $296,172,437; November, $268,373,574, to $313,281,775, and December, $251,036,904, to $281,810,565.

Previously in 1928 building conditions, as measured by the index of permits, were on the upgrade. Thus the year was brought to a close with a lotal loss over 1927 of only 3 per cent. The reports for the 540 comparable cities were: 1927, $3,927,901,236; 1928, $3,807,173,711; December, 1927, $281,810,565; December, 1928, $251,036,904.

High Money Rates Is Cause.

It is apparent that the higher money rates prevailing during the closing months of last year were responsible for this adverse effect. The general business conditions of the country have been such throughout 1928 as to develop a strong building demand. There is at present no indication of a letup in business for the immediate future. High money rates, which may continue well into the new year, are expected, therefore, to bring about less activity for a while, but it seems to be the consensus among well informed interests that building conditions will later assume somewhat broader proportions and that the 12-month period probably will show no great loss over 1928. This view is based on the situation now existing, with the possibility, of course, that conditions outside the industry itself may either act to stimulate or retard the building program.

Smallest Since 1924.

The sharp declines which ensued toward the end of 1928 brought the total activities for that period to a lower level than has been reported since the year 1924. Basing the estimate on the group of cities and towns which report permits issued or plans filed to the company throughout the year, it is apparent that the total volume of building construction was approximately $5,335,000,000. It is to be remembered that these figures do not include such activities as often are referred to as construction. The reports here studied cover only the items of new buildings and alterations.

Building permits issued in approximately 550 cities for the last five years have been as follows: 1928, $3,807,173,711; 1927, $3,927,901,236; 1926, $4,359,807,173; 1925, $4,478,593,689; 1924, $3,740,791,486.

The 12 leading states, based on reports for the year 1928, were:

	No. of Places	Volume of Permits
1. New York	26	$1,152,278,282
2. Illinois	45	439,492,381
3. California	64	292,565,396
4. Pennsylvania	25	201,789,403
5. Ohio	29	198,196,135
6. Michigan	18	196,588,252
7. New Jersey	35	168,996,322
8. Massachusetts	28	136,017,161
9. Texas	18	108,132,858
10. Wisconsin	16	74,558,649
11. Indiana	19	71,027,537
12. Connecticut	18	68,836,089

Real Estate Financing Gains.

Notwithstanding the lower level of building permits issued during the year there was an increase in real estate financing of 13 per cent. A compilation of real estate security offerings, including mortgage bonds, debentures, collateral trust obligations and land trust certificates publicly advertised or announced follows:

	Amount.	No. of Issues.
December, 1928	$ 37,269,000	46
December, 1927	65,634,300	84
November, 1928	68,466,000	74
Year 1928	835,047,587	923
Year 1927	783,242,375	1077
Year 1926	8651,08,780	1083

The monthly average of building costs for the year 1928 was about the same as that for 1927. The

PLAN TO DISINTER BODY OF HUGO CAUSES ROW

Friends of Writer Declare He Should Not Lie in Gloomy Pantheon.

Special Correspondence of the New York World and Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The crypt of the Pantheon of the Immortals is too gloomy and damp a place for so luminous a spirit as Victor Hugo. Hugo must be brought back to the light, receive a state funeral, and his body placed in a sarcophagus, at least as imposing as that of Napoleon.

This is the demand of the friends and surviving relatives of the great writer. The demand has loosened and brought in the open a quarrel that had been smouldering for a long time between descendants of Victor Hugo and Emil Zola.

Hugo's descendants object that their illustrious forebear should lie in the company of Zola, a "third-rate novelist," as Leon Daudet, who himself married a daughter of Hugo, calls the champion of Capt. Dreyfus.

Daudet Still Hates Zola.

Daudet, who took an active part in the anti-Semitic and anti-Dreyfusard agitation at the time of the "affaire," does not hesitate to pile up a whole lot of other even less complimentary epithets on the dead Zola. He has never forgiven Zola for having brought about the liberation and acquittal of the Jewish Captain, and he still refers to both men as "traitors to the fatherland" and caluminators of the French army.

The request for the removal of Hugo's body from the crypt of the magnificent Pantheon, formerly the Church of Saint Genevieve, but confiscated by the French Government to make it a burial place for the great men of France, was made by Mme. Negreponte-Hugo, a granddaughter of the writer. She thinks that the austere genius of her grandfather is sullied by the nearness of other far less distinguished French citizens.

Although she specifies that she does not object to Jean Jacques Rousseau, Voltaire, Gambetta or Marcel Berthelot, who lie buried in the crypts adjoining that of Hugo, she implies that the presence of Zola and Jean Jaures, the slain Socialist Deputy, who was pantheonized during the premiership of Edouard Herriot, immediately after the war, are distasteful to her.

Rostand Enters the Row.

Maurice Rostand, son of the famous Edmond, creator of "Chanticleer," has also mixed himself in the quarrel.

"Better it were for Hugo to sleep in some unknown small country cemetery under the lucid blue sky of France than in that terrible cave of the Pantheon," he says. "How his spirit must be bored as droves of tourists crowd about his tomb every day and the guide recites his monotonous and silly little lesson about 'Here lies Victor Hugo, glory of French letters.' The cave is an indignity, an ignominy unworthy of a great people."

Certain friends of Hugo propose a compromise to have the poet's body moved to the main floor of the building, under the immense cupola, and that a sarcophagus similar to that of Napoleon under the dome of the Invalides be erected in his honor. Others again dissent from this plan.

"What is the difference between the crypt and the main floor?" they ask. "Hugo would probably be the first to ask that his ashes be left in peace," they maintain, and, as a matter of fact, Hugo asked before he died that he be buried in some quiet country graveyard. Although his family insisted that the last request of the writer be observed, the French Government overruled their objections, saying the honor of French culture and letters demanded that Hugo receive a place of honor among the most illustrious of the sons of France.

There are 52 bodies in the crypt of the Pantheon. In addition to the men mentioned above, a number of officers of Napoleon III found a last resting place there. They are all buried in one small nook of the immense cave, while a whole area of tunnels, corridors and subterranean chambers remain unoccupied, awaiting the death of others distinguished in the French nation.

"If Hugo is removed, Zola will be brought up from those cavernous depths," declares Marius J. Blond-Zola, son-in-law of the realist. "If Hugo is entitled to the sun, so is the spirit of Zola. The shades of these great men should never have been imprisoned in those obscure cellars. They belong to all the world, and should be restored to humanity, by giving them a decent burial and a resting place in the open."

NEW YORK LIFE LENT $100,000,000 IN 1928

The New York Life Insurance Co. reports that mortgage loans made by the company in 1928 aggregated $100,000,000. This makes the total mortgage loan investments that the company holds on various properties aggregate more than $500,000,000.

In 1928 the company made 3735 mortgage loan investments amounting to $99,962,522 and accommodating 13,128 families, it was announced. These loans were distributed throughout 246 cities in 41 states and the Dominion of Canada.

The outstanding mortgage loan investments of the company now total 29,607 loans for $53,420,660.

Of the $99,962,522 lent by the company in 1928, $1,210,210 was lent in the State of Missouri.

The Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co. is the St. Louis mortgage loan correspondent.

BRICHLER FIRM IN NEW OFFICE AT 4612 GRAVOIS

The Brichler Realty Co. has moved from 4738 Gravois avenue to larger quarters at 4612 Gravois. The company also reports the following sales: Single flat, 2943 Cass avenue, for Cecilia M. Luecking to Jacob Hoffman; single flat, 2941 Cass, for a client to a client of the Mercantile Trust Co.; double flat, 2945 Cass, for a client to a client of the Mercanitle Trust Co.

BUILDING AND LOAN LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

The St. Louis League of Incorporated Building & Loan Associations has elected the following officers: Paul Blackwelder, Midwest Saving & Loan Association, president; Oscar W. Earickson, American Home Building & Loan Association, first vice-president; J. E. Parsons, Security Saving & Loan Association, second vice-president; E. A. Kamp, Washington Saving & Building Association, secretary-treasurer.

The annual banquet of the League will be held Wednesday, at the City Club. In the afternoon there will be a meeting for general discussion to which the Illinois League has been invited.

Two Missouri Farms Sold.

The St. Louis Mutual Life Insurance Co. sold the Theodore Buettner farm in Perry County, Mo., comprising 163 acres, and the 90-acre Ingram-Wittener farm in Stoddard County, Mo. The Mercantile Trust Co. represented the insurance company in these transactions.

Four-Family Building Sold.

A client of the Mercantile Trust Co. purchased the four-family building at 2941 and 2945 Cass avenue from Elmer F. Brichler and wife. This property was bought as an investment.

GHERTNER REALTY CO. REPORTS RECENT SALES

Harry Ghertner of the Ghertner Realty Co. reports the following sales: 3133-35-37-39 Olive street (near Compton) consisting of four stores lot 80 feet front by 115 from the El-Mar Loan & Investment Co. to the Guarlford Realty & Investment Co., a corporation. The corporation owned the 40 feet, vacant, west of the property now acquired, which gives them a total frontage of 120 feet. The R. A. and G. B. Bullock Realty Co. intends to remodel the fronts as soon as weather permits. The management of the property in the future will be by the Bullock Realty Co.

1413 Sarsfield, a two-story brick building from Geo. Mundik to Vincent Vintimiglia; a residence, 5881 Romaine, for Ed. Chenoth; a bungalow in Lewis place, to Jean Greenwald. The company also reports a considerable amount of loans negotiated.

13 TRANSACTIONS HANDLED BY BLAKE REALTY COMPANY

The John S. Blake & Bro. Realty Co. reports the sale of the following property: 3550 Vista avenue, business building, for Philip H. Hale Jr. to J. Frank Fehlig; 4901-03 Washington boulevard, two residences, for Mrs. Esther I. Goldsmith to R. Hardt; 4569 Audubon avenue, flat, to D. ALBERT L. MELCHER JOINS FRANCIS REALTY CO. STAFF

Albert L. Melcher has affiliated himself with the Francis Realty Co. of 5003 Gravois. He was formerly connected with the Yeckel-Earickson & Co.

The Francis company has been in business many years in South St. Louis and the Gravois district. Melcher was born and reared in this section.

HIGH MONEY RATES CAUSE SLOWING DOWN OF BUILDING

trends, however, were different. Whereas the end of 1927 found the index about 4½ per cent below that of the beginning of the year, th year 1928 showed an approximate reversal of this condition.

The seasonal weakness in the building material markets was not pronounced during December, building cost indexes showing virtually no change. For the most part the markets held their own and the price declines reported in brick and Portland cement were not sufficient to offset firmness and slight advances in other materials.

Steel Market Firm.

The policy of curtailment of lumber production, although not altogether successful, proved effective this past year. Structural steel shapes had a firm market which it is expected will be carried into the first quarter of 1923.

If the recent action of the International Union of Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers, may be taken as a criterion, union labor will continue to stand for efficiency in industry. This fair-minded position indicates that labor as one of the factors of production views its problems upon a sound economic basis. The building industry may feel assured, according to the actions of these labor bodies, that labor will be a co-operating influence during the ensuing year.

The indext of labor costs rose less than 1 per cent during the year.

300 ATTEND BANQUET OF COUNTY REAL ESTATE BOARD

The annual banquet and installation of officers of the St. Louis County Real Estate Board held last Thursday at Westborough Country Club proved to be an unusual success. A record attendance, close to 300, were present.

A program, on which John B. Edwards, former Election Commissioner of St. Louis, was the principal speaker, supplemented by a program of singing and orchestra music, made the evening most enjoyable. After dinner dancing occupied the evening.

The St. Louis County Real Estate Board has just concluded a successful year and, with the installation of James R. Thursby as president for 1929, is looking forward to a year of growth.

The board is recognized as a potent and constructive influence in the affairs of the county.

A. FISS CO., AUTO TRUNK MAKERS, GO TO 3434 LINDELL

The A. Fiss Co. has leased for a period of 10 years, through the F. J. Cornwell Realty Co., the entire building at 3434 Lindell boulevard. It has been located at 3939 Olive street since April, 1926.

The A. Fiss Co. organized in June, 1925, as a corporation in small quarters at 1520 Olive street, manufacturing automobile trunks.

The popularity of Frisco auto trunks, sold in every State in this country and in many foreign countries, has again forced the firm to expand its quarters.

DAVID P. LEAHY REPORTS NUMBER OF TRANSACTIONS

David P. Leahy reports the following sales: North side of Manchester avenue, between Tamm and Sproule avenues, 110 by 140 feet, sold by A. N. Morton to James H. Bright & Co., who will erect a light manufacturing company building for a tenant for a number of years; 80 feet on the north side of Gravois between Gardenville and Philo avenue in Gravois City Limits Park, sold to Emil C. Wilke; 40 feet on the south side of Gravois in Gravois City Limits Park to Bertha Frantz; 40 feet on the north side of Chippewa between Gustine and Gravois from Wayne J. Stedelin to Mrs. Mary Kruse, who will erect a flat for a home; 35 by 40 feet on the east side of Sproule avenue, in Tamm and Manchester Heights to James Riley, who will erect a two-story brick building for a home; lot 1 in block 4 of Gravois City Limits, to Alma E. Lang.

All improvements in Grand-Gravois Park on Chippewa, Dunnica and Keokuk have been completed at a cost of $250,000.

M. E. FOSHER'S RESIDENCE ON CLEMENS AVENUE SOLD

The Mercantile Trust Co. has sold for M. E. Fosher and wife, their 10-room residence at 5716 Clemens avenue. This property fronts 60 feet on the south side of Clemens and has a depth of 175 feet.

CANARIES—Wonderful full-noted song birds; get this straight; over 5000 canary fanciers, out of St. Louis, buy their seeds, supplies, etc., here; one girl enters orders eight hours daily; you can realize when you think, two men pack constantly eight hours daily, mail orders; our own truck delivers these large consignments daily to the main postoffice; our stamp bills run into the thousands and you can further realize, only by constantly watching these customers, playing the game square, saving them money could we hope to build such an enormous business. When you think of the National Pet Shops, think in terms of common sense; think of a firm that can buy 10,000 to 100,000 small food holders; than can buy 50 barrels of cage cups; that can buy solid carloads of cages and 50,000 pounds of seeds and again think, what any importer or manufacturer thinks of such an account. They generally sharpen their pencils and cut prices, and only a fool could think differently. We are playing fair with our trade; playing fair with our employes and playing fair with our competitors. National Pet Shops.

CANARIES—Cages, pet supplies. Get this straight—two men pack freight and express here; one man packs city orders; five clerks to wait on retail trade. Berberich's fleet of trucks for city and suburban deliveries, our own machines for many deliveries, and watch what volume business means; watch startling prices; lower than ever; from Sundays to Sundays in this classified column and in practically every foreign and daily paper in St. Louis, display. We are sharpening our pencils, and our great buying power, our great outlets, our great and growing volume of business makes lower prices. The firm that buys in volume naturally buys cheaper; we bought carloads before the raise in birdcage prices; we have large contracts out for many, many items and price slashing that makes your dollars have more cents is the order of big business today. You'll soon be surprised. Watch our advertised prices, make an honest comparison, and smile with us. National Pet Shops.

CANARIES—Thousands on hand, hundreds arriving here daily; cage birds of every description; imported German male fully developed rollers and warblers, for songsters, for mating and for trainers, $4.95 each, $48 dozen; hundred lots, $350. The National Pet Shops are wholesalers and retailers, recognized as jobbers and enjoying by earned rights, lower prices and special discounts on many, many items. Realize this: We buy cages carloads; we carry carloads on hand; we employ 20 people; we wholesale to over 4000; this includes some large department stores, large florists, mercantile houses and hundreds of pet shops from California to New York. We have a large outlet; we have a wholesale department, a retail department and a mail order department; mail orders filled promptly and properly; four shipping clerks, five stenographers, bookkeepers, and get this straight, the largest, completest pet shops in the world; a preponderance of public preference has made this possible; some startlingly low prices will be made soon and from time to time. 3101 Olive.

GUARANTEE

PLEDGE TO THE PUBLIC ON USED CAR SALES

1.—Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

2.—All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

3.—Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any car in stock—new or used. (It is assumed that the car has not been damaged in the meantime.)

To the Public: We pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

MRS. W. W.—You probably have some claims against the insurance company. Consult a lawyer and show him all your papers.

HAZEL W.—The disease mentioned is not a ground for divorce, but it may be ground for an annulment of the marriage. Consult a lawyer.

J. B.—The boy's mother could not have the marriage annulled if he was satisfied with it, but it would be wiser to wait until he is 21 years old.

MR. E. R.—The son born in this country of foreign-born parents is an American citizen. If the children were all born in this country they are American citizens.

H. T. P.—You cannot charge storage for the automobile unless that was agreed at the time. Notify him that you are going to charge storage from this time on.

BOB.—They cannot hold him reliable for the remaining payments on the radio, but he cannot recover the $40 down payment, except by a suit, and it is possible that he would not win such a suit.

J. W.—The provision of the insurance policy will not prevent collection of the insurance unless the insurance company can prove that the insured contemplated suicide at the time he applied for the policy.

MR. L. H.—If your insurance policy names no one as beneficiary, but is payable to your estate, then if you die, leaving no will and no children or descendants, it will go one-half to your wife and one-half to your mother.

A. WILL.—Your wife can obtain one-half of your estate, regardless of your will. The will in its present form would probably not have the legal effect which you intend. Consult a lawyer and have him draw a will for you.

J. D. M.—If your wife had no good cause for leaving you, she could not get a divorce and alimony, but you could get a divorce. She would have to be served with a summons if you filed a divorce suit. Consult a lawyer.

RUBY S.—To become a Notary Public, apply to the Secretary of State of Missouri at Jefferson City. You can get an application form from him or from any downtown surety company. The cost for four years, including bond and seal, will be in the neighborhood of $28. There are no educational requirements, but you must be a citizen and 21 years old and or good character.

F. K.—You do not need a deed to the property and, in fact, you could not obtain one. Your mother-in-law's will should be recorded in the Recorder's office and if your husband left a will it should be recorded there also. You will have to take out administration on your husband's estate in the Probate Court in order to clear the title to the property. Consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

OLD TIMER.—Such swelling of the lip may be due to local causes, such as bad teeth, diseased tonsils, sinus trouble, pyorrhea, catarrh, etc., or to such systemic troubles as toxemia, infection, digestive disturbances, constipation or some abnormality of heart, lung, kidney or liver action. For correct diagnosis a thorough examination, with tests of blood and urine is necessary. This will be done free of charge at the city dispensary or some of the large hospitals such as Barnes, St. Mary's, etc., or if you wish us to recommend some one, send stamped, self-addressed envelope. We have no knowledge of the medical preparation you ask about so cannot advise concerning it.

S. O. B.—All beverages and liquids are diuretics, water being the simplest of such, others being tea, coffee and all alcoholics. Sweet spirits of nitre in teaspoonful doses in a glass of water three or four times daily is among the medicines most frequently used for such purpose. Much of the liquids taken are thrown out through the bowels, skin and breath, as well as by the kidneys. There is perhaps no occasion to suppose that this condition would tend to produce overweight, but is at least an abnormality and as such should be corrected if possible. The eating and drinking asked about would not tend in any way to produce gall bladder trouble.

A. M.—Styes may be cured and their recurrence prevented by applying the following ointment: Yellow oxide of mercury ointment in the strength of 10 per cent, to be applied to margin of eyelids at bedtime, after applying cloths wrung out of hot water for 10 or 15 minutes and drying thoroughly. Eye strain is to be corrected by giving the eyes as much rest as possible and wearing properly fitting glasses. For this an oculist should be consulted. Apply at the city dispensary or clinics of some of the large hospitals for examination or consult a private eye specialist.

JACKIE.—Such cases as mentioned are often resistant to any form of treatment, and for safety and best results should be under the personal care of a competent specialist in this line of practice. It is not fully decided whether eczema is due to a local or systemic causes, the probability being that both are responsible in most cases. At the Barnard Skin and Cancer Hospital, Theresa and Washington avenues, you would find skilled experts in such cases. If you wish some one recommended send stamped, addressed envelope, mentioning the kind of case. It is advisable to quit the use of milk in any form for a time and give, instead, orange juice, barley water, meat juices. Good results have followed the use of the following as an ointment: Olei cadini, 1½ drachms; cerati simplicis, 1 ounce; oil amygdal amar, 10 drops. Mix and make an ointment to be applied night and morning. Also it is advisable to quit the use of milk in any form, for a time, and give instead orange juice, barley water and meat juices.

IN MEMORIAM

AHLVERS—Kate, who passed away, Jan. 15, 1928.

Peacefully asleep, resting at last,
The world's worries and troubles are past.
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

ARMSTRONG—In memory of our dear mother, Sarah Armstrong, who passed away one year ago, Jan. 19, 1928.
Sadly missed by all.

BRONSTEIN—In loving memory of Max Bronstein, who passed away Jan. 16, 1928.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

CASE—In memory of Lettie Case, who died Jan. 17, 1924.
Gone but never forgotten.
HER BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

DAVISON, GEORGE W.—In loving memory of my brother, who died one year ago. BESSIE L. KAYSER.

DVORAK—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Frank J. Dvorak, who died Jan. 17, 1926.
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by wife and children.
MRS. M. DVORAK. (c)

GERBER, ANNA C.—In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, who departed this life two years ago, Jan. 19, 1927.
In our home she is fondly remembered.
Sweet memories cling to her name.
Those who loved her in life sincerely
Still love her in death just the same.
Sadly missed by
SPRINGMEYER AND KLAUS FAMILIES.

JELLISON—In loving remembrance of Lena Jellison (nee Kern), who died suddenly Jan. 21, 1928.
One year ago she passed away:
We grieved when she departed:
Time was too short to say farewell
To those she knew and loved so well.
We miss her coming footsteps,
We miss her everywhere,
Home is not what it used to be
Since Lena is not there.
Loving HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

KAYE—In memory of our dear wife and mother, Helen Kaye, who departed this life one year ago today, Jan. 20.
A precious one from us is gone:
A voice we loved is stilled:
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND AND DAUGHTER.

KOBY—In loving remembrance of my beloved son, George Koby, who died one year ago, Jan. 17, 1928.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in my home,
Which never can be filled.
MOTHER, RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

KOENIG—In loving memory of our dear sister, Emilie Koenig, who passed away Jan. 21, 1928.
From this world of pain and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dear loved one,
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by
SISTERS AND BROTHER.

REINHARDT—In loving memory of our dear mother, Lena Reinhardt, who departed this life, Jan. 18, 1926.
Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
MR. AND MRS. LOUIS REINHARDT.
MR. AND MRS. JULIUS NAHMENSEN.

SCHNYDER—In loving memory of Mrs. Johanna Schnyder, who passed away Jan. 16, 1928.
One year has passed since that sad day:
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Sadly missed by her sons,
CHARLES, JOHN AND JOSEPH SCHNYDER.

CHUTTENHELM—Mitilda; in loving memory of our dear mother, wife and sister, who departed this life one year ago, Jan. 18, 1928:
God's golden sun is shining
Upon our mother's grave;
The one we loved so dearly
And tried so hard to save.
And when we lost our mother
We lost our dearest friend;
We love you and miss you,
And will until the end.
Sadly missed by
HER DAUGHTERS, HUSBAND AND SISTER. (c)

STREIB—In loving memory of our dear mother and wife, Mary Streib, who departed this life one year ago Jan. 18, 1928.
We do not forget her, we love her too dearly,
For her memory to fade from our lives like a dream.
Our lips need not speak, when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.
HUSBAND AND DAUGHTER. (c)

WERNER—In memory of our dear son, Gilbert Werner, who departed this life three years ago, Jan. 14.
No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered. Since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true.
There is not a day, dear Gilbert,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
HIS PARENTS AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

WYNN-REINCKE—In memory of my beloved wife, Annie, our dear mother, who departed this life one year ago, Jan. 17, 1928.
Days of sadness oft come o'er us,
Tears of sadness often flow;
Love shall always keep you near us,
Though you left one year ago.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memories fade;
Loving hearts shall always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by FAMILY. (c)

YOUNGER, SARAH—In loving memory, who departed this life one year ago Jan. 21, 1928.
One year has passed since that sad day:
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN. (c)

ZIEGLER—Mary, died Jan. 16, 1924:
Dear mother, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by daughter,
CECILIA KRAUSE.

Salesmen

"Will 1929 be just 'another' year for you, or the most important in your life?

"It will be just 'another' year of headaches and heartaches for someone—for the kind of man who is in a rut, who knows he's in it and who lacks backbone enough to make a constructive move to get out of it.

"But for others—for the clear-eyed, aggressive, ready-to-face-the-world type of man it will mean something else—a new deal, a new opportunity, another chance to cash in on this energy his ability and the good times that all the economists predict.

"THE DAVIS REALTY ORGANIZATION

Has looked into the future, has been what 1929 holds and has laid its plans so that all of the men associated with its sales force shall enjoy to the maximum the rewards that are the inevitable result of good, hard teamwork, intelligently directed."

MEN

"We need good men—many of them—men of the same type that we now have in our sales force—men who can capitalize on our record of uninterrupted success who are serious and want a permanent connection, who realize the dollars and cents value of an opportunity to represent one of the largest and oldest real estate firms in the country—a concern with more than 20 years of successful development behind it—an organization where sales resistance is at a minimum."

"To such men we offer the opportunity of a lifetime: 1929 will be our biggest year. We have Ten Million Dollars of the finest and closest-in subdivision property for multiple homes, apartments and businesses in Clayton and University City, the kind that rapidly increase in value. We are starting a big advertising campaign through the newspapers and direct mail We want men—'Stickers' to follow this campaign. We will offer them a chance to make more money than they ever made before."

"Experience is unnecessary. We are thoroughly organized to train you and work with you and put you in production immediately. February will be a big month."

Come in and let us lay our cards upon the table Let us tell you what we are willing to do for you and what we expect from you in return.

Ziegfeld Sends Another

"Rio Rita" Comes to the American Tomorrow Night While "The Trial of Mary Dugan" Remains at the Shubert for a Second Week—"My Maryland" and "Strange Interlude" Are in the Immediate Offing.

TOMORROW night, the New York Theater Guild having moved out, Mr. Ziegfeld moves into the American Theater with his latest, so far as "the road" is concerned, glorification of the American Girl. "Rio Rita" Out at the Shubert the immensely pleasing melodrama, "The Trial of Mary Dugan," goes into its scond and final week tonght. "Rio Rita," let it be said, for two seasons ranked as New York's musical comedy leader. After preliminary road production late in 1926, it dedicated the new Ziegfeld Theater. There it played continuously, winter and summer, until the capacious stage was required for Mr. Ziegfeld's presentment of "Show Boat." Among its interpreters are Ethelind Terry, J. Harold Murray, Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Vincent Serrano, Joyce White, Alfred James Eunice Holmes, Marie Lambert the Albertina Rasch Dancers presenting the Moonlight and Black and White Ballet, and, of course, the Glorified Girls. All the scenes are from the brush of Joseph Urban, with the music and lyrics by Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy, and book by Guy Bolton and Fred Thompson.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

FOLLOWING Mary Dugan into the Shubert next Sunday night will be the musical play, "My Maryland," built around Barbara Fritchie's far famed defiance of the Confederate soldiers in waving the American flag long before George M. Cohan discovered the advantages in the same stunt. During the same week "Rio Rita" will continue to hold forth at the American and then, on Feb. 4, at that house, the New York Theater Guild will send its third company of the season here to present "Strange Interlude" for two weeks. This is the drama which has, as most of the world knows now, aroused more discussion and has gained more widespread publicity than any other play of recent years. Starting as it did under the enormous handicap of its length and its peculiar method of construction, most everyone thought that it would neither last long nor make a great impression. It so happens that now, after it has been running in New York for longer than a year, the six weekly performances have been packed. Even the heat of a New York summer failed to dent or deter the crowds. It is a success beyond the wildest dreams of the Theater Guild, and it is now regarded as the most successful production made by that institution in its existence.

The company which will present "Strange Interlude" at the American is headed by Pauline Lord and includes Ralph Morgan, Donald Macdonald and Harry Bannister. As in New York, the local performances will begin at 5:30 in the afternoon, with a dinner intermission from 7:45 to 9, with the final curtain at 11 o'clock.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

IN the Theater Guild's Repertory Company which ended its engagement at the American last night, were one or two players who have been seen on the screen of St. Louis cinema palaces. The New York stage has grown so used to losing stars to Hollywood and the movies that it is a little surprised to see the tide turning this season, and motion picture stars flocking back to the footlights.

William Farnum is playing Banquo in "Macbeth," Dorothy Gish is starring in "Young Love," Nazimova is a Russian heroine at the Civic Repertory theater, William Boyd has had this winter his first stage role since "What Price Glory?" and there are others under whose names the producers must write: "In Person" to convince playgoers that these are not motion pictures.

The newest acquisitions from the movies are Hedda Hopper, starring in "Tomorrow," and Bert Lytell, in the principal role of "Brothers." They and most of their colleagues are probably only temporary proselytes, seeking to establish themselves in successful parts on the speaking stage in order that they may attract favorable consideration for parts in talking pictures.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

BUT Bert Lytell's notion is that the stageward drift presages more than a temporary Hollywood holiday for the emigres. He, for instance, is filling his spare time with the diligent study of French, and when he can speak that language ably he will commence the mastery of a third tongue, and finally of a fourth.

The talking pictures of tomorrow, he is convinced, must be made not only in English but in other languages if producers expect to hold their European and South American trade. And the player, therefore, will need to have the same linguistic accomplishments as a grand opera star, who must know at least four languages before attempting a debut.

Lytell believes that a lot of motion picture stars will be wending their way New Yorkward not only for stage experience, but to master enough languages so that they will be prepared to accept talkie roles in any of several tongues, and to speak them well enough so that cultured audiences abroad will find no ineptness of accent or pronunciation to offend them.

Which all sounds very nice to be sure but one might remark in passing, that there are some movie stars in Hollywood who could, with profit, put in some time learning English as a starter.

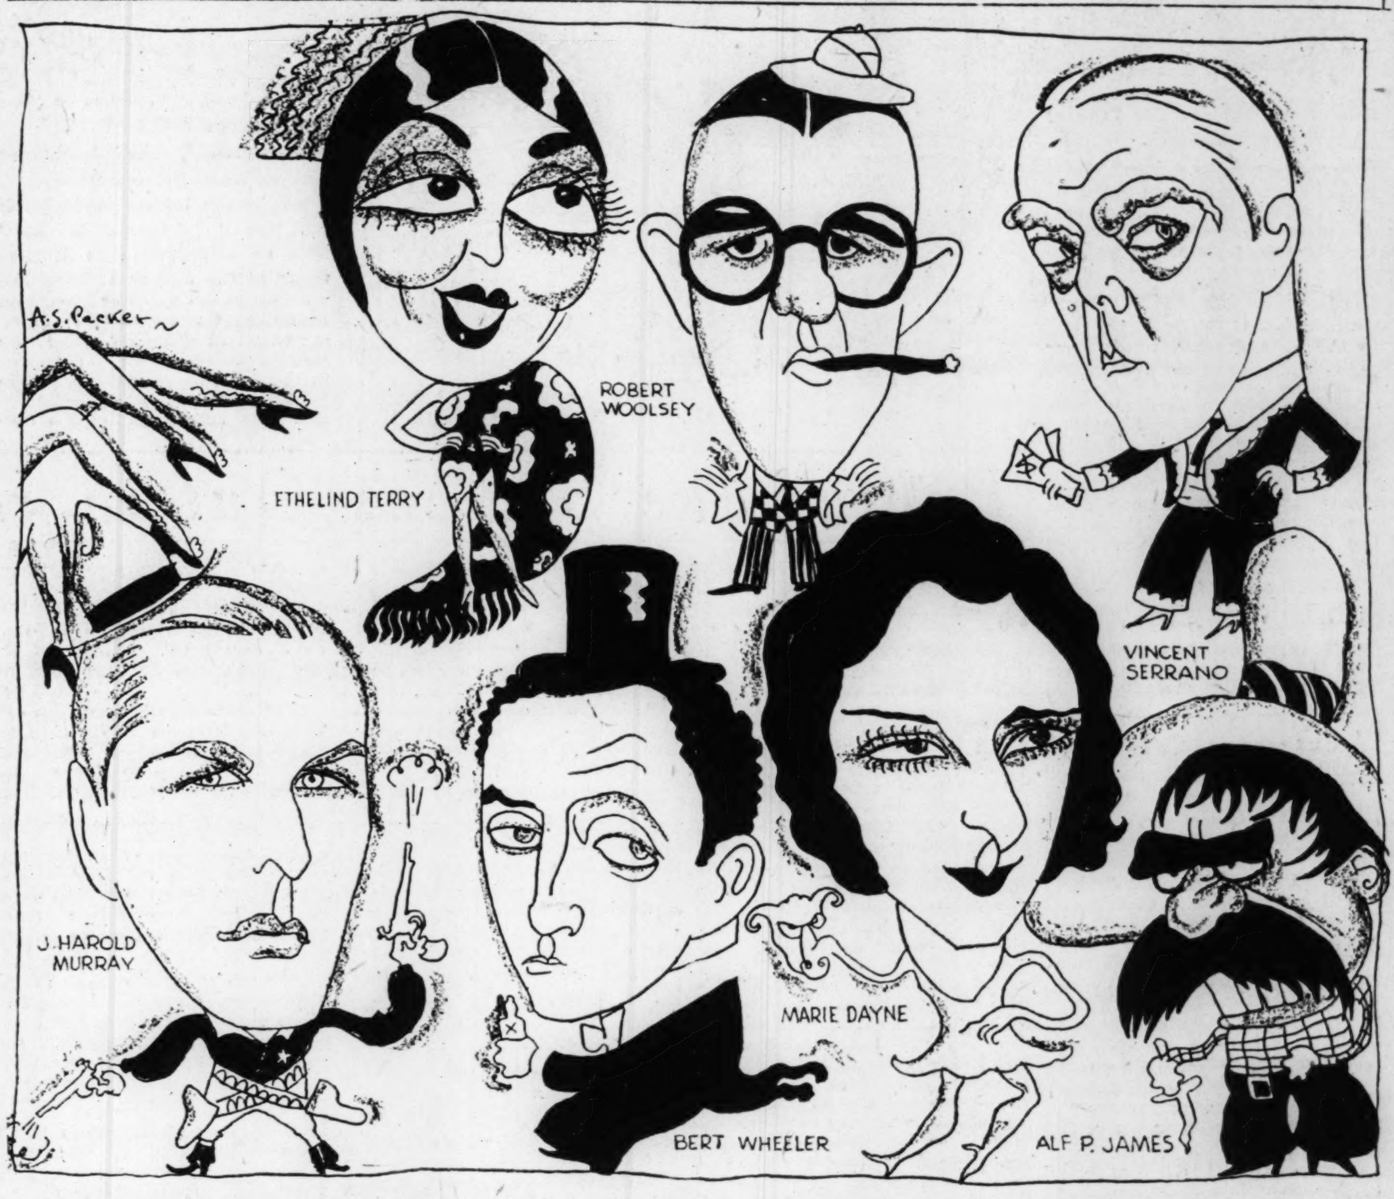
One Way of Looking at "Rio Rita" at the American Theater



SELLING CANDY AS A STARTER FOR THE STAGE

By Marjorie Dalton.

Marjorie Dalton, who plays the role of Mrs. Rice in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," at the Shubert Theater, tells here how she rose from a clerk in a St. Louis candy store to the stage.

I WAS born of German parentage about 60 miles out of St. Louis on a farm on the Missouri bluffs through which deer, bear and other woodland creatures ran wild. When the time came for me to go to school, however, my family moved to St. Louis, so that I might attend the Blair and later the Ames schools.

Before going into the show business, I worked at the Oakes Candy Shop at Broadway and Olive, which was then considered the center of the city. Oakes was the most popular place in town and my salary of seven dollars a week was then considered as very high wages indeed. The lure of the theater was even then upon me and I would go down to the old Olympic Theater and sit in the gallery, paying 25c to see the show and be thrilled to death. To be sure of getting in I would stand in line from 6:30 on, regardless of rain, snow or sleet, buying my two-bit tickets from the savings I could acquire out of my dollar-a-day salary. I also learned the hairdressing trade at Godfrey's Shop at Thirty-fifth and Olive, where now stands a gas filling station.

MY singing voice unlocked the theater doors to me. How well I remember my start on the stage. The second week, because of my voice, I was given the lead of the chorus. Somehow or other, there occurred a mixup, the orchestra getting the numbers confused, which resulted in orchestra, chorus and Marjorie Dalton being dismissed, and my heart was nearly broken.

This taste of stage life was only enough to enkindle my ambitions. I was one of the Princess Girls when the Shubert Rialto was known as the Princess Theater. I then did leading business in the Crawford neighborhood houses, after which I went on to New York and there broke into musical comedy work. My first part was in "The Pink Lady," produced by Klaw and Erlanger, in which I played the feature comedy role.

Then I did a singing act in vaudeville for a season, a "single;" then appeared in "Going Up," following this by "Irene," in which I played the Old Shubert Jefferson Theater, after which I played with Leo Donnelly at the Orpheum here. As "Lady Duckworth," I played the lead in "So This Is London," followed by the lead in "The Fool."

I THEN went into New York and "created" parts for a little while, but wasn't particularly lucky in picking winning plays. One was "Paid," another "Bless You, Sister," with Alice Brady, also "The House of Women," with Elsie Ferguson and Nance O'Niel. I did the "Mystery man" in New York last season for three months, after which Al Woods signed me up for "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Before beginning I came to St. Louis for a short vacation with my father, William Kleyboecker, and my brother, Hugo, living at 3407 California avenue.

I had been away from St. Louis for more than 10 years, and was certainly surprised to find the changes which had taken place during my absence. The old two-story building where I used to take singing lessons has been replaced by the Melbourne Hotel. I recall there was a great deal of controversy when I was a child over the rights of an old squatter, who settled himself where the Empress Theater (or Midtown as it is now called) stands and refused to give up his claim to the property. There were only a few scattered houses in the vicinity at that time, and Grand and Olive was the end of the horse-car line.

The winters then were much more severe than they are now, I think. I used to trudge through St. Louis Park on my way to Blair School with snow up to my knees. Remembering those days, I don't mind a little ice to tread on now, and am enjoying every moment of my all-too-brief two-weeks' engagement here.

Toy Theater Cast In a Barrie Play

Sir James Barrie's comedy, "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire," will be presented at the Toy Theater, Musical Art Building, Friday evening. Playing the title role will be Madeleine Douglas, who has had much experience in amateur productions. Sanford Wise, as her husband, Col. Robert Gray, has also had much theatrical experience. Rosalind Douglas and Halford Houser are playing the roles of their children, Amy and Cosmo. In the part of Ginerva, Amy's friend, is Florence Schreiber. William Yeager will appear as Stephen Rollo, a villian; and the nurse will be played by Virginia Wise. Mary Evelyn King will play the part of the maid. Mrs. Douglas has also directed and staged the play.

Fox Theatre Opens Jan. 31

New House Will Be Thrown Wide to the Public on That Date With "Street Angel" as the First Attraction—Several New York Companies Prepare to Broadcast Plays, Sight and Sound, by Radio in the Very Near Future.

DEFINITE announcement was made last night by Major John Zanft that the new Fox Theater on Grand Boulevard would open on Thursday night, Jan. 31. Zanft, the head of all of the Fox theaters througnout the country, has been in St. Louis several days and while it was at first thought advisable to postpone the opening until the middle of February the earlier date has been set.

Double shifts of workmen are now on the job day and night and the $5,000 000 show house, one of the finest in the world, will be in shape by the end of the month. The opening picture will be "Street Angel," a film which the Fox office has been saving up for some time for the occasion. Janet Gaynor is the star and elsewhere it has proven a tremendous success.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

SEVERAL times in this column in the last few months reference has been made to the fact that, sooner or later, the film producing companies would have rivals in the field with the broadcasting of a complete play scenes, actions and words. The Radio Corporation of America, which took over the Orpheum circuit of theaters with just that thing in mind, is still working to perfect the machines which will do the business. But others are entering the game also and the rapidity with which the various synchronizing devices for transmitting motion pictures by air are progressing is demonstrated in a recent announcement coming from the offices of Sound Pictures, Inc This has to do with Moviephone, said to be the latest motion picture synchronization machine in which a running magnetic wire plays the principal part. Dr. S. N. Baruch, general manager of Sound Pictures, Inc., reveals the fact that a series of New York plays, in their entirety and with the original casts, will be broadcast over the United Broadcasting Chain through Station WBNY in New York. There are twenty-six stations on this circuit, most of them being in the East with no St. Louis hook-up at present.

Dr. Baruch says further that it is planned to start these experiments at an early date, and to date arrangements have been made with five shows. The method used will be to install a Moviephone recorder in the basement of the theater connected with microphones on the stage.

The wires, which are magnetically treated and are run on spools, will record the actual performance, which at a later date will be sent through the air. In this way it will be possible to record even the largest of attractions because of the minimum cost of reproducing. In the past this cost has been increased, due to the necessity of moving the cast intact to the broadcasting station, or sending the show over the air direct from the performance. With Moviephone as a basis the show can be broadcast the next day and as many days following that as are needed.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the invention and the marketing of the Moviephone was made to the public last week, when a private demonstration of the machine was given to members of the press and editors of the motion picture trade publications in New York. The basic foundation of the machine is mainly telephonic and is said to present a serious problem to the motion picture producers and distributers, in that it entirely revolutionizes the present motion picture field. From all appearances the machine solves the problem of making exterior pictures. With the exception of the Fox-Case Movietone there is no other device on the market that enables the director to take his company on outside locations and make pictures synchronized to both music and dialogue.

By reason of being able to erase anything on the magnetic wires by almost the same operation in which the sound is recorded eliminates expensive retakes that are so common in motion picture studios. Then, too, there is the assembling of the picture which has been a heartache to the producer. Much on the same line as the film is cut and edited so, too, can the wires be cut and welded. The wire is then wound on spools, or reels, and is run simultaneously with the film with its synchronization controlled electrically.

◆ ◆ ◆ ◆

"WHEN television progresses to the extent that it is possible to have our motion pictures shown to us in the comfort of our homes," Dr. Baruch says, "you also will be able to have talking pictures at the same time."

"Whatever the system used in the transmission of pictures, it will only be necessary to own one of the new radio sets in order to get perfectly synchronized pictures with dialogue.

"According to the plans now reaching a form of completion at the Sound Pictures studios, a cueing system is being arranged whereby at given periods certain cue dots will be transmitted while the motion pictures are on the air, thus enabling the receiver to tune his radio set into perfect accordance with the picures he is watching.

"This will be arranged on the spool wires of the Moviephone in such a way that when a certain point passes on the wire the receiver will catch a flash and by a pre-released due sheet will be able to tell whether his radio is in tune with his television.

"Many years ago a melodrama was produced in which the principal basis of the plot was a telephone picturegraph in which an inventor had contrived a means of visualizing the party on the other end of the wire. At the time this show was produced critics and the public ridiculed the idea of such an invention, but just as every other invention was laughed at which later proved not only a luxury but a necessity in the lives of humanity, so, too, did they boohoo the idea of television.

"Today we have television and radio, and with television with radio plus Moviephone the result is wireless motion pictures with sound.

"The system used in Moviephone is that of magnetic fluxes along a fine steel wire which runs in between the poles of two magnets from one spool to another; thus there is no such thing as a key wire, and the wires that 50 copies might be made with are the same as the original wire with the same magnetic fluxes, thereby losing nothing of the original tonal value, whether it be music, sound or voice."

Molinari in His Final Concerts With Symphony

Beethoven's Minor Symphony to Be in This Week's Programs at the Odeon With Corelli's Suite for Strings.

BERNARDINO MOLINARI, guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will present his concluding concert pair for 1929 at the Odeon Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of this week.

He will present on that program Beethoven's C Minor Symphony. It will be opened with the Suite for Strings from Opera V by Archangelo Corelli, Molinari's opening number in his debut concert here last year, and will come to a close with Respighi's modern symphonic music, "The Pines of Rome."

Other numbers on the program are an intermezzo from Wold-Ferrari's "The Four Rustics" and Claude Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun."

Archangelo Corelli is the fountainhead of the modern orchestra. It was he who first taught unison bowing as an essential in the string ensembles. His Suite for Strings is compacted by Ettote Pinelli from different Sonatas in Corelli's Opera V, originally written as a group of solos, but the airs now transcribed for modern string orchestra. The ingratiating melody, the transparent style of the work made a profound impression last season and it is repeated this year at the request of the Symphony Society.

Respighi, on the other hand, is the foremost of living Italian symphonists. His "Pines of Rome" is a glorification of Italian history, an evocation of the grandeur that was Rome. Yet it is so modern that a phonograph is among the instruments. The phonograph is heard, however, only to present the actual song of a nightingale in an essentially lyric section of the work.

Many there are who hold that Beethoven's C Minor No. 5 was never equaled and certainly never surpassed by the genius of its creator. Molinari is of course familiar with it from his frequent presentation of all the Beethoven Symphonies in his Augusteo concerts.

The Wolf-Ferarri number is an intermezzo from his opera, "The Four Rustics," with a decidedly rustic spirit in its music.

The program as a whole is:

Suite for Strings from Opera V...Corelli
I. Sarabande.
II. Andante con moto.
II. Gigue.
III. Allegro; Trio.
III. Badinerie.
Symphony in C minor No. 5....Beethoven
I. Allegro con brio.
II. Andante con moto
III. Allegro trio
IV. Allegro.
"Prelude to The Afternoon of a Faun" .... Debussy
Intermezzo from "The Four Rustics" ......Wolf-Ferrari
"The Pines of Rome" .... Respighi

of screen dramas. With the imminent departure of the wild-and-woolies from the American screen, for a time at least, suggested in the dropping of Westerns from the production schedules of certain Hollywood studios, many of today's favorite heroines, established or up-and-coming in the preferred types of film drama, must be indulging in reminiscences of their own "days when."

Days not so long ago, either, for any number of youthful stars and featured players among the colony's feminine contingent have trod desert and mountain trails as part of the rocky road to fame.

Laura La Plante, a St. Louis girl, for one, just four years ago was being rescued periodically from bandits and villains by the doughty Hoot Gibson—one of the few among the hard-riding, two-gun clan who apparently is standing by those guns and continuing to ride, despite other producers' ideas as to what the public wants.

LAURA dashed around in these two-reel Westerns until her first "big break," a role in support of Reginald Denny which led ultimately to stardom. Laura enjoyed the great open spaces, and they served as an excellent course in her school of hard knocks before the stellar diploma was her own.

Looking at random over the field of other rising stars who at one time or another have played cowgirl Juliets to sagebrush Romeos, it appears that the fading of the Westerns may rob the movies of a training school that has its good points.

Certainly, for one thing, learning to eat sand-spiced food from tin plates, and to like it—to cite only one of the frequent rigors of cowboy "location" work—is not conducive to development of temperament in budding headliners.

JOAN CRAWFORD, whose name is boxoffice gold now, served her turn in six-shooter drama, as have little Dorothy Janis and Dorothy Sebastian—all now doing well, thank you, at M-G-M. And at Paramount, Jean Arthur, Mary Brian, Doris Hill, Esther Ralston and Fay Wray are among those familiar with the lovemaking tactics of Western heroes as practiced for the camera.

Polly Moran, of course, knows more about this Western life than any of them. Her "Sheriff Nell," riding roughshod and hilariously over the hills, started her to renown as a leading comedienne.

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.

ANTIQUE beds and exotic draperies, chandeliers of strange design, copies of famous statues, and thousands of rare and sometimes valuable objects besides, all have their place in a motion picture studio "property" department.

But there are times when the atmosphere artists of the screen gladly would exchange some of these undoubted rarities for a wooden washtub, an old-fashioned kerosene lamp, or a coffee-grinder.

That is why studios zealously preserve all such museum pieces of common household life in the times before modern electrical device sent them into oblivion.

If a scene is to represent an old-time country store as was the case at First National the other day, obviously the shelves cannot be laden with radio parts, delicatessen dainties, safety razors, electric flashlights and the like. They cry for pieces contemporary to the moustache cup, the stereoscope and the tandem bike—and thanks to the foresight of the "prop" experts, the cry was answered, in this case at least.

Scores of humble antiquities were perched on the shelves and in the show-windows, the collection including even a bee-hive twine holder and an individual shaving mug. The whole struck chords of reminiscence in Chester Conklin and William V. Mong, while Louise Fazenda was led to remark on the unlikelihood that any modern girl could name half the articles, much less identify their uses.

Automobile license plates of states other than California, and of foreign countries, constitute another property problem of little proportions nowadays, however, because of efficient cataloguing of the various plates by years as well as by locale. Then, too, it is possible to copy from photographs, also on file, in an emergency. At the first of the year, as now, when new tags are being purchased, directors demanding the "latest out" in all details for a modern production especially a jazz and gin feature of the up-to-the-minute type, sometimes lead the "prop" seekers to unwonted scurrying around to meet the needs.

Sometimes tourists from other states discard their "foreign" markers here, and these serve often to swell the "prop" resources. Thus tags that rattled westward on woebegone flivvers may arrive to the dignity of adorning the princely coach of a make-believe heiress at an "east coast resort," or the snappy roadster of a "Princeton collegiate."

MOTION picture directors meet many queer problems, but a novel directorial woe has come to light here. It represents a conflict between tradition and the requirements of historical accuracy—and strange as it may seem in a practical business like this of picture making, tradition won and the inaccuracy was filmed. While only deeply learned students of Chinese lore may note and scoff at the discrepancy, there it is, none the less.

The picture in question is a romance of imperial China, and is photographed entirely in natural colors.

The studio's research department painstakingly investigated the costuming of the period, and as a result the court dress as reproduced was deemed authentic.

But when the robes were presented the players, they refused to don them. The old Chinese tradition that the color was sacred to the ruling family, to be worn only by immediate members thereof, influenced them to prefer another shade, even though the monarchy it hallowed now is dead.

So a compromise was effected, and gold-orange was used instead of the historically proper shade.

The hackneyed story of the little girl who tumbles into stardom immediately on arrival in Hollywood has a literary counterpart in that of Humphrey Pearson.

Wearying of advertising work in the East, and sharing the rather common desire of mortals to write, Pearson set out for Hollywood. En route he wrote a play—one act, on a visit to his mother in Ohio, a second while visiting friends in Chicago, the third on the train between Chicago and Los Angeles.

As is well known, selling a drama for motion picture production is no easy matter. Most studios return unsolicited manuscripts unopened. But Pearson, through a letter of introduction to one of the studios, got a reading for his work. It was purchased immediately for talkie adaptation.

THE womanless drama comes to Hollywood.

A two-character play, rare enough on the stage and probably unique in the history of serious motion pictures, is engaging the present attention of William De Mille, veteran director of other people's plays, who now is taking a turn at one of his own.

The feminine dramatic element is entirely absent, except in so far as it enters the dialogue of the two principals, for the new attempt, of course, will be a talkie.

Long-time associates of the late Theodore Roberts, who was in the stage presentation of "The Man Higher Up," are in the talking screen version—Hobart Bosworth and Robert Edeson.

The production, incidentally, marks something of an anniversary celebration for DeMille and Edeson. It was exactly 24 years ago, in late December, that the two were first associated in the theater.

Perhaps it is a tribute to the importance of feminine adornment to pictures that the new talkie will be only two reels in length. One thing is certain—Hollywood's hordes of "extras" will not rise to cheer the innovation.

Amateur radio operators in the California desert or mountains may be, all unwittingly, among the numerous contributors to the nightmares of those engaged in the recording of sound pictures.

Players "on location" mile away from Hollywood sending the vocal expression of their thoughts and emotions back to studio sound stages and recording rooms here by means of remote control connections occasionally suffer aerial interference, which may make what originated as an Indian love song sound when recorded like music of buzzards.

Linemen employed to ferret out the source of this trouble usually trace it to power wires of telephone lines crossing the sound connections, but occasionally amateur radio stations, dynamos and battery charging establishments are blamed.

WHY all this pother about foreign stars and their impossibility in the talkies? One of them, at least for the present, well might ask the question.

The tempestuous Baclanova, whose accent is as Russian as her origin and training in the Moscow Art Theater, was not prevented thereby from assuming a leading role in a forthcoming all-dialog production, and for a while at any rate, the same means of hurdling the linguistic obstacle might be employed by other holders of contracts with beauties more blessed with pulchritude than with excellence of English.

The "way out," in Olga's case, was provided by the scenarist who, cutting the glove to fit the hand, made the role one in which the Russian luminary might speak under the microphone whenever she wishes—and without undue fear. The character is, of course, exactly what Olga, linguistically speaking, is in real life, a Russian with an accent.

And thus is a handicap made art!

Quite plausibly, too—for who will quibble over the right of the hero as played by George Bancroft to select whomever he pleases for a wife? George simply marries a Russian.

To Study Russian Music.

The newly formed Abendmusic Club began its outline of study with an introduction to Russian music at the regular meeting last Tuesday at the home of Miss Dora Rubin, 6017 Etzel avenue. Ensuing meetings will be devoted to a detailed consideration of Russian composers, beginning with the founders, Glinka and Dargomizsky. The club is planning a concert for the early part of March to which the public will be invited.

Facing the Music

THE Harmonic Guild Musical Club will hold its regular meeting at 2:30 this afternoon at the home of Miss Nadyne Fager, 6603 Wise avenue. In addition to the program, officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

The program for the free popular organ recital in the Scottish Rite cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, at 3 p. m. today, by O. Wade Fallert, is announced as follows:

Ethel Leginska, conductor of the Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra, will conduct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in its tenth Sunday concert at the Odeon, Feb. 3. Mme. Leginska will present upon her program the Mozart D major symphony, the Tschaikowsky in F minor, and will also appear as soloist, and conductor in presenting the Bach F minor concerto for pianoforte and orchestra. Last season she conducted the St. Louis orchestra at a most successful "pop" concert and this year in presenting her own Boston Women's Symphony made a marked impression by her skill, her discipline and her musical resourcefulness.

At the regular meeting of the Musical Research Club Tuesday at 2 at the Town Club, the following program will be presented:

String Ensemble:
1. My Dreams ....Lee
2. Sparklets ....Miles
First violins—Sylvia Walden, Kathryne McIntyre; cello—Margaret Heid; piano—Katherine Johnson; violin obligato—Helene Heid, Mrs. O. W. Jenks.

Miss Edith Gordon.

The Eighth District Missouri Federation of Music Clubs, of which Mrs. Hugo Wiemers is president, will hold a musicale tea at the Congress Hotel Friday at 2:30, when they will present Miss Marjorie Ashcraft, contralto of Malden, Mo. This will be Miss Ashcraft's first appearance in St. Louis. She will sing later at the Musicians' Guild.

The fourth of a series of afternoon musicales given by the Mu Phi Epsilon sorority, will be held this afternoon at the home of Miss Viola Reitter, 3971 Flora place.

Josef Lhevinne has arranged a special children's concert for next Saturday afternoon, to be given at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., Union and Enright avenues.

The concert has been arranged primarily for younger people and is light in content and shorter than the main concert which will be given the following evening. Selections from Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Chopin and Liszt comprise the program.

Following are the numbers that will be played by Lhevinne:

Moonlight Sonata .... Beethoven
Presto in E Major.
Spinning Song .... Mendelssohn
Hark, Hark, the Lark.....Schubert-Liszt

Sylvain Noack, the Soloist, At Today's "Pop" Concert

Sylvain Noack, concertmaster and solo violinist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, is to play the Mendelssohn concerto for violin and orchestra, with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra under Bernardino Molinari, as soloist of the Popular Concert at the Odeon at 3:15 p. m. today.

Mendelssohn himself preferred a violin when he played a stringed instrument and in his famous concerto he had in mind his friend, the distinguished violinist Ferdinand David, for whom it was composed, and who assisted in the solution of some of the technical problems it proposed. Last year it was heard when Cecelia Hansen appeared with the orchestra under Molinari's baton.

This is Mr. Noack's one appearance as soloist with the orchestra this year. Noack for three years has been concertmaster of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, having come here from Los Angeles, where he held a similar position, and where in the summers he is concertmaster for the world-famed Hollywood Bowl concerts. He is a native of Holland and came to this country to be second concertmaster, under Dr. Karl Muck, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The soloist did not start upon his musical career as a violinist. In childhood a talent revealed itself and he turned to the piano. At 15 he played the Mozart D minor in public. He entered the Amsterdam Conservatory as a piano pupil and to conform with the rules of that institution must also master a second instrument. He chose the violin and at 17 was playing in the first violin choir of the famous Concertgebouw Orchestra. His masters in that instrument were Andre Spohr and Bram Elderling. Soon his attention became enwrapt in the violin, and he graduated from the Conservatory with its Prix d'Honneur for that instrument.

Carl Flesch, then head of the violin department of the school immediately offered Noack a post as his assistant. In Flesch's famous quartet he played second violin. He continued at the Conservatory until a post at Aix-la-Chapelle was offered and he became concertmaster there. Then Boston sought him and he remained in that city where he organized the famous Boston String Quartet, through the Muck and Rabaud conductorships, after which he went to the Pacific Coast.

Molinari opens his program today with Smetana's overture to "The Bartered Bride," which was a recent feature of his regular concerts. The program offers also "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," Rossini's "Semiramide" overture and Wagner's overture to "Tannhauser." In detail it is:

Overture to "The Bartered Bride" ....Smetana
Concerto in E minor for violin: ....Mendelssohn
I. Allegro molto appassionato.
II. Andante.
III. Allegretto non troppo. Allegro molto vivace.
Sylvain Noack.
"The Sorcerer's Apprentice" ..... Dukas
Overture to "Tannhauser" ..... Wagner
Overture to "Semiramide" ..... Rossini

John Charles Thomas In Concert Recital At Odeon on Tuesday

Singer to Appear Under the Auspices of the Civic Music League in a Program Containing Several Songs New to Local Audiences

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS, scheduled for a song recital at the Odeon on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Civic Music League is the outstanding feature in the recital field for the week for Thomas is distinguished both in opera and in song recitals. He contends that both opera and the concert platform demand the same thing—perfect and adequate interpretation of the particular thing in hand. "Interpretation," declares this eminent American artist, "depends first of all on words." One must have a thorough understanding of the text, or interpretation is impossible. This is just as important in recital as in opera, as the recital artist has only his individual art to rely upon for effects. The selection of a song program is of first importance. A song is good if it has a good story or a gorgeous melody or both, otherwise not. If the composer has delineated the story correctly, then it is a great song. Interpretation depends on a singer's grouping and musicianship. To sing a song adequately, one must have it so well in hand that it will not be necessary to think of it in any detail during the rendition. Thus the singer's powers are released for concentration upon the delineation. If you want to make others feel, you must feel yourself.

On Mr. Thomas' program will be an interesting collection of songs, many of them new to local concert audiences, from German, French and American song writers. Thomas will be assisted by Lester Hodges at the piano.

The program follows:

Day by Day In New York

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.

THE newest in gentlemen's lounging robes is of heavy flannel with collars and cuffs of unborn lamb's wool and is priced from $175 to $300. And, as the salesman told me, a cut-out pocket monogram is $8 extra and very chic. It should be at least chic for that.

A French actor is going home because people do not call him by his right name. In the Latin countries, the name Chaplin is unknown. He is Charlot. In France, where the comedian was at one time very popular, he is never mentioned in any other way than Charlot.

Journalism seems a frock-coated calling today compared to some 20 years ago. I have been reading "My Life," by Fremont Older, the fighting editor of the Pacific Coast. Mr. Older was a crusader who would not cause such a flurry in an era of crusading journalists, but in those days his life was in constant jeopardy. He was threatened, actually kidnaped and there were, no doubt, many prices on his head. Mr. Older tells frankly of things that faced journalists of another period and of the temptations to which he succumbed. Others have not been so frank.

Short shavings: There are always about 100 requests weekly for pictures of Rudolph Valentino....Louise Groody has a pet bear....Wilson Mizner is reported Broadway-bound from Hollywood....Mortimer Davis, who married one of the Dolly Sisters—I don't care which one—spends his time crossing from London to New York and back again....An architect is building a three-story building entirely of glass and brass rods on East Twenty-first street....New York auto salesmen are known as "bus boosters"....On 125th street is the Graf Zeppelin Coffee Shoppe....A New Yorker went to Paris eight years ago to learn French....He liked the country and remained....Now he can hardly speak English....Broadway's highest salaried theatrical press agent receives three times the salary of New York's highest paid preacher....Ann Pennington, currently reported engaged to George White, Buster West and Harry Richman, remains single.

My Second Assistant Spy tells me one of the startling confession books scheduled for spring publishing is by a certain divorced New Yorker who will tell how he supported three women aside from his wife without any one of them knowing of the others for years. What a life!

And I like the story of the newly rich lady dropping into Auto Row and saying to the salesman: "I want a new car. Mine's dusty."

Claire Luce has made a hit in London in the Barbara Stanwyck part in "Broadway." Heretofore she has danced in "The Follies" and never spoken a line.

DR. DE MENIL'S ESTIMATED ESTATE NEAR $1,340,000

Inventory of Late Author's Property Shows $139,743 Personal and 23 Parcels of Realty.

Dr. Alexander N. DeMenil, dean of St. Louis letters, who died Nov. 30, left an estate consisting of $139,743.72 in personal property and 23 parcels of St. Louis realty, as shown in an inventory filed in Probate Court yesterday.

No appraisal is placed on the realty in the inventory, but examination of records at City Hall shortly after Dr. DeMenil's death disclosed he owned property having a total assessed value of $840,000. As realty is usually assessed at 70 per cent of its value, it was said that the market value of the DeMenil realty is approximately $1,200,000. The most valuable holding is the DeMenil Building at Seventh and Pine streets.

Listed among the personal items are notes totaling $65,150, bonds appraised at $5000, cash totaling $69,261.57 and chattels valued at $332.05.

Dr. DeMenil left no will, and the estate will be divided, according to law, among his legal heirs. They are his widow, who will get one-third; a son, George S. DeMenil, who receives another one-third, while the remaining one-third will be divided equally among three grandchildren, who were the children of a deceased son of Dr. DeMenil.

The inventory was filed by George DeMenil, 3635 Pennsylvania avenue, as administrator. Dr. DeMenil lived at 3352 South Thirteenth street.

TELLS HOW VICTIM OF VIPER RECOVERED

Doctor Who Treated Man Bitten by African Snake Describes Treatment.

The recovery of R. Marlin Perkins, curator of reptiles at the St. Louis Zoological Gardens, the first person in the history of medical science to live after being bitten by one of the deadly Gaboon vipers of Africa, was the subject of a paper read before the St. Louis Herpetological Society last night by Dr. Forest H. Staley, president of the society, an authority on snakes and snakebites.

Dr. Staley attended Perkins, utilizing the makeshift materials that were the only counter-agents available and making medical history as he proceeded. There was no precedent for the measures he employed in saving the curator's life. Previously the bite of the Gaboon viper has been followed inevitably by death within two hours. A rabbit bitten by one of the serpents in a serum test survived 55 seconds.

There is a serum for the bite of the Gaboon viper, but the zoo had none of it on hand. It is a new product recently developed by a German firm of chemists. Perkins received a circular from the firm and ordered a quantity of the serum, just a few days before he was bitten.

Has Large Poison Sacs.

"The Gaboon viper of the West African forests is the most awe-inspiring of all the serpents," Dr. Staley said. "Its gorgeous colors blend into the forest floor and its bulk make possible the sudden launching of its great broad head, broad in order to make room for the giant poison sacs.

"The venom of this snake is very powerful. It can produce at a single injection sufficient venom to kill 10 or 15 robust men. Two drops are sufficient to kill any man. It holds on for some time when striking, apparently to make sure of its deadly work. The fangs are enormously developed, being an inch or more in length and very ehavy. They are at least twice as heavy and long as those of the large diamond back rattlesnake of the United States.

"The coloration of the Gaboon viper is both striking and attractive. The characteristic color is brown with a single longitudinal vertebral series of black speckles. The belly is yellow, studded with many small brown or black dots. On the sides of the body are a series of diamond-shaped forms bordered with black. The head is very large, triangular in shape and very distant from the neck. The top of the head has the appearance of a large brown maple leaf."

Poison Takes Effect at Once

Dr. Staley then told how Perkins was bitten last Dec. 31, and how the poison worked so rapidly that he was dizzy and almost fainting by the time he had walked to his office, 60 feet away. Perkins and Moody Lentz, his assistant, sucked the wound, although Lentz ran grave danger of becoming poisoned by doing so.

In spite of almost immediate medical attention the doctor continued, Perkins was unconscious at the end of an hour and his pulse was imperceptible. He experienced difficulty in breathing, and this increased up to the moment he lost consciousness.

It was at this time that Perkins smiled wanly at Dr. Staley and whispered, "Well, Doc, I can't breathe any more. I'm gone."

After he was unconscious, the attending physicians administered several tubes of serum, including the anti-Crotalico, which is a specific for the bites of all poisonous North American snakes, the Cobra anti-venin, and the serum of the South American fer-de-lance, a snake which has poison somewhat similar to that of the Gaboon Viper.

Tiny Blood Vessels Broken.

Perkins' arm had become swollen to twice its normal size, and was badly discolored, Dr. Staley said. The poison had destroyed tiny blood vesels in the arm, permitting blood which should have been confined to veins and arteries to flow freely through the arm. It was this loose blood that caused much of the swelling, and in an effort to abate it, two incisions were made, one in the hand and one in the arm, and the broken down blood and lymph was allowed to escape.

Perkins regained consciousness in 45 minutes. During the period of his unconsciousness and for several hours afterward it was thought he would not recover. Later in the day a blood transfusion was administered, and on the following day he received a second transfusion.

The remainder of the history of the case was one of gradual improvement. Jan. 5, Perkins was permitted to spend an hour in a wheel chair. Wednesday he was out of bed all day.

At the end of the address, Dr. Staley announced that he expected Perkins to leave the hospital today. His hand is still bandaged and he will report to Dt. Staley's office for daily treatment. It will be a week or two before he will be permitted to return to his duties at the reptile house.

Dr. Staley's paper, in a more technical form, will be printed in national scientific and medical journals. It is medical history and marks an immeasurable advance in the medical study of snake poisons.

NEW FAST BOMBING PLANE HAS FIVE MACHINE GUNS

First "Panther" Arrives in Washington; Its Maximum Speed 128 Miles an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Army Air Corps' bombardment force was augmented today with the arrival at Bolling Field of the first of 35 new bombing biplanes, to be known as the "Panther." The new plane is designed to carry 2200 pounds of bombs and is equipped with five machine guns.

The new plane has a wing span of 75 feet. It was flown today for the first time at Bristol, Pa., and after a short test flight was taken to Washington.

The "Panther" has a maximum speeo of 128 miles an hour, cruising speed of 100 miles an hour, and can remain in the air six hours with a full load.

Autoists Held for Manslaughter.

PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 19.—Two motorists, Howard Prather of Henry, Ill., and Roy Hall of Peoria, were indicted on manslaughter charges by the Peoria County grand jury yesterday. Prather was driving an automobile which killed Miss Georgia Lee Hughes recently. Hall is charged with having been the driver of a car that fatally injured Mrs. Mary Kelly.

ALTON & SOUTHERN REQUESTS USE OF TRACKS ALONG WHARF

The Alton & Southern Railroad, an East Side switching line, owned by the Mellon interests, applied to the Board of Public Service yesterday for a permit to use the city-owned tracks of the St. Louis Transfer Railway for four blocks along the wharf, between Barton street and the southern rail approach of the Municipal Bridge at Lesperance street, now being completed.

It is the proposal of the Alton & Southern and the Manufacturers' Railway to use the bridge, after the approach is ready, for trans-river freight interchange. The Manufacturers has the right to use the crossing and the Alton & Southern has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for similar permission. The Miller administration bill defining terms for railroad use of the bridge is pending in the Board of Aldermen.

The city has owned the long St. Louis Transfer Railway tracks since 1917, having obtained them from the Terminal Railroad in return for certain concessions. The Terminal rents them now for $30,000 a year, but an ordinance provides they shall be open to any other roads. This is the first time another road has sought to operate on them.

The Alton & Southern permit request was made in the name of C. B. Fox, president of the road, by Daniel Bartlett, an attorney.

HOGS IN GERMANY SICK AFTER EATING U. S. BARLEY

Ministry of Agriculture Refuses Reimbursement and Refers Complainants to Selling Firms.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The Ministry of Agriculture and Food has declined to reimburse purchasers of certain barley imported from the United States which last September was believed responsible for a mysterious sickness which affected hogs after eating it.

The ministry refers the purchasers for redress to the firms which supplied the barley, holding that the official attest on its importation was merely in its nature a permit to import examined barley.

An investigation into the situation held in September by a number of experts established that many hogs refused the American barley, while others became violently sick after eating. At the same time it was said that samples examined showed the barley was fresh and contained neither metallic poisons nor bleaching agents.

For a time the Reichsrat established an ordinance restricting the importation of American barley until Nov. 16, requiring that importers prove at their own expense that the barley they proposed to import was not injurious to animals.

20 WALK OUT AT AUTO PLANT

Strike Follows Discharge of Two Said to Have Asked for Raise.

Twenty door hangers employed at the Fisher Body Assembling plant at 3707 North Union boulevard walked out yesterday morning. J. G. Harris, general manager of the plant, said he did not know the cause of the trouble, but the strike followed the discharge of two other door hangers. Joseph Clay, 1311 St. Ange avenue, a torch tinner at the plant, said that the two men discharged were let out because they asked for a raise in pay. Clay, who says he has no authority to speak for his fellow workmen, but wishes to support their cause, said door hangers receive between $4.50 and $5 a day, the pay determined by piece work. The plant employs 3000 men.

TO ATTEND ROAD BOND HEARING

Chamber of Commerce Highway Committee to Go to Capital.

J. Gates Williams, Chairman of the Highways Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and other members of the committee will attend the legislative hearings on the road bond enabling acts in Jefferson City Wednesday.

The enabling acts carry an emergency clause which will make the $75,000,000 in road bonds, voted at the last election, available immediately. Unless the enabling acts are passed at this session of the Legislature, the funds will not be available for another year.

NEW CRUISERS COST JAPAN $120,000,000

Last of Eight Vessels, Most Powerful in World, Under Construction.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—Last of the eight 10,000-ton cruisers called for by the Japanese navy's current building programs, the Maya, now is under construction in the big Kawasaki dockyard at Kobe.

A dozen Shinto priests, in white robes and carrying branches of the sacred "sakaki" tree, emblem of sacramental purity, recently performed the simple purification rites accompanying the laying of the keel, designed to ward off evil influences and beseech the blessing and protection of the national gods for this instrument of empire.

These rites of an ancient cult seem a little out of harmony with the modernity of the Maya and her sisters, but they help insure the human morale that must make these machines effective.

The Nachi, whose details are to be followed in all her sisters, has a speed of 33 knots, a designed horsepower of 130,000 and carries 10 eight-inch guns. The ship is believed to embody many new features of naval design, but these are a well guarded secret.

Lines Drawn for Speed.

The glimpse obtained at the Yokohama naval review showed long, low lines drawn for speed. The vessel carries a fighting top more like that of a battleship than of a light cruiser; turrets for the eight-inch guns show fore and aft; the craft's whole aspect is formidable. It has a crew of 700 men.

The Nachi is to be joined in commission within a few weeks by her next sister, the Myoko, now undergoing her trials off the Kokosuka naval base, where the ship was built. The Haguro and Ashigara, from the private dockyards of Mitsubishi at Nagasaki and Kawasaki at Kobe, respectively, were launched last spring and should reach completion about the end of 1929. Next come the Atago and Takao, still on the ways at the naval arsenals of Kure and Yokosuka and due for launching this year. The Chokai was laid down at Nagasaki last April and now the Kawasaki builders have the Maya in hand.

No Further Program Planned.

On the best authority, it is learned that this eight-cruiser program is the only one now contemplated by the Navy Department. It still has three years to run, as it will not be completed until early in 1932. At the time the American House of Representatives passed the 15-cruiser bill a year ago, Admiral Keisuke Okada, minister of the navy, said Japan had no intention of framing a "reply" program. The budget for 1929-30 contains no appropriations for any naval construction except the program already in hand.

The official Japanese position is that the Nachi class are merely replacements for old cruisers now becoming obsolete and are necessary to maintain the balance of the navy as an instrument of imperial defense.

Roster of Japanese Navy.

This will give Japan in 1932 a navy of six superdreadnaughts, four battle cruisers, 29 cruisers, including 12 first-class (more than 7000 tons) and 17 second class (under 7000 tons), 54 first class destroyers, 49 second class destroyers and 68 submarines. This does not include ships which will have become obsolete by 1932.

The Nachi and her sister ships are costing each about $15,000,000.

A noteworthy feature of these vessels, as of the new cruisers of all the naval powers, is the tremendous horsepower. The Nachi's 130,000-horsepower is greater than that of any battleship afloat, and only four naval craft in the world, all of special designs, exceed it—the American aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, 180,000; the British battle cruiser Hood, 144,000, and the Japanese aircraft carrier Akagi, 131,200.

Comparable Ships of U. S.

To compare with the Nachi class, the United States has the new 10,000-ton cruisers Pensacola and Salt Lake City, with a designed horsepower of 107,500, speed of 32.5 to 33 knots and a main armament of 10 eight-inch guns. Six others of similar design are to follow these.

Great Britain has the Kent and her four sisters, 10,000 tons, 80,000 designed horsepower, 32 knots and only eight eight-inch guns. The Kent, Berwick and Suffolk of this class were guests at the Yokohama review and presented a very peaceable aspect as compared with the Nachi. The British cruisers, painted white, riding high and broad of beam because of their anti-torpedo blisters, looked more like merchant ships than like the warlike Nachi.

Japanese naval men are watching with interest the American cruiser program and the developments in cruisers design accomplished under it. The six cruisers authorized to follow the Pensacola and Salt Lake City are expected to exceed the Nachi and her sisters in speed by about two knots, while still further advances are expected in the 15 cruisers which President Coolidge has asked the Senate to approve.

PRISON GOODS BILL SIGNED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Coolidge today signed the Hawes-Cooper convict labor bill which divests prison-made goods of their interstate character, making them subject to the laws of the State into which they are shipped. The bill, introduced in the House by Representative Cooper (Rep.) Ohio, was sponsored in the Senate by Senator Hawes (Dem.), Missouri.

BYRD OPERATOR REPORTS ICEBERGS ARE "WHOPPERS"

Owen (Wis.) Radio Amateur Receives Messages From Bolling's Crew.

By the Associated Press.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Jan. 19.—Icebergs described as "whoppers" were encountered for the first time, the radio operator of the steamer Eleanor Bolling of the Byrd Antarctic expedition told Clyde Richlieu, amateur operator at Owen, Wis., today. They were in communication for 35 minutes.

Richlieu said he picked up the Bolling on a wave length of 39 meters and received messages for the relatives of several men on the ship. The position of the ship was given as 928 miles southeast of Dunedin, N. Z. The ship is on its way to Byrd's base on the Antarctic continent. The operator on board the Bolling signed his messages "Grenelin."

SEVEN GUILTY IN LIQUOR CASE

Of 101 Accused in Chicago Suburb 67 Have Been Penalized.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—The Melrose Park liquor conspiracy case ended today with the conviction of seven and the acquittal of four. Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell will pronounce sentence Tuesday morning.

Altogether 101 persons, some of whom were never arrested, were accused in this conspiracy. Sixty pleaded guilty and the charges against several others were dismissed. Chief of the defendants acquitted is Joe Montana, alleged ring leader of the liquor syndicate. Gus Bohlander, president of the village board and principal defendant, was acquitted by a directed verdict. The seven convicted were minor members of the alleged conspiracy.

Belgium Using More Bicycles.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 19.—The use of the bicycle is increasing in Belgium. A total of 241,000 cycles was registered for 1928, as compared with 233,000 in 1927 and 129,000 in 1920. The use of the cycle is increasing also in Holland, but is on the decline in France.

MAN AND WIFE FOUND SLAIN; 'AGREED TO DIE TOGETHER'

Atlanta Veterinary in Letter Says They Were Despondent Over Ill Health.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19.—The bodies of Dr. Walton Ruffin, a veterinary surgeon and his wife were found early today and the police are convinced they died as the result of a suicide agreement. He killed his wife with a revolver and then took his life, they believe.

The bodies were found in their room at a boarding house where they had made their home for two years. A letter in Dr. Ruffin's hand writing, addressed to a brother, W. A. Ruffin, of Petersburg, Va., in which he said he and his wife were despondent over continued ill health, and had "decided to go together" was found.

A second letter, written by Mrs. Ruffin to the proprietor of the boarding house, also was found in the room.

THREE POETS and their UNIQUE LOVE TRIANGLE

Virginia Moore Untermeyer.

Louis Untermeyer.

Jean Starr Untermeyer.

Divorced From His Second Wife While the Public Still Thought Him Married to His First, Louis Untermeyer Capped the Situation by Remarrying the Latter.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

THE ones who write most about love seem to be the ones least able to find contentment in it, if we are to judge by the tempestuous episodes recently brought to light in the lives of some of America's best-known poets. First, there was the enchanting Elinor Wylie, whose love-life involved the suicide of one husband and the financial ruin of another. Then there was Maxwell Bodenheim, a poet who recently achieved fame because a young lady admirer committed suicide after paying him a visit. And now comes Louis Untermeyer, well-known poet, critic and anthologist, as the chief figure in one of the oddest triangles of recent years, and certainly the oddest in which a poet was involved. In fact, one of the most unusual elements to this triangle is that all three persons involved are poets, thus lending some color to the general suspicion held by more sober folk that if there is anything more disturbing than one poet it is two. What can happen when a third poet is added to the puzzle is made evident by the sequence of events involving Louis Untermeyer.

The world of letters received a considerable surprise when it learned that on November 23 Louis Untermeyer was divorced by his second wife. Most of the surprise was probably due to the fact that nobody even knew that Untermeyer had divorced his first wife, Jean Starr Untermeyer, much less that he had taken unto himself a second. The divorce was obtained at the County Courthouse in Clayton, by the second wife, who, before her marriage to Untermeyer, was Miss Virginia Moore, daughter of John Moore of University City.

In obtaining her decree the second wife charged Untermeyer with having deserted her and their two-months-old son last summer in London. This, of course, would be regarded by most people as reason enough for bringing a suit, but the petition to the Court was somewhat embellished by another statement by the second Mrs. Untermeyer. She also informed the Judge that another reason for seeking the divorce was that Mr. Untermeyer had asked her to divorce him because he was courting another woman. Although most wives are usually not as compliant as Mrs. Virginia Untermeyer proved to be on this occasion, it must be remembered that she, too, is a poet, and a good one, with several excellent volumes of verses to her credit, and therefore her action must be explained on the ground that few actions by a poet can be explained. After all, a poet's actions can usually find their only explanation, or justification, in the poet's writings.

Three Poems by Each of the Untermeyers Supposed to Have Been a Result of Their Love Trials.

REPLY FROM THE CITADEL

By Jean Starr Untermeyer

NEVER will a wordy noose
My love snare, his mind confuse.

Not the neatest flatteries
Win him from his verities.

Call him Roman that you seek,
Slim Castilian, Teuton, Greek.

Yourself your very phrases mock—
He was ripped from Sinai's rock.

Of the Chosen, he is free
For responsibility.

Called to honor, picked by fate,
Unified, inviolate.

Though he stray within a dream,
Judge no man by what he seem.

At the last he will be first,
Unreproached and unaccursed.

And no pagan theory
Injures his fidelity.

Though he toss upon your breast,
In my thoughts he finds his rest.

Though you make his passions start,
I give him the better part.

All his noblest strivings live
By the succor I can give.

Wait, strange woman, you will see
He has never gone from me.

Ours a race whose laws on stone
Burn into our flesh and bone,

Purify and prod and prove Faithful both to God and love.

PENANCE

By Virginia Moore Untermeyer

THE eyes will dim, the hopeless mouth will sear,
And all the senses rally and give way—
Yet speak the thing out desperate and clear
And let the soul recover as it may,
And creep back, shamed, to things we loved together,
Like wind and water and the blessed sky,
And learn to stand up straighter in bad weather,
And give the earth our penance till we die.

We were not great enough, nor good,
nor kind,
To keep a love so given and so taken:
We let the body's illness threaten mind,
And something—not the heart of us—
was shaken...
O love, O love, for thy stern sake I know
That we must rise, humble ourselves, and go.

MAD PROPOSAL

By Louis Untermeyer

DARE to be a bather
Where the sea is black;
Come and tear your hands to gather
Rue upon the rock.

Where a red sun harries
All it burns upon,
We shall eat the bitter berries
Poisoned by the moon.

Some have all the highlands'
Laughing fortitudes;
We have but the evil silence
Heard in hostile woods.

Not for us the safer
Roadway cut and cleared;
Lost in bogs we plunge to braver
Paths where none has dared.

For our body's fever
No cool river runs,
We shall seek no bread while ever
In this world are stones.

Stones to feed our hunger,
Stones to make our bed:
These I offer, these last longer
Than our earthly need.

Rise and leave your father;
Never dare look back;
Come and break your heart to gather
Rue upon the rock.

THE final element of surprise was added to an already surprising situation when the public later learned the identity of the "other woman" whom Untermeyer was courting. For the "other woman" proved to be none other than Mr. Untermeyer's first wife! And his second courtship of this lady, also a good poet and the author of three volumes of verses, evidently proved a success, for Untermeyer and his first wife were remarried a few days after his second wife obtained her divorce. In other words, Untermeyer's first wife is his third wife, and although he had three wives, he was married to only two women. All of this undoubtedly sounds a bit complicated. If so, it must be remembered that prose is hardly a fit medium for explaining the combined actions of three poets.

The desperate situations which poetic temperaments frequently create for themselves are not without their amusing aspects, but they are perhaps no less fruitful of tragic implications and the present situation is no exception. For a serious tragedy figured very prominently in these hectic marital episodes of the Untermeyers. That tragedy was the suicide, in January, 1927, of Richard Starr Untermeyer, the 20-year-old son of the Untermeyers by their first marriage. He was a sophomore at Yale at the time and hanged himself in his dormitory room without leaving any note to explain his action. Some persons thought his act was influenced by the wave of youthful suicides which at that time had assumed alarming proportions in the country. Others ascribed his act to brooding resulting from the receipt of a letter from his mother, in which he was reprimanded for certain extravagances. At that time it was not publicly known that the boy's parents had recently been divorced, and it is now thought by some that his action may in part have been due to his brooding over that. However that may be, the suicide of his son is believed to have had a psychologic effect on Untermeyer, and it is possible that this mutual bereavement of the Untermeyers is what drew them together again and led to their second marriage.

THEIR first marriage occurred in New York in 1907. Untermeyer was then 22 years old and Jean Starr was 21. She had been born in Ohio, educated in private schools and later she specialized in literary courses at Columbia University in New York. At that time Untermeyer was in business. He had given up his schooling at the age of 17 to join his uncle's firm, the Untermeyer-Robbins Jewelry Manufacturing Company. Untermeyer later became vice president of the company and general manager of its large plant in Newark, New Jersey, where several hundred men were employed. In addition, he designed many of the company's articles. He was very successful in business, and in 1921 caused considerable comment by his reorganization of the business. He established a 44-hour week, with Saturdays off for employes, and a popular form of government, in which each employe had a voice in determining the company's policies. In 1923 he resigned from the business to devote all his time to literature.

In the meantime, of course, he had been publishing poetry in a number of magazines and his first book, "The Younger Quire," appeared in 1910. He has since then published several dozen volumes of original poems, translations and anthologies, among which the best known are perhaps "Roast Leviathan" and "The Poems of Heinrich Heine." He has lectured on poetry at Yale and Princeton and his first novel, "Moses," was published a month ago. His writings have definitely placed him among the more significant of contemporary American poets and many of his works have been received with considerable critical enthusiasm. The late Amy Lowell, in 1920, declared that "Mr. Untermeyer is the most versatile writer in America. He is one of the small band of young writers who are slowly shaping our literature into a new era."

All this time Untermeyer's wife also had been publishing verses. In 1918 appeared her first volume, "Growing Pains," followed by other works, the latest of which, "Steep Ascent," appeared in 1927. The fact that both husband and wife were poets brought about an interesting situation and created a rivalry which is believed to have been one of the factors leading to their separation. Untermeyer, in his capacity as a critic, on several occasions had the opportunity to review his wife's works for magazines and newspapers, and while he always publicly made acknowledgment of his own delicate position as the author's husband, he was nevertheless very generous in his praise of her work. He always said that her poems were very good and on occasions intimated that they might be better than his own. Casual readers assumed that the critic was being a very gallant husband and was perhaps leaning backward in an effort to be fair. The irony of the situation lies in the fact that while many persons thought he was being no more than considerate, there were a number of students of literature who were willing to go even further and to state that they believed her poems were better than his. In any case, there was an inevitable artistic rivalry between the two, and it could not have contributed to complete and perfect marital felicity.

AND then it was that Mr. Untermeyer met Miss Virginia Moore, a St. Louis girl. She was in her early twenties, of singularly attractive and sensitive features and possessed of a marked poetic talent. She was a graduate of a Virginia college and completed her studies at Columbia, where she acquired the degree of bachelor of arts. Her poems began to appear in the magazines. Then her first volume of poems, "Not Poppy," was published in April, 1926. Untermeyer reviewed them and was enthusiastic, as was many another critic. Soon after, they met. Whether or not Untermeyer liked Miss Moore's poems more than he liked Mrs. Untermeyer's is not known, but it soon became apparent to close friends that while he might have no preference in the poems, he was showing a marked preference for one of the poets. Untermeyer and Miss Moore soon found themselves in that troublesome state of love about which each had so frequently written.

The situation was, of course, a tense one, admirably suited to lyric treatment, and under the emotional stress all three of the poets managed to keep writing furiously, each translating some of his personal anguish into verses. The ironic part of the business is that all three poets turned out some of their very best poems during those troubled days and nights while they were trying to find a sensible solution for their common problem. However suitable the situation may have been for poetic treatment, it was not conducive to domestic peace, and in the fall of 1926 Untermeyer obtained a divorce from Mrs. Untermeyer in Mexico, and there he married Virginia Moore.

The following January occurred his son's suicide. A short time before the boy killed himself he had received a letter from his mother which con-

The Luck of a Rich Little Poor Boy

How Sam Katz, the Movie Millionaire, Came Up "From Nothing" and What Happened When He Remembered His Own Boyhood.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

SOON now a little orphan boy will be asked, with all solemnity and more or less publicly, whether he elects to remain as a son in the home of a Park avenue millionaire, with all that the appellation implies as to environment, conveniences, silks and servants, or return again to the asylum whence he came last May. To the asylum, mind you, only a step removed from the dark, shadowy poverty in which he was born and from which, as the history of any great city proves, it is only the seventh son of a seventh son who hews his way to fortune.

When the question, a matter of form and regulation, is put, little Billy will say, "I stay on Park avenue." Even at 7, as he is, certain things are self-evident. Yet that is not all. Quite probably, nowhere else in the world and at no other time could such a thing have happened. The eternal romance of Cinderella, figment of a super-sympathetic imagination, turns to paste beside this reality. And then there is the man who made it possible, and one of the most interesting sidelights on American commercial triumph and success that ever was.

Early last year Billy was merely another ward of the Free Synagogue Child Adoption Committee. The committee had put him in the care of a family at Elmsford, in Westchester County. One day a man came to see him, a young, dapper man, who grinned like a boy. Billy warmed to the man, would have liked him on sight—only—only strange people were forever inspecting orphans. As if being an orphan wasn't enough! The man with the grin came again and again. He brought Billy things. He took him for rides in a motor car no magic carpet ever could equal. And he was always laughing, pleasant, gay!

And Billy never knew how his visitor sat alone in his palatial apartment those days, while matters of millions waited, figuring just what he could do to make Billy, the orphan, like him. How he considered clothes, even—whether he had better dress like a sedate and respect-meriting father, or more like a boy.

And one day the man became suddenly serious and asked Billy to come and live with him.

"Of course, I'd have to adopt you and take the place of your father," the man said. "But we'd be friends, Billy, always. I've got enough, you know, a home and things."

It was embarrassing. Billy liked the man. Yet a boy worth his salt is an independent boy.

"I'll look the place over," he said.

So they rode away in the great car. The "home and things" were at 330 Park avenue. One of those duplex apartments. Billy looked at the rich rugs, the paintings, the wide and wonderful chairs, the hangings and the buttons you press for lights and servants took his eye. He turned to the man and put out a hand and said he'd stay.

The two had seven wonderful days. The millionaire read comic papers to his pal. The boy had a circus summoning the butler, the first man and the second man. The millionaire raised the pay of his help so nothing untoward would happen.

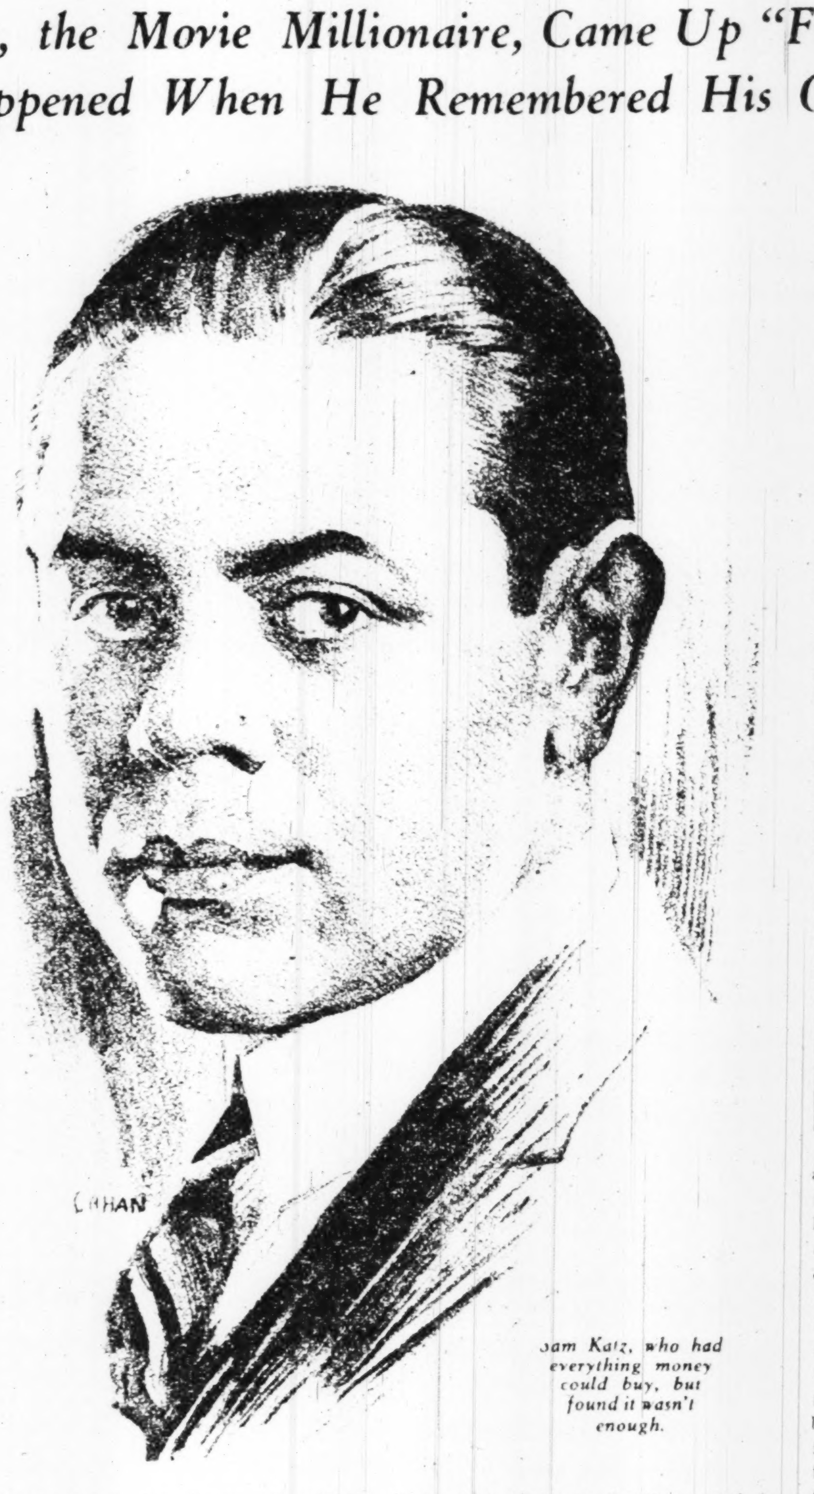
And then the boy went to a private school on the Hudson in the Rolls-Royce. He had a huge time; he was "licked" twice by classmates and won considerable popularity because his opponents were bigger and older and stronger in everything but fight. And he brought home his first report card —in the Rolls—with tiptop marks in everything save deportment!

As the millionaire strode back and forth while the dinner celebrating the boy's first return was about to be served he smiled happily, musing. "Yes—he's my sort of boy."

As the boy romped in he stopped at the sight of the man. He put out a hand.

"It's all swell," he said, sturdily. "We're friends."

Incredible as it is that all this should be in everyday life, the story of the 36-year-old millionaire whose income is six times that of the President of the United States and who is one of the biggest motion picture men is, when you think of it, more amazing still.



Sam Katz, who had everything money could buy, but found it wasn't enough.

THE millionaire, Sam Katz, was born in Russia in 1892. His father was a barber. A year after the boy's birth the family fled from poverty and racial oppression to America, to the squalorous West Side of Chicago. There the father had a little shop, a big family and ambitions limited to "making enough." He wanted his first-born to be a barber.

Sam Katz looked at me without suspicion of irony or even of that peculiar affectation of force that so often mars self-made men as he gave me these facts. He was poised, genial, a little eager in his handsome office on the ninth floor of the Paramount Building at Times Square.

His beginnings were vague, but he remembered that as soon as he knew anything he didn't want to work with his hands like his father; he wanted to be a lawyer. To be such, one had to go to school. So when at 12 he was told he must earn his own living he decided without excitement he would have to earn his living at night.

He was a messenger boy. He worked evenings and managed to go to school. Ends wouldn't meet, so he called on the political boss of the neighborhood. The ward czar got him a job helping to repair switchboards for the telephone company. He toiled from midnight to morning, went home to breakfast and thence to school week after week.

Now and again he used to drop into the nickel movie house that Carl Laemmle had on Twelfth street, Chicago. He got it into his head that playing a piano there of an evening was easier than twisting phone wires. He could play the piano—had picked it up one place or another—and he kept after Carl. He had got through grammar school when the movie pioneer gave him a job playing from 7 to 10:30 evenings.

He was thinking of college when he decided to open one of these movie haunts on his own. It was a good racket and would pay his additional expenses at the higher institutions of learning. So, at 16, he matriculated at Northwestern by day and opened a film show in an old grocery store not far from Carl's place. The theater held 140 camp stools and had a stove in the center with a pipe that went through the ceiling.

He made money from the first. Patrons were so enthralled by the movies they used to sit gaping while the ceiling smoked around the chimney. Sam, who was paying his way and saving money, had got into John Marshall Law School when Chicago closed his place as a fire trap.

As Sam says, he almost went bolshevist. But he hustled around, borrowed money and opened a new place, bigger and better.

YOU know how the movie thing grew. Sam grew with it. He opened another and another little peep show. He put his brother in law school. Yet he felt the movies were a passing racket. His brother wanted to leave school and join him, but Sam said: "No, you go on and be a lawyer. When this breaks we'll have our shingles over our heads."

He met Barney Balaban, another youngster who had been doing exactly what he was doing in different localities. Sam and Barney joined forces. They opened new houses; they couldn't open them fast enough.

Sam was 25 when he gave up dreams of the law. He and Barney decided to stake everything on the movies. They capitalized all the little houses, interested bankers, and built the first really first-rate theater for motion pictures in Chicago—the Central Park House, which seats 2300. But they did not stop there. They had built a chain of dinky houses. Why not double in big ones?

All enthusiasm, Sam went out after big money. He went to Alfred Loeb, millionaire philanthropist. Loeb told him to come back next day. Then the millionaire said, in effect: "I believe in your proposition. I think there's big money in it. But I have many interests and I'm not looking to make more money. I won't come in. But I believe in you, and I'll be glad to say so." Sam says it was the break that made him. He used Loeb's indorsement. The latter's brother came in, other capital followed, and in a few years Balaban and Katz controlled what are still referred to as the finest chain of movie houses in America. They covered Chicago and spread down through Illinois.

Then came an accolade. Adolph Zukor, frequently called the real mogul of the motion picture world, offered Sam a fabulous salary to manage theaters for him. And this is what Sam says he said:

"There isn't anyone I admire more than you, Mr. Zukor. I believe you want to elevate the pictures, but I'd have to run more theaters than you have to earn such a salary. We'll be together some day, though."

In 1925, when Zukor formed the Publix Theater Corporation, taking Balaban and Katz in with him, Sam Katz was made president. His yearly pay was reputed to be $450,000. The chain was the largest in the world, 800 theaters. Every morning Sam has a telegraphic record covering their operation. He issues his orders.

For the first time, quite probably, Sam Katz began to philosophize. For the first time he had time. He began to think he had been infernally lucky. As he says, "All big business men are lucky. It's the little fellow who has a hard time. Where the little fellow has all his eggs in one basket the big fellow can balance his failures against his successes to show profit in the end."

But that wasn't all. He had everything money could buy; many things it couldn't. He was at the head of a major force in the movie world at a time when movies faced an expansion comparable with nothing that had gone before. He had an imagination that painted wonders for him. He sees, for example, the movies, one-time slave and suppliant to the theater, devouring at last its master. He knows, for instance, that experiments with wide-angle lenses already foreshadow the time when movies, life size, can be shown on a screen as wide as the proscenium of a theater. He knows that means life-sized reviews, made by the best composers and authors, being shown in theaters throughout the country by a market that can offer thousands to artists where the legitimate theater could offer only tens of dollars. He sees the talkies bringing to the screen great artists who have thus far been barred by the voiceless technique of the old order—the Shaws, the Barries. He sees the research laboratories giving third-dimension depth to the screen, color, everything—a world of wonders, with himself in the saddle . . . not a Napoleon but a part of a monumental, epoch-making progress for all mankind.

BUT the palatial Park avenue apartment was empty. In all his success he had not found the human side of life. Oh, he had seen it in the lives of countless people who worked for him and against him. But it was not in his own. He should have someone to love and cherish. Marriage? He would not marry until he found someone he wanted to marry.

And so in the end he went before that board that had Billy for a ward. He asked that they give him this boy. They said it was not the custom to allow unmarried men to adopt children. Was he sure he could support and educate an adopted son? What was his salary? What were his antecedents? His reasons?

And the young millionaire stood to be questioned, hopefully, and patiently, and gently, like the veriest suppliant for alms . . . because in his heart he was, after all, just human like the rest of us.

When the Baby Born in Prison Had Chicago by the Ears

Society Women Vied With Courts and Relatives in an Effort to Adopt Betty Ann Zalis.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CHICAGO.

IT IS doubtful if any baby ever came into the world under less favorable circumstances for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness than those attending the arrival of Betty Ann Zalis. She seemed unalterably destined for the seamy side. In the first place, she was born in a prison. Worse than that, she was born to a mother who was in that prison because she had murdered her last previous child. Still further, Betty Ann was born with the prospect of spending her early years in an insane asylum, for at the time of her birth her mother was awaiting trial on the murder charge and faced the outlook of going to an asylum for life and taking her last-born baby with her. Altogether, Betty Ann seemed to be the world's unluckiest infant.

But the very fact that she was so extremely unlucky at the outset carried with it a certain advantage. It attracted attention. A great deal of attention. Everybody felt sorry for an innocent baby whom fate had dealt with so unkindly. Social welfare workers of the Junior League discovered her plight and the whole organization tried to adopt her. She was coddied by countless debutantes and wealthy matrons. She became the most photographed and the most talked about baby in Chicago. Then she got another break which was most important of all. After the mother had been ordered committed to an asylum and a blundering, antiquated State law had allowed her to take the child with her, the asylum's superintendent shut the door in Betty Ann's face. He declared, law or no law, he would admit no babies to the institution. Betty Ann can thank him more for that than she can thank the debutantes for all their coddling and efforts to adopt her.

Betty Ann Zalis and her aunt, Mrs. Anne Zalis.

Sarane Otis president of the Chicago Junior League.

Betty Ann now is the legally adopted daughter of John Zalis, her uncle, and his wife. At the age of two months or thereabouts, she has already had her fling at public life and is out of it. But it was not without a battle that she was allowed to retire to private life in her uncle's home. This is the way it all happened.

Catherine Zalis, Betty Ann's mother, is only 21 years old. Married less than three years ago, she brought into the world three children within a period of 21 months. The oldest child, Agnes Marie, 18 months old, is with the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Balchus, at Hart, Mich. The second, Cecilia, is dead—slain by her own mother. Betty Ann is the third.

The father, a rather shiftless fellow, went home one day last summer to find his wife in hysterics. Cecilia, four months old, was dead. Mrs Zalis finally confessed she had slain the infant. Cecilia had cried all day, the mother said, and had driven her to desperation.' At length, unable to stand the crying any longer, she had smothered the baby with a blanket and thrust the body into a heating stove.

The husband told the police and Catherine Zalis was arrested. She made a formal confession. Alienists declared she was insane. Nevertheless, she was indicted for murder and held in Bridewell Prison for trial. Two weeks before the trial was to open, as related before, the third child was born.

The State's Attorney's office asked the Court to declare the woman insane and thus avoid the trial, but her attorney argued she was insane when she smothered the child but had recovered her sanity. So the trial was held and dragged along for nearly a week, the jury bringing in an instructed verdict of insanity and the mother being committed to the insane asylum at Elgin.

The battle for possession of Betty Ann began on the first day of the trial. Two wealthy women, members of the Junior League, appealed to the Court for possession of the child during the trial. This was denied on the ground that the mother had first right to it, even though she was on trial. When the verdict was in, the question of what was to become of Betty Ann again arose. Judge Thomas J. Lynch ruled that under the law she would have to go to the insane asylum with her mother.

This brought a terrific outcry from press, pulpit, welfare organizations and club women. The Junior League led in the opposition. They obtained the Court's permission to find the baby a home provided the mother would consent, but the mother would not consent. She blocked every move.

"She's my baby and I'm going to keep her," she said dully, over and over. "They can't take her away. She's going with me to the asylum in Elgin. I would never do to another baby what I did to Cecilia. Cecilia cried and I couldn't bear to hear her. But this is a good baby. She never cries."

When they heard this, members of the league redoubled their efforts to get possession of the baby. They voted to adopt her, but Judge Lynch pointed out that they could not do this even if the mother were willing. No organization can adopt a child. That must be done by an individual. "Until the mother gives up the baby or is declared by the proper court to be an unfit person to keep it, the child must remain with her," the Judge ruled.

So when Mrs Zalis was taken to the asylum, Betty Ann went with her. There, Superintendent Hinton took matters into his own hands.

"That baby will not be permitted here," he declared. "We never have accepted a baby because this is no place for one and we have no facilities for an infant's care."

That settled one part of the controversy. It took the baby out of the hands of its mother, but there still remained the question: "Who is to get Betty Ann?"

The Junior League made a final bid. So did other organizations and hundreds of individuals.

Then John Zalis, brother-in-law of the baby's mother, stole a march on everybody. He quietly filed his petition for temporary adoption in Judge Bartelme's Juvenile Court. Having established the man's reliability, the Judge granted the petition. It provides that Mr. and Mrs. John Zalis shall have custody of the child until Mrs. Catherine Zalis is released from the asylum. Betty Ann then will be restored to her mother. Her future seems safe enough now, but, come what may, she can look back with pride upon a brief but brilliant social career. She has been held in the arms of more millionaire debutantes than any baby Chicago ever knew.

Revolution Menaces the Made-to-Order Princess

Ironical Twist in the Career of Charlotte Louvet—Born Out of Wedlock But Raised to the Monacan Royalty by Adoption.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

MONTE CARLO.

SOME thirty years ago, on the torrid reaches of French Africa, a little girl came into this world, sired by a man of noble lineage, but, unfortunately, undignified by the desirable state of legitimacy. But by the strange chess-like maneuvers of governments and their prime-movers, this child became a pawn necessary to the happiness of great lands. Suddenly she was hoisted from her lowly place to the happy state of those who have a name and, her sanctification complete, she became not only a lady, but a princess, the heir to the throne of Monaco, this pretty principality whose high cliffs turn to shadowy purple in the twilight of the Mediterranean sun. Such are the vagaries of men. And now, again due to men's desires, it would not be surprising if she were toppled from her high place as suddenly as she was hoisted into it.

As you stroll about Monte Carlo, the chief city of this tiny principality whose whole territory encompasses but eight square miles, the bright southern sun mellowing your ruminations, all seems peaceful, all serene, life appears immeasurely good and the business of living amazingly easy. Standing by the balustrades overlooking the blue sea, you peer far out across the soft stretches of water until you well nigh believe you can discern the towers of Moorish Africa in the great distance. Or shortening your gaze to more immediate views, a graceful yacht, like a slender white bird, rocks lazily on the waters of the bay far below, awaiting the pleasure of its master to resume its journey to Naples, perhaps, or Barcelona.

The Prince de Valentinois.

And as you turn upon your heel and cross the green grass on this January afternoon, making your way around a fine white edifice, which is, in truth, the most famous gambling casino in the world, you think a bit condescendingly of those unfortunates tramping the cold streets of Paris, or fighting their way through the blustering traffic of far off New York. Here man seems so utterly at ease with himself and the elements and everyone else.

But as you sit at your small table on the terrace of the Cafe de Paris, sipping your aperitif, beholding lovely women and their proud escorts, while across the way the trees of the palace gardens bend their dark fronds in the gentle breeze, you may notice, if you are observant, that the gendarmes step more alertly than ever you have noted before. You may notice that a group of four or five men and women of Monaco standing together causes an officer to pause, and should that gathering be augmented by another two or three, you will see the gendarme move upon them, and a whispered word or two from him cause their dispersal.

You wonder at this, and so wondering, turn to the gentleman at your neighboring table, and ask the why and wherefore of this strange procedure. And when he has finished his explanation your pulse beats a little faster. For the brackish odor of revolution, the smell of revolt against the existing order of things, taints the warm Monaco air.

But why? Why should this small nation with its 22,900 inhabitants, the only people in the world who need pay no taxes for the privilege of living—for the casino's profits take care of such mundane necessities — why should these people be at odds with their lot? And what of the Grimaldis, the ruling family of this land since the dark year of 1227? What of them, what of the reigning prince, Louis of Monaco?

A STRANGE story lurks in the house of the Grimaldis, one not known to the world at large.

It was in 1898, while the late Prince Albert sat upon Monaco's throne, that his son, Louis, then the heir apparent, filled with the traditions of the clanking arms of royalty, went to Africa as an officer in the armies of France. While serving with the French Foreign Legion, he met a young woman, Juliette Louvet by name, and became enamoured of her. Mademoiselle Louvet took kindly to the young Prince's infatuation; it was not long before his love was returned. The fruit of their love was a daughter, whom they named Charlotte, the daughter of a Prince some day to ascend a throne, yet a little girl bereft of her father's name.

Before much time had passed Prince Albert was informed of the romance between his son and Mademoiselle Louvet. He was distinctly annoyed and relations between the ruler of Monaco and his heir were severely strained. This unhappy situation continued for years, Prince Albert unrelenting, his son demanding that his father give unofficial sanction to his child.

When the little girl was about 10 years old, however, Prince Albert gave his son permission to bring the child to Monaco. She speedily won her way to her grandfather's heart. She became his constant companion, and it was a common sight to see this Prince of the blood and his little granddaughter, born outside the realm of legitimacy, going hand in hand about the gardens of his palace; this old scholar, who had found time to study the science of the sea, happy in the company of this child.

When Charlotte was a little older she was sent to study in Nice and later in Paris. But still, for all her advantages, she bore no name.

Her father, Prince Louis, had never married—at least, officially—and the Government of France, ever anxious to keep unsympathetic intruders from any territory which might hold strategic qualities, became alarmed about the succession of the Monaco dynasty. France did not care to have a Prince of another land become, on some future day, the ruler of this little country tucked along the Mediterranean coast line of the French Republic.

Even before the World War Monaco had become a nest of German spies, whose duty it was to watch the French fleets, the French naval bases, the French transports as they sailed across the southern sea. Besides, a few years back, in 1907, to be exact, when Prince Albert was at variance with his son, this ruler, so it was rumored, had considered transferring the succession to a German prince.

IN 1918, Premier Clemenceau of France became so perturbed over the future of Monaco that he made a treaty with Prince Louis, then serving on a French army staff. This treaty agreed that the successor to the throne of Monaco must be one of Monegasque or French nationality, that this successor must be approved by the French Government, and that should the succession lapse, Monaco would become an autonomous state in the Republic of France.

It was up to Prince Louis to find an heir. He solved the problem in an extraordinary manner. Not long after, in 1919, he legally adopted his daughter, Charlotte, now 21, and she was given his old family title of Duchess of Valentinois. A pretty brunette, a girl devoted to music, she graced the title that had come her way.

The next year she married Pierre, Count de Polignac, a member of one of the oldest noble families of France. Count Pierre became a naturalized citizen of Monaco, and he was invested with the title of Duke of Valentinois. A daughter, Antoinette, was born to them in 1920. Two years later Prince Albert died. His son succeeded him, and the Duke of Valentinois became heir apparent to the throne of his adopted land.

It would appear that the question of the succession in Monaco, what with France satisfied with Prince Pierre, had ironed out the State difficulties.

But trouble is on the horizon, and that trouble centers about the great casino that for years has brought economic relief to the pockets of the Monegasque. For as the world's greatest gambling palace once made Monaco's finances easy, it now threatens to make them doubly hard.

The 50-year concession under which the casino operates—the concession only expires in 1958—provides an annual grant of $750,000 to Prince Louis, besides the interest on the ruler's shares. It also provides that the casino takes over all responsibility for operating the public services of the principality, for keeping up all necessary improvements, and carrying out new works and beauties to attract and hold the interest of the visitors of the world.

This contract, when it was made, was highly satisfactory to everyone. The casino, which belonged to the Blanc family—they were the original concessionaires—had a monopoly in Europe of roulette and trente-et-quarante, two games of chance pure and simple.

There were too many influential French politicians on the casino's payroll to allow these games to be permitted in France. It was all very lovely. The house won at least 5 per cent of all the money on the table at each spin of the roulette wheel, or, to introduce the time element, 5 per cent of all the table money every two or three minutes. The money rolled in.

Then, in 1921, Sir Basil Zaharoff, a man of many millions, an Ottoman Greek munitions manufacturer, who was a naturalized Frenchman with a British title, bought a controlling interest in the great palace of gambling. He added many new attractions for Monaco's visitors, business flourished, thousands and thousands of visitors came to Monte Carlo and paid the price. When Sir Basil withdrew from the enterprise in 1925, the 500-franc par value shares of the casino had reached the lofty pinnacle of 18,000 francs.

FOR a year or two Monte Carlo continued to benefit from Sir Basil's energy, foresight and skillful management. Then—it began to slip. The net profit for the year ending March 30, 1927, was 98,000,000 francs, and a dividend of 725 francs a share was paid. For the year ending in March, 1928, the net revenue had dropped to 91,000,000. Still the dividend remained at 725. But this year the revenue is 15,000,000 francs behind at this date, with the prospect of the drop being nearer 20,000,000 at the end of the financial year. It becomes highly uncertain that the same dividend rate can be maintained.

For the casino is receiving hard jabs from many directions. First, Mussolini authorized roulette at San Remo, which is just across the frontier. Then Frank Jay Gould built a magnificent casino at Nice and bought one at Juan les Pins nearby, and they are both doing well, although roulette is still not permitted in France. A few years ago there were no casinos along the French Riviera to compete with Monte Carlo. Last year the six casinos at Nice made a net profit of more than $2,000,000, the two casinos at Cannes made $2,200,000, while Deauville, Le Touquet and Biarritz showed a combined net of almost $6,000,000. Before the World War all of this money, mostly American and English, would have figured in Monte Carlo's balance sheet. Now Switzerland has just voted to permit gambling, and with roulette tables running both there and in Italy, it will appear the French casinos are bound to demand it. Heretofore France has only permitted games of semi-chance, in which skill is supposed to play a part.

Then, the new casinos become popular for another reason. They are less brutal in their methods than Monte Carlo, where the motto has always been, in effect, "Give us your money, and get out before you kill yourself." These new halls of chance are fine and fashionable resorts, without the sinister atmosphere of Monaco, where suicides are buried in nameless graves and relatives refused all information.

With this abundance of competition, with fewer visitors and smaller profits, the management of Monte Carlo decided to spend a large amount of money on improvements; they would go out, they thought, and recapture their old clientele. A grandiose scheme of rubber-floored bathing beaches, hanging Babylonian gardens, tennis courts, golf links, club hotels was drawn up. And after carrying out part of this optimistic plan the stockholders became frightened and embarked on a cheese-paring policy.

Ruin seems just around the corner.

The citizenry blames the casino for its lack of progressiveness, and Prince Louis for not forcing the gambling management to do what the situation demands. The Council of State has resigned, and the extremists are demanding that the republic, which held sway from 1793 to 1814, be re-established in power.

PRINCE LOUIS, visiting at his castle of Marchais, near rainy, gloomy Soissons, dispatched Prince Pierre, the heir apparent, as these bad tidings came to him to Monte Carlo to effect a solution of the difficulty. When the Prince stepped off the train, instead of the customary cheers and huzzahs from the people, he was greeted with a cold silence that all too loudly spoke the condition of the principality's affairs, and the posters pasted about the little nation by the orders of its ruler, posters calling on his people to keep their good sense were torn down or spat upon.

What action will Prince Louis take? He is bound, it would seem, hand and foot to the casino, for all his state and personal revenues come from it. Furthermore, it is a question as to how much personal prestige and influence he has with its management, for those who control it have become so formidable that their orders have been known to overrule those of the Prince.

So is it in Monaco. The sun shines, soft breezes bathe the land with their balm, the aroma of green things gently assails the nostrils with the fragrance of the south, beauty is rampant. But the ear hears the dour rumbling of dissatisfaction, and the future of the Princess, born without a name, trembles before the mandates of her people.

“CHINESE STUDENT a TOOL of the TONG when he SLEW his BRIDE”

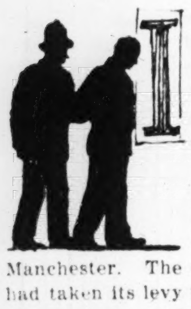
Newest Explanation of the “Motiveless Crime” That Chung Yi Miao Paid for With His Life on an English Gallows.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LONDON.



IN DEFIANCE of Mr. Kipling, East met West the other day through the agency of a hempen rope that snapped the life from the body of a young Chinese student in Strangeways Gaol, Manchester. The justice of the West had taken its levy for what seems now to have been a crime motivated by the most ancient traditions of the East.

That is what has been the puzzling element in the whole case—why Chung Yi Miao murdered his Chinese bride of a few weeks. A few days after the execution the most plausible reason yet given was put forward by the London Daily Express.

That newspaper, although declining to give the source of its information, ventured to say with considerable surety that the murder had been committed at the command of one of the most powerful of Chinese tongs. Miao was a loyal member of this tong. His bride's family was its sworn enemy. He was finally forced to obey the command to kill, although he undoubtedly suffered terrible mental torture before he actually brought himself to commit the crime.

Whether this is accepted as fact or not it offers a logical explanation for certain bits of evidence that were otherwise inexplicable. This is the statement on which the Daily Express bases its belief:

“Mrs. Chung Miao was the only surviving child of a Mr. Sheung Wai, a wealthy Chinese merchant of Hongkong. She was educated in England. During the British Empire Exhibition she managed her father's exhibits for him in the Chinese section. Miss Sheung Wai was an exceedingly pretty girl, and was popular with both Chinese and Europeans in London. She was known as a frequent visitor to several night clubs, where she was to be seen constantly dancing with her countrymen.

“At the conclusion of the British Empire Exhibition, Mr. Sheung Wai and his daughter returned to China. Shortly afterwards her father died, leaving her the whole of his vast fortune.

“For a time Miss Sheung Wai lived quietly in Hongkong. Her English education, however, made her long for the companionship of cultured people. It was not surprising, therefore, that when she met Chung Yi Miao in China last summer she should be attracted by him.

“MIAO was on a holiday from America, where he was studying law at Chicago University. His Western education attracted Miss Sheung Wai, and he soon was seen about as her constant companion.

“Miao was the son of a wealthy Chinese Government official. He had an ample private allowance from his father, and was acceptable in every way.

“His holiday being at an end, Miao returned to Chicago, and Miss Sheung Wai arranged to meet him there in the winter.

“Chung Yi Miao was a member of a powerful Chinese tong, or secret society, whose activities are world-wide. In the United States, after he returned, he learned to his horror that Miss Sheung's father was an enemy of his tong, and it was stated that his death was not unconnected with the blood feud which had been going on for generations between the Sheung Wai family and the tong.

“The Chicago members of the tong then discovered his affection for Miss Sheung Wai. He was summoned before them and told that he had been especially selected to carry out the vengeance of the secret society.

“MIAO pleaded for mercy, but he was bound to obey the orders of his superiors in the tong. They threatened him with dire penalties if he did not obey their commands, and at last they wore down his resistance, and he gave his reluctant consent to murder Miss Sheung.

“In November last Miss Sheung Wai arrived in Chicago to stay with some Chinese friends.

“Miao was frequently seen with her in the dance halls and Chinese restaurants of the city. He had a small two-seater motor car in which they used to go motoring together. On several occasions he was tempted to carry out the orders of his tong. He had plenty of opportunities for murdering the unsuspecting girl, but always at the last moment held back.

“As time wore on, the frightfulness of the deed began to prey on his mind. He eventually decided to save the girl's life and take a chance on cheating the tong of its vengeance.

“In May he married her in New York. He had booked a passage for his bride and himself in a liner sailing from New York to Glasgow. It was his intention on arrival in Glasgow to join his brother, who is in business in Cardiff. Unfortunately for him, two Chinamen had been ordered to keep watch on his movements. They followed him to England.

“In vain he pleaded with them to allow him to enjoy life in a new country with his bride.

“The mysterious slips of paper produced at the trial are stated to have been portions of letters which the wretched man wrote to them pleading for a postponement of the murder. They were found by the police after he was arrested.

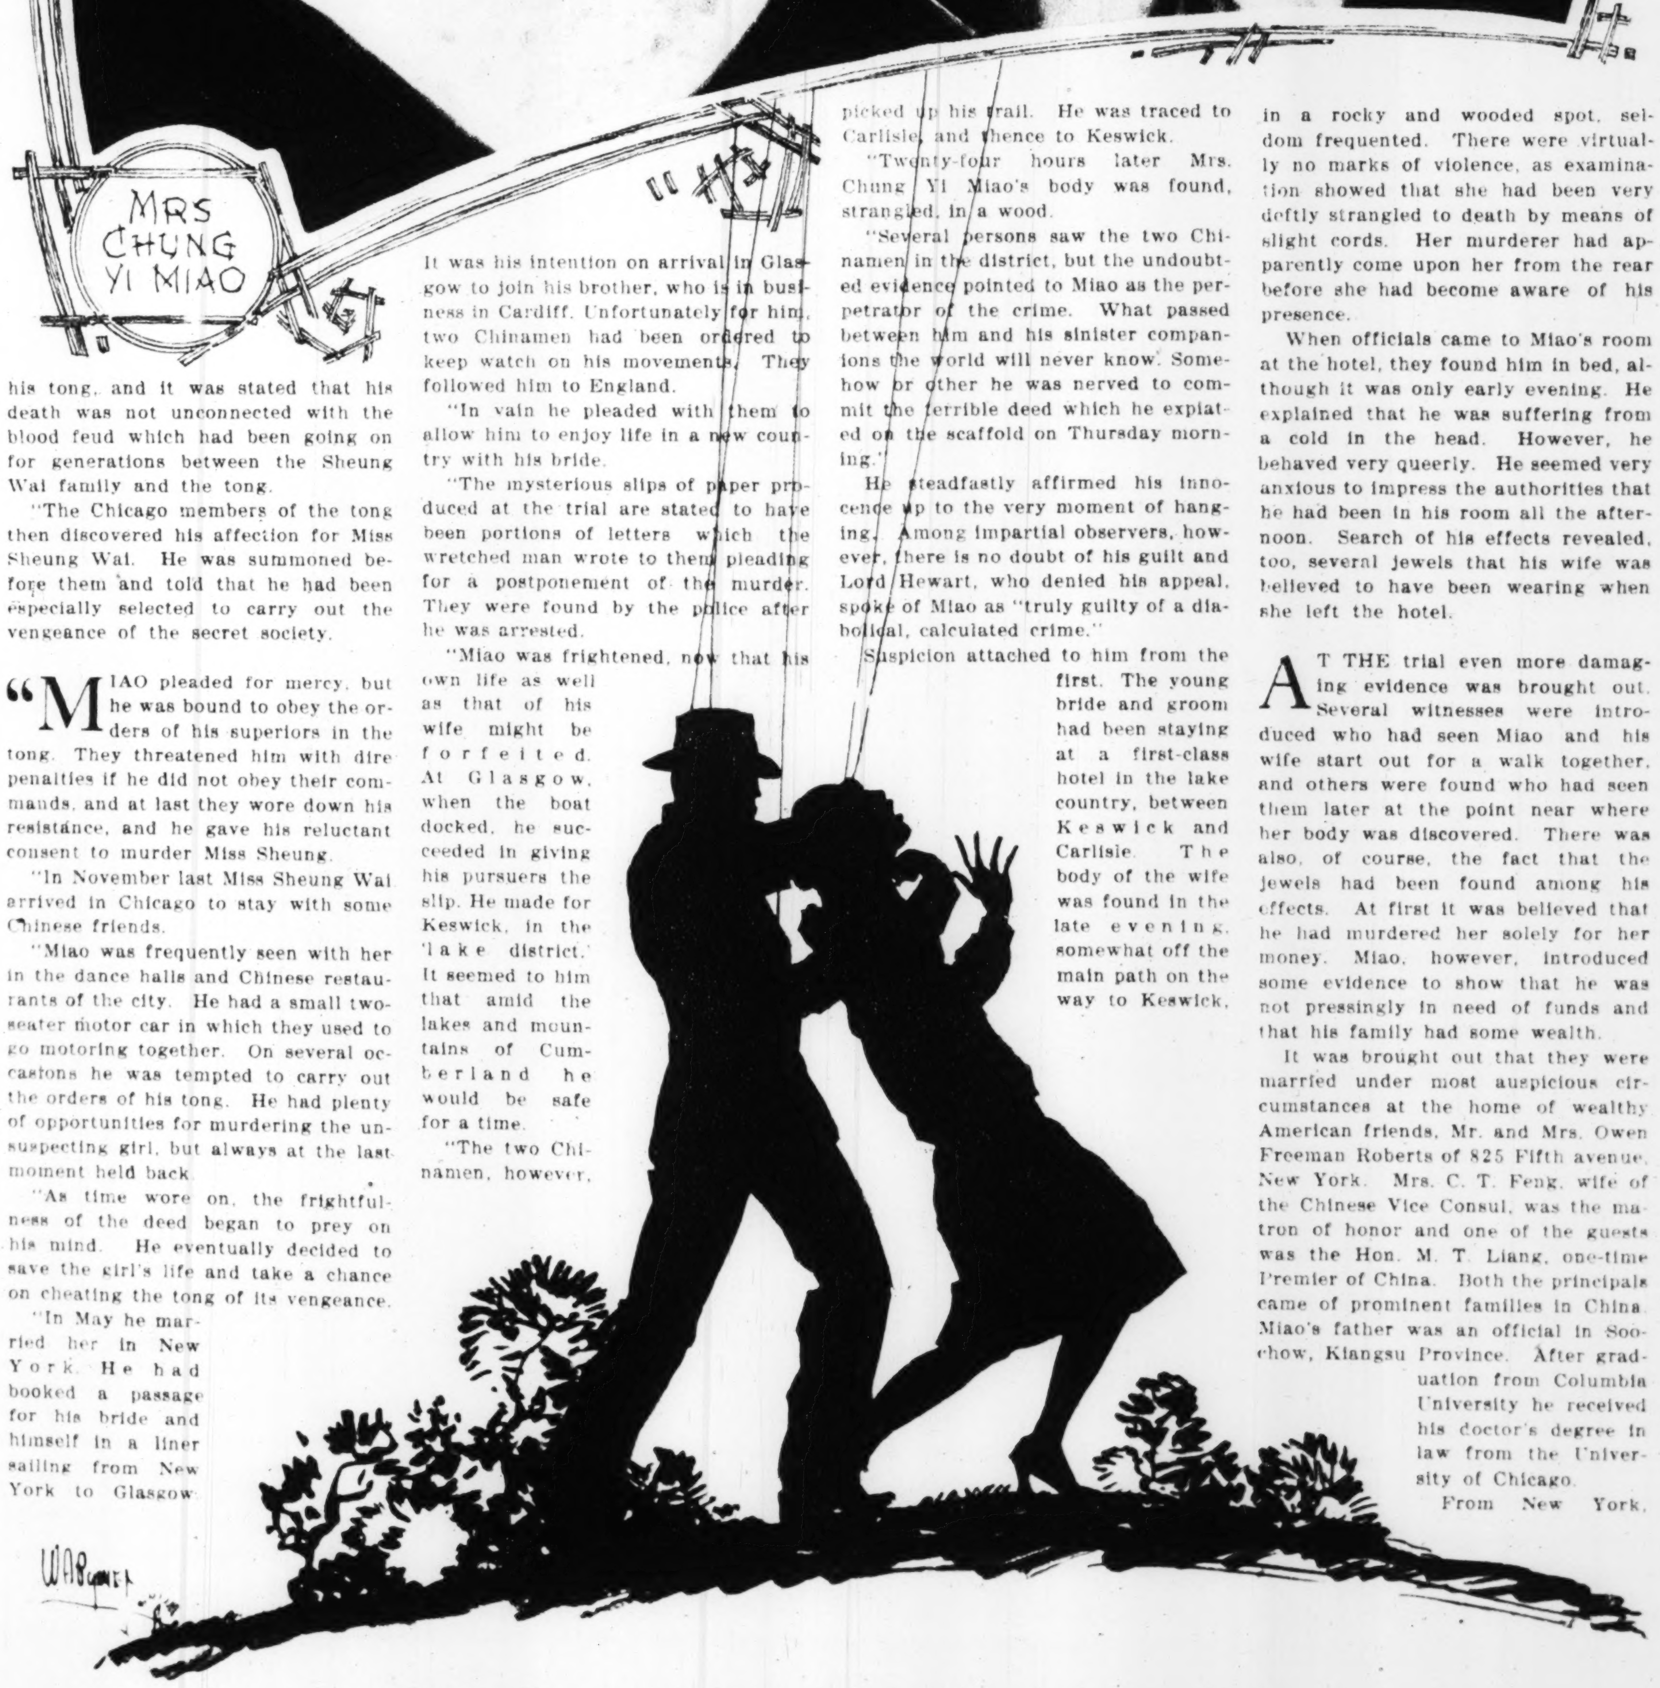
“Miao was frightened, now that his own life as well as that of his wife might be forfeited. At Glasgow, when the boat docked, he succeeded in giving his pursuers the slip. He made for Keswick, in the ‘lake district.’ It seemed to him that amid the lakes and mountains of Cumberland he would be safe for a time.

“The two Chinamen, however, picked up his trail. He was traced to Carlisle, and thence to Keswick.

“Twenty-four hours later Mrs. Chung Yi Miao's body was found, strangled, in a wood.

“Several persons saw the two Chinamen in the district, but the undoubted evidence pointed to Miao as the perpetrator of the crime. What passed between him and his sinister companions the world will never know. Somehow or other he was nerved to commit the terrible deed which he expiated on the scaffold on Thursday morning.”

He steadfastly affirmed his innocence up to the very moment of hanging. Among impartial observers, however, there is no doubt of his guilt and Lord Hewart, who denied his appeal, spoke of Miao as “truly guilty of a diabolical, calculated crime.”



Suspicion attached to him from the first. The young bride and groom had been staying at a first-class hotel in the lake country, between Keswick and Carlisle. The body of the wife was found in the late evening, somewhat off the main path on the way to Keswick, in a rocky and wooded spot, seldom frequented. There were virtually no marks of violence, as examination showed that she had been very deftly strangled to death by means of slight cords. Her murderer had apparently come upon her from the rear before she had become aware of his presence.

When officials came to Miao's room at the hotel, they found him in bed, although it was only early evening. He explained that he was suffering from a cold in the head. However, he behaved very queerly. He seemed very anxious to impress the authorities that he had been in his room all the afternoon. Search of his effects revealed, too, several jewels that his wife was believed to have been wearing when she left the hotel.

AT THE trial even more damaging evidence was brought out. Several witnesses were introduced who had seen Miao and his wife start out for a walk together, and others were found who had seen them later at the point near where her body was discovered. There was also, of course, the fact that the jewels had been found among his effects. At first it was believed that he had murdered her solely for her money. Miao, however, introduced some evidence to show that he was not pressingly in need of funds and that his family had some wealth.

It was brought out that they were married under most auspicious circumstances at the home of wealthy American friends, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Freeman Roberts of 825 Fifth avenue, New York. Mrs. C. T. Feng, wife of the Chinese Vice Consul, was the matron of honor and one of the guests was the Hon. M. T. Liang, one-time Premier of China. Both the principals came of prominent families in China. Miao's father was an official in Soochow, Kiangsu Province. After graduation from Columbia University he received his doctor's degree in law from the University of Chicago.

From New York, too, came evidence to substantiate in part the robbery motive. Friends who knew the young couple before their marriage said Miao did not seem to be really in love, and upon occasions referred to his fiancee as dull and stupid. A few weeks before the marriage he seemed to be worried over financial matters, but shortly before the day of the ceremony his fiancee made out two checks to him that seemed at least temporarily to relieve his worries.

Miss Sheung Wai's friends said that she was in the habit of wearing a $5000 jade necklace. At the time they sailed for England on their honeymoon, early in June, it was revealed, the bride carried $27,000 in cash and $50,000 in jewelry.

Most telling in Miao's favor was the testimony given by almost everyone called by the defense as to the happy relationship that had apparently existed between the pair. Chamber maids, boot boys and guests at the hotel all took the stand to tell what a genuine affection apparently existed between the two honeymooners.

The story that Miao told was plausible to a certain degree. He said that he had been taken ill after lunch and that since they had earlier planned to go to Keswick together his wife had insisted on making the trip anyway, urging a greater need to go in order that she might procure medicines for him.

AS WAS expected through the entire trial, however, the jury returned a verdict against him. Miao did not accept his fate with the quiet stoicism that is customarily attributed to the Chinese. He loudly and tearfully proclaimed his innocence. So insistent was he that his attorneys finally arranged for an appeal to be made to the Court of Appeals here. The verdict of death had been passed at Carlisle.

Before Lord Hewart, in the Court of Appeals, Miao's attorney arose and made this announcement:

“My client says that the Almighty has told him to tell his own story to the Court and that being so I cannot interfere.”

Lord Hewart gave his consent and Miao addressed the Court with a passionate harangue, in excellent English. He pleaded against a miscarriage of justice and generally showed that he had applied his legal training to good advantage. Occasionally, however, he rambled from the subject and was admonished by Lord Hewart, who warned him that he must hold to the relevant testimony. He finally asked for permission to call several new witnesses who on the day of the crime had seen mysterious Orientals about half a mile from the spot where Mrs. Miao was found murdered. This also was granted and two witnesses were called who gave evidence as the convicted man had outlined. This tallied with the scraps of paper bearing Chinese script which had been found near the scene of the crime. Miao said that these were threatening letters.

All this had no effect on Lord Hewart, who a few days later overruled the appeal and fixed the date of execution. While much that was formerly obscure is cleared up by the tong theory, there are still many things which are unknown. Those other Chinese who were in the neighborhood of Keswick must surely know all. And perhaps, also, certain high tong officials know. But the secrets which they hold are not liable to go much farther.

Yellowstone Kelly—Adventurer of the OLD WEST

Another of the Fast-Dwindling Group of Spectacular Indian Fighters Hits His Last Trail.

PARADISE, California.

AFTER traveling unexplored trails for most of his 80 years, "Yellowstone" Kelly, veteran of numberless Indian fights and narrow escapes, set out upon the longest trail of all the other day, without his shooting irons. It was unlike him to leave them behind when facing an adventure, but this time his adventure was one of a different sort. His adversary was the one which has ultimately triumphed over all old warriors, armed or unarmed. So Yellowstone Kelly—Captain Luther Sage Kelly, officially—left his rifles standing in a corner and went quietly.

For the last 20 years or so the life of Kelly had been the uneventful life of a fruit rancher. But during the 50 years preceding that no life encompassed more of the bright stuff of adventure. It constituted a kaleidoscopic succession of Indian fighting, scouting, trapping, hunting and exploring. He served against the Sioux and Cheyennes with General Nelson A. Miles. He explored the vast wilderness of the Yellowstone. He stood off mutinous natives in the Philippines. He led expeditions in Alaska. A sort of latter day Daniel Boone was Yellowstone Kelly.

Born at Geneva, New York, in 1849, Kelly almost missed the Civil War. By fibbing a little about his age, however, he managed to enlist just before the windup, and when the war closed he was sent west with troops to garrison frontier posts.

But the routine life of army posts irked the restless young fellow. In his "Memoirs," Yellowstone Kelly speaks of that period of his youth thus: "I was too much enamored of the full, free life of prairie and mountain to suffer the restriction and discipline of another period of service in the army, especially in time of peace."

So when Kelly was discharged in 1868 he set out alone from the far Canadian settlement at Fort Garry for a journey westward, "wherever the spirit of adventure might lead me," he said. It was the beginning of his incredible career as one of the greatest Indian scouts in American history.

He made a brilliant figure as he rode off on his wiry pony. He was tall and broad and wore a "Red River coat," a blue broadcloth garment garnished with bright buttons which the Hudson Bay Company sold to traders and fur voyageurs. He had bound it about his waist with a red sash and wore upon his head a fur cap of marten or otter or other fine skin. His rifle shone in the cold sunlight of early May. He moved out from the little outpost of civilization and was swallowed into the wilderness.

THEN followed years of remarkable exploits. Wandering ever west and north, Kelly encountered hostile Indians, was ambushed and escaped with his life only by miracles of courage and daring. One of his early exploits of this nature was a duel which he fought single-handed against two murderous savages who waylaid him as he rode along the trail.

They sent their arrows whistling past him, and Kelly dropped one of them. He did not know whether he had killed or wounded him, or whether, with Indian cunning, he was crawling along on the ground for a position behind the white man. Kelly stood at bay before the second savage, who had taken refuge behind a tree. There they stood and exchanged shots. Again and again the Indian flipped out an edge of his blanket to attract Kelly's fire. The scout began to creep backward, expecting momentarily to be attacked from the rear by the first Indian. Inch by inch he retreated. His horse was gone and he was miles from even a trapper's cabin.

At last the unwary savage, whose arrows had been whistling past Kelly's body from the tree, exposed his bow arm. Like a flash, Kelly shattered it with a shot. Then the Indian broke cover and came toward the scout for a last conflict hand to hand. Kelly dropped him and retreated.

He made his way to the cabin of Red Mike, a lone trapper, and there sought rest and a mount. While recovering, a band of Indians came riding into the little inclosure about the cabin. The two white men prepared for trouble. But the braves sat down and smoked silently. Then they asked who had been in the duel back upon the trail over which they had come. Mike silently indicated Kelly. A look of vast respect passed across the faces of the braves. Kelly had killed both savages in his duel and the Indians had read the signs of the unequal struggle as they passed. It was the beginning of Kelly's reputation for bravery. Among the savage tribes that swarmed the plains, it stamped him as a mighty warrior to be regarded with respect.

IT WAS at this time that he encountered Sitting Bull, the Sioux chief whom he was later to fight when that Indian was leading his warlike people in a last bitter stand against the United States Government. Sitting Bull was at that time about 30, with a round, pleasant face that belied his belligerent nature. After bloody fighting Kelly was to see him and his tribe surrender to General Miles and settle with his people in the country allotted to them for the peaceful pursuit of education and agriculture.

At Fort Berthold, Kelly found a settlement of Mandan, Gros Ventre and Arikara tribes living together for protection against the Sioux. The fort was in the very center of the hostile country. But undaunted, the scout made his way the following winter to the mouth of the Yellowstone, where he left his horse and proceeded on foot through unexplored country, for many weeks.

In that day, the carrying of dispatches between army posts was the equivalent of belonging to the "Suicide Clubs" of the late World War. The lone riders were special targets for hostile Indians. Kelly learned that dispatches were to be sent from Fort Buford to a lower post, Fort Stevenson. He volunteered to carry the messages alone. Even the officers to whom he made the offer shouted with amusement at his bravado. But they soon learned that Kelly was in earnest. He set off on a wild pony and succeeded in carrying the mail through, after a series of hair-raising escapes, and in returning to Fort Buford, where he received the wondering commendation of men and officers.

But spring was coming and life in the fort began to become unbearably regular. To the north lay Fort Peck, a trading center, with nothing between but buffaloes and wandering Indian hunters. It called the scout irresistibly and he packed gun and blankets and soon was on the trail again.

From there he began his years of trapping and hunting. Wolf pelts were valuable, so he and a couple of other plainsmen set out in weather often 40 below zero to trap the hungry animals. The pelts would be stripped off and stacked up like cord wood, frozen solid, to wait till the spring and their transportation back to the trading stations.

The life in these years developed in the young man resourcefulness and hardihood beyond normal. Again and again his wits saved him in dealing with marauding Indians. He acquired a knowledge of woodsmanship that enabled him to live as independently in the rough country as any savage.

Then came the impulse to explore the Yellowstone itself. With Ed Lambert, voyageur and post interpreter at Fort Buford, Kelly set out for strange experiences. Afoot, the two arranged for prolonged exploration. They built themselves a boat of buffalo hide, called a "bull boat," and in this frail craft ventured into the swift waters of the Yellowstone River and made their way back to Fort Buford. They had seen country never before approached by white man, had stood off hostile braves, had discovered strange phenomena in the rugged mountains. Once they had lain in the brush so close behind a war party of Ogallala Indians that the smell of their roasting buffalo ribs came to them clearly in the dusk and the sound of their fierce chanting. Lambert and Kelly watched the Indians carefully. Then, behind them, there began to sound suddenly the eerie "Hoo-o, hoo!" of the owl. The Indians stopped their chanting and eating and listened. Again the mournful call came. An Indian got up and moved toward them. Then the owl swished his wings and sailed out into the dusk. The Indians relaxed and went back to their feasting while the two adventurers crept away into the darkness of the forest.

YEARS followed then of adventures in the Yellowstone. Kelly could not leave it. Again and again he returned. So remarkable were his experiences that he became known as "The Little Man With the Big Heart," and more ominously, "The Man With the Strong Medicine Who Never Lays Down His Gun." "Lone Wolf" and "Yellowstone" Kelly were sobriquets that were fastened onto him at this period, also.

In 1873 General George A. Forsyth was sent to map and explore the Upper Missouri and Yellowstone rivers. There was but one man who could guide them. That was Kelly.

Three years later, the Sioux, who had been simmering with bellicose designs, broke out into open warfare. Kelly was attached to General Miles' command as chief scout in the bitter winter campaign of 1876 and 1877.

His introduction to the General was typical. He tells of it in his "Memoirs":

"In those days the valley of the Yellowstone held some grand bottom lands, with groves of cottonwood, with grassy prairie between; and where the shallows of the river swept around the deer and elk loitered in the heat of the day, and the Indian came for material to build his sweat house or bull boat. The beautiful land is still there, but it is now fenced in and the romance and the wild life are gone forever.

"Down the valley we rode, ever on the watch for game movements, for fresh trails crossed in every direction. At last we arrived near the site of the military cantonment, situated on an open plain on the south side of the river, about a mile above the junction with the Tongue River. Crossing on a rude ferry operated by soldiers, we found the camp nearly deserted. Only Captain Randall, quartermaster, was visible. We got acquainted without much ceremony; the soldiers were off in the woods cutting timbers for use in building quarters for the command and cover for supplies, and General Miles was along with the working parties.

"CAPTAIN RANDALL noticed the big bear's paw hanging from my saddle. He smiled and said: 'That's about as big as they make them, is it not?' I slipped the paw from the saddle leather and held it up; it was over a foot long without the claws.

"'The General will want to see you,' said the Captain. 'He is curious to learn all he can about this country.'

"I still held the cinnamon's right hand aloft, having in mind to give it to him, but I said: 'I will send it up as my card.'

"Captain Randall called an orderly and sent the paw to the General's tent with my compliments. After he had returned from the forest and learned who had left the card he sent for me."

He stayed with General Miles until 1878. The first of the campaigns in which he participated was against Sitting Bull. He and his scouts found where the warring tribe was located and led troops to the place. Sitting Bull was routed. But it was during this campaign that Yellowstone Kelly came close to having his career brought to an untimely end. He was fired upon by his own men, who, by reason of the smoke of battle, took the scouts for hostile Indians. He narrates the incident thus:

"The command was over a mile away, but we dashed down the divide full tilt toward the train, for there was no other way of approach, without making a wide detour on our back course. The Indians paid little attention to us until we had got to the dry water course in the center of the valley, thinking perhaps that we were a part of reinforcements coming to their aid. Then they turned upon us while we were trying to keep out of the way of the burning prairie grass, but we easily drove them back. The valley was hazy now with smoke; only the rear guard was visible, and they seemed farther off than they really were, as we rode toward them, when suddenly they fired a volley pointblank against us.

"Hardly had the bullets ceased to whine over our heads or the smoke to roll from the rifles of our sharpshooter friends before we had taken to cover. I went to the right under a bank, my companions to the left in a ravine. I peeped over the friendly bank and saw the rear guard, each man bent over and carrying his gun at a trail, advancing cautiously toward the spot where they supposed they had dispatched or placed hors de combat the too-eager hostiles, who a moment before were pressing on their front so confidently. A noncommissioned officer was in advance and when he came near me I raised up and called to him. As soon as he saw me he turned to those behind him and called: 'Men, it's the scouts!'"

Shortly after this the defeated Sioux came to General Miles for a conference and left three chiefs as hostages.

However, there was another campaign along the Tongue River that fall when the Cheyennes and Sioux drove off the beef cattle belonging to the troops. The Indians were fanatically sure of victory, but the campaign ended in their retreat and defeat and the final settlement of the Sioux on reservation. In this period, too, was the routing of Chief Joseph, the Nez Perce.

FROM 1880 to 1883 Kelly was scouting for the United States Government in the Ute country in Colorado. Here again he had a series of exciting adventures. At one time Yellowstone rode inadvertently into a camp of hostile savages, who advanced upon him menacingly. He sat his horse serenely in the face of their oncoming and told them his errand was peaceable, and that there was not even a soldier in the vicinity. Then he looked at his watch, "Not that I wanted to know the time of day," says he, "for I knew it was time to go," and rode away.

Behind him, the astonished Indians stared and let him go.

The War Department afterwards recalled Kelly from special duty and from 1892 to 1898 he was in the general service. Then he guided Captain Glenn's exploring expedition into Alaska. In 1899 he took the Harriman expedition there.

Meanwhile, the Philippine insurrection had broken out and again Kelly felt the call to action. He became a Captain with the Fortieth United States Volunteers and served in the islands under General Bates.

Daputan, Mindanao, was placed under his command and in 1901 he was made provincial treasurer of the Province of Surigao. He had taken the position of Acting Governor there when a group of escaped criminals and bandits got possession of the principal town. For 18 months Kelly and a small band of men stood them off.

President Theodore Roosevelt, a personal friend, commended him for this. He wrote him:

"My Dear Captain Kelly: The cable brings us news of your gallant conduct. Mrs. Roosevelt and I and all the children read it at breakfast this morning and felt pleased and proud. However, it was just what I would guarantee that you would do in any emergency. Sincerely yours,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

After his return, President Roosevelt appointed him Indian Agent for the San Carlos Indians. He was there until 1908. Then he went to Nevada and mined until 1915.

IT WAS in that year that he came to Paradise and the fruit ranch. He had married in Detroit, Michigan, in 1885, and with his wife he retired to his ranch in the hills. It is a rich, green country about Paradise, close to the snowy Sierras, and with scenery that filled the heart of the old man.

There were no children of the union and in later years his wife became blind.

For a year past the old eagle had been failing in health, but he still stood erect in the military dignity that had marked his bearing in the four wars in which he had figured. At last he lay down quietly and passed away, leaving alone his widow, Mrs. May Kelly. His other relatives are a nephew, Dr. Luther A. Kelly of Charlotte, North Carolina; a niece, Miss Jeanette C. Kelly of New York, and a sister, Mrs. William G. Grumm of Havana, Cuba.

The old scout will not sleep in the rural quietness of his home in Paradise, but on the banks of the Yellowstone River, near Billings, Montana, he will be laid to rest in the country which he loved.

A Lieutenant on the Emden During Her Brave Cruise

OUR next objective was a small island west of Colombo, with a lighthouse serving as a guiding light for that port, on the steamship route from Colombo to Minicoy. Every ship coming from the west coast entering Colombo passes Minicoy.

Towards 10 o'clock the lights of a ship were sighted on the starboard bow. One got the impression that she had come straight out of the harbor of Colombo. She was shown up well by our searchlights.

We proceeded quietly along our previous course, as we were bound to meet the ship at a safe distance from the harbor. An hour later it was possible to hail her. Lauterbach and I were sent over with the prize crew.

When we came on board we acquainted ourselves at once with her name, cargo and destination. She was the 3500-ton English ship Tymeric, with 4000 tons of sugar, en route for England—a fine cargo to sweeten the sea water!

First the ship had to follow the Emden, so that the sinking would not take place within a certain distance of the gates of Colombo. As usual, it was intended to give the crew an opportunity to pack up their personal belongings. This could not, however, be carried out.

When Lauterbach told the Captain his fate and ordered him to follow the Emden, both the Captain and the chief engineer refused. The Captain, in a rage at having run into our hands right outside Colombo, and in sight of the searchlights of that harbor, began to curse the Germans with the words, "Damned Germans."

There was no more palaver! With such a fellow the short way was the only way, and Lauterbach accordingly signaled for permission to sink the ship at once.

THIS permission was granted, and in addition men were sent over from the Emden to reinforce the prize crew in the Tymeric. The Captain and his chief engineer were brought over to the Emden.

On account of the sudden alteration in the conditions it was not possible to allow the Tymeric's men any time to pack their things. The English crew was quickly transferred to the Markomannia.

The Englishmen were scarcely on board the Markomannia when everything was clear for sinking the Tymeric. First, however, the abundance of fresh provisions discovered was transferred to the boats and a rapid but effective search was made for newspapers of recent date.

I returned to the Emden with the prize crew, and after a successful explosion Levetzow and his party did so as well. We did not wait for the Tymeric to sink, but proceeded at once on the previous course.

Although it was past midnight our officers at once rushed for the newspapers. They contained plenty of the news of the war at home—very garbled reports. We were most interested in the reports of our doings in Madras, for we were now learning for the first time how the enemy regarded our activities.

The papers were principally occupied with the damage done, for which the figure of 20,000,000 gold marks was given, a fairly large sum for the destruction of the tanks and the burnt oil. Later reports stated that the inhabitants, in large numbers, were leaving for the interior, many of them traveling on the roofs of the railway carriages.

We could only wish that the feeling of insecurity and the mood of unrest might spread to the interior of India.

For the Emden herself, and for Kapitan von Muller, there was nothing but praise. The papers talked enthusiastically of "fair play," and said that the Captain of the Emden must be a real sportsman.

There were a large number of articles about the Emden, all with more or less the same opinions. One paper was particularly witty. It had among the advertisements one of a common soap, with the legend: "The soap is so good that even the Emden took it from the Indus and used it."

We were still searching the papers, and the clock showed the first hour after midnight, when suddenly there was a night alarm.

A new victim was in sight, and a proof that we were on the right route. Lauterbach and Leutnant Zimmermann were sent over with the prize crew. The order was given that our officers were to take command of the new prize at once, and were to follow the Emden.

We were naturally very curious to learn the nationality of the ship that had fallen into our hands. She was the 4437-ton English steamship Gryfevale, from Aden to Colombo, without cargo.

Our Captain at once came to the decision to use this ship as a dump. When all was clear the previous course for Minicoy was resumed.

EARLY on September 27, about 3 o'clock, a ship was again sighted coming toward us, which seemed from her lights to be a merchant vessel.

Levetzow and Gyssling went on board with the prize crew and announced: "English steamship Buresk, 4350 tons, cargo 6600 tons first-class Cardiff coal, chartered by the English Admiralty, from England to Hongkong."

This announcement caused great joy in the Emden. Here we had the long-desired good coal, and better we could not wish for.

We were now provided with coal for a long time ahead. As the Markomannia must soon be completely empty, it was decided to appoint the Buresk a follower, and what was still more in our favor was that the Buresk could steam at least 10 knots.

Since August 6 the gallant Markomannia had faithfully accompanied us, and had done us good service in many ways. When we knew that the Buresk had 1600 tons more coal than the Markomannia had on leaving Tsingtao, our hopes of being able to rely on her for some time were considerably increased, provided that no misfortune overtook the Emden. It was intended, as far as possible, to exhaust the coal in the Markomannia and then abandon her.

All the English crews, who had hitherto been accommodated in the Markomannia, were transferred to the Gryfevale, our dump.

WITH Levetzow's return we proceeded on our way. The order of steaming was again the famous echelon, with the Buresk to port, to starboard the Gryfevale, and behind her the Markomannia.

September 27, a Sunday, had begun well and looked like going on well—a day of rest in beautiful weather.

We had just sat down to our luxurious midday meal, of which the menu read: "Soup, corned beef with rice, stewed fruit," when some disturbance became noticeable, owing to the increased speed of the ship.

The Emden was steaming at full speed and that was sufficient alarm for us. The soup was left standing and we all ran to the bridge or the quarterdeck to see what was happening this time.

The usual smoke cloud was seen and soon a steamship with one funnel appeared on the horizon.

In the Emden the prize crew and search party were piped away, and the duty cutter's crew, that of the port cutter. Oberleutnant Geerdes and Leutnant Schall were appointed to deal with the newcomer.

When we were near enough the stranger was ordered to stop and the prize crew sent across.

It was the 3500-ton English steamship Ribera, in ballast. The only thing useful to the Emden was the plentiful provisions and a very complete signal book. Part of the provisions the Emden took, and the rest, with the English ship's company, was transferred to the Gryfevale.

This time Kapitanleutnant Gaede was to employ his guns once more, and with a few well-placed shells the Ribera was dispatched to the "eternal hunting grounds."

This time everything went smoothly and the ship sunk very quickly.

Now, as to the signal book. Our latest victim, on her last voyage in the Indian Ocean, had met with an English troop transport, which was on its way to Aden. This consisted of sixty-seven to seventy ships, protected by the English battleship Swiftsure, of the Indian station, and the Russian armored cruiser Askold. The Ribera had exchanged signals with both these ships.

After the sinking of the Ribera our course was set again for Minicoy.

We hoped, indeed, to surprise a few ships on the way, but had a feeling that it was time to vanish, as it was very necessary for us to coal again.

At nightfall, "Steamship in sight off the starboard bow" was again reported.

The Emden allowed the new victim to approach quietly, and Levetzow and Fikentscher, with their party; and Marine Engineer Haas, with the blasting party, were sent over. Levetzow signaled at once: "English steamship Foyle, 4147 tons; without cargo, from Aden to Colombo."

This ship was to be made clear for sinking straight away when a brightly-lighted ship was sighted, and Levetzow was ordered to follow with the Foyle. The Emden with her conspicuous train, consisting of Markomannia, Buresk, Gryfevale and Foyle, approached the new victim.

THE many lights raised joyful hopes of a rich mail packet, possibly carrying money, and therefore Account Officer Bordeaux was added to the prize crew under command of Geerdes and Schall, as teller, if a large sum should be captured.

The report from the ship we had stopped was a severe disappointment. A mail packet, but a Dutchman, and therefore to be released at once as a neutral. The ship was the Djocja, and belonged to the Batavia Line.

Geerdes and Schall were able to buy from her some good cigarettes, which were all exhausted in the Emden. These were naturally much envied by the rest, as the supply was so small that it was only enough for the two officers mentioned.

Meantime, Levetzow had made the Foyle clear for sinking. The crew had packed up their personal belongings and were transferred to the Gryfevale.

When the blasting cartridges had been fired, Levetzow and his party returned to the Emden, and the Foyle was left to her fate.

The two prisoners from the Tymeric were transferred to the Gryfevale this Sunday, and Lauterbach and his party returned to the Emden.

The Gryfevale herself was abandoned about noon, after the Englishmen, to our great surprise, had given three cheers each for our Captain, the officers, and the Emden. She made for Colombo, while we went south towards the Maldives.

The twenty-eighth of September found us on a southerly course as it was necessary to get as far as possible from the scene of our latest activities. There could be no doubt that the non-arrival at Colombo of the ships we had sunk would awaken suspicion and if the English should learn where we had last been busy they would certainly send after us a number of warships.

The need for coaling also forced the Emden to seek some unfrequented neighborhood.

In the afternoon the Emden was cleared for coaling, and the day passed in complete peace.

On September 29 we took in coal under the protection of the Maldive Islands. We went alongside the Markomannia and the coaling itself began about noon. Five hundred and seventy tons were taken in by the Emden, but the heat made it impossible to do more. The Emden then cast off and cruised in the neighborhood.

SEPTEMBER 30 was a day of parting, as the Markomannia was to be abandoned. In the early morning our new companion, the Buresk, made fast alongside the Markomannia and took over the stores of oil and fresh water.

At about 2 o'clock the Emden went alongside the Markomannia. The work of coaling was begun again, and lasted till about half-past seven in the evening.

Zahlmeisterapplikant Bordeaux went over to the Markomannia with the Emden's mail and £50 in English money. His errand was to buy the things needed for the Emden in some neutral port.

The Markomannia was first to meet the Pontoporos, fill up with coal from her, and run for some port in the Dutch Indies where she was to take in as many provisions as possible, leave secretly and steam to an appointed rendezvous to wait for the Emden. We reckoned on meeting her again at the beginning of November, and she therefore had four weeks to spare.

It was hard to part from our faithful companion. Under the tried command of Kapitan Faass, the Markomannia had shared the Emden's joy and sorrow for over two months, had remained faithful and had helped us as much as possible.

The parting from the Markomannia took place toward half-past eight in the evening. Her ship's company gave three cheers for the Emden.

We never saw her again. She rests at the bottom of the sea.

Our new objective was the Chagos Archipelago.

This destination was decided on for two reasons. First, it was important, and indeed necessary, to vanish for a time from the scene of our former activities, not only on account of the enemy, but because our ship needed overhauling. It was, of course, not possible to dock her, but by canting some of the encrustments, com-

"BUBBLING OVER" DEVERS BUBBLED TOO FREELY

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

Frank Devers, alias "Bubb'ing Over."

Johanna Bruce.

MEMPHIS, Tennessee.

A PRETTY young woman and a well-dressed man chartered a taxicab one evening, not so long ago, and started out to make the rounds of the Memphis cabarets. They did. They visited night club after night club, dancing, partaking of the wine that is red, and very likely of the latest in whisky, and had great fun.

They spent money—well, like water. The well-dressed man seemed to be particularly nicely fixed with $100 bills, and he had no aversion to spending them profusely. And the more he drank the more he spent, and as the gay night wore on his tips began to take on the size of gratuities dispensed by a drunken and unduly prosperous sailor.

But as midnight drew near the gentleman, who had drunk not wisely but entirely too well, began to show signs of tipsiness. Let us not beat around the bush; the fellow was squiffed. His companion—she seemed to be his wife—protested her husband was taking on too much of a liquid cargo. But he, he didn't propose to have this pleasant business terminated. Yes, he'd take her back to their hotel. But—hic-de-hic-hic—he'd take a li'l' spin first; goo' for the head, m' dear.

So the lady advised the driver of the name of her hostelry—and a very good one it was, too—the chauffeur took her there, she disembarked, and off the driver and his male fare started for a little spin. The spin, by his customer's order, stopped every now and then at some new cabaret or restaurant, where this angel was received with open palms, palms that clutched at those profuse $100 bills.

Now this taxi man—his name, for history's sake, was J. E. Jeffcoate—was a fellow with the love of his fellow man deep within his heart. Here was a guy who had treated him well, a darn nice fellow, who, as he was boiled, was giving away too much money, no matter how rich he was. Hundred-dollar bills don't grow on trees, thought the conscientious Jeffcoate. "Mister, don't you think we'd better go back to the lady?" But, alas, Mister didn't think so.

Jeffcoate took the situation in his own hands. No sooner had he loaded Mister into the cab, after another one of Mister's philanthropic cabaret calls, than he drove to the taxi company's office. There he sought the advice of the manager. "Come on," they said to Mister, "come on, old boy, let's put your money in the safe until you sober up." But Mister was too drunk to pay them heed. But as he was also too drunk to argue, Jeffcoate put him back in the cab, took him to police headquarters, carried him in, and explained to the Captain: "I got a millionaire gentleman here and he ought to be protected until he gets sober."

SO THEY took a roll of $100 bills from Mister, a roll big enough, one might say, to give a dinosaur indigestion—and they placed him on a bunk to sober up.

The story leaked out around headquarters. When the men from the Bureau of Identification made their early morning rounds they dropped in to take a peek at the man with all the $100 bills.

"I don't like his looks," was the comment of a deputy inspector in the bureau.

So they took Mister upstairs and gave him a fling at that rather strange process invented by a French professor—Dr. Bertillon.

For two hours they kept him. He was fingerprinted, measured from ear to ear, toe to toe, and so on. Then the men in the bureau started ransacking files until—behold! Look at this poster broadcast by the Postoffice Inspector in charge at St. Paul, Minnesota.

"Big boy, you're our meat," ejaculated the inspector.

For Chauffeur Jeffcoate's "millionaire gentleman" was none other than Frank Devers, alias William Underwood, alias Percy Brown, alias Tom Smith, alias J. P. Nolan, likewise known among his friends as "Bubbling Over," upon whose head a price of $2000 had been placed by the United States Postoffice Department.

And this bulletin which the police found with Mr. Devers' picture and fingerprints upon it, announced: "Wanted for holdup of railway postal clerk at Hibbing, Minnesota, with deadly weapon and theft of registered mail from his custody, Nov. 5, 1926." And, it added, "Escaped from Utah State Prison Oct. 29, 1925."

And now a squad of officers made their way to that hotel where Devers' lady awaited him. Right up to the Dever studio suite they went, and into the suite they entered.

"Who are you?" demanded the lady, backing to an escritoire, upon which lay an ugly-looking .45 automatic pistol.

"The law, miss," exclaimed a Detective Lieutenant, as he stepped swiftly past her and grabbed the weapon.

Search of the suite yielded something like $15,000 worth of gems, including three rare diamond solitaires, set in platinum. In her purse was found approximately $3500 in $100 bills.

THEN this young woman, whose name is Johanna Bruce, told how she had met Devers in St. Paul while she was clerking in a drug store, how she had accompanied him to many cities, always living in luxury, how he had bought her fine dresses, given her plenty of money to spend, and diamonds; how he had taken her to theaters and night clubs and restaurants. And, she said, she didn't know his business—and he had always been very good to her—"as gentle as a child."

But the police—the police contend that Frank Devers, alias "Bubbling Over," is a bank bandit, mail robber, kidnaper, beer runner, yes, and an escaped convict. And there is no doubt at all that Mr. Devers was serving an indeterminate term of from 5 years to life imprisonment in the Utah Penitentiary for looting a bank when he left that place most unceremoniously.

So Utah is after "Bubbling Over" Devers. The State of Iowa would like to get in touch with him, for he escaped jail there, too, while under charges. Minnesota wants him. And so does the United States of America. In short, his immediate future seems assured.

The Cruise of the Emden

posed of small mussels attached to the ship's bottom, could be cleared off.

The second part of the plan for our cruise to the Chagos Archipelago was concerned with the war on merchant shipping.

The steamship routes from Australia to Suez and from Mauritius to Calcutta pass this archipelago to the southward.

At about 7 in the morning of October 9 we ran into the harbor of Diego Garcia, the southernmost island of the Chagos Archipelago.

The appearance of two ships in the quiet harbor was naturally something of an event for the natives. We might have been lying there half an hour when a boat rowed by natives approached the Emden. It brought on board the subordinate manager of the oil company exploiting Diego Garcia, who was born in Madagascar and was only master of the French tongue. We recognized that this manager and the inhabitants had no idea that there was a war on in the world.

This surprising condition of ignorance was easily explained. Only once in three months did a sailing-ship ply between Diego Garcia and Mauritius. Since the beginning of July they had had no news from the outside world.

The oil company manager could not be blamed for wishing to know the reason of our stop. The excuse was that urgent repairs forced us to put into this harbor.

The inquisitive man was told that we were taking part in "world maneuvers" in which the united fleets of Germany, England and France had the principal base of operations in the Indian Ocean.

This pleasant conversation was in full swing when the first manager and chief of the oil company appeared on board. There were delicate moments, for the first manager, an Englishman, was more inquisitive and less retiring than his subordinate.

Our captain told him a story of a frightful storm from which the ship had only with the greatest difficulty escaped.

At about two in the afternoon we weighed anchor and made fast alongside the Buresk for coaling. Coaling lasted till midnight.

On October 10, at six in the morning, coaling was continued. At about 10 o'clock the thousand tons was complete.

Towards 11 we left the hospitable island, steering a fictitious course to the northwest. Later we altered course to northeast, and cruised for a time along the steamship route from Australia to Aden, in the hope of surprising a ship there.

Meantime we succeeded in intercepting a wireless message from an English ship, inquiring about the security of the Colombo to Aden line. The answer, probably from Colombo, said that there was no danger and that the route was again safe for shipping.

This brilliantly favorable announcement decided Kapitan von Muller to change his plan and take to this "hunting ground" north of the Maldives.

NEXT Sunday's installment of the cruise of the Emden tells of daring victories and strange happenings.

tained a returned check marked "no funds" and reading in part as follows:

"Dear Richard: I am tremendously distressed to find that Gristede's has returned your check marked 'no funds.' I can hardly tell you the extent of futility this makes me feel. We have just had a general housecleaning of your affairs with you and paid all your bills, sending you back to college with a full month's allowance.

"With your letters of loyalty telling how hard you were trying and of your determination to keep on the job, I simply don't understand how you could have done such a thing as to have spent all that money even before the end of the month.

"I will not say anything more before giving you a chance to explain, but unless you have something to say this is the last time and you must leave college and go to work. Please let me know immediately what caused your overdrawing.

At the time of the tragedy it was not publicly known that Untermeyer had divorced his first wife and married a second, although there had been rumors for more than a year of an estrangement. But when Untermeyer was asked at that time about these rumors he replied that few people progress through 20 years of marital life without some difficulties and that he and Mrs. Untermeyer were no exceptions, but that nothing extraordinary had occurred and that Richard had not been affected in the least degree in this way. When interviewed on their return from Yale University they gave no evidence of estrangement and seemed to be very tenderly sympathetic with each other over their mutual loss. Thus the tragedy is believed to have effected a reconciliation which resulted finally in Untermeyer's remarriage to his first wife.

Years without sickness in the Brand family

"And we owe much to Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather for our splendid health," says Mr. Fred A. Brand

"IT certainly was a lucky day for my family when we started using Lifebuoy," says Mr. Fred Brand, father of three vigorous and radiantly healthy children.

"It's years now since we've had any sickness at all in our home, and we owe much to Lifebuoy for our splendid health.

"I have tried many different toilet soaps, but for a real, honest-to-goodness kick—for lots of cleansing lather that leaves me fresh and full of pep—give me Lifebuoy every time.

"My wife says it's marvelous for the skin, too. But her real reason for training the youngsters to use Lifebuoy is because it guards health. We have three children—Joseph, Frederick and Florence—and I'm sure that their busy little hands, touching books, playthings, etc., must come in contact with germs many times a day. We'd never feel safe if they didn't use an antiseptic toilet soap." Mr. Fred A. Brand, 17 Crescent Terrace, Brooklyn, N. Y.

You've never seen two sturdier, livelier boys than Frederick and Joseph Brand—and one big secret of their health is Lifebuoy!

Germs all around—beware!

Mr. Brand's letter is typical of many we could quote to show you how Lifebuoy is helping thousands all over the country to guard family health.

In your home, too, health protection is necessary. Remember that your hands, your children's hands, are constantly touching things that others may have handled and left germ-laden—such as money, carstraps, telephones. It's safer for every member of your family always to use this gentle, antiseptic toilet soap—its purifying lather removes germs. Keeps skin clear and healthy, too, prevents chapping.

Your family has to wash with some toilet soap anyway, so why not use Lifebuoy which gives added health protection—at no extra cost? You'll quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant extra-clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Adopt the Lifebuoy habit today. LEVER BROS. MARVELS OF THE TELEPHONE

Certain Peculiarities and Vagaries of This Familiar Household Pe(s)t.

P. G. Wodehouse

SO FAR as I can ascertain from a highly interesting article in the encyclopedia on Telephones, which unfortunately gave me a severe headache after the second paragraph, it was either Dr. Page of Salem or Philip Reis of Freiderichsdorf or Alexander Graham Bell who invented that wonderful piece of mechanism which today enables you to sit in your armchair, call up the editor of this newspaper, and in a single instant be speaking to a 5-and-10-cent store.

I am not enough of an expert in these matters to understand why a telephonic request for a newspaper should so inevitably produce a grocery department or a stone quarry, but Central knows her business and I bow to her superior grip of the situation. I feel like some wayward child who has asked for something he ought not to have and is gently headed off by mother.

“Here's this fellow trying to get that newspaper again,” says Central sorrowfully to her neighbor. “This makes the third time this morning, it's getting to be a craze with him. He knows perfectly well that the All-Goods Store is much more wholesome for him. I'll put him on to the Glassware, Tennis Racquet, Ink-Well, Toy Pomeranian and Preserved Fruit Department this time. If that doesn't please him, I give him up.”

The result is that, after a few more attempts, I wait for the newspaper to call me up instead.

I always enjoy being called up by theatrical managers. They have such a sense of the dramatic entrance. First the telephone bell rings. Then there comes the beautiful silvery voice of an assistant.

A VOICE

Mr. Wodehouse?

MYSELF

Even so.

THE VOICE

Mr. Grucinsky wishes to speak to you.

(Silence. An intermission. Then—)

ANOTHER VOICE.

Mr. Wodehouse?

MYSELF

In person.

THE VOICE

Hold the line, please. Mr. Grucinsky.

(Silence. Another intermission.)

QUITE A DIFFERENT VOICE

Mr. Wodehouse?

MYSELF

And no other.

THE VOICE

Mr. Grucinsky was here a moment ago. He wanted to speak to you. He has just gone out to lunch.

MYSELF

Bless you.

(Curtain on a situation of dramatic suspense.)

Whoever first conceived the idea of the telephone must have been a small, timid man, for it was undoubtedly in order to place small, timid men on an equality with their more aggressive fellows that the instrument was devised. It is the great leveler. Many a meek, crushed individual, incapable of asserting himself at close quarters, gives, when talking into a receiver, so close an imitation of a roaring lion of the jungle that experts are deceived. No man by taking thought can add cubits to his stature, but he can do it in a couple of minutes on the telephone. The smallest member of a troupe of midgets feels as tall as a Color Sergeant after he has hurled a few home truths into the receiver and hung up in time to foil the scorching come-back.

It is a mysterious instrument, the telephone. Some things are so audible over the wire, others so blurred and muffled.

Why, for instance, is it impossible to understand a word said to you over the wire by your friend Smith, in face-to-face conversation the clearest of enunciators, and, a few moments later, when you are inviting Mr. and Mrs. Jones to lunch over the same wire you distinctly hear Mrs. Jones, miles away, whisper to her husband: “For heaven's sake, tell him we've got a date! I will not lunch again with that bore!”?

The broad fact remains that when you want to make yourself heard over the telephone you can't, and when you don't you do.

But whether it be an unmixed boon or not in real life, there can be no doubt that the telephone for a long time saved the national drama. It came into being just about the time when Ibsen—not foreseeing Eugene O'Neill—had horrified all the other dramatists by giving it away to the public that the soliloquy was bad art and should not longer be allowed. Panic had set in as a result. Playwright after playwright was packing up his belongings preparatory to tottering off to join the bread line. Then came the telephone, and the sun shone again.

Except for the automatic pistol there has never been an invention that did so much to elevate the stage. The only real difficulty about writing plays is the matter of exposition of facts that the audience have simply got to know. Unless you have planted in your audience's mind that your hero is deeply involved in Wildcat common, that several years before he was injudicious enough to write compromising letters to an adventuress, and that he has a rich uncle who manufactures imitation Old Masters in Bayonne, New Jersey, bang goes your big situation at the end of Act II.

In the good old days you would have brought him down to the footlights to speak the following speech: “What shall I do? I am deeply involved in Wildcat common. Annabelle, the adventuress, still has those letters of mine; and my uncle Ezra in Bayonne, New Jersey, wants me to join his imitation Old Master factory. This is terrible!”

How crude! This is how an experienced dramatist would handle the situation in these later days, bringing the breath of real life over the footlights:

SCENE: Geoffrey Van Burg's apartment on Riverside Drive. Geoffrey seated in chair, brooding. He starts up and goes to telephone.

GEOFFREY

Hello! Hello! 10836752 Wall, please. That you, Simms? Buy me another million Wildcat common. What? Yes. Eh? No. Ah! Oh! Ah. Good-by.

(Enter Mergelson, a man servant.)

MERGELSON

Beg pardon, sir, but—(Telephone rings).

GEOFFREY

See who that is, Mergelson.

MERGELSON

Very good, sir. (Goes to telephone.) No? Yes? Ah? Oh? Oh. Ah. Yes. No. (Hangs up receiver.) A young lady of the name of Annabelle de Courcy——

GEOFFREY

(Starting violently.)

Annabelle!

MERGELSON

——desires me to say, sir, that she still 'as those letters of yours, sir. Very good, sir. Thank you, sir.

GEOFFREY

(Wildly.)

That will do, Mergelson.

MERGELSON

Very good, sir. Thank you, sir.

(Telephone rings.)

GEOFFREY

See who that is, Mergelson.

MERGELSON

Very good, sir. (Goes to telephone.) Yes. No? Oh? Ah? Ah. Oh. No. Yes. (Hangs up receiver.) Your Uncle Ezra, sir, calling from Bayonne, New Jersey, desires me to say that one of his most trusted employes has just sprained his wrist painting a Valasquez and he would be obliged if you would step over and lend a hand.

GEOFFREY

That will do, Mergelson.

MERGELSON

Very good, sir. Thank you, sir.

(Exit Mergelson.)

GEOFFREY

(Hurrying to telephone.)

Murray Hill 9648. Hello? Robinson, Robinson & Robinson, Druggists? Send up a pound of rat poison, C. O. D. (Hangs up receiver.)

CURTAIN

A short scene, perhaps, but how effective, thanks to Dr. Page's or Philip Reis' or Alexander Graham Bell's wonderful invention. The punch will come in the next act, when Geoffrey, having taken what he assumes to be poison, discovers that the man at the drug store did not hear him quite distinctly over the telephone and thought that what he was asking for was a cake of Souper's Supreme Soap.

Fight Fat
in this right way

A great cause of excess fat lies in an under-active gland. Medical science discovered that fact some years ago. Experiments on thousands of animals proved that fat departed when this cause was corrected. Then physicians the world over began to use the method in treating human obesity. Since then, excess fat has been fast disappearing. Slender figures are the rule. You see that everywhere.

About 21 years ago this method was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Users told the results to others—the loss in weight, the gain in health and vigor. Thus the use has grown to enormous proportions. That is one great reason for the slender figures, the youth and beauty that you see today.

No starvation is required, no hard work. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Every box contains the formula, also the reasons for results. You know what you are taking and why.

If you need help in fighting fat, this is the help to employ. Use what has done so much for so many, for so long. Deal with the cause. Don't wait longer. A normal figure will mean much to you. Go start Marmola now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Here's That Drugless Way to Instant Sleep!
Doctors the World Over Are Advising

Over 20,000 doctors endorse this natural way to healthful sleep—Because it is not a drug and creates ALL-DAY ENERGY next day, by replenishing wasted tissues while you sleep.

New Youth,
New Energy,
Fewer "Nerves"
Tomorrow

Please Accept
3-Day Test of This Unique Discovery From Switzerland

Here, at last, is Sleep induced in a way any doctor will endorse. Sleep instantly, without tossing or fretting, when you go to bed—yet, entirely without drugs!

Then a wonderful day tomorrow!—new buoyancy, new energy, new ambition! For this new way does far more than induce sleep. It rebuilds your wasted tissues WHILE you sleep. Consider what this means.

Please accept a 3-day test. It's as free of drugs as the bread you eat; as non-habit forming as warm milk. Do you wonder, then, that people are flocking to its use?

Not a Medicine

It is called Ovaltine. A delicious food-drink. The discovery of a world-noted Swiss scientist.

You take it at bed time. And soon you fall asleep.

Next morning, you wake up feeling like a new person. For the peculiar dietetic property of Ovaltine re-supplies your system during the night with the energy lost the previous, active day. Builds you up and rejuvenates you.

Over 20,000 doctors are advising it. Its use has spread over some 50 different nations. New to America, it has been used over 30 years in Europe.

Acts This Way

Ovaltine acts on entirely different principles from sleep producing drugs. Remember, it's not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It's a food.

Thus, you can take it night after night and not only avoid a habit, as with drugs, but build up your health as well.

Instead of drugging your nerves to sleep, it acts to soothe you to sleep. For it corrects the digestive unrest to which most sleeplessness now is traced.

Ovaltine marks one of the most important scientific findings of its time. And must not be confused with "Malt" or "Chocolate" preparations which may claim the same effects. It is widely different in formula and result.

Doctors advise it not only for sleeplessness, but for nerve-strain, malnutrition, general run down conditions, for nervous children, for nursing mothers, and the aged. Thousands take it to relieve fatigue during the day.

Accept 3-Day Test

Please accept the 3-day test below. Note how quickly sleep comes. Mark how great your next day's energy. Mark the difference in your whole appearance. Mail the coupon. Or obtain in regular size package at drug or grocery store. Also served at soda fountains.

MAIL FOR 3-DAY SUPPLY

THE WANDER COMPANY, Dept. N-241

The importance of Healthful Cleanliness
in Good Cooking can not be over-emphasized

Good cooking essentially requires Healthful Cleanliness

To assure full food value and flavor, utensils must be healthfully clean—free from all impurities, taint or odor. Old Dutch cleans them perfectly and is therefore one of the greatest helps in good cooking. It also keeps utensils smooth and unscratched. This is important as scratches cause food to more readily stick to the pan. Old Dutch Cleanser has established a standard of cleanliness which should prevail in every home. Safety—thorough cleaning without injury to the surface. Efficiency—thorough cleaning, quickly and easily done. Healthful Cleanliness most important of all—thorough cleaning by removal of the invisible and often dangerous impurities as well as the visible dirt. Distinctive in quality and character. Old Dutch contains no harsh, scratchy grit, acids or caustic. Its flaky, flat-shaped particles possess remarkable detergent properties and wipe away the dirt with a smooth, clean sweep. Perfect for snow-white and gayly colored porcelain and enamel cooking utensils, kitchen cabinets, ranges, refrigerators, etc., glass, earthenware and aluminum. Old Dutch preserves and protects their beauty. Doesn't harm the hands—there's nothing else like it.

When you look at Old Dutch through the microscope—this is what you see—

Microscopic photograph of Old Dutch Cleanser as it looks highly magnified. Soft, flaky, flat-shaped particles. Like thousands of tiny erasers they remove all uncleanliness without scratching or marring the surface.

Scientific examination proves that surfaces cleaned with Old Dutch are wholesome hygienically clean. Old Dutch erases all visible dirt and by a process similar to "absorption" removes dangerous invisible impurities which are often a menace to health.

There is nothing else like Old Dutch to safeguard your home with healthful cleanliness.

The test proves Old Dutch doesn't scratch. Put a little Old Dutch between two pieces of glass. Rub them together like this. You won't feel or hear the scratching of hard gritty particles. Old Dutch removes the dirt—not the surface.

Full story of the famous B*lindfold* Cigarette Test

A leading university planned and supervised it. No one was asked to guess the identity of any cigarette, but simply to specify, by number, which cigarette tasted best. A complete summary of all the tests is given below.

If you seek the best cigarette . . . kindest to the throat and most pleasing to the taste, consider the one selected as the best, by number, in a test where brand names were concealed.

191 distinguished Americans, of discriminating judgment and unquestioned integrity, were blindfolded. Then each was given the four leading cigarettes to smoke. It was not a guessing contest. No one was asked to guess the name of any brand smoked. The only question asked was "Which cigarette do you like best?" Answers were given by number, not by brand name. The summary of this test, as given on this page, shows the decisive verdict for OLD GOLD. Fifty-five per cent (105 out of 191) selected it, without knowing its identity! They selected it by number, not by brand name. They selected it simply as the best cigarette. The remaining 45% of "first choices" were divided between the three other brands.

When merit alone counts, and all prejudice is removed, a majority vote is seldom wrong. With any open-minded smoker, OLD GOLD quality tells . . . And that's why OLD GOLD has increased its sales 400% the past year . . . in a sweep to popularity unparalleled in cigarette history.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS in 191 B*lindfold* Tests

BRAND	NUMBER OF FIRST CHOICES	PERCENTAGE OF FIRST CHOICES

Why not a cough in a carload?

There is . . . there can be . . . but one answer—sheer tobacco quality. OLD GOLD'S honey-like smoothness . . . born of a finer tobacco . . . the golden-ripe heart-leaves . . . thrilling to the taste . . . and soothing to the throat.

SO IT WAS AN ACCIDENT, EH? WELL GET READY FOR ANOTHER ONE!
EASY BIG BOY! EASY! IF YOU HIT ME WITH ANY SNOW I'LL......
YOU'LL WHAT?
HA! YOU LOVE IT EH! YOU WANT MORE?
OO-OOFF!
NOW LISTEN. GO ON ABOUT YOUR BUSINESS OR I'LL—
LAY DOWN THAT SHOVEL! AND FIGHT LIKE A MAN. WAIT UNTIL I GET MY COAT OFF. COME ON.......PUT EM UP!
HAH! DON'T THINK THAT LAST ONE WORRIED ME. YOU DIDN'T REALLY SMACK ME OVER! I SLIPPED! LET'S GO! WALK IN!
WATCH THIS ONE! DON'T LEAVE YOURSELF SO WIDE OPEN! NOW.......WATCH THIS SHIFT!
ENOUGH?
ABSOLUTELY NO! I'LL ADMIT YOU WON THE FIRST ROUND BUT YOU GOT THE BREAKS. THIS NEXT SESSION WILL PROVE THAT I....... AHEM! MY WORD! THAT SIGN! IS IT YOURS?
THAT'S ME! COME ON KID ONCE MORE. YOU GOT ME INTERESTED. THIS TIME KEEP YOUR LEFT A BIT HIGHER AND—
NO, I'M IN A BIG HURRY. I SHOULDN'T HAVE STOPPED AS LONG AS I DID......
PROF. KID SOCK BOXING TAUGHT IN ALL BRANCHES
I'LL SEE YOU LATER. IN A FEW DAYS OR SOME TIME.
I SIMPLY CAN'T UNDERSTAND WHY I DIDN'T SUSPECT SOMETHING THE FIRST TIME HE KNOCKED ME SILLY.
EVERY TIME HE HIT ME I FELT AS IF I WAS BEING PULLED APART.
OH, WELL IT JUST PROVES THAT YOU LEARN SOMETHING NEW EVERY DAY.

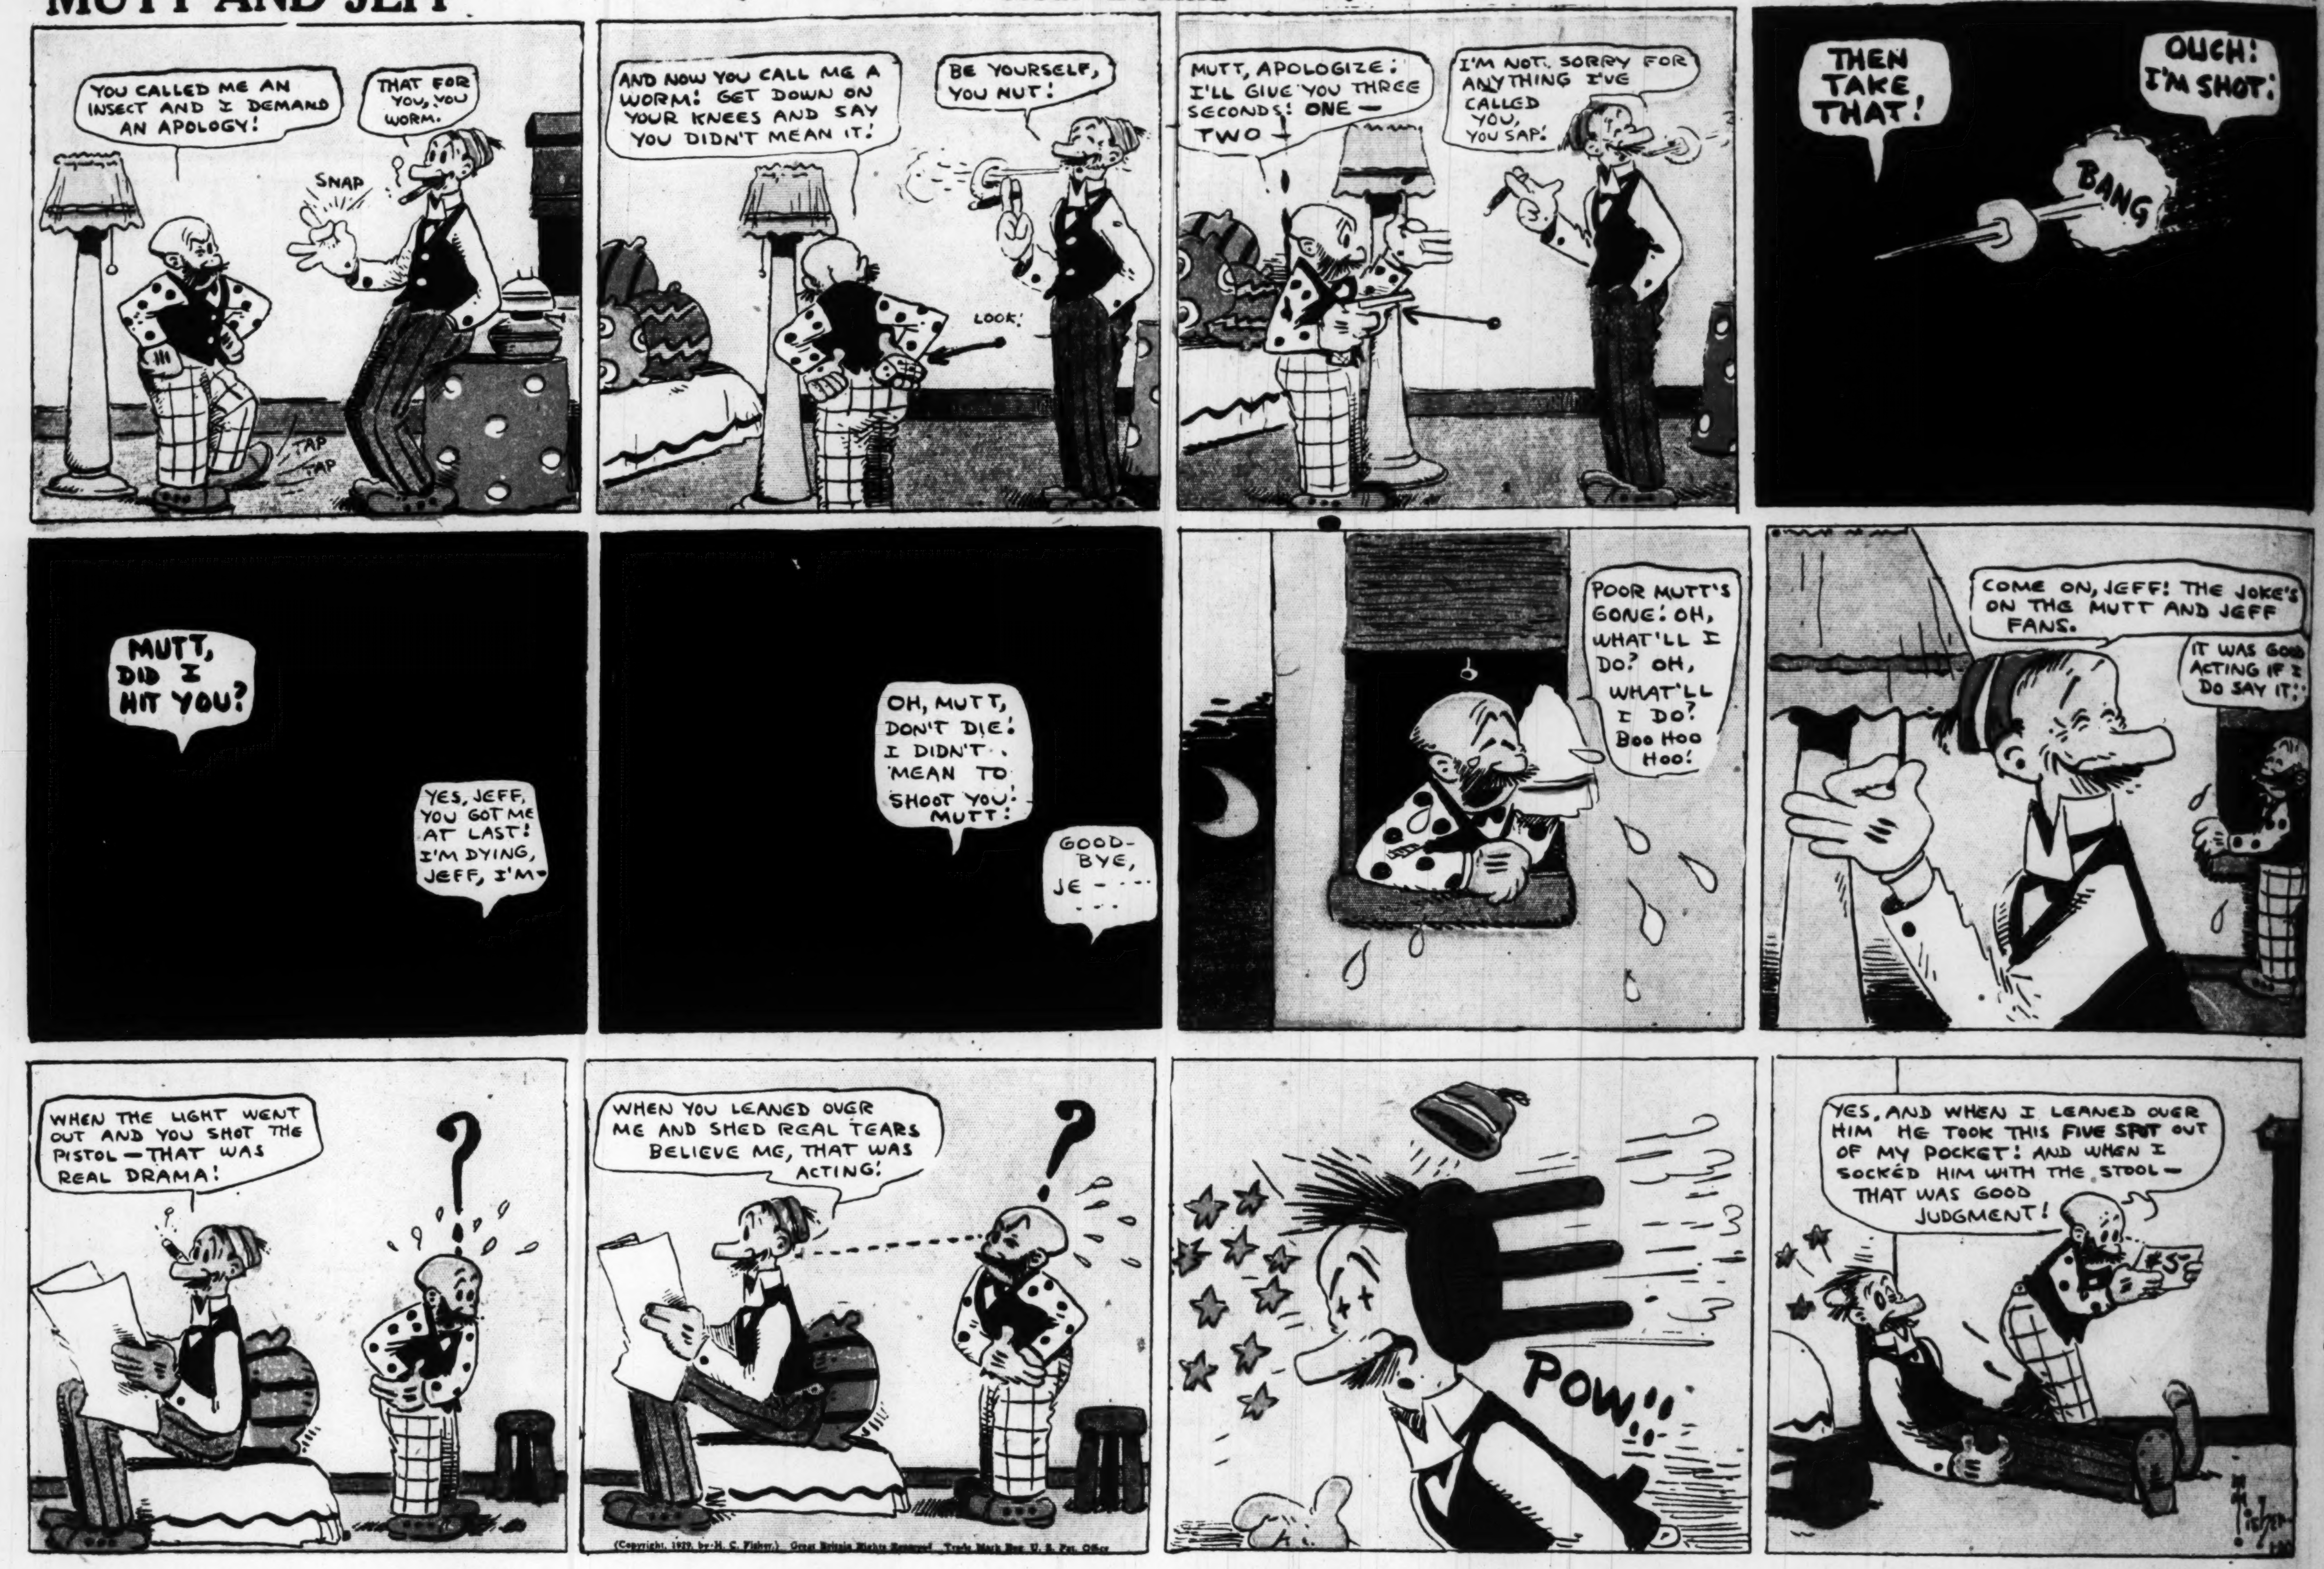
MUTT AND JEFF ⁂ ⁂ Real Drama ⁂ ⁂ By BUD FISHER



YOU CALLED ME AN INSECT AND I DEMAND AN APOLOGY!
THAT FOR YOU, YOU WORM.
SNAP
TAP TAP
AND NOW YOU CALL ME A WORM! GET DOWN ON YOUR KNEES AND SAY YOU DIDN'T MEAN IT!
BE YOURSELF, YOU NUT!
LOOK!
MUTT, APOLOGIZE! I'LL GIVE YOU THREE SECONDS! ONE — TWO —
I'M NOT SORRY FOR ANYTHING I'VE CALLED YOU, YOU SAP!
THEN TAKE THAT!
OUCH! I'M SHOT!
BANG
MUTT, DID I HIT YOU?
YES, JEFF, YOU GOT ME AT LAST! I'M DYING, JEFF, I'M—
OH, MUTT, DON'T DIE! I DIDN'T MEAN TO SHOOT YOU! MUTT!
GOOD-BYE, JE— — —
POOR MUTT'S GONE! OH, WHAT'LL I DO? OH, WHAT'LL I DO? BOO HOO HOO!
COME ON, JEFF! THE JOKE'S ON THE MUTT AND JEFF FANS.
IT WAS GOOD ACTING IF I DO SAY IT!
WHEN THE LIGHT WENT OUT AND YOU SHOT THE PISTOL—THAT WAS REAL DRAMA!
WHEN YOU LEANED OVER ME AND SHED REAL TEARS BELIEVE ME, THAT WAS ACTING!
POW!!
YES, AND WHEN I LEANED OVER HIM HE TOOK THIS FIVE SPOT OUT OF MY POCKET! AND WHEN I SOCKED HIM WITH THE STOOL—THAT WAS GOOD JUDGMENT!

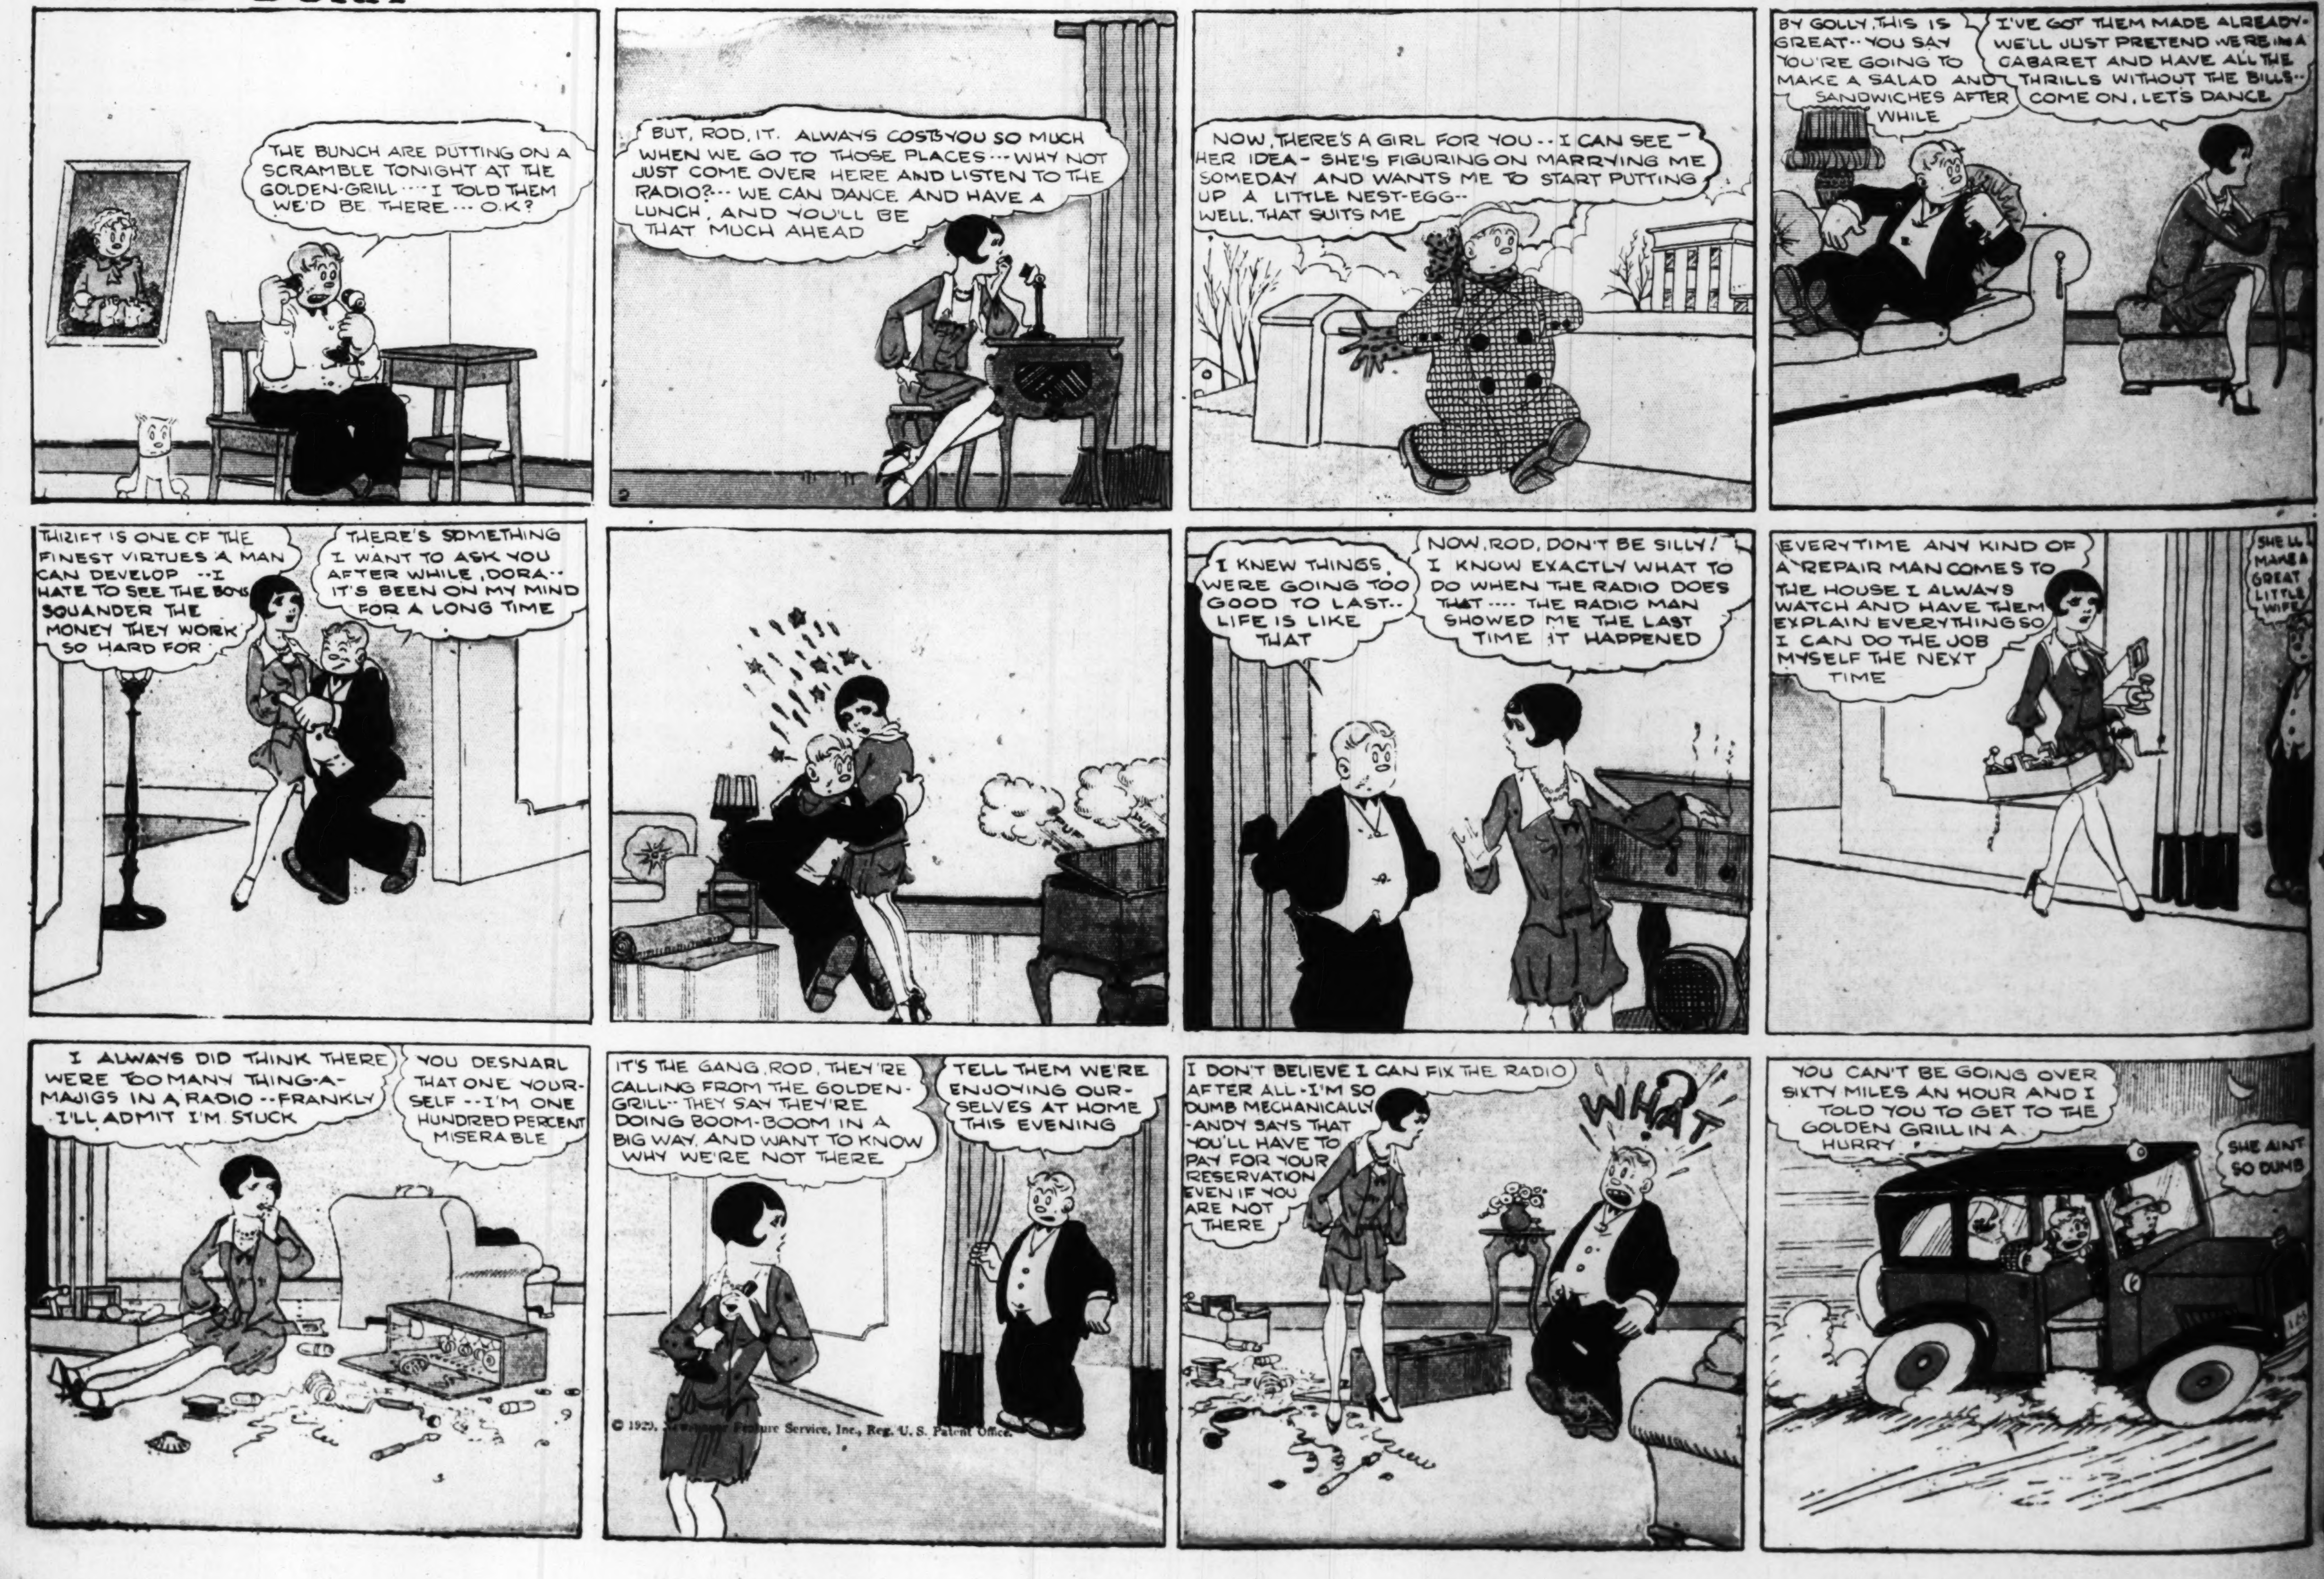
DUMB DORA ⁂ ⁂ ⁂ By CHIC YOUNG



THE BUNCH ARE PUTTING ON A SCRAMBLE TONIGHT AT THE GOLDEN-GRILL ··· I TOLD THEM WE'D BE THERE ··· O.K?
BUT, ROD, IT ALWAYS COSTS YOU SO MUCH WHEN WE GO TO THOSE PLACES ··· WHY NOT JUST COME OVER HERE AND LISTEN TO THE RADIO?·· WE CAN DANCE AND HAVE A LUNCH, AND YOU'LL BE THAT MUCH AHEAD
NOW, THERE'S A GIRL FOR YOU ·· I CAN SEE HER IDEA – SHE'S FIGURING ON MARRYING ME SOMEDAY AND WANTS ME TO START PUTTING UP A LITTLE NEST-EGG ·· WELL, THAT SUITS ME
BY GOLLY, THIS IS GREAT ·· YOU SAY YOU'RE GOING TO MAKE A SALAD AND SANDWICHES AFTER WHILE
I'VE GOT THEM MADE ALREADY – WE'LL JUST PRETEND WE'RE IN A CABARET AND HAVE ALL THE THRILLS WITHOUT THE BILLS ·· COME ON, LET'S DANCE
THRIFT IS ONE OF THE FINEST VIRTUES A MAN CAN DEVELOP ·· I HATE TO SEE THE BOYS SQUANDER THE MONEY THEY WORK SO HARD FOR
THERE'S SOMETHING I WANT TO ASK YOU AFTER WHILE, DORA ·· IT'S BEEN ON MY MIND FOR A LONG TIME
I KNEW THINGS WERE GOING TOO GOOD TO LAST ·· LIFE IS LIKE THAT NOW, ROD, DON'T BE SILLY! I KNOW EXACTLY WHAT TO DO WHEN THE RADIO DOES THAT ···· THE RADIO MAN SHOWED ME THE LAST TIME IT HAPPENED
EVERYTIME ANY KIND OF A REPAIR MAN COMES TO THE HOUSE I ALWAYS WATCH AND HAVE THEM EXPLAIN EVERYTHING SO I CAN DO THE JOB MYSELF THE NEXT TIME
SHE'LL MAKE A GREAT LITTLE WIFE
I ALWAYS DID THINK THERE WERE TOO MANY THING-A-MAJIGS IN A RADIO ·· FRANKLY I'LL ADMIT I'M STUCK
YOU DESNARL THAT ONE YOURSELF ·· I'M ONE HUNDRED PERCENT MISERABLE
IT'S THE GANG, ROD, THEY'RE CALLING FROM THE GOLDEN-GRILL ·· THEY SAY THEY'RE DOING BOOM-BOOM IN A BIG WAY, AND WANT TO KNOW WHY WE'RE NOT THERE
TELL THEM WE'RE ENJOYING OURSELVES AT HOME THIS EVENING
I DON'T BELIEVE I CAN FIX THE RADIO AFTER ALL – I'M SO DUMB MECHANICALLY – ANDY SAYS THAT YOU'LL HAVE TO PAY FOR YOUR RESERVATION EVEN IF YOU ARE NOT THERE WHAT?
YOU CAN'T BE GOING OVER SIXTY MILES AN HOUR AND I TOLD YOU TO GET TO THE GOLDEN GRILL IN A HURRY
SHE AIN'T SO DUMB

DAD, REMEMBER YOU WERE TELLING ME ABOUT YOU AND GRIZZLY IKE IN THE OLD CABIN ALL COVERED WITH SNOW_ WELL, HOW DID YOU GET OUT.?
WELL, WE LOOKED OUT THE TOP OF THE WINDOW AND IT LOOKED LIKE WE WOULD BE PRISONERS UNTIL THE SNOW THAWED YOU SEE WE HAD ONLY ONE PAIR OF SNOW-SHOES_
BUT I WAS A RESOURCEFUL PERSON AND OF AN INVENTIVE MIND, SO I KNOCKED AN OLD BARREL TO PIECES AND GRIZZLY IKE STOOD AROUND WONDERING WHAT I WAS UP TO
IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE HIS CURIOSITY WAS SATISFIED FOR WITH MY LEATHER BELT, THE BARREL STAVES AND SOME NAILS I MADE A VERY RESPECTABLE PAIR OF SKI'S AND WE STARTED ON OUR WAY
WE GOT ALONG NICELY UNTIL WE CAME TO A PLACE WHERE AN AVALANCHE HAD CARRIED AWAY A BIG PART OF THE SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN THE BIG CHASM MADE FURTHER PROGRESS IMPOSSIBLE_
_IT DIDN'T TAKE ME LONG TO FIGURE IT OUT_NEAR THE BRINK OF THE CHASM WAS A PINE TREE WHICH I CLIMBED TELLING IKE TO FOLLOW ME, AND I EXPLAINED A TRICK OF MINE I HAD USED BEFORE WHEN A BEAR WAS AFTER ME_
OUR COMBINED WEIGHT BENT THE TREE UNTIL THE TOP TOUCHED THE GROUND
THEN I LET GO AND THE TREE BOUNDED BACK, THROWING IKE INTO THE SOFT SNOW ON THE OPPOSITE BANK
BEING AN EXPERT SKI-JUMPER, I CLIMBED THE SIDE OF THE MOUNTAIN, ADJUSTED MY HOME-MADE SKIIS, SLID DOWN AND JUMPED SAFELY TO THE OPPOSITE SIDE
WHEN I GOT THERE I FOUND IKE, HEAD FIRST IN THE SNOW UP TO HIS ANKLES I DUG HIM OUT AND WE WENT ON OUR WAY_
Sol Hess
I SUPPOSE IF HE HADN'T HAD THE SNOW-SHOES ON I WOULD HAVE HAD TO DIG MUCH DEEPER TO GET HIM OUT_ IT WAS SUCH A FUNNY SITUATION I HAD TO LAUGH_ I JUST COULDN'T HELP IT.
HA! HA!_ THAT'S FUNNY_ COME ON OUT OF THAT AVALANCHE, GRIZZLY IKE!!

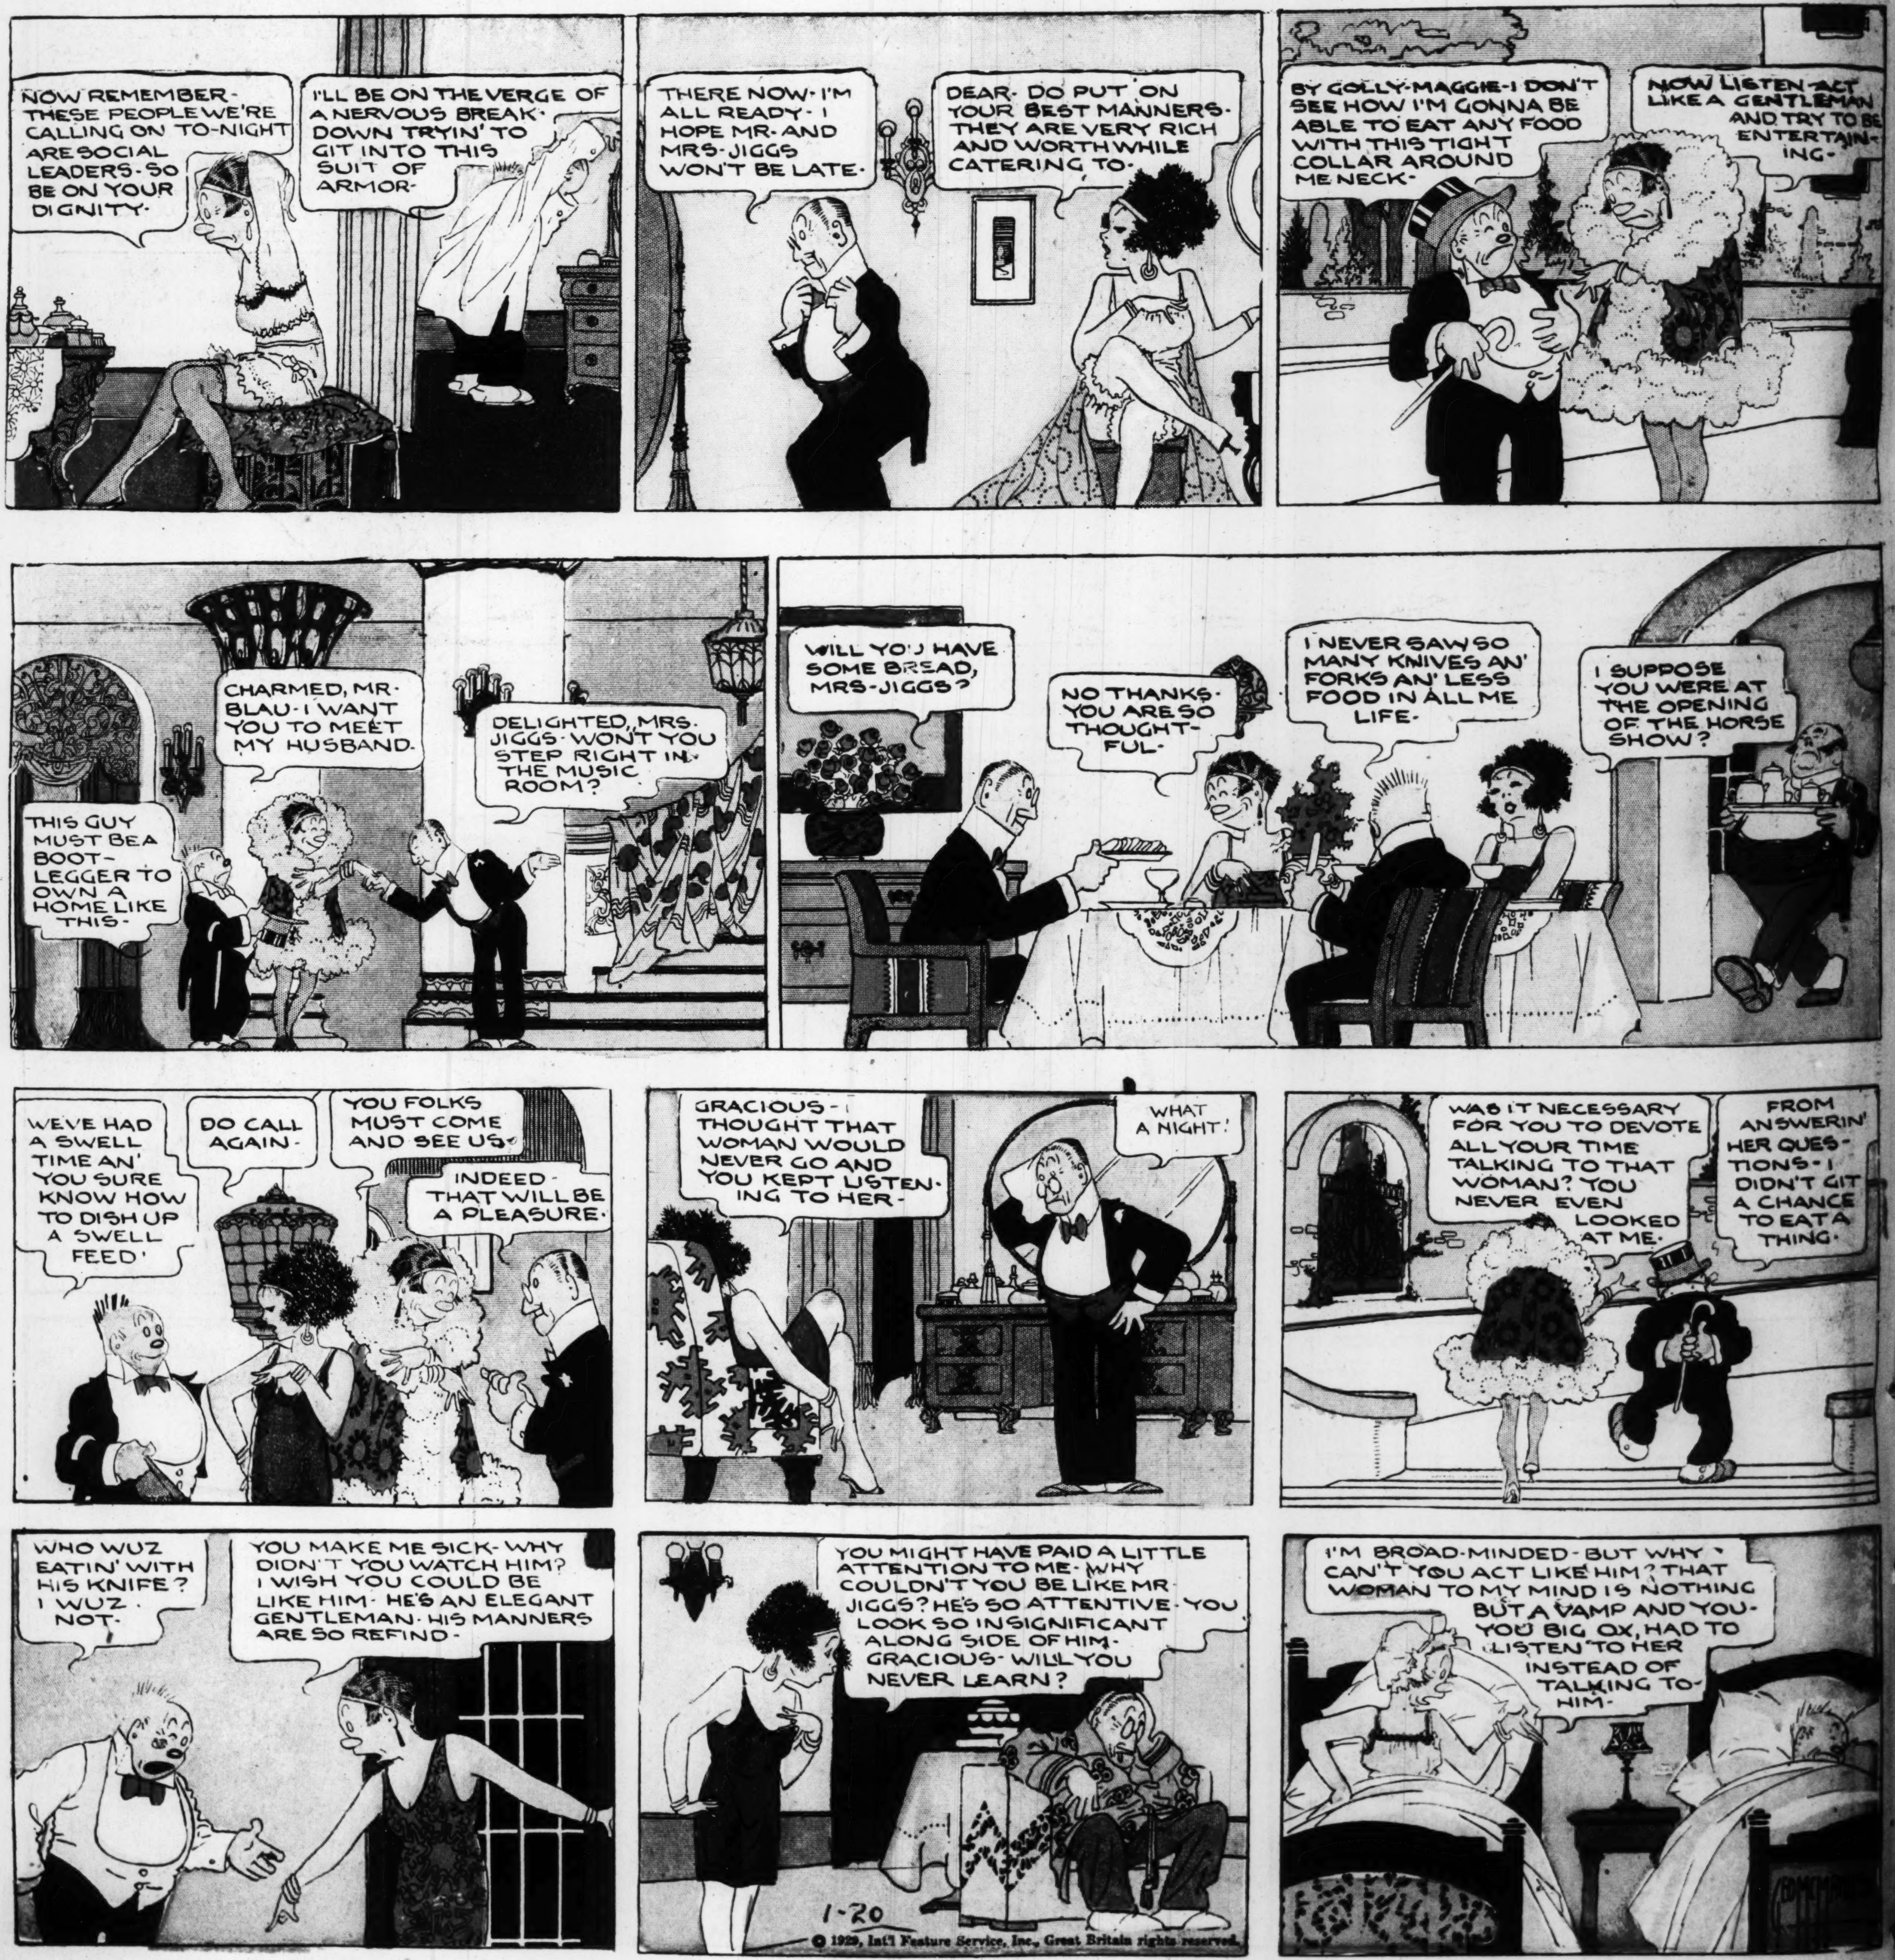
By McMANUS



NOW REMEMBER- THESE PEOPLE WE'RE CALLING ON TO-NIGHT ARE SOCIAL LEADERS- SO BE ON YOUR DIGNITY-
I'LL BE ON THE VERGE OF A NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN TRYIN' TO GIT INTO THIS SUIT OF ARMOR-
THERE NOW- I'M ALL READY- I HOPE MR- AND MRS- JIGGS WON'T BE LATE-
DEAR- DO PUT ON YOUR BEST MANNERS- THEY ARE VERY RICH AND WORTH WHILE CATERING TO-
BY GOLLY- MAGGIE- I DON'T SEE HOW I'M GONNA BE ABLE TO EAT ANY FOOD WITH THIS TIGHT COLLAR AROUND ME NECK-
NOW LISTEN- ACT LIKE A GENTLEMAN AND TRY TO BE ENTERTAINING-
CHARMED, MR- BLAU- I WANT YOU TO MEET MY HUSBAND-DELIGHTED, MRS. JIGGS- WON'T YOU STEP RIGHT IN THE MUSIC ROOM?
THIS GUY MUST BE A BOOT-LEGGER TO OWN A HOME LIKE THIS-WILL YOU HAVE SOME BREAD, MRS- JIGGS?
NO THANKS- YOU ARE SO THOUGHTFUL-
I NEVER SAW SO MANY KNIVES AN' FORKS AN' LESS FOOD IN ALL ME LIFE-
I SUPPOSE YOU WERE AT THE OPENING OF THE HORSE SHOW?
WE'VE HAD A SWELL TIME AN' YOU SURE KNOW HOW TO DISH UP A SWELL FEED'
DO CALL AGAIN-
YOU FOLKS MUST COME AND SEE US-
INDEED- THAT WILL BE A PLEASURE-
GRACIOUS- I THOUGHT THAT WOMAN WOULD NEVER GO AND YOU KEPT LISTENING TO HER-WHAT A NIGHT!
WAS IT NECESSARY FOR YOU TO DEVOTE ALL YOUR TIME TALKING TO THAT WOMAN? YOU NEVER EVEN LOOKED AT ME.
FROM ANSWERIN' HER QUESTIONS- I DIDN'T GIT A CHANCE TO EAT A THING-
WHO WUZ EATIN' WITH HIS KNIFE? I WUZ NOT-
YOU MAKE ME SICK- WHY DIDN'T YOU WATCH HIM? I WISH YOU COULD BE LIKE HIM- HE'S AN ELEGANT GENTLEMAN- HIS MANNERS ARE SO REFIND-
YOU MIGHT HAVE PAID A LITTLE ATTENTION TO ME- WHY COULDN'T YOU BE LIKE MR JIGGS? HE'S SO ATTENTIVE- YOU LOOK SO INSIGNIFICANT ALONG SIDE OF HIM- GRACIOUS- WILL YOU NEVER LEARN?
I'M BROAD-MINDED- BUT WHY CAN'T YOU ACT LIKE HIM? THAT WOMAN TO MY MIND IS NOTHING BUT A VAMP AND YOU- YOU BIG OX, HAD TO LISTEN TO HER INSTEAD OF TALKING TO HIM-

There's a little feud on between Blackie and the school bully — so far, Blackie's ahead....
A WEALTHY ALUMNUS HAS ASKED US TO ENTERTAIN SOME CHILDREN FROM THE CHARITY HOSPITAL. I'VE GOTTEN UP A GYMNASTIC PROGRAM. YOU'RE DOWN FOR SOME TRICKS ON THE HORIZONTAL BAR.
I'M GOOD AT THAT!
I WANT TO GET EVEN WITH CINDERS— LET'S SAW THE BAR SO IT'LL BREAK WHEN HE JUMPS ON IT!
I GOT A BETTER IDEA!
WE'LL GET TWO MOTORCYCLE INNER TUBES, INFLATE THEM A LITTLE, AND FIX THEM IN PLACE OF THE BAR! THEN SEE WHAT HAPPENS WHEN CINDERS TRIES TO PERFORM!
So, that afternoon
BLACKIE CINDERS WILL NOW DO A FEW STUNTS FOR YOU ON THE HORIZONTAL BAR!
